Few of us ever look beyond the day to day incidents we face. Beyond the span of learning-of life, of beauty, of hate, of friendship-in order to find a new dimension.

Instead we seem to worry about our limits, a sense of finiteness within ourselves. Living on the side of our shadow, blind and afraid of new and obscure ideas.

Apprehension hovers over a sunrise and lingers until the end of a day. Thoughts of what might happen and what might have been. Through this feeling of doubt and fear, we have a chance to escape from the existing universe and look at it as a pure succession of new ideas-a chance to look for and to find a new dimension.

Dimensions are diverse in shape, some round, some angular. Dimensions are within ourselves, as our thoughts search for a meaning instead of being content with an uncertainty.

Our entire lives are composed of dimensions, all that we intend to accomplish, now and in the future. The statue of the Trooper in main hall makes good use out of a piece of wood, but more important is its representation. A mascot, a tradition, a dimension representative of an entire student body.

Different phases of our lives are instrumental in the paths we follow, and those which we choose to pursue. A young boy kneeling in water, catching tadpoles after a week of rain; reaching for the very dimension of which he is a part.

Reaching is physical, reaching is looking inside at a cluttered picture. Hoping to forget parts of life or trying to make some sense out of the bits and pieces. A partially empty bottle of beer stands contently, enhancing another dimension.

Forced into grotesque forms by Pacific winds, the cypress stands intrepidly on a small strip of California coastline. Gnarled and deformed by age and the severity of life in a region where nature experiments with its own destructive elements, the cypress is forced to assume its winding shapes and to expand into new areas. While still writhing, still questioning, living. To adopt a diverse expression, to escape from antiquated objectives-finding a new dimension.

To Ruth,

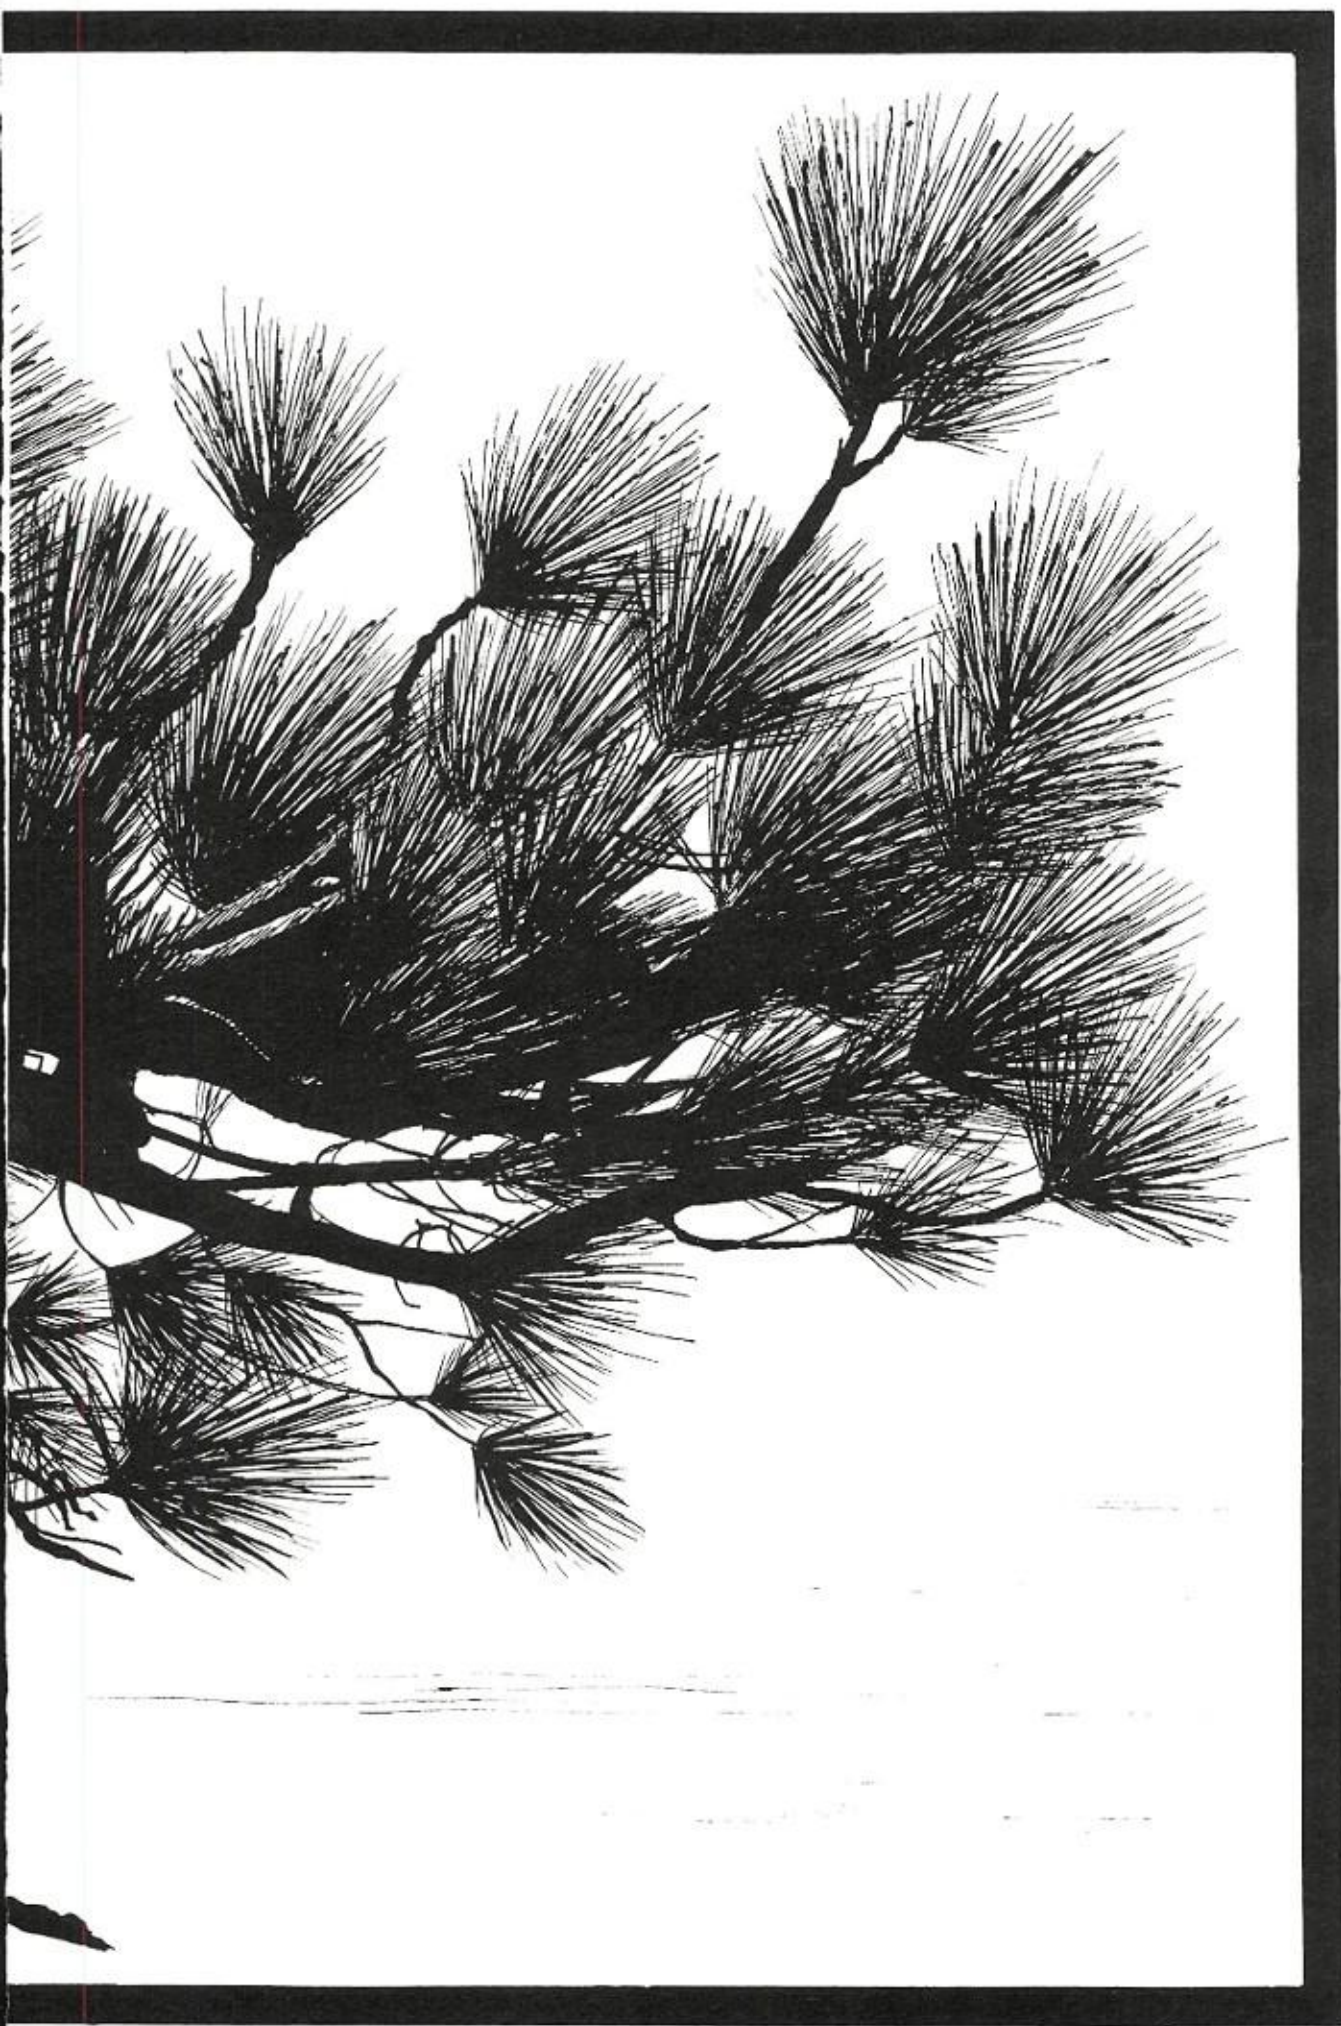

It's been real fun knowing you. I am also so glad I had two fun classes with you. I hope I see you next year or during the summer. That's really going to be a long summer. Thanks for listening to me when I had problems. May God Bless you always.

WALLS

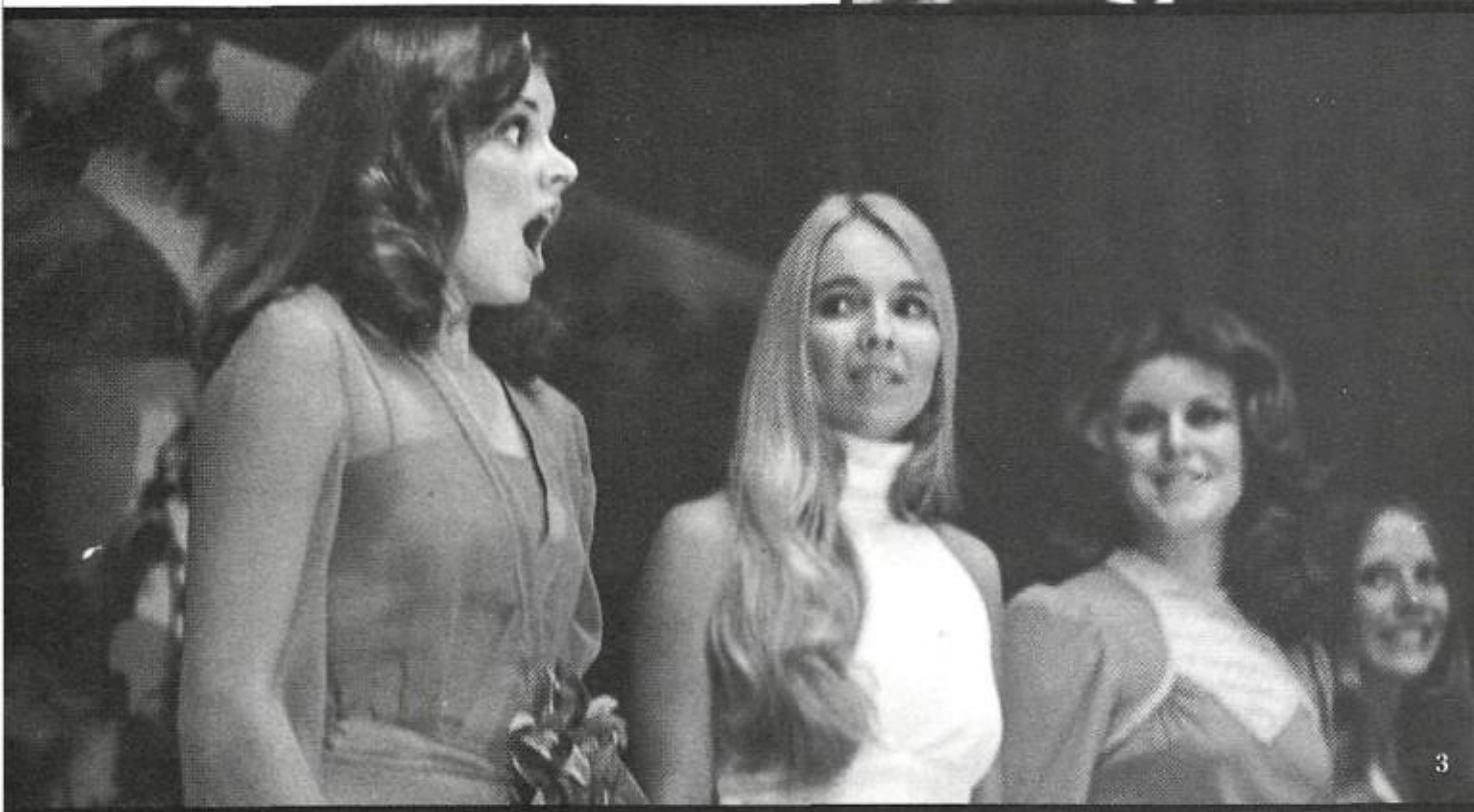

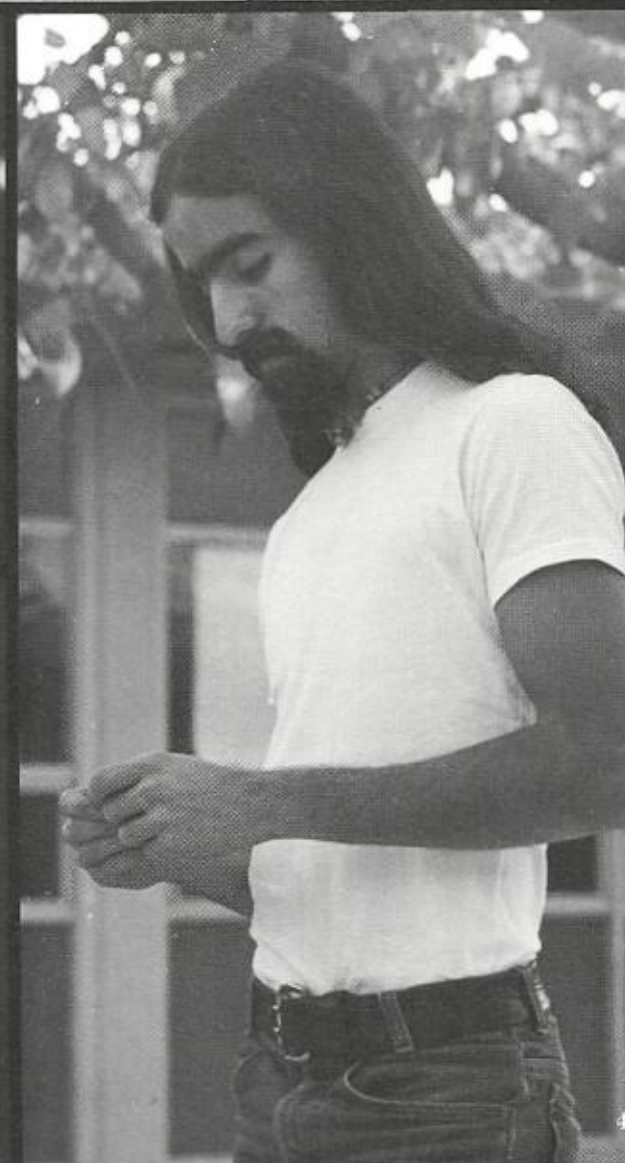

1. Patricia Stepanski 2. Alice Gaspar de Alba

Entering high school, either as a freshman or again for another year, the student is struck by the walls in all their manifestations, pressing in, keeping out, locking up, ticking away, and seeming to engulf him or her in a mind-void blankness. As if potty pattles, library, nurses, counselors, attendance, tardy and drop slips aren't enough, there's the knowledge that within themselves are more walls that must be overcome. Some lean isolately against all these barriers, and others peer through them to the world outside, their pushed-in noses crying of captivity. Still others seek transportation as a means out, while some simply run, for freedom and the never ending expansion—life.

Feeling—one word summing up a constant element in high school life. One word for soul-wretched tears speaking of disillusion and pain. One word for neck-tingling laughter and foot-kicking elation of youth gone wild with pleasure. One word, pulsing beneath the skin of school society in the chants of the pep rallies, the gasp of defeat, the tension of a publication deadline, the thrust of physical contact, and the despair of loneliness, standing head-in-hand in an empty room. The hunger for feeling, an artery running through the body of high school, carrying the blood of the never ending expansion—life.

Bright strands of light over a silhouette of the school burn with a fine intensity much like that in even the most lazy of students; that integral part of all people leading to the search for a place where the rubberized mask of society can be removed in a second homelike atmosphere with kindred spirits. This niche, whether it be choir, band, drama, or journalism serves as a regenerating area, a watering hole for collecting one's bearings. But to gain this second home, each person must search him or herself and establish the values that he will look for in others. This process is often depressing and slow. But once it is completed and the niche attained, it proves well worth the effort for the never ending expansion—life.

SEARCH

CURSE

Everything is going well and you think that just maybe these four years will be worth it after all. And then it happens. The experiment fails, your friends desert you, the team loses, you forget your locker combination, and you're assigned spelling words when you wanted an essay on Thurber. You fall flat on your face, swallow dirt, and with sand-particled teeth gritted, cry, "No more!" cursing the day you ever began this never ending expansion—life.

An outstretched hand yearns with tensed bones, exemplifying the inherent desire of young people to hold, to understand, to bring into themselves. They grasp the value of uniqueness in each person, the light of a burning torch in blackness, the tasty morsels of food as they slide down the throat—with awareness as the goal. So, they embrace activity, explore science, communicate with each other, and strive for the finish line in one last spurt of energy. Grasping—even when it seems that all about them are unattainable blurs, it is the outstretched hand, arm, and mind grasping toward the never ending expansion—life.

GRASP

STAND

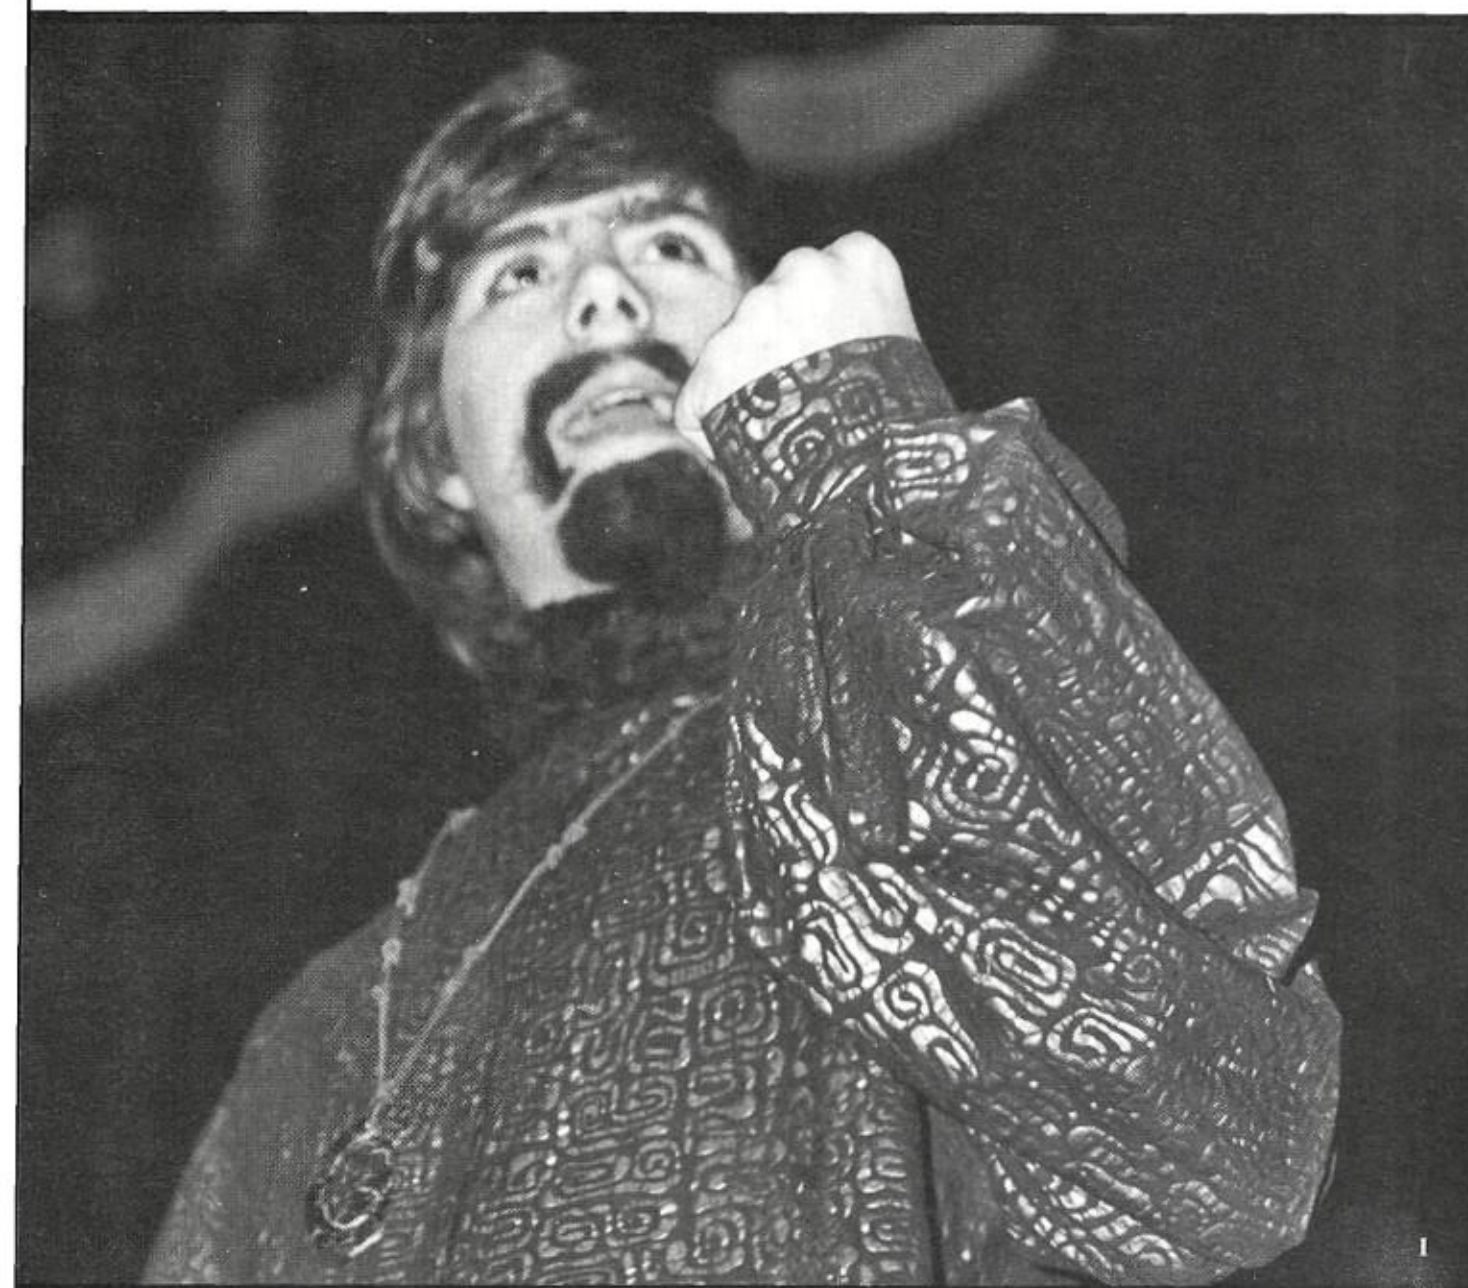

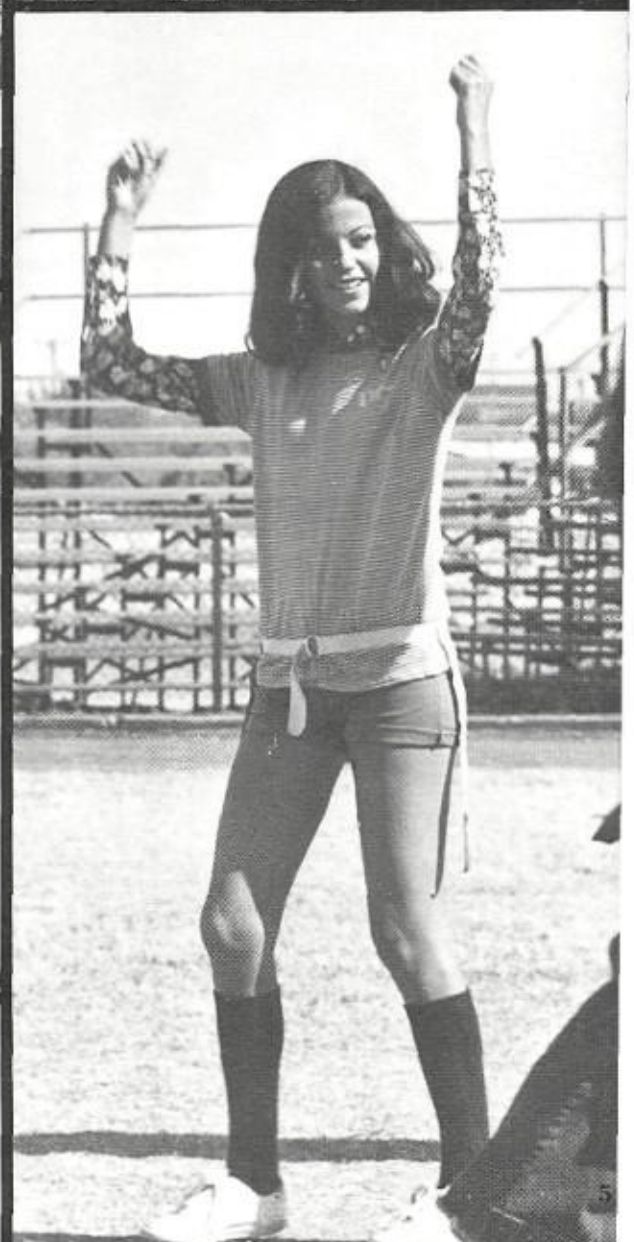

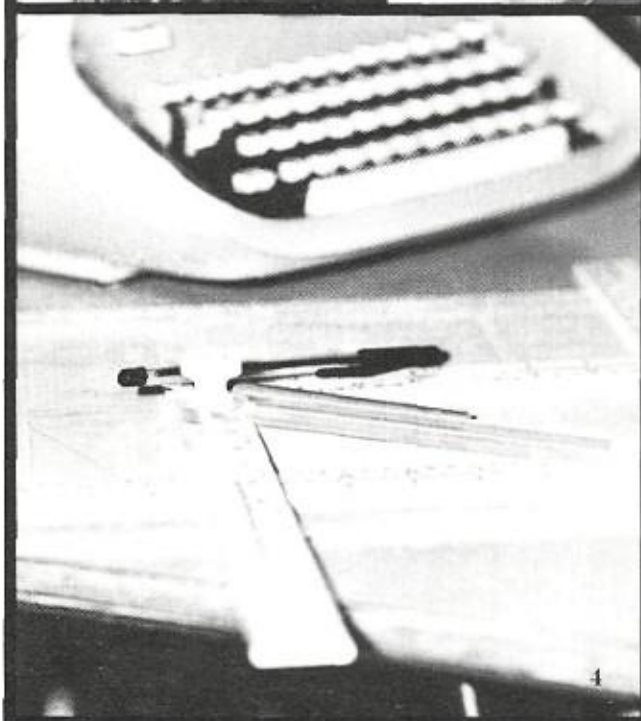

Shouting into the cloud-spread sky, an upraised arm in a people-packed bleacher, and a facial testimonium of feeling, all are forms of opinionated stands. To develop a stand demands a reevaluation of values, attitudes and goals that some find confusing. Others come out of this examination and embark down paths of individuality rare in the conforming atmosphere of high school. But taking a stand sometimes requires the courage to suffer for it from society. This speaking out is the spice in the never ending expansion—life.

And so, despite the walls, curses, unpopular stands, and tumultuous feelings, and because of the insight the grasping and searching have awarded the serious young person, they climb upwards. Their eyes filled with hope for a few fleeting glimpses of Camelot's glory, and with rib cages rippling under lunging arms, they begin the ascent toward something higher. Grasping the tools of their institutional education, and the spirit of their own personal one, they set their goal and start upwards. Some, with an awe-inspiring contemplative air, while others take it with aplomb, swinging into the ascension. But either way, it's the climbing that counts in the never ending expansion—life.

FINDING A NEW

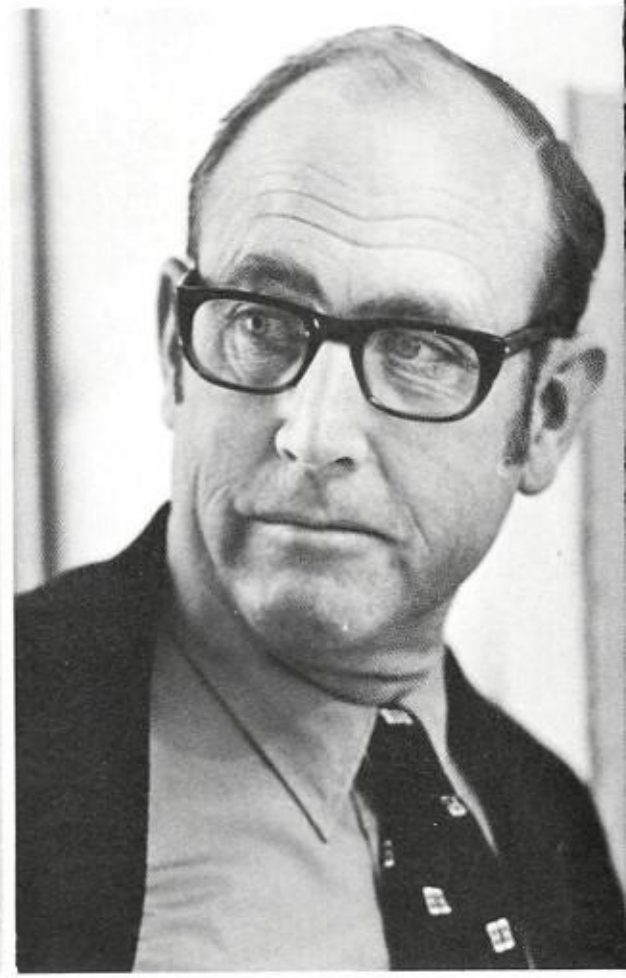

HONORS

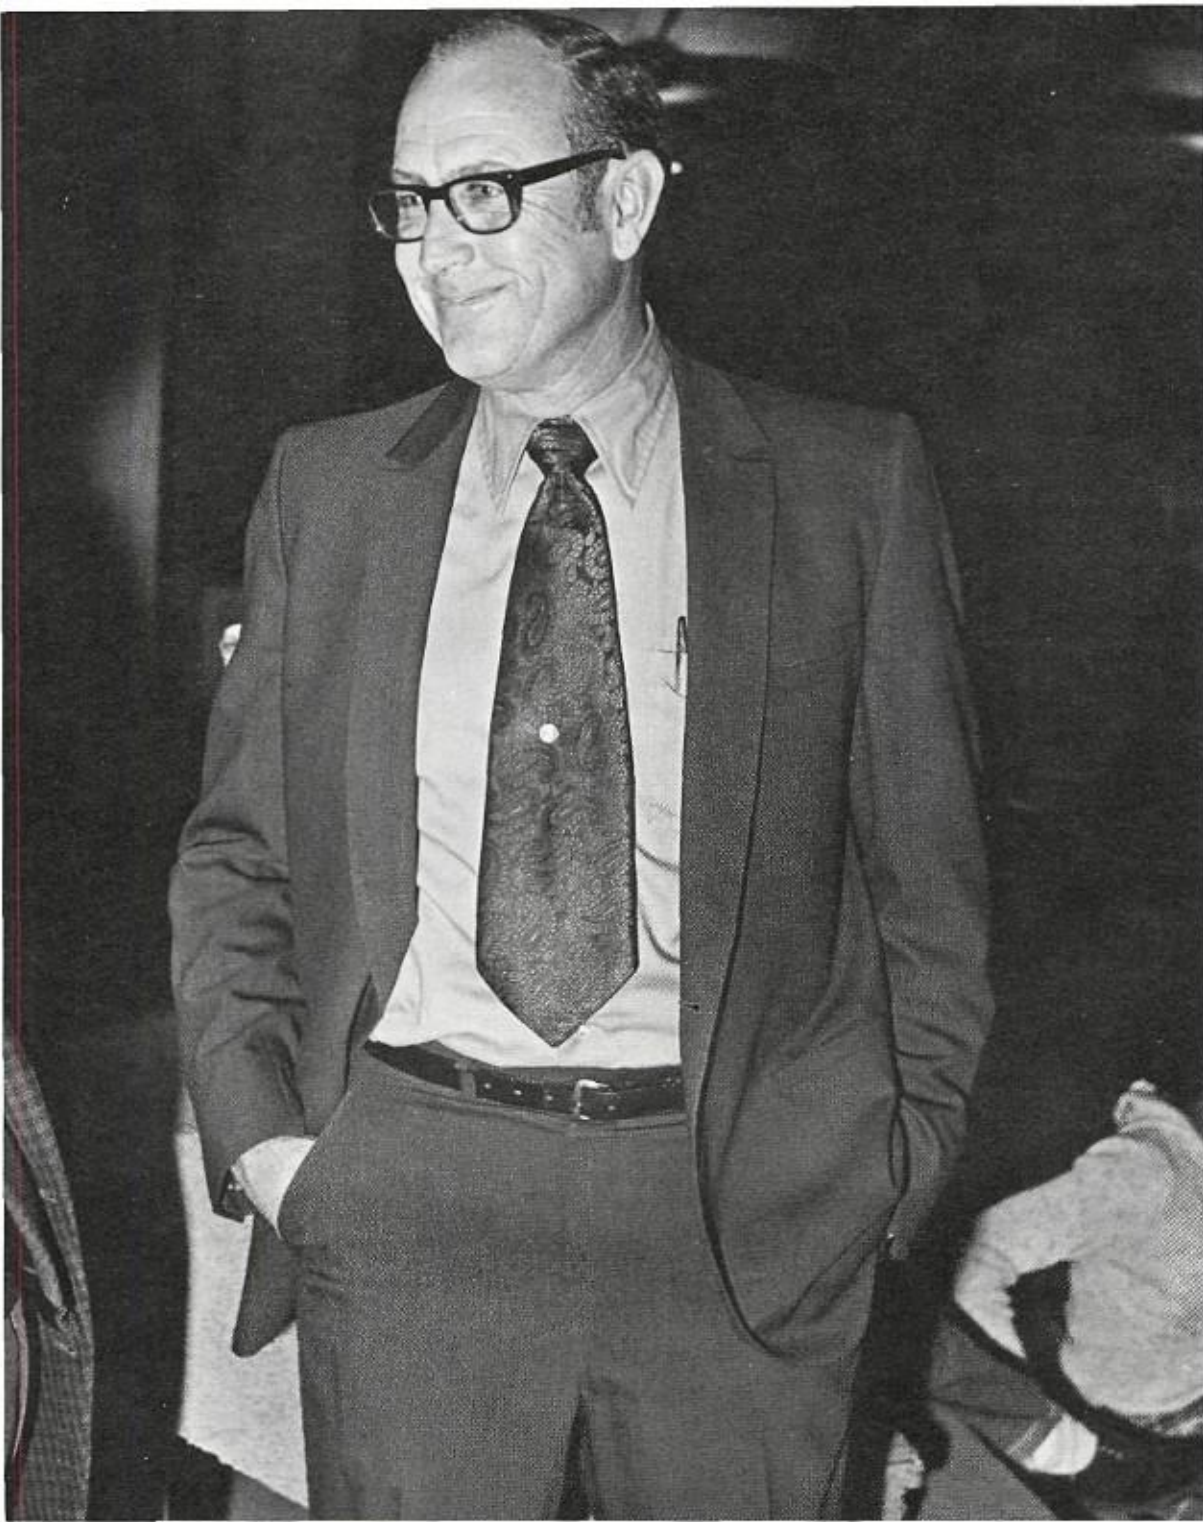

DIMENSION IN...

During the Eastwood-Burges basketball game Mr. Bob Bradley checked the scoreboard for the Troop's tally. Mr. Bradley supports all events at Eastwood.

Smiling with satisfaction Mr. Bradley proves that being principal has many rewarding aspects.

Salute endows Bob Bradley with praise

Common sense and a general concern for all people. A conscientious man doing non-paying jobs which are essential to the profession.

September 19, 1949, began his teaching career at Cadwallader. After four years Ramona became his place of work. His first administrative job was at Loma Terrace. In 1965 he began his service at Eastwood.

He is a lifetime member of the PTA. For eight years he has held membership on the East Valley YMCA board. Chairman of the Trans Pecos Secondary Schools has furthered his community involvement. This year he has been named President-Elect of the El Paso Educators Association.

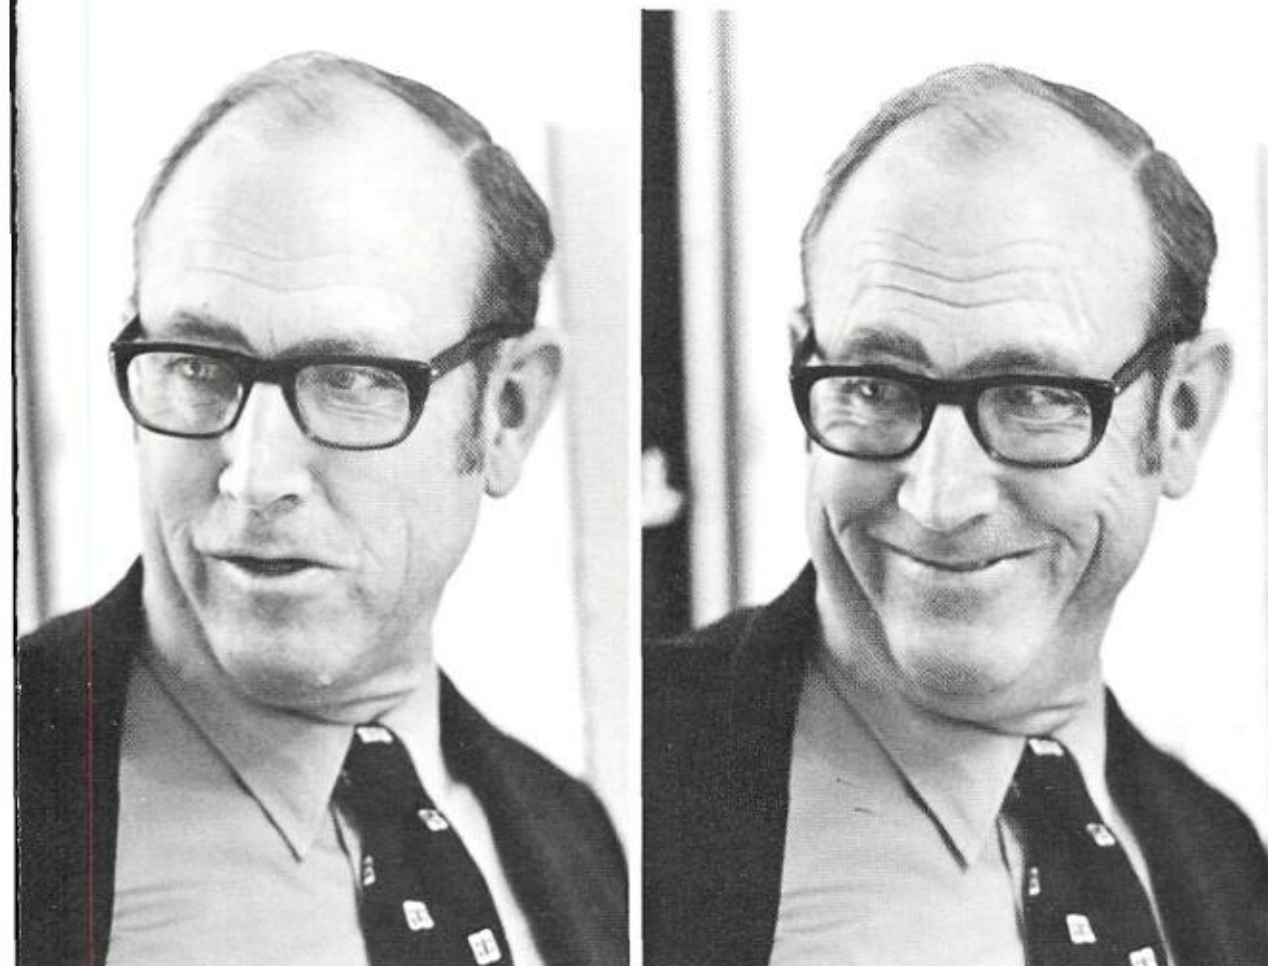

He is behind all organizations and events at Eastwood. It is with great compassion for his position that Salute '75 dedicates this publication to Principal Bob Bradley.

At Eastwood each student should take advantage of every opportunity possible while here. It will help each find a place in the world.

I get lots of satisfaction in being principal. Direct contact with students is great.

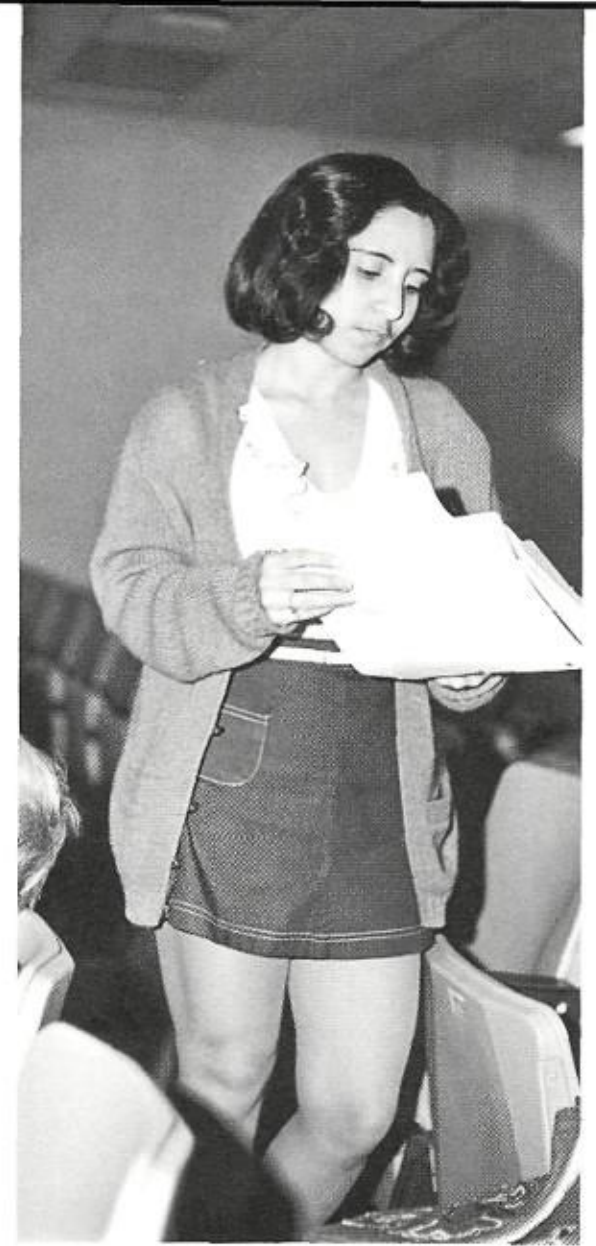

Make the best of each day. Live each day as it is alone. Smell the flowers along the way.

-Bob Bradley

Tina Aguilar confers the table arrangements before E-in - E. Tina constantly showed outstanding service.

Tina Aguilar reads the minutes during a meeting.

Tina Aguilar dubbed for Blue and Gold

Contributing to Eastwood far above what is expected or what is usually received describes Miss Blue and Gold. A true leader with outstanding service and character, she has included varied activities in her high school career.

Miss Blue and Gold never asks her peers to do anything she has not or would not do. She has been elected to numerous high positions. She served as Freshmen Class secretary, was a member of the Student-Faculty Coordinating Committee, won two Optimist awards and received who's who in business education.

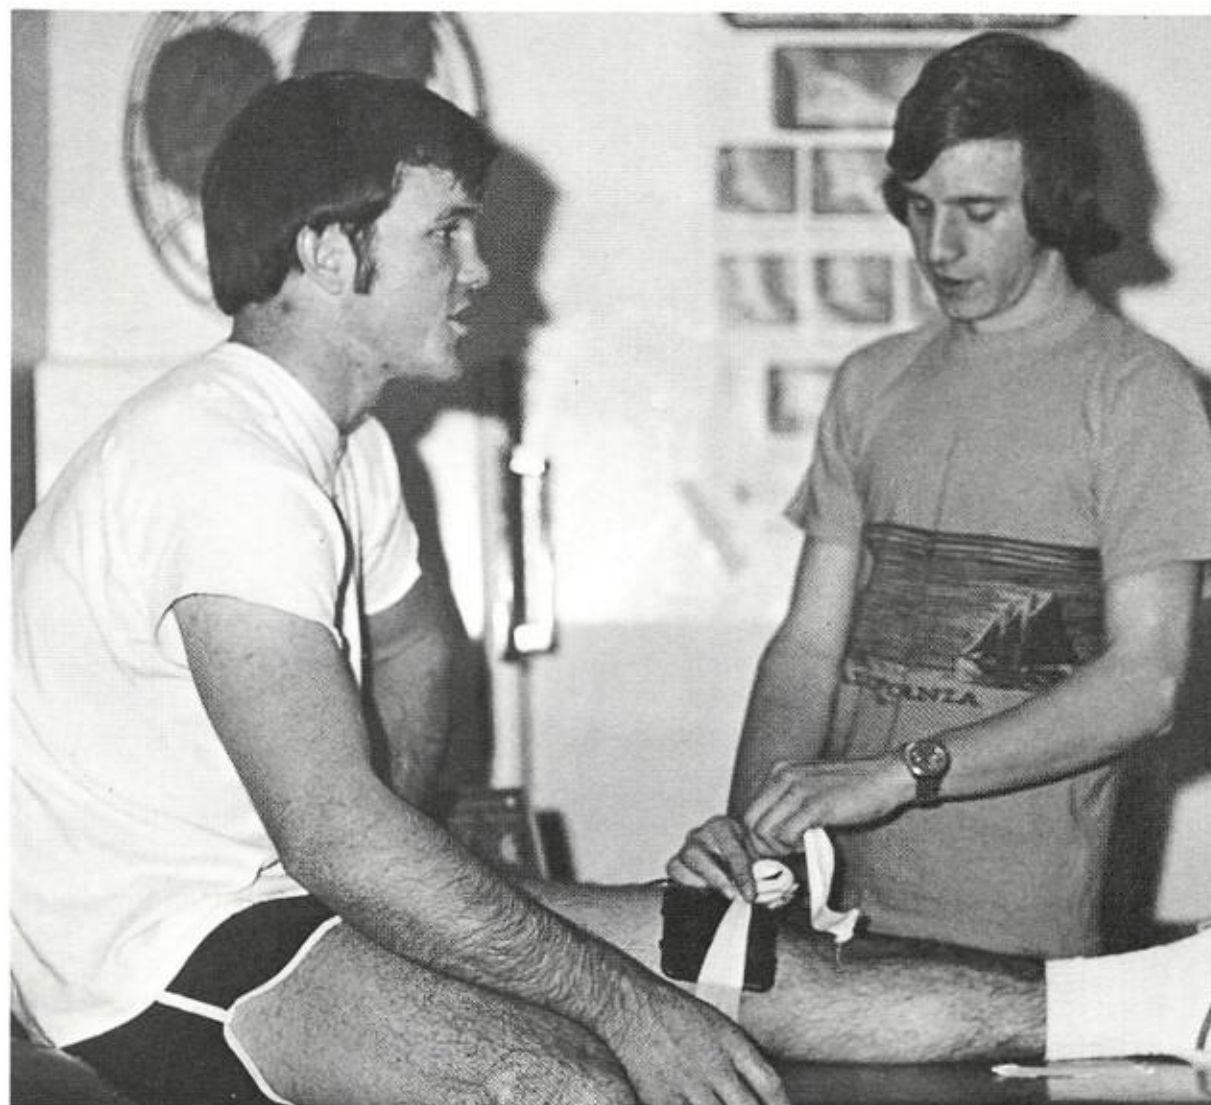

Selected to NJHS, NHS, and SNHS her scholastic record is high. She is president of Blue Jackets, an active member of Detinu, secretary of Student Council, and Most Popular. Miss Blue and Gold-Tina Aguilar.

A Detinu member, Tina decorates the heart.

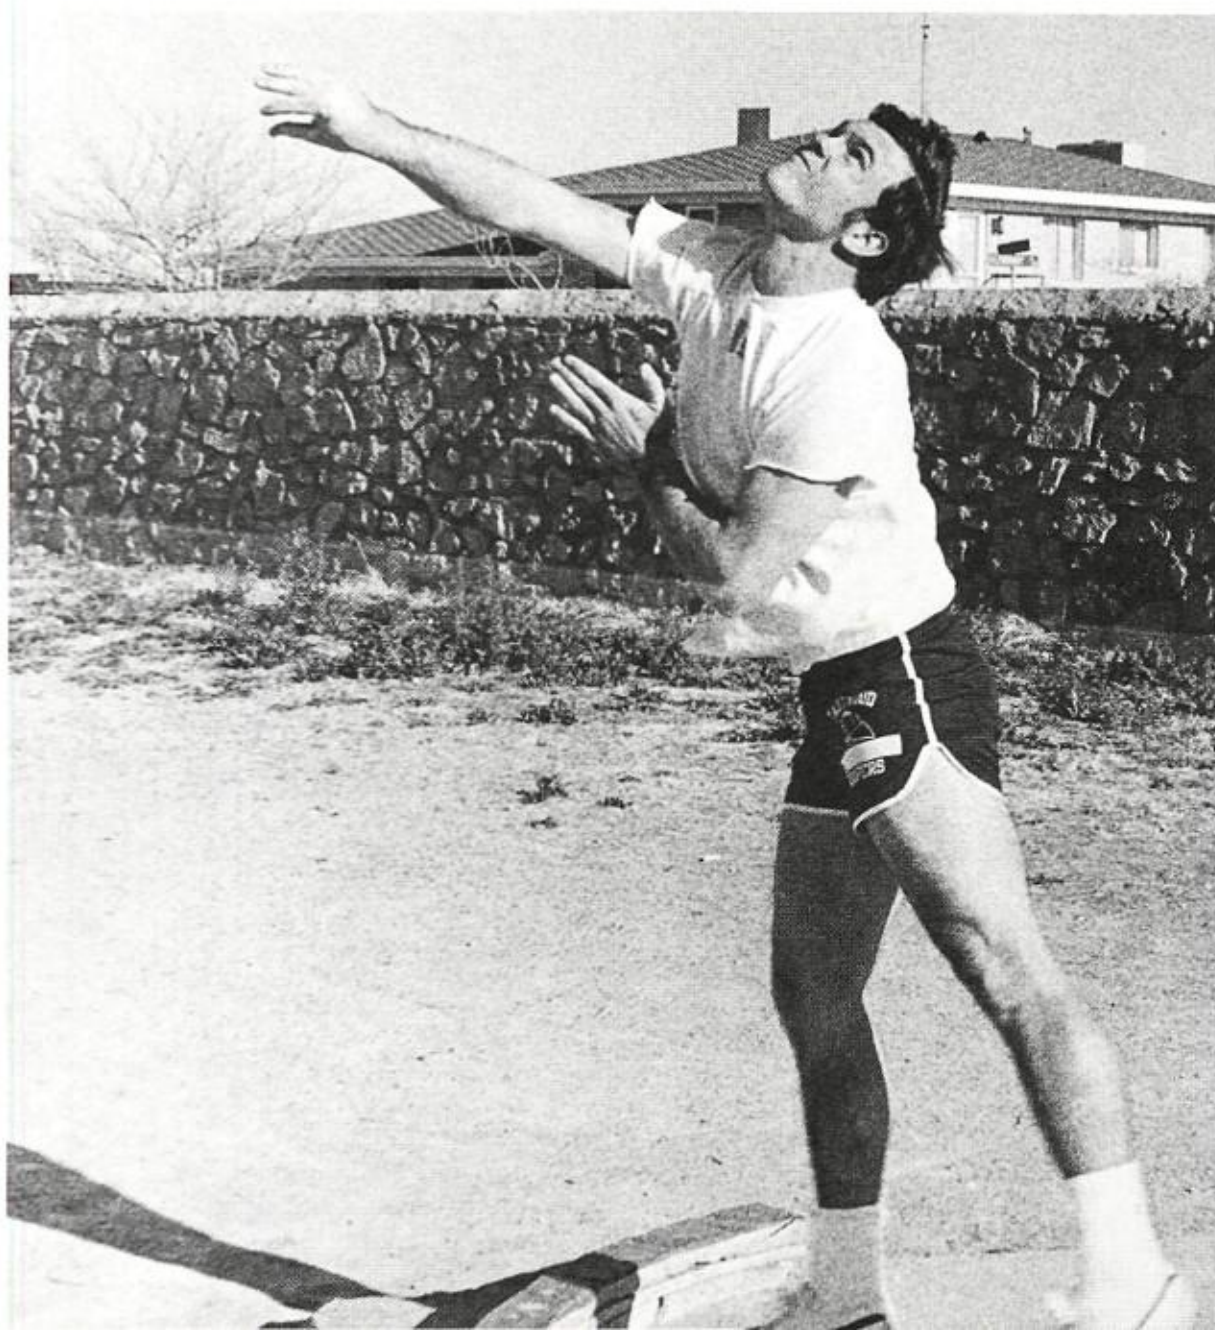

Ron, Most Popular, selects his favorite candy.

An active ELA member, Ron Miller volunteers to have John Glenn wrap his leg in a demonstration.

Ron Miller personifies Mr. Blue and Gold.

Dedicated to maintain excellence in all fields of endeavor, both academically and athletically, Mr. Blue and Gold has achieved recognition for his abilities in many fields.

He is extremely conscientious and shows loyalty and enthusiasm in the tasks he undertakes. Faculty members have easily recognized his multi-talents, bestowing upon him the Optimist award during his junior and senior year.

Football and track are the sports he has played. He was middle linebacker for this year's varsity football team and threw shot put for varsity track. Mr. Blue and gold is also a member of ELA and NHS.

His fellow troopers have elected him Most Popular and Most Likely to Succeed. Mr. Blue and Gold-Ron Miller.

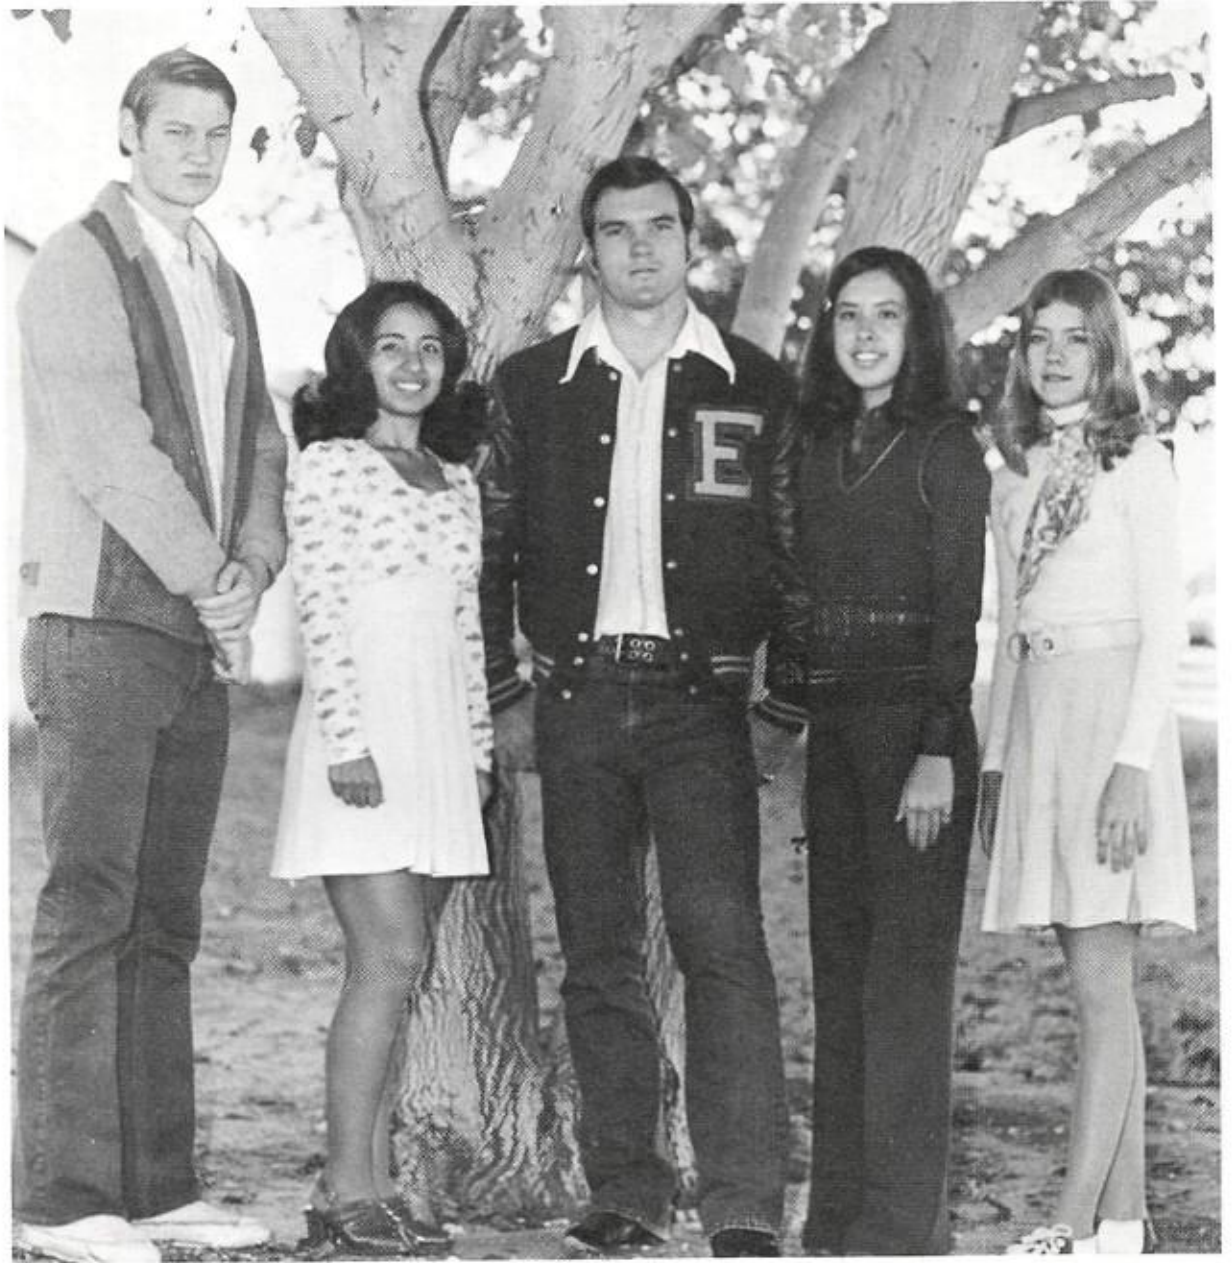

Ron Miller throws the shot put for track.

Head students prevail with high honors

Eight outstanding students were chosen for the Optimist Award. Voted on by the faculty the students acknowledged were judged on leadership, character, citizenship, and academic achievement.

For the first time representatives from Eastwood were sent to Girl's and Boy's State. It was organized and administered for teaching citizenship. Each person was assigned to a political party, put in houses of Congress and expected to campaign for an office of government.

Trumpeter Tim Novak was selected to perform in the McDonald's All American Band. Tim marched in the Macy's Thanksgiving and the Tournament of Roses Parades. He was selected because he made all state band two years in a row and because he has shown remarkable talent.

Selected for the 1975 Optimist Award are: Tim Crenshaw, Tina Aguilar, Ron Miller, Nancy Soza, and Renee Glazebrook. Not Shown are Kathy Uroda, Tim Lund, and J.W. Donelly.

Selected to perform in the McDonald's All American Band is senior trumpeter Tim Novak.

Girl's and Boy's State representatives are Becky Moya, Pat O'Beirne, and Susan Edens.

Tina, Ron acquire most popular fame

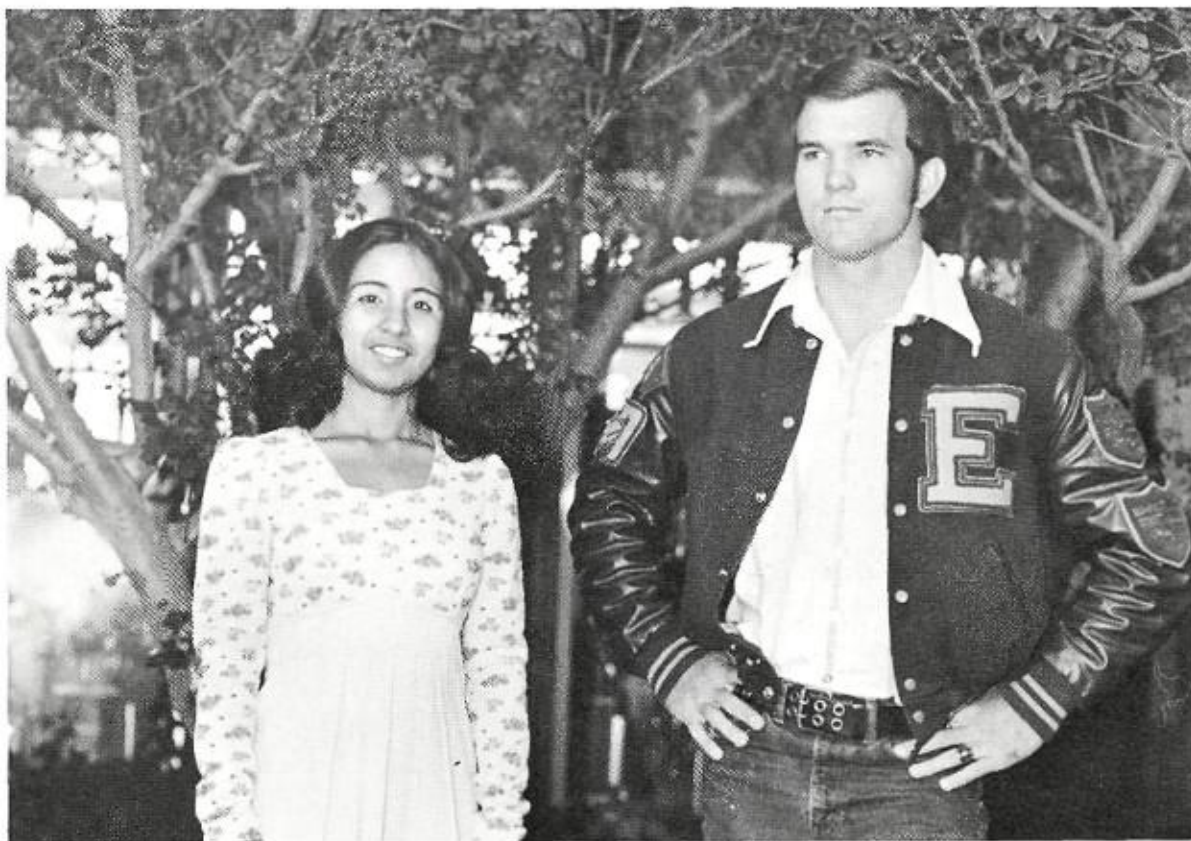

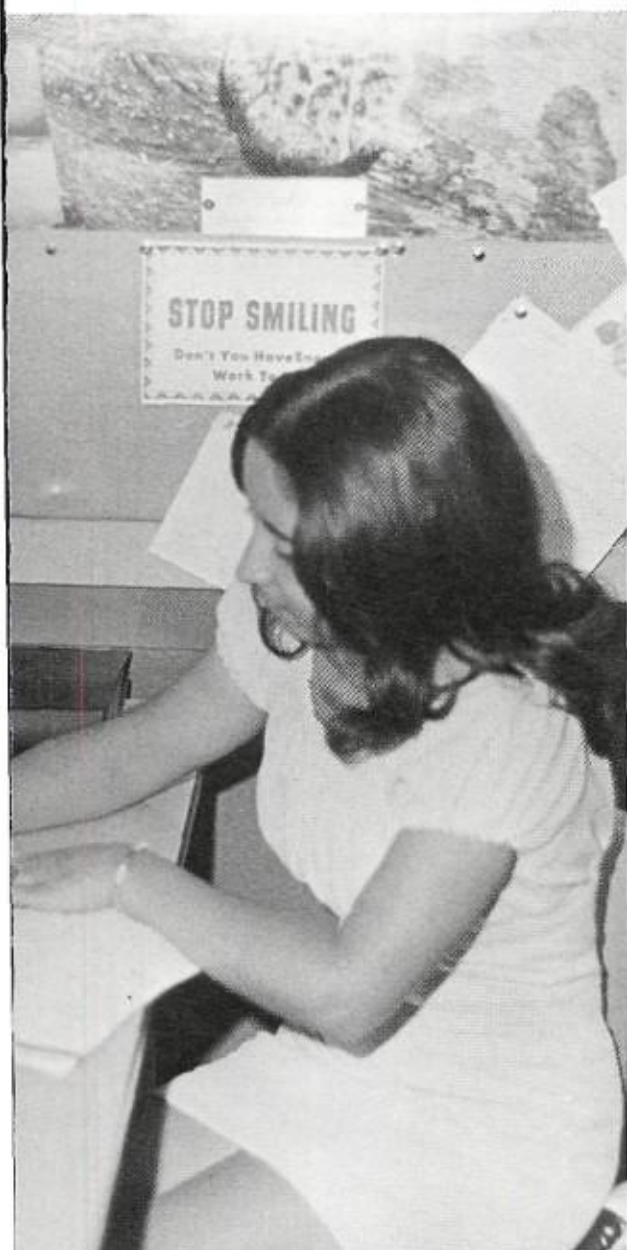

Lori Chandler and team captain Ron Miller discuss Homecoming activities before the pep rally.

Tina Aguilar and Ron Miller were chosen the most popular Troopers by their peers on October 24. Voter comments such as "I can't decide," mingled throughout main hall by election tables. Following the tie run-offs between Terri Roche and Tina Aguilar, final results showed Tina and Ron winners.

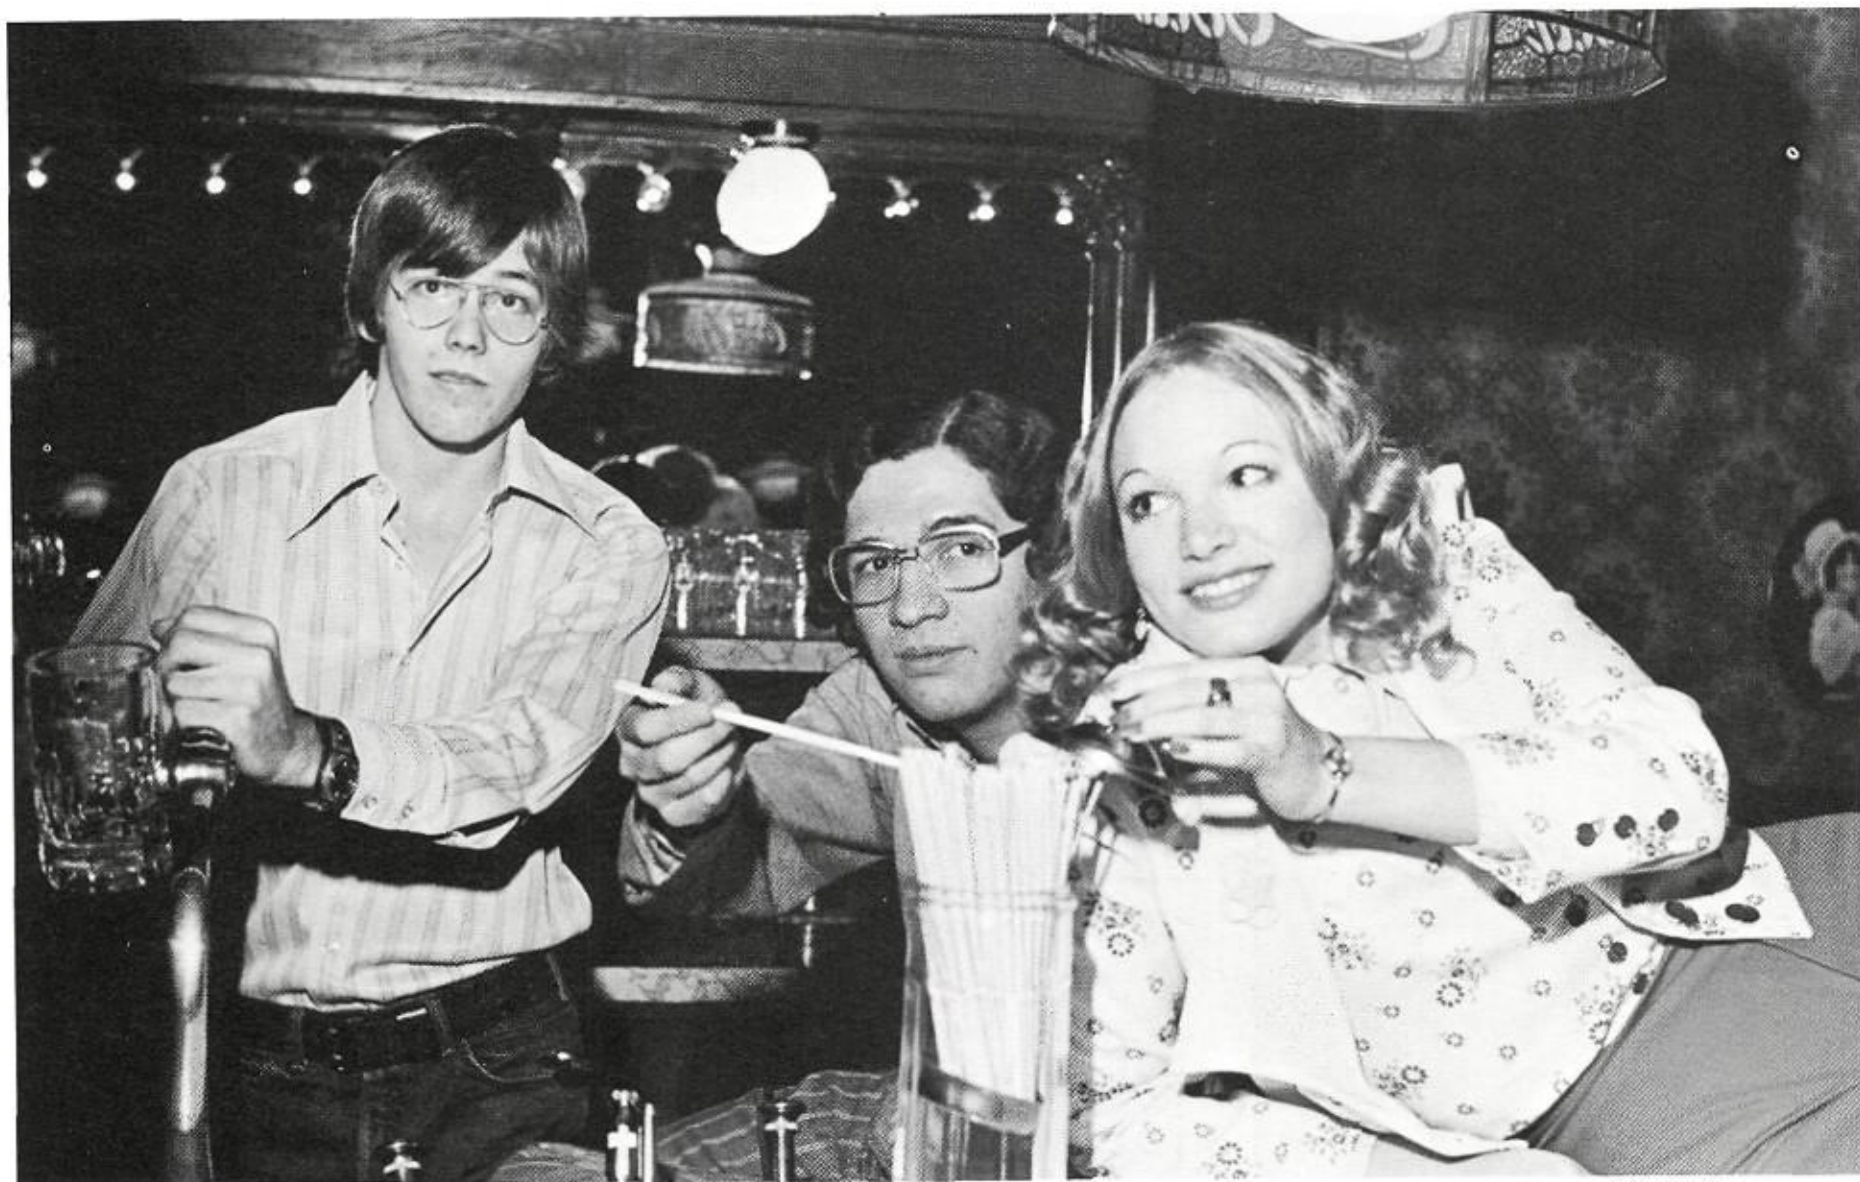

Tina excelled in various activities throughout the year. She served as secretary of the Student Council and president of Blue Jackets, an honorary club. She is an active member of National Honor Society and Spanish National Honor Society. Tina was chosen for the Optimist Award for two years in a row.

Ron played middle linebacker for the varsity football team and threw shot put for varsity track. Ron is an officer and an active member of the Eastwood Lettermen's Association. He is also a member of National Honor Society and Optimist Award winner for two years in a row.

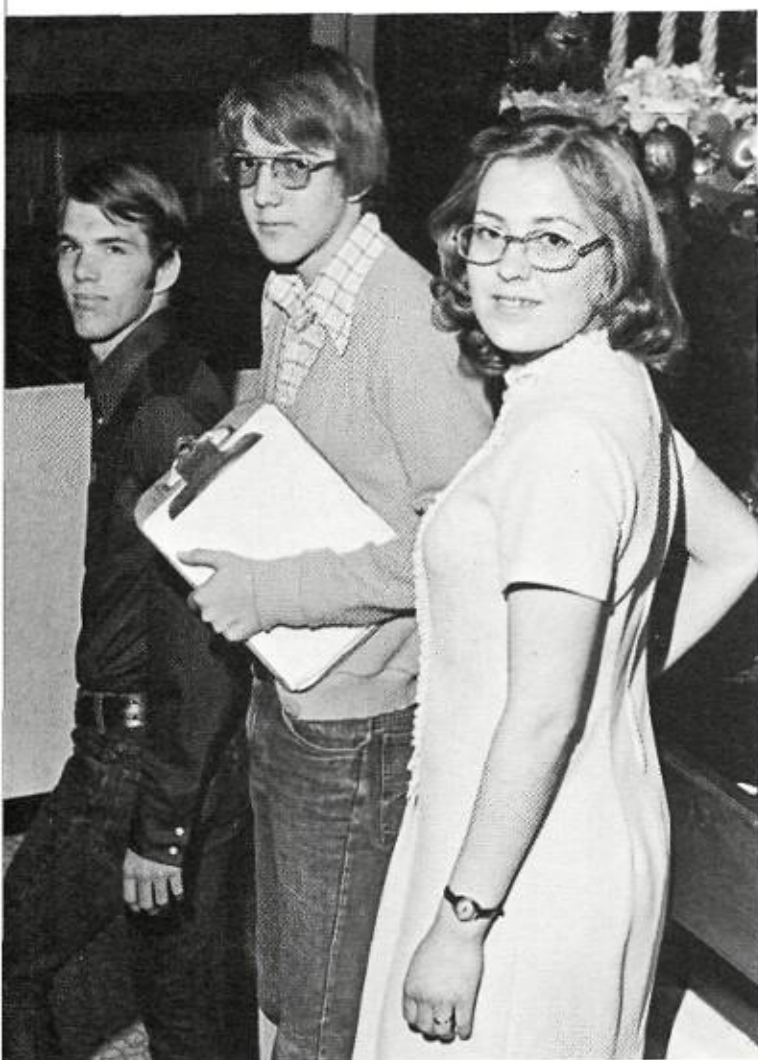

Chosen most popular Troopers by their peers are seniors Tina Aguilar and Ron Miller.

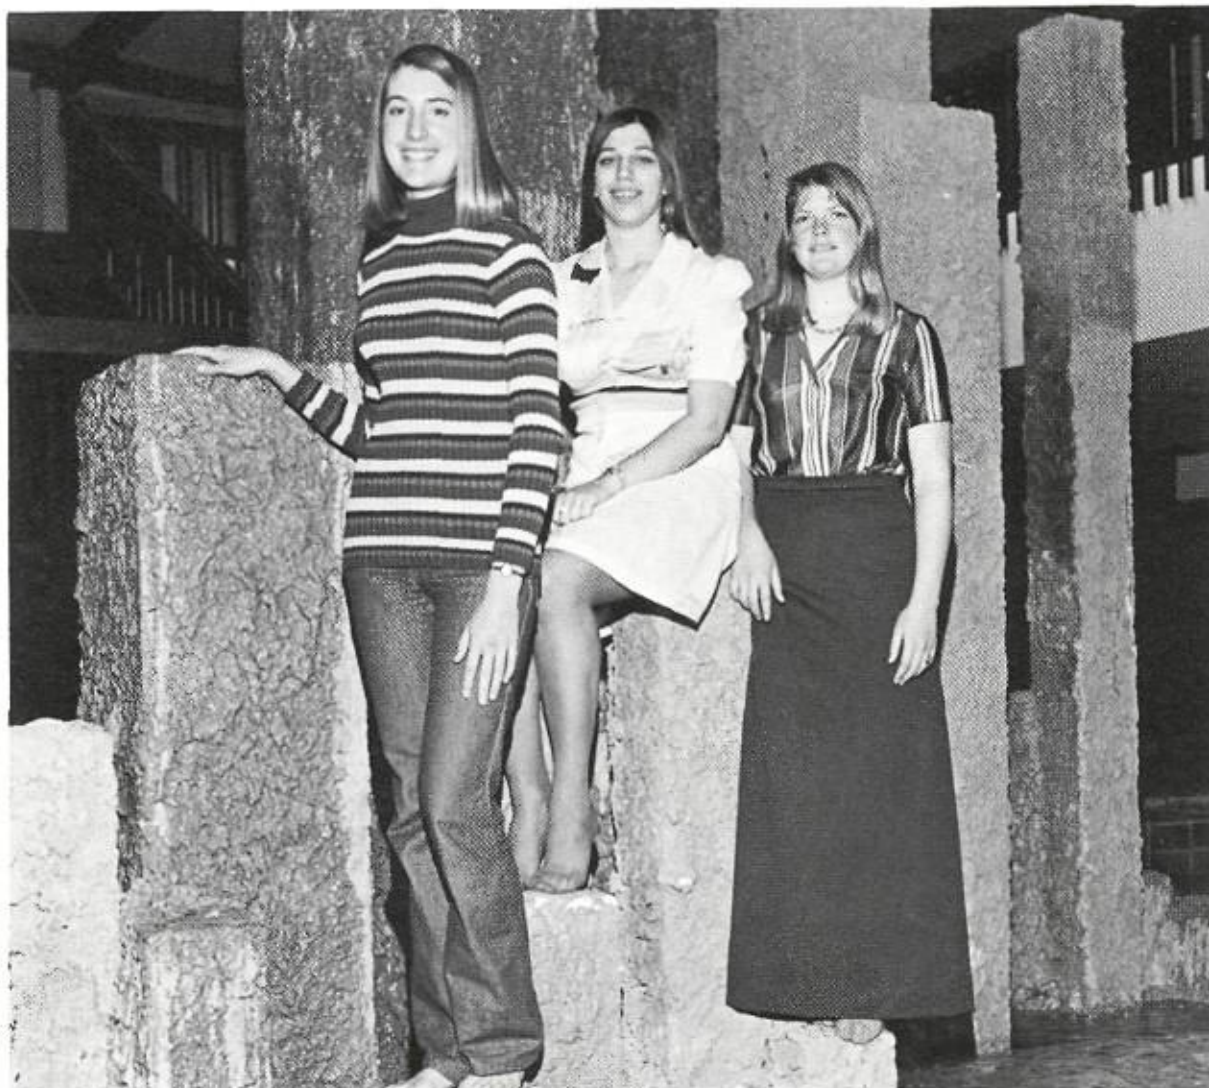

Most popular Tina Aguilar busily prepares the minutes for a Student Council meeting.

Selected by the faculty, Mark Sims, Jerry Gutierrez and Stacey Graves take time to celebrate being chosen who's who in speech and drama.

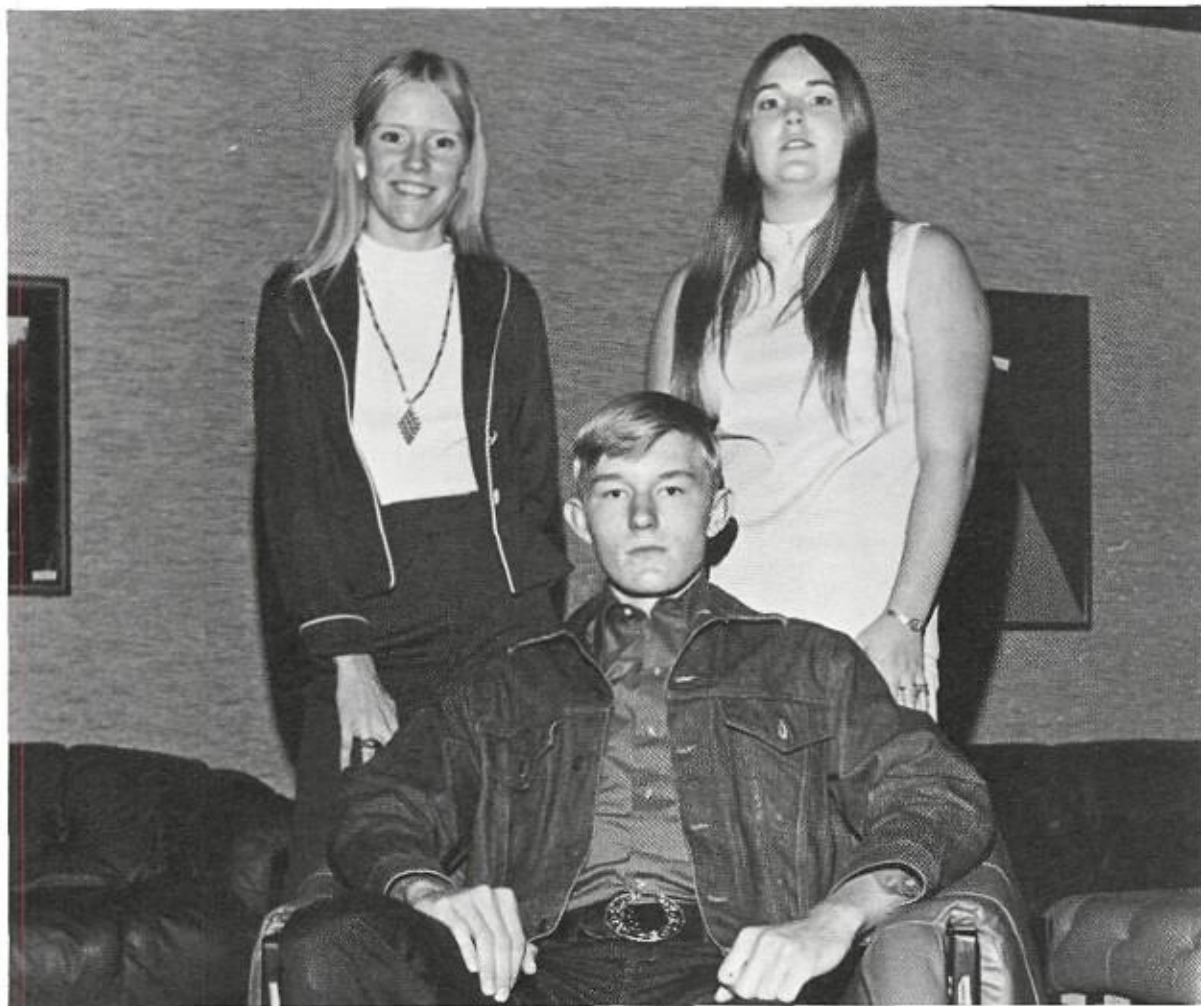

Who's who in history are: Jim Holcomb, Tim Stoner, and Beth Schmidt.

Top in HECE, VOE, and homemaking are: Michele Spence, Jeannene Rosprim and Arden Marslender.

Who's who students demonstrate talent.

Chosen in art is Cathy Cornwell, Andy Hagan for ROTC, and Penny Mattingly for business.

Creativity, talent, and overall excellence is required of who's who students. Students qualifying for who's who are those having a special interest in a specific subject or field.

Selected who's who in English are John Soule, Mike Pepe, Debbie Gonzales, Kelly McCuan, and Michele Spence. Selected from the drama and speech departments are Stacey Graves, Jerry Gutierrez, and Mark Sims.

Outstanding students in foreign languages are Estella King, Irma Alvarado, and Steffen Englehardt. Talent awards go to Tim Novak and Mike Mullins in instrumental and vocal music.

Excelling in HECE and homemaking are Michele Spence and Arden Marslender. Jeannene Rosprim is awarded who's who in VOE and Cathy Cornwell for art. Andrew Hagan is who's who in ROTC.

Who's who for biological and physical sciences are Tom Althoff, Wally Voelcker and John Soule. Chosen who's who in math is Donna Daniels. Those chosen from government and history are Jim Holcomb, Beth Schmidt and Tim Stoner.

Receiving recognition in physical education is Marta Tavarez and Jose Carrillo. Outstanding in modern dance is Lezlie Wilkin, Kathy Juvrud in pompom girls, and Denise Allen in Trooperettes.

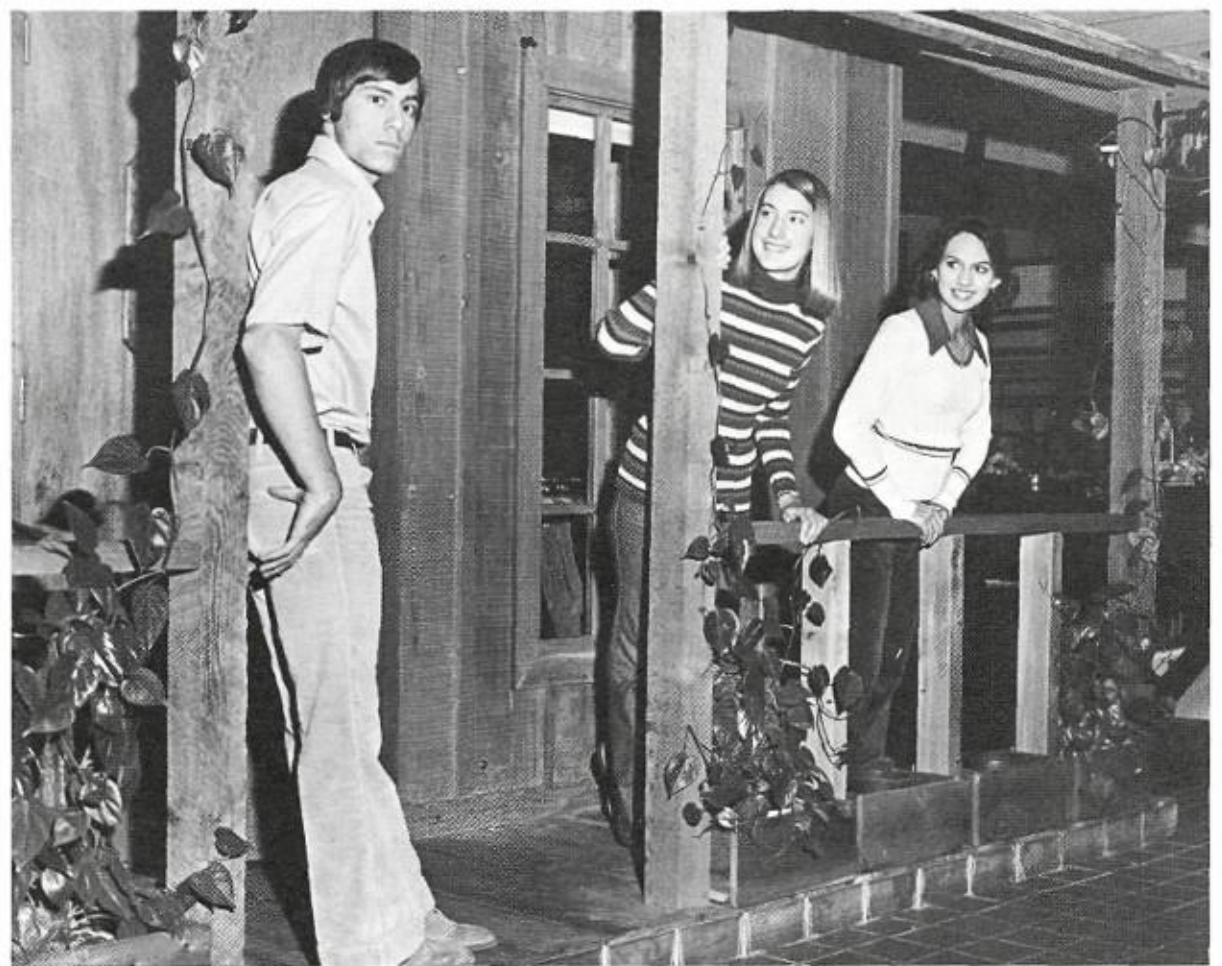

Chosen for creativity in publications are Richarda Duffy for Reveille, Mike Pepe for Sabre, and Susan Cutts for Salute. The staffs provide entertainment yearly.

Awarded who's who in vocal and instrumental music are Mike Mullins and Tim Novak for demonstrating talent through the year.

Special interests activate who's who group

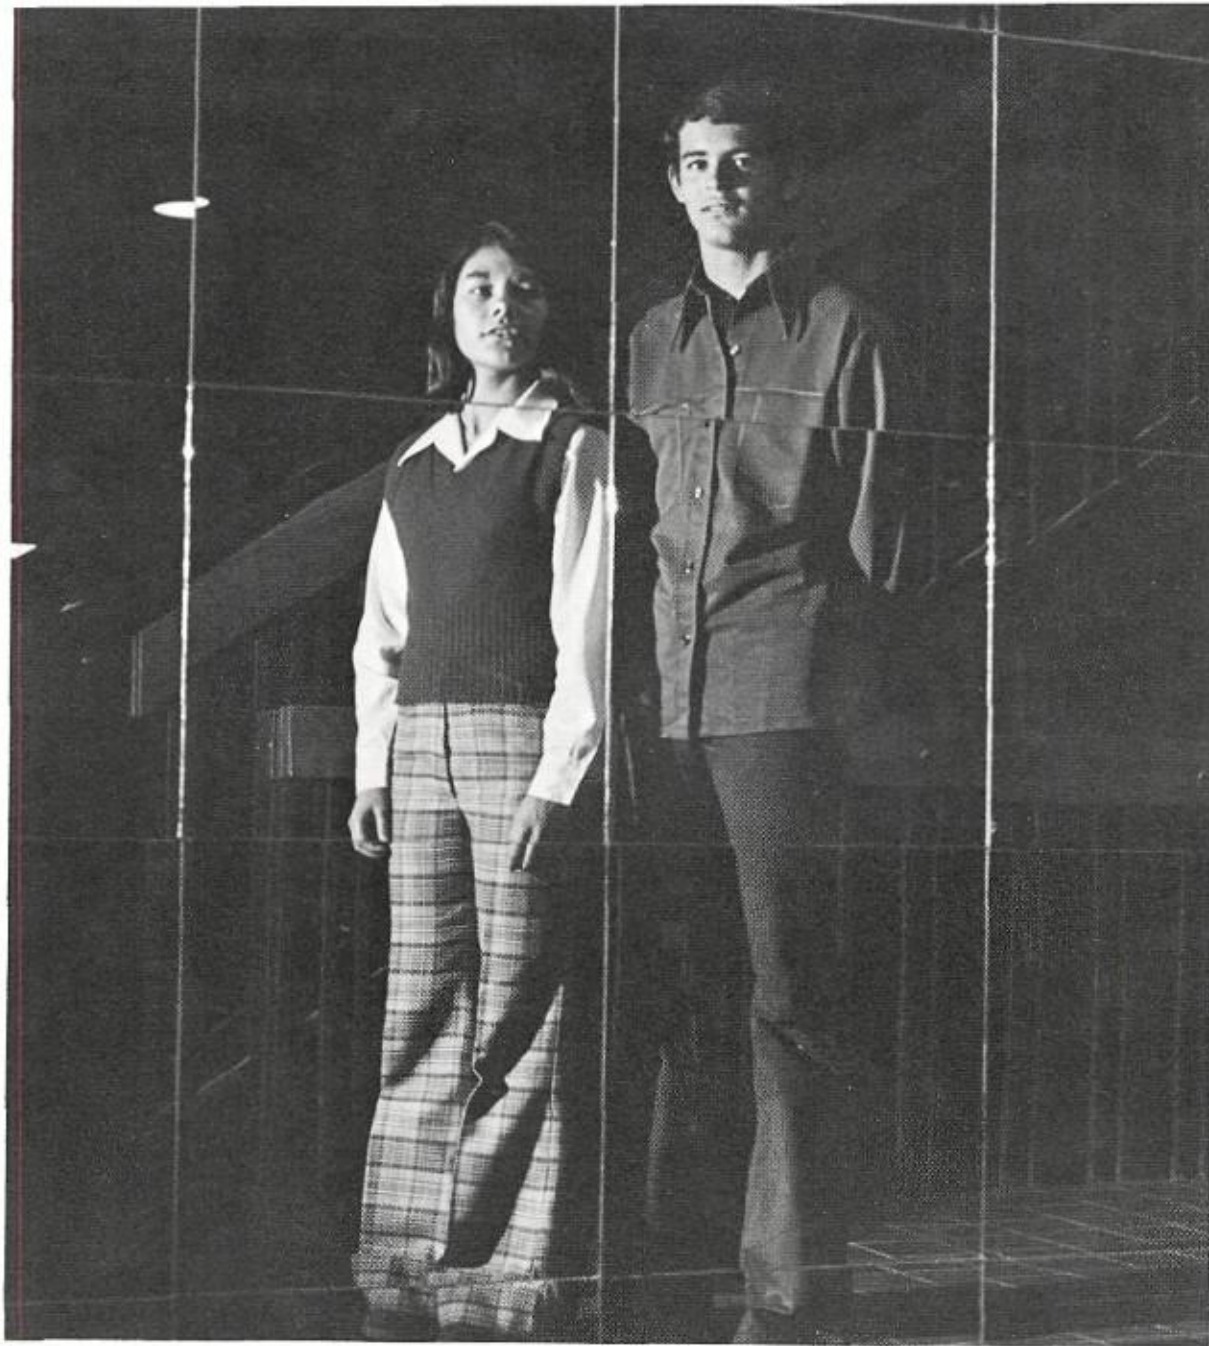

Chosen who's who in pom pon girls is Kathy Juvrud. Lezlie Wilkin is outstanding modern dancer, while Denise Allen shines for Trooperettes.

All-region choir members are; FIRST ROW: Stephanie Shanks, Mark Lambert, and Patti Strachan. SECOND ROW: Bill Walker, Steve Casillas, and Arnold Terrazas. THIRD ROW: Gary Walsh, Steve MacKinnon, and Ronnie Smith. Each of these members also participated in tryouts for all-state choir. Hours of practice proved rewarding to each of the vocalists.

National Merit students are Nick Sisk, Robert Bailey, Jim Holcomb, and Hubert Finney. (Not Shown are Lynn Walker and Janice Smith.)

Top teacher distinguished; students capture awards

Mrs. Thelma Cantrell was named teacher for the 1974-75 school term. Teaching algebra and geometry, Mrs. Cantrell has had ten years of experience in the profession. During her teaching years at Eastwood she has been devoted to her students.

Six Eastwood students were commended by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation. These students were in the upper two percent of those expected to graduate in 1975. Students were among 38,000 others judged on their PSAT examinations.

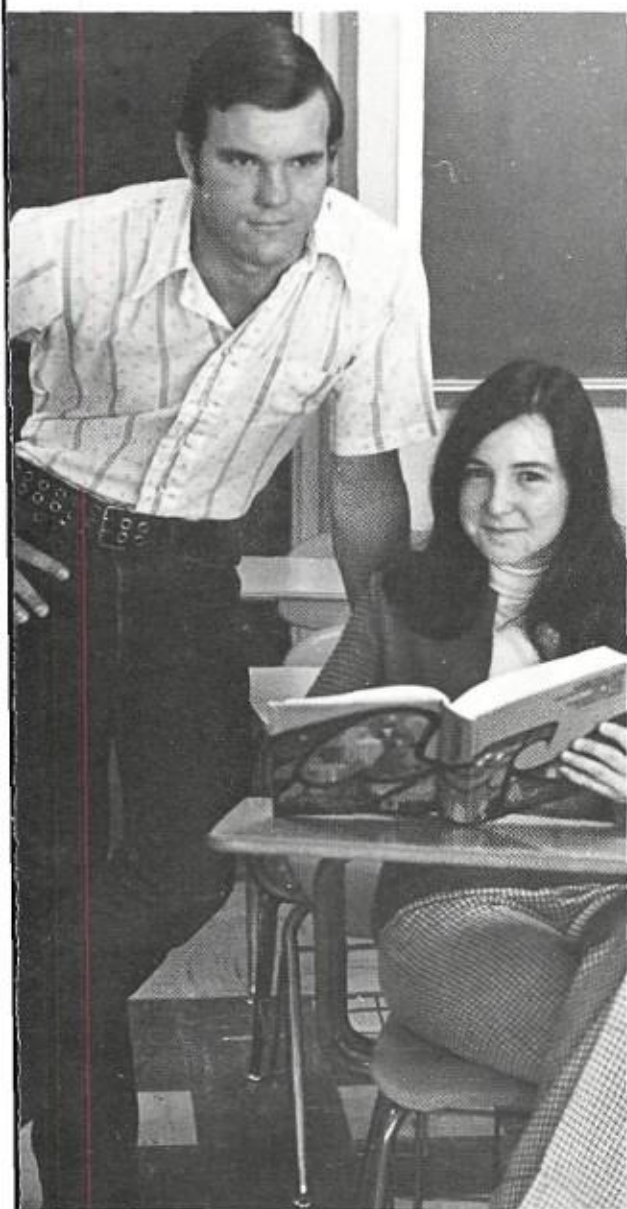

Once again Eastwood Cavaliers recognized nine members who made all region choir. All members of the Cavaliers participated in the tryouts at Burges High School. Participants were judged on how well they knew the music.

Daughters of the American Revolution Citizenship Award recipient for the 1974-75 year was Debbie Lindsey. She met other recipients at the DAR banquet. They were selected for dependability, patriotism, service and leadership.

Chosen to attend the 1975 Presidential Classroom held in Washington D.C. were Dorian Grimes and Ron Miller. Dorian and Ron attended seminars and lectures on problems of today. The two were also present on sight-seeing tours around the city. They were selected by their government teachers from the American government classes.

Presidential classroom representatives for the year were Dorian Grimes and Ron Miller.

Mrs. Thelma Cantrell happily accepts her mum from Don Gibson after being named Teacher of the Year at the Homecoming pep rally.

Seniors soak up creative ideas for Reveille.

Delia Lopez works diligently on yearbook copy in order to meet oncoming deadlines.

'Write on!' symbolizes journalists

"Write on!" is the emphatic cry of each individual involved in Eastwood's literary domain. Quill and Scroll is the honor society made up of individuals portraying outstanding talent in a writing field.

Seeking out members of Reveille, Sabre and Salute, Quill and Scroll requires a B average. However, one must go much farther than grade averages. It's the triumph of fitting vertical pictures to square layouts, counting out perfect newspaper heads, or receiving a unique Reveille entry.

As final deadlines are met there is a celebration banquet. The competition which has hung in the air all year is replaced with satisfaction.

Nancy Cramer, Erich Morales, John Townsend, Roberta Amos, David Romo, Della Butler, and Bart Agee. THIRD ROW: Nancy Caldwell, Margaret Hill, Kelly Williams, Rachel Wofford, Lynn Landsheft, Lisa Mendonca, Jim

NHS welcomes exes, sells Garrisons

National Honor Society started off with a new outlook of the year. Sponsoring its traditional Homecoming tea members welcomed ex-students. Punch and cookies were served prior to the pep rally.

Garrisons, the student directory, were sold annually to the student body by National Honor Society. Profits from the sale of Garrisons were used to present a scholarship to a National Honor student.

Induction was held in February. After the induction a tea was held for the inductees and their parents. New members received a pin and membership card at the banquet.

National Honor Society is an honorary society of juniors and seniors. Judgement is made by the faculty on leadership, service and character.

Concluding the list are: Thomas Lewis, Margaret Licon, William

Deserving inductees join NJHS

Members of National Junior Honor Society maintained their reputation of being a group of hardworking individuals. Consisting of freshmen and sophomores, the honored underclassmen had a busy year of projects.

At the Halloween carnival National Junior Honor Society sponsored their traditional apple cider and doughnut booth.

Their annual induction ceremony was held in March. NJHS inductees and parents were invited to a tea where the new members officially join the society. Members are selected by a group of faculty members.

Sponsor Mr. Ronnie Parks explains the technicalities of play production to Esther Flesman.

Thespians star in drama productions

From selling candy canes to entering in talent shows, Eastwood's thespian members initiated a busy year.

To begin the year several members participated in the production of Camelot. During Christmas thespians sold candy canes. Funds from the sales enabled them to buy a projector for the drama department.

Induction of new members was held towards the end of the year in which thespians also presented honorary memberships.

Stacy Graves and Jerry Gutierrez were representatives in the talent show. Thespians also participated in a recital at the end of the year.

National Thespians Society is an honorary club made up of students displaying dramatic ability. All new members perform in small plays.

SNHS receives new honorary patches

Irma Alvarado distributes a Spanish certificate and patch to Bernadette Romo and Vaudean Johnson.

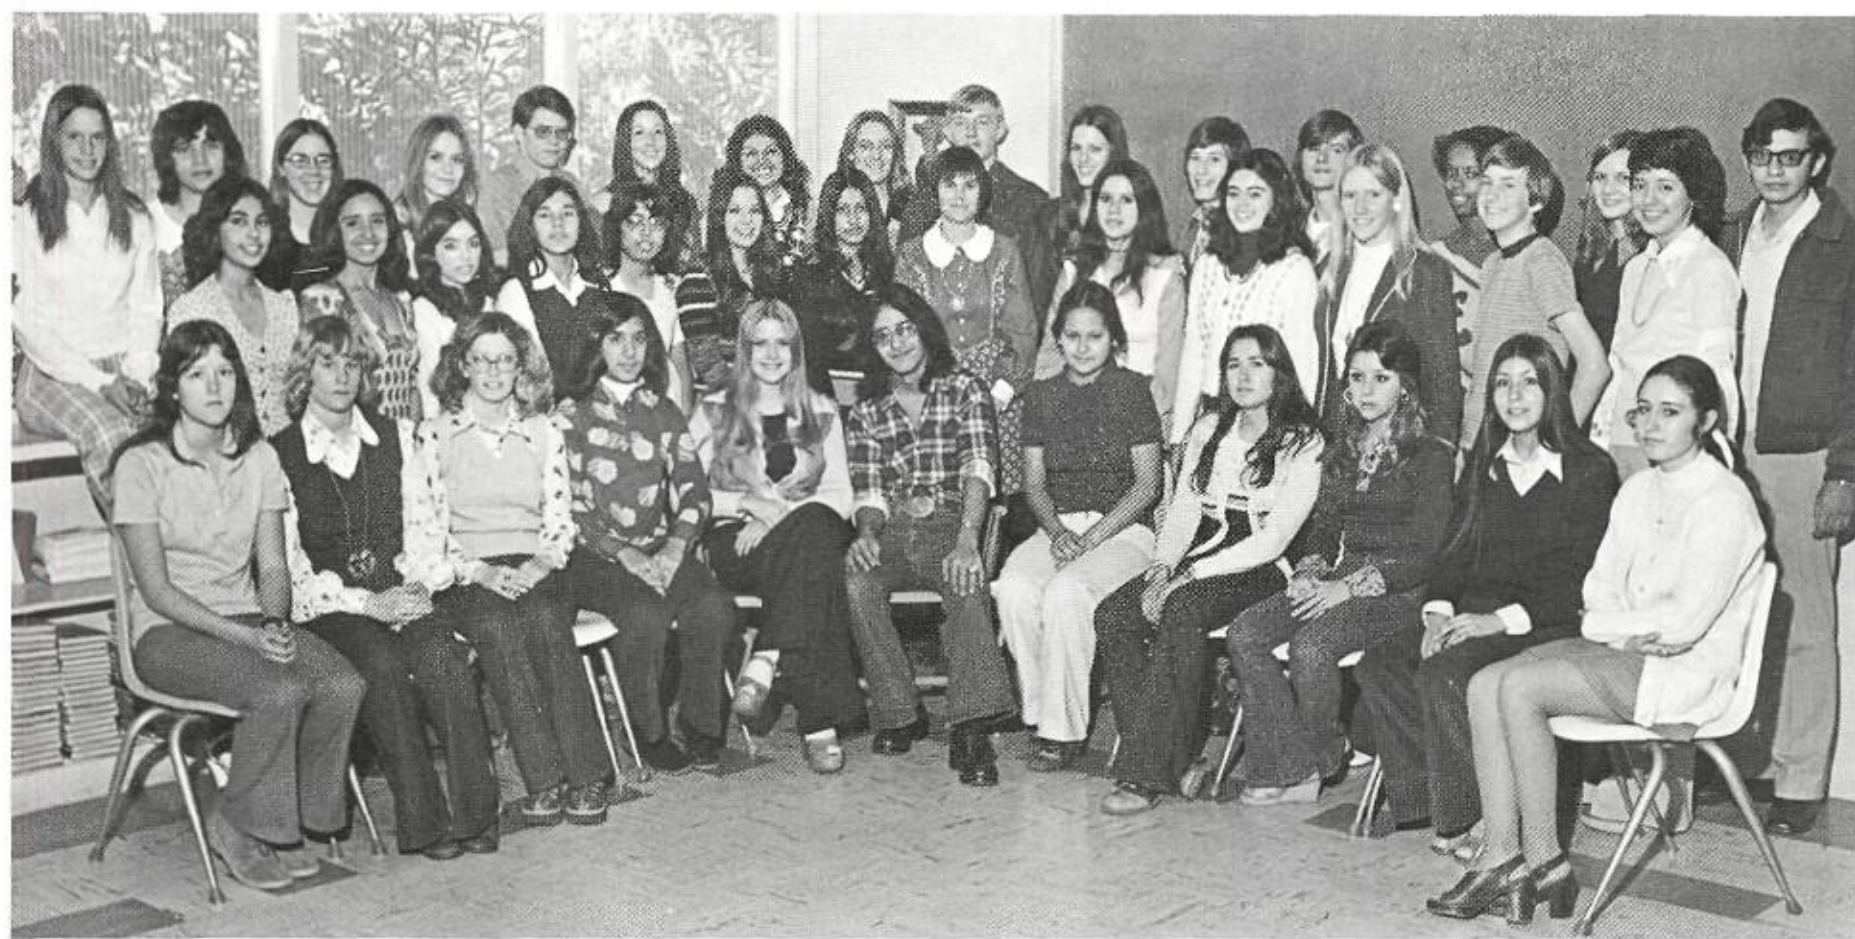

Spanish National Honor began a successful year with 33 new society members. Student enthusiasm was boosted at club meetings where they planned school activities.

They participated in a Christmas Posada in which members visited each other's homes to sample different Latin American culinary specialties.

Members attended Spanish plays in the Chamizal National Theater and the Festival Theater. The annual trip to the Pronaf and old market in Juarez also accented the year.

The main highlight for Spanish National Honor members was receiving certificates and patches revealing the complimentary name of Sociedad Honoraria Hispanica.

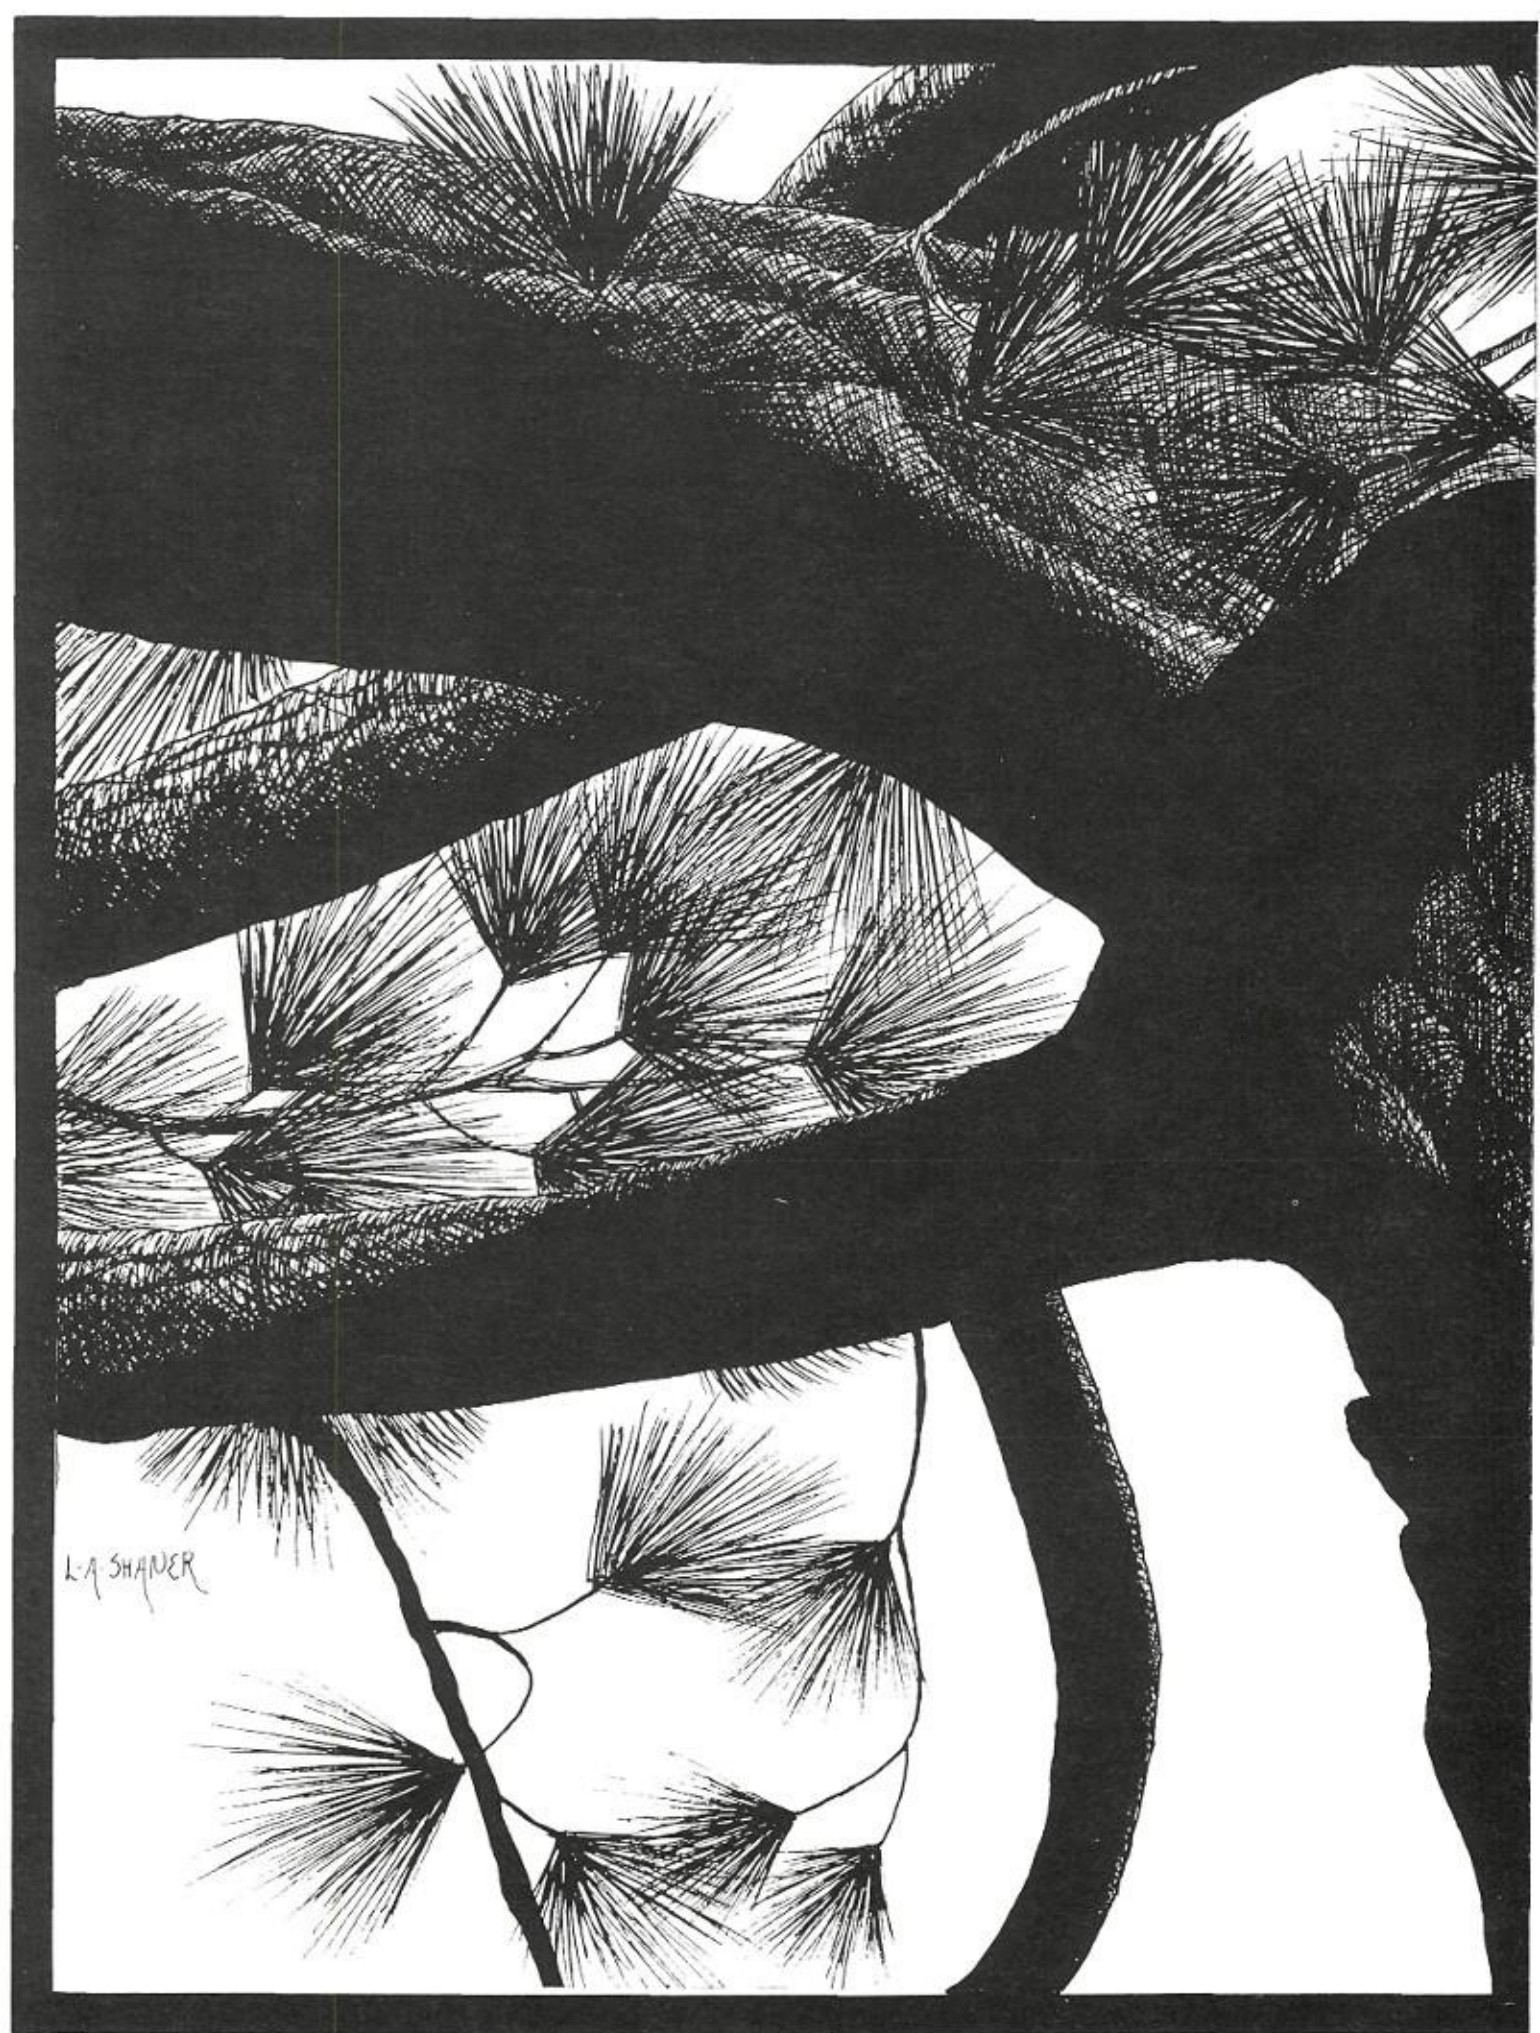

The induction ceremony is held early in the year. New members come from third or fourth year Spanish classes and they must maintain an A grade average.

varez, Tina Aguilar, Evelyn Borunda, Marta Tavarez, Luz Hernandez, Bernadette Romo, Rita Casarez, Mrs. Linda Davenport, Silvia Cardoza, Claudia Rivas, Cathy Cornwell, Chris Colville, and Irma Alvarado. THIRD ROW: Gay Hutto, Tony Sanchez, Doreen Bell, Silvia

Doblado, Jack Rodehaver, Teri Bryant, Cindy Rusk, Kim Townsley, Andrew Hagan, Susan Ezzell, Beth Varencamp, Robert Bjoraker, Vaudean Johnson, Monique Williams, and Alvaro Galdos. Students are required to have an A grade point average in Spanish classes.

Homecoming glitters with Trooper win

Faculty band members "jam" at the pep rally.

With five loses behind them the Troopers came through to whip the Andress Eagles Homecoming night. The win put the frosting on the cake climaxing all of Homecoming week. With the halls more elaborate than ever, returning exes were amazed at the pride and determination the faculty and students had displayed.

Anehta Sesea took first place in decorating their hall. A junior club, Entre Nous, was voted the most original hall. Sophomore club Yahna Phi received the most humorous award while the graduating class of '75 won the title of most spirited.

"It's only a nickel! Just think, two links on the spirit chain for just five pennies." Spirit was displayed this year with the starting of a spirit chain contest. The "Spirit of 76" captured the contest winning by over a hundred links. Twenty-five dollars went to the juniors for exhibiting the most spirit.

Lighting the Trooper torch, a tradition that was started last year was Student Council president Don Gibson's job. The torch was lit throughout the week characterizing the spirit and excitement of Homecoming.

Mouth-watering pancakes were served again this year by Key Club before the game.

Senior girls clubs Anetha Sesea and Detinu conducted the traditional Burning of the E. Silence apprehended the crowd as the "E" was lit. The glowing fire kindled a flame of inspiration in all as the spirit of this tradition solemnly remains year after year.

Homecoming commences with the presentation of the court and entertaining half-time show.

Ruth; I really am embarrassed about turning my back on you as I was busy hitting the bird with eggs. Ruth, you're great and God bless you. Let's be friends forever. Love Martha Reilly Stunning the Andress Eagles, 14-7, the mighty Troop was victorious. The first win of the season proved overwhelming on Homecoming night.

With the sounding of the halftime gun the rest of the Homecoming festivities continued. Doing their usual spectacular half-time show, the marching band and Trooperettes received a standing ovation.

Then the distinguished Homecoming court was presented: Queen Terri Roche and her escort King Rodney Deloach. Duchesses were Tina Aguilar and Susan Cutts escorted by Dukes Dennis Diaz and Don Gibson. Princess Lisa Mendonca and Prince Jim Barnes represented the Junior Class. The sophomores chose Princess Doris Diaz and Prince Mark Aguilar as their royalty. From the Freshman Class came Princess Denise Joseph and Prince Lonnie Dugger.

Amid shouts for more butcher paper, streamers, and masking tape, Eastwood's snack bar and cafeteria were turned into glittering arenas of burrito booths, dunking booths, and delicious sweet shops for the annual Halloween carnival. Dozens of tired faces spent Saturday, October 26, getting set up for the carnival.

The ski club dunking booth captivated onlookers as they watched friends and enemies getting drenched. The traditional entries, the Garter Toss, Sponge Throw, Tattoo Parlor, and confetti eggs, pulled in the crowds. Youngsters stood in line for the ever popular senior Spook House.

All too soon cries of "it's time to close down all booths" were heard and participants began the not-so-fun job of cleaning up.

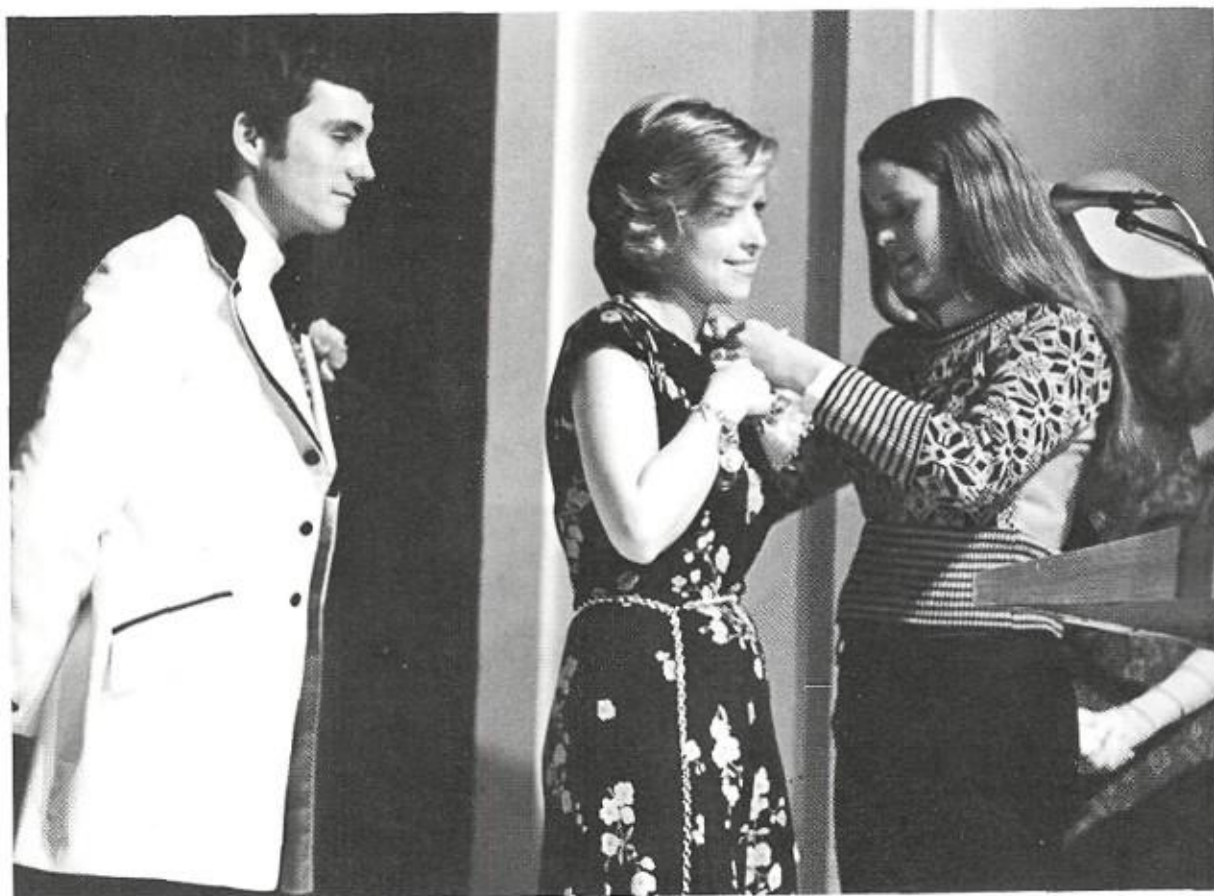

Beauty finalists are: Cindi Hahn, Linda Hosey, Gretchen Iverson, Jodie Gotcher, Debra Correl, Georgette Joseph, Susan Cutts, Denise

Dazzling the audience are this years stunning winners of the beauty contest: Cindi Hahn, first runner-up; Linda Hosey, Most Beautiful; and Teri Bryant, second runnerup.

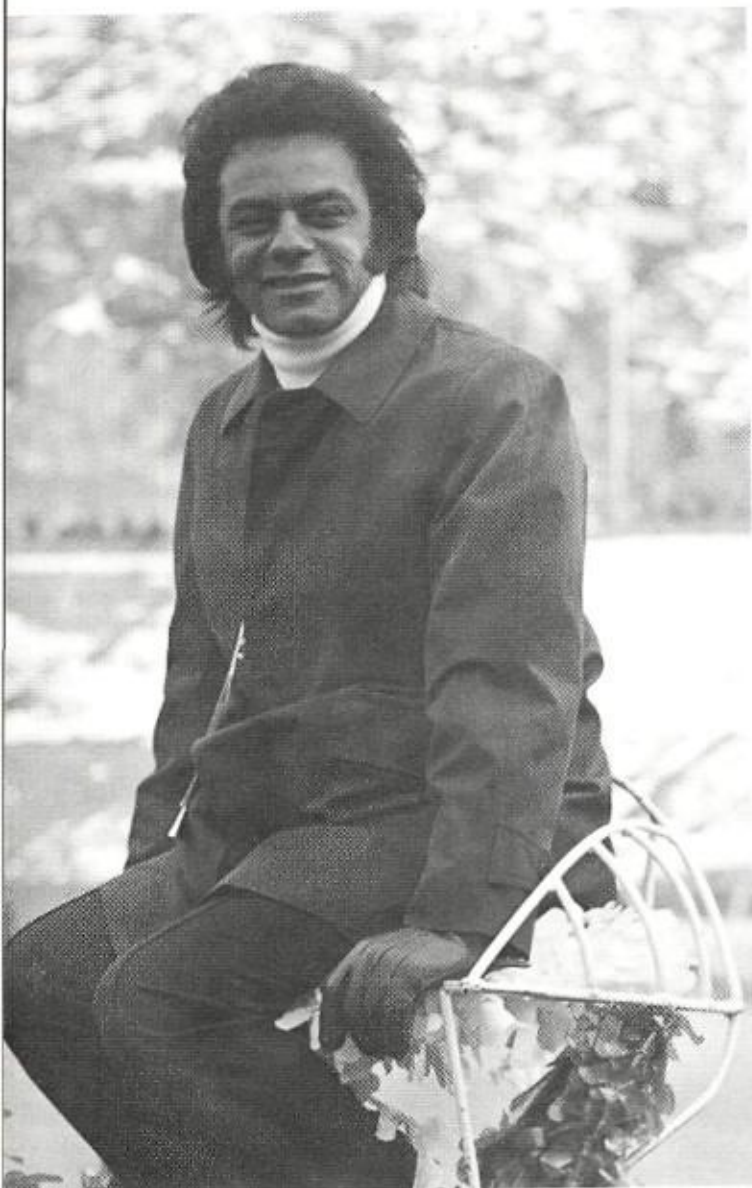

Girls vie for beauty title in pageant

"Aren't they beautiful! Look at her dress. I knew she would win!" Such were the comments heard at the fourteenth annual Eastwood beauty contest. "The Glamorous Gatsby Days" was the setting for this years pageant. After Donna Stephens and Pat O'Beirne welcomed the sellout crowd, the beauty contest began with the presentation of the semi-finalists in street and formal wear. Saltatrix provided the entertainment while the judges searched for the most beautiful girl at Eastwood.

The tabulation of the scores ended with the announcement of the winners as follows: second runner up Teri Bryant, first runner up Cindi Hahn, and Most Beautiful Linda Hosey. Mr. Bob Bradley put the finishing touch on the evening by presenting Linda with a bouquet of roses.

Trooperettes enhance Sun Bowl classic

Red, white, and blue balloons fill the air, Johnny Mathis sings the national anthem, and the 40th annual Sun Bowl is underway.

With such celebrities as Jane Chastain, Lee Trevino, and Senator John Stennis present, Mississippi State whipped North Carolina State. The huge crowd that attended the game, in spite of snowy weather, all agreed that the halftime program was a major highlight of the Sun Bowl.

Using the theme "A Time To Remember" the Trooperettes performed an old fashioned patriotic show with a fiesta included for the Spanish culture. The Trooperettes also unfurled an American flag as part of the proceedings and exploding firecrackers also thrilled the crowds.

Eastwood earns free Highway concert

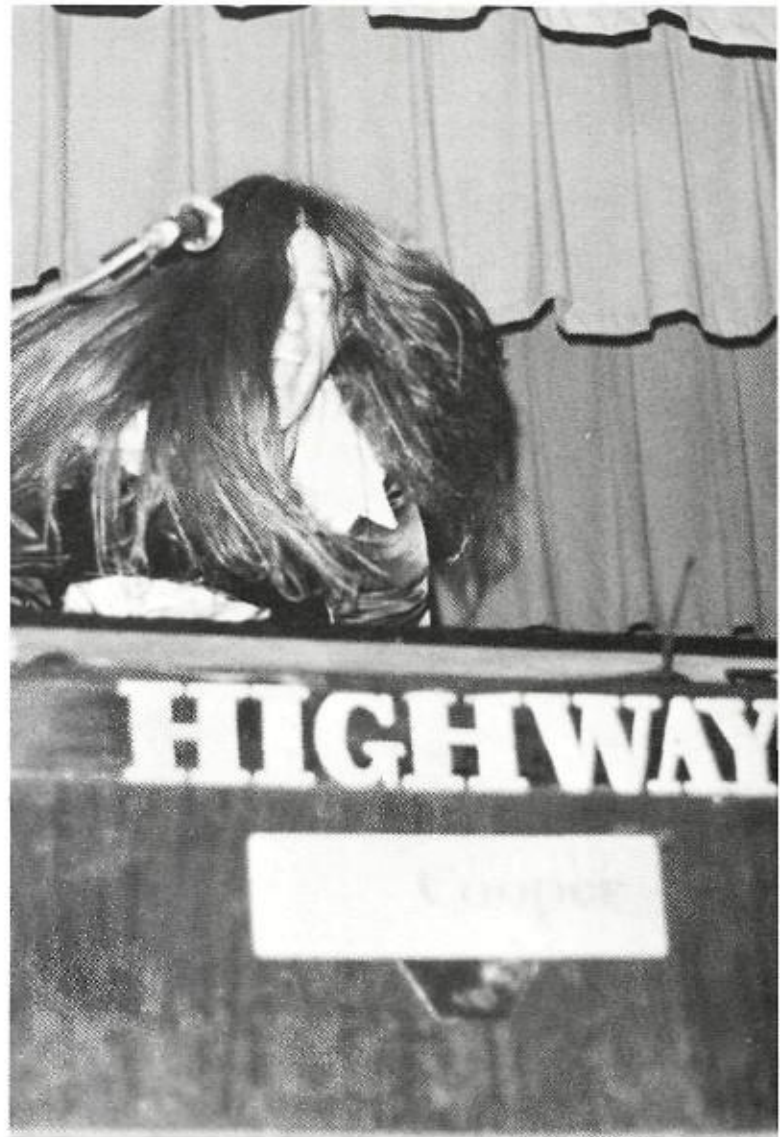

In all, Highway performed about ten songs by artists ranging from Alice Cooper to Yes. The climax came when members of the band threw Highway T-shirts to the crowd. Highway finished with an autographing session.

"Wow! 396,000 signatures! I think my hand is ready to fall off!" After doing nothing but signing petitions for days, Eastwood won the X-ROK Spirit Contest and a concert that made all the cramped hands seem worthwhile.

After being introduced by Paul Leigh of X-ROK radio, Highway loosened up the crowd with "Eighteen" by Alice Cooper and "Can't Get Enough" by Bad Company. Next they performed one of their own songs, "Dead Fox."

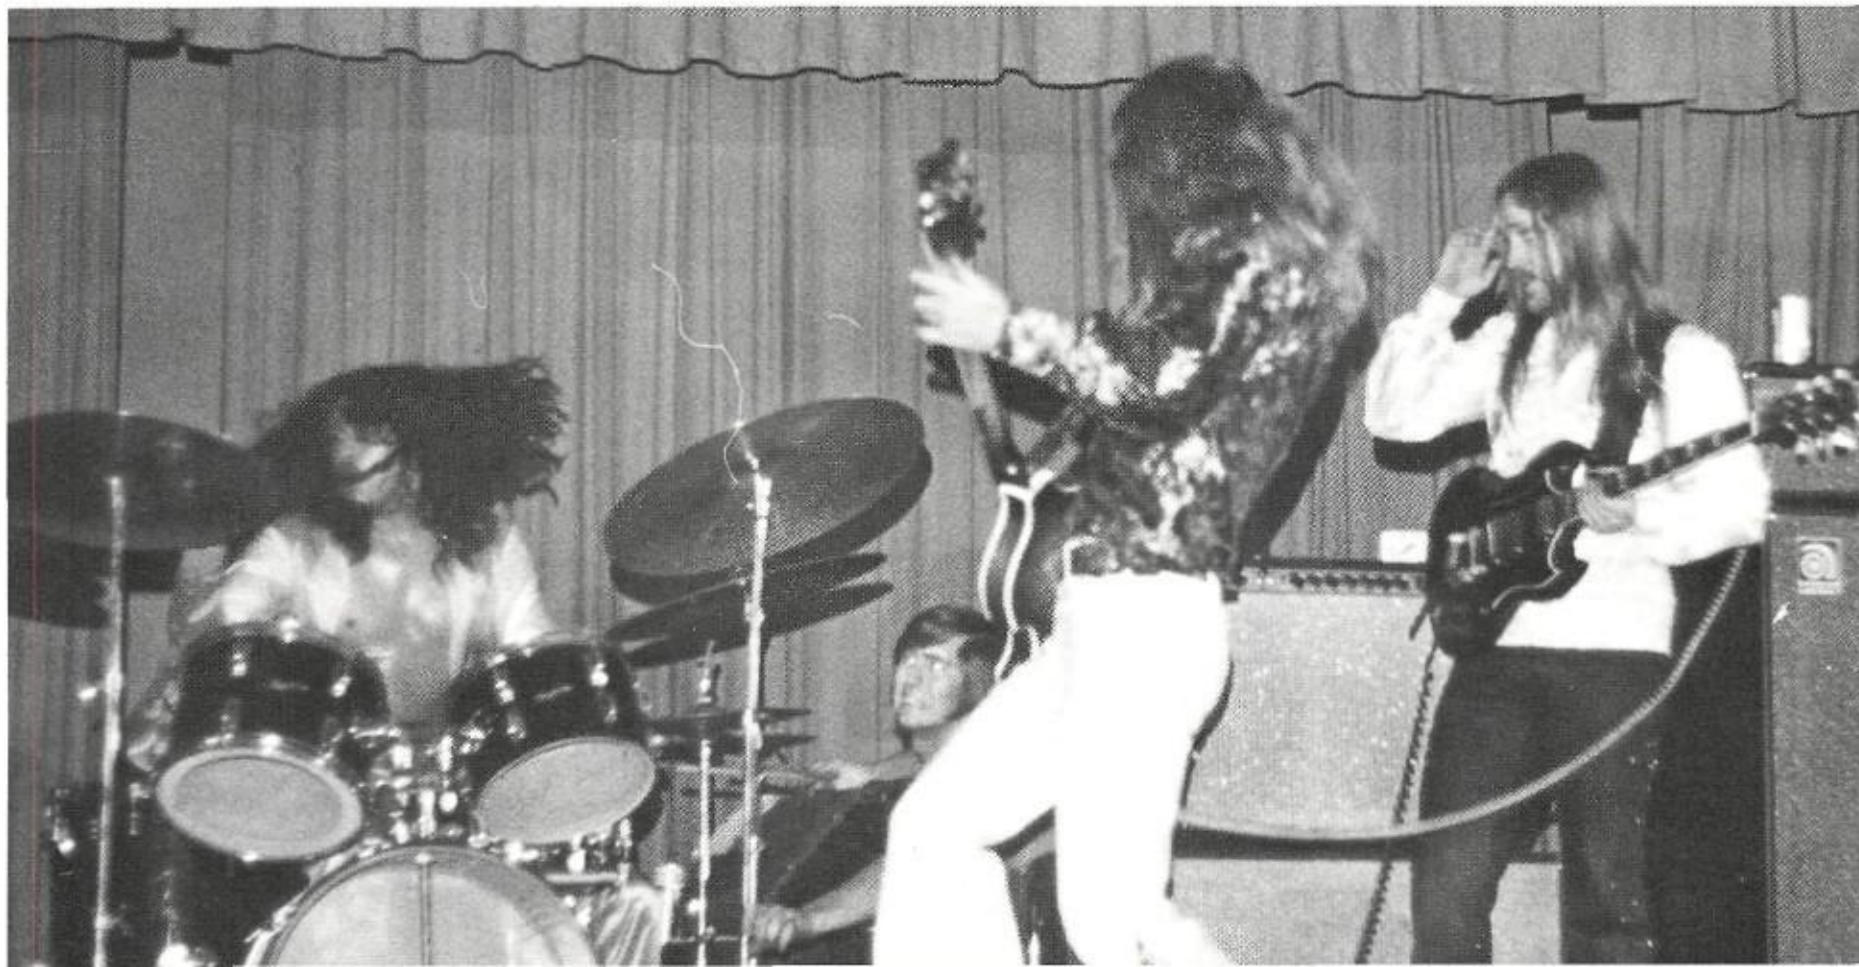

During the break between concerts, a group of students swarm to the stage to get an autograph.

Clubs select E-in-E reps for pageant

How does one fit 42 people in a total of four cars? Such was the case of E-in-E representatives who scrambled to Cielo Vista Mall for picture taking day.

Though representatives were chosen from different clubs, they each shared the intense seconds of cold hands and shaky knees which went along with being nominated and elected.

After all pictures were taken, loud cries echoed through the mall as everybody claimed a spot in the few cars. However, in the hustle and confusion of departing, one could sense the anxiety the girls experience in awaiting the final big night.

Representatives are: Margaret Licon, Dawn Decker, Bill Liedtke, Doris Diaz, Linda Cleve-

Hawaiian theme creates tropical aura

Senior Rita Casarez and junior Sandy Warren anxiously await their chance to mingle in the islands after having been chosen as class princesses.

Serving as lady-in-waiting for the annual Eastwood in Elegance pageant is senior Teri Bryant.

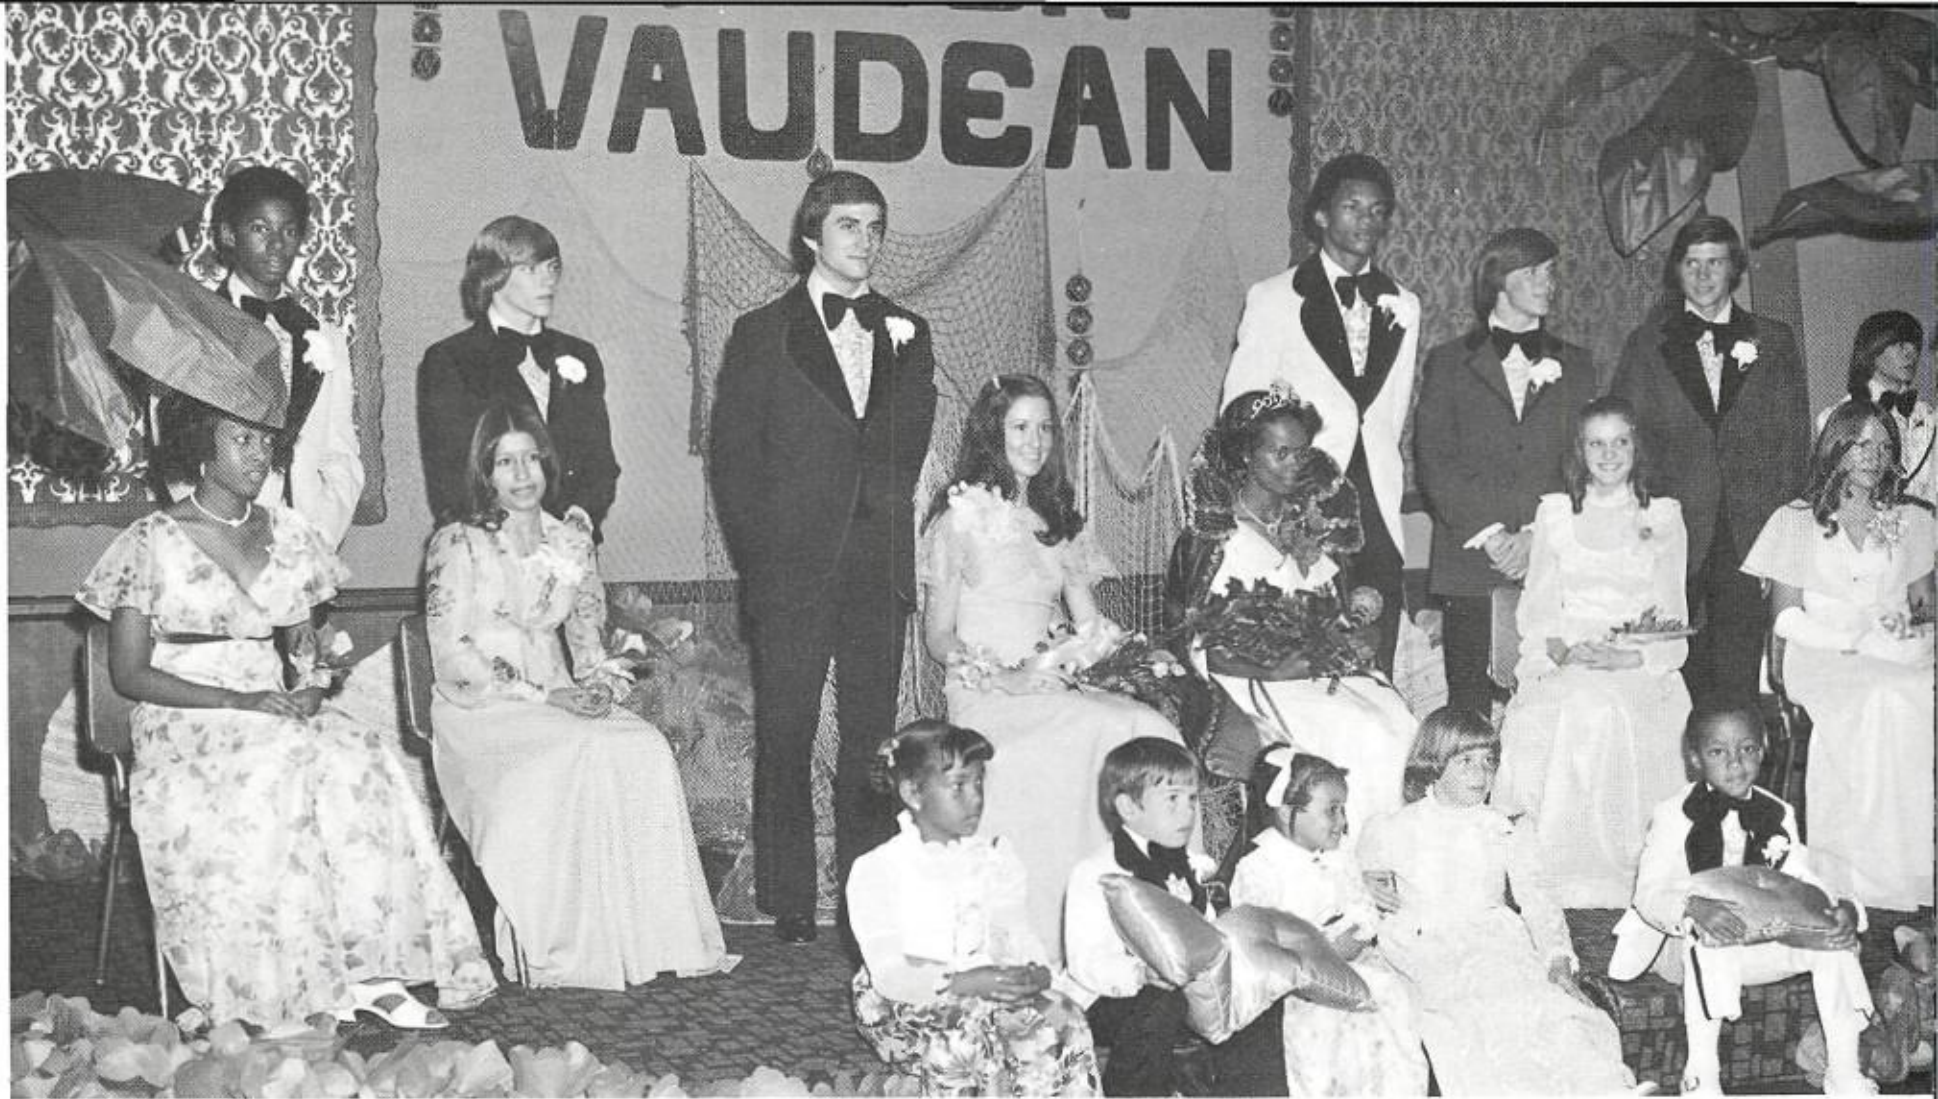

Whoever heard of spending an "Evening on the Islands" for $14? Such was the case of students who attended this year's Eastwood in Elegance. The theme was selected and voted on by student council.

Throughout the cold months of January and February, tropical flowers and palm trees began to mystically bloom from the art rooms. However, after inspecting beautiful Hawaiian scenes constructed by Brush and Palette, puzzled onlookers were soon to find that cardboard and tissue paper were the secret to a green thumb.

Elections for E-in-E were held in November. Vaudean Johnson was chosen queen with Teri Bryant as her lady-in-waiting. Princesses were Rita Casarez, Senior Class; Sandy Warren, Junior Class; Melanie Matthews, Sophomore Class; and Babe Warwick, Freshman Class.

Switching, sorting, and debating dates was all a part of planning for the final night. The Roadway Inn hosted the affair.

Island stage sets mood for festival

Coconut covered bananas and tropical fruit salad were served to those attending Eastwood-in-Elegance setting off a Hawaiian mood to begin an "Evening in the Islands," the theme of this year's affair.

Queen Vaudean Johnson was later honored by each duke and duchess during the E-in-E coronation. Saltatrix members in grass skirts danced to island songs after the presentation. Songs by the Barbershop Quartet and Madrigals were also sang in honor of the queen. Music by Vehicle followed the coronation.

Troop life captivates foreigners

Arriving from a country of forests, lakes, and snowy settings, Seppo Sarenan is now a foreign exchange student at Eastwood High School. He is a delight to his history class as he always uncovers the unique ideals and customs his own country holds. "I get my hometown newspaper each week," relayed Seppo and went on to discuss the lack of international news in American newspapers. Seppo is a member of the Ski Club, Der Deutsche Verein, and Student Council.

"I love American people," exclaimed Alexia Haverbeck whose vibrant personality has already won her many friends. She is a foreign exchange student from Chile and member of the Senior Class. El Paso being a border city has been very beneficial to Alexia. Many of the students are able to communicate with her in Spanish which is her native language. "The love for sports in America is wonderful," exclaimed Alexia who also enjoys the Trooper pep rallies. Alexia is a member of Student Council, the French Club, and has been chosen an honorary member of Detinu.

Student Council initiates new theme to unite troop

"Only You Can Make It Happen" was the theme of the 1974-75 Student Council presented to the school. The new theme was introduced to the student body for the first time in order to preserve the spirit and to get more students interested in the governing of the school. With this theme, Student Council hoped to make the students understand that their support and help were needed.

Workshops and paper drives were just some of the projects Student Council sponsored during the year. To start their agenda, Student Council held a leadership workshop which was open to all students. Different discussion groups were headed by the officers.

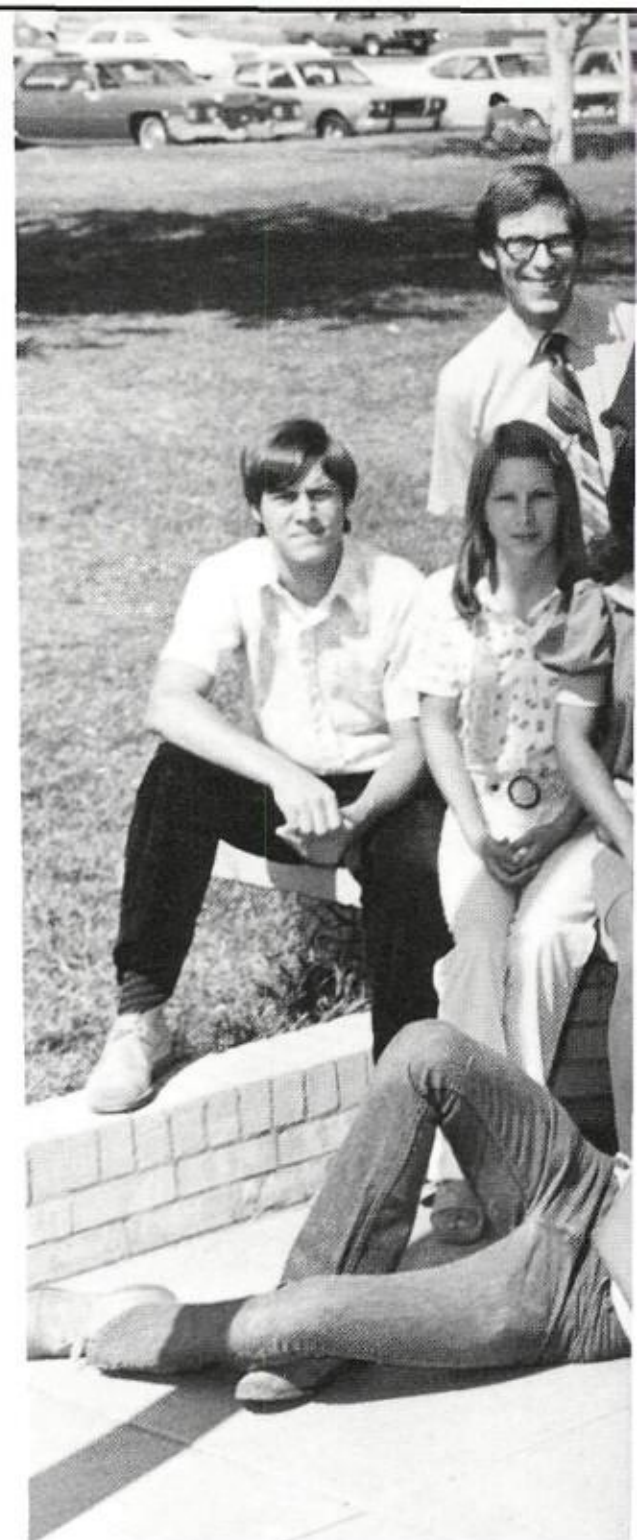

With the continuing shortage of paper, Student Council also held paper drives while other clubs provided a few helping hands.

Self-nomination was the new process Student Council adopted for voting on school-wide elections. In order to be put on the ballot, one must have a petition signed by a certain percentage of the class.

Aside from undertaking other projects, Student Council delivered Homecoming mums and boutonnieres, and supervised the Halloween carnival.

Helping needy adds to Christmas spirit

"Hey, watch it, the Christmas tree is going to fall!" Maintaining the holiday spirit with the students, Student Council members decorated a Christmas tree in front of the office.

Helping the needy people at Christmas, Student Council sponsored their traditional can food drive and Operation Santa Claus. A cash prize of $25 was awarded to the class who collected the most cans throughout the week.

X-ROK concert, sponsored by Student Council, turned out to be a great success with the students. Highway performed for the student body. E-in-E was held away from school for the second time. The Rodeway Inn was the site chosen for the coronation, dance, and dinner.

Student Council member Teresa Melendez admires the Christmas tree as it gets decorated.

Trooperettes please crowd with routines

Throughout football season the Trooperettes furthered their crowd-pleasing reputation by performing many new and exciting dances.

Using sixty girls this year, sponsor Barbara Prewitt continued to skillfully display their many talents. Precision kick routines seemed to be the favorite of the crowds.

Fund raising was successful especially at the Halloween carnival where the members worked at their traditional sweet shoppe, grab bag, and monster mash.

Performing at the YISD marching contest, the Trooperettes marched off the field with a superior rating. The girls also participated in the Sun Carnival parade and danced at the halftime of the Sun Bowl game.

After marching season the Trooperettes danced for the Lions Club Minstrel Show at Liberty Hall.

Toward the end of school, members prepare for Trooperette camp in Portales, New Mexico which is the first activity for the new members.

Trooper sign illuminates; Key Club acquires funds

"Hey, I know you want one of these neat calendars!" And so began the year for Key Club members with the sale of the yearly school calendars.

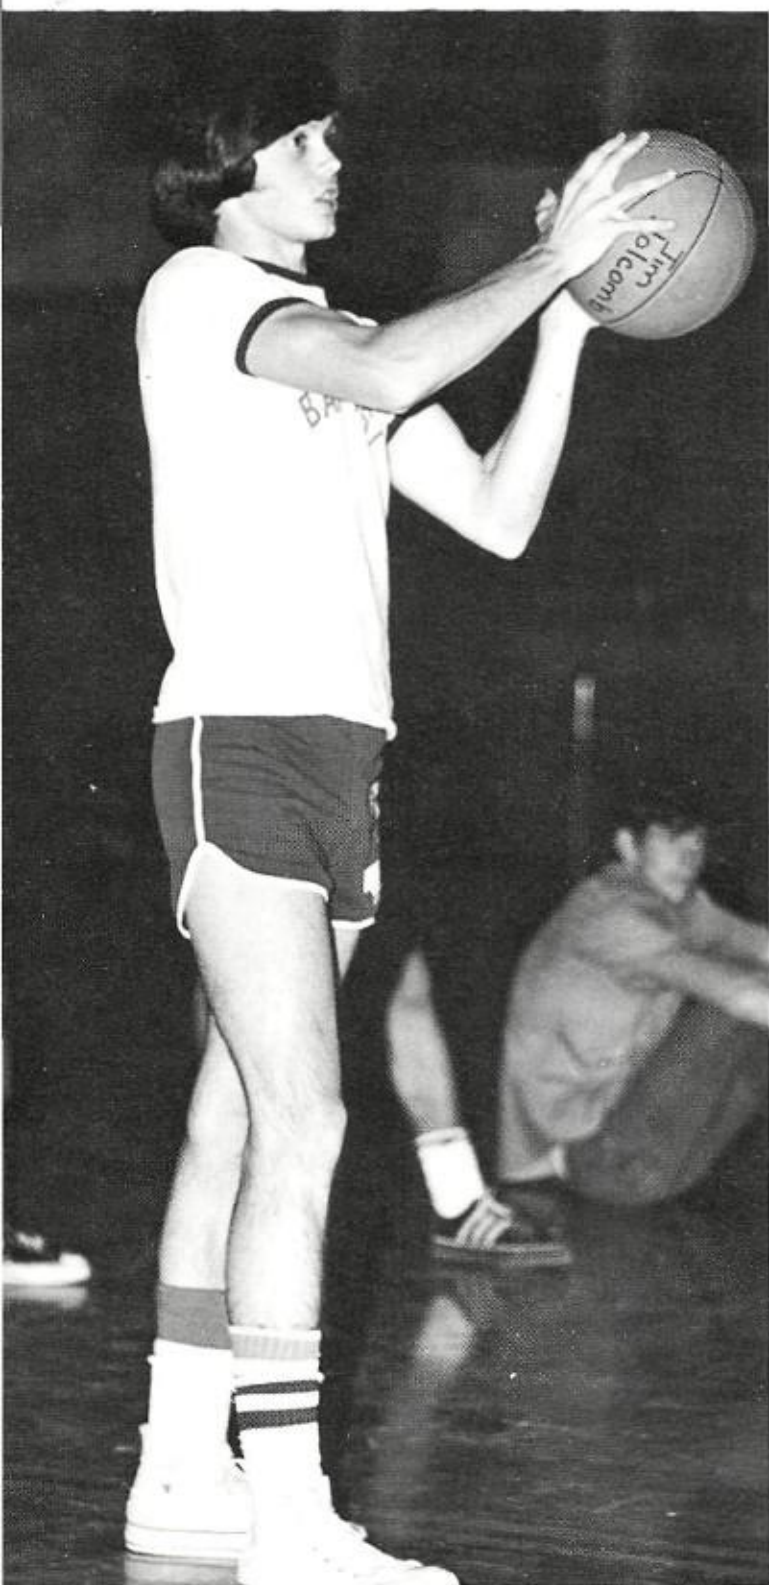

Participating in school activities as well as community service projects, Key Club provided the money for the repainting of the press box and also the cheerleaders megaphones. They purchased the Christmas tree for main hall and placed luminarias on the school for Christmas decoration.

An award was presented to the club in appreciation for the time spent cleaning up at Eastpoint school after the fire that damaged much of it. An intra-divisional banquet ended the year with Don Maynard appearing as the guest speaker.

A blue jacket with a gold emblem at Eastwood denotes nothing less than service. Blue Jackets, a junior and senior girls service club, led by President Tina Aguilar, strived to make 1974-75 the best year ever.

Guiding lost parents, Blue Jacket members stood at hall corners on Open House night. At Christmas time a faculty breakfast was staged in appreciation of teacher's and administrator's work. Blue Jackets members also regularly clean the trophy case in main hall. To raise money, the club sold cokes at basketball games.

Salute staff transforms book's pages

Underneath the seemingly same old surface of beehive activity, many changes on Salute staff await discovery by yearbook readers. The many new bees buzzing include Mrs. Sandy Messer, the new journalism sponsor, and 26 new staff members.

Exchanging Paragon press with Josten's American press brought different approaches to pages and advertising. New equipment like the photofit helped staffers; but shortages of essentials like typewriters, space, dark-rooms and money curtailed creativity.

According to Susan Cutts, editor, "Changes from last year's book are countless. The cover, opening and end sheets, with artwork by Linda Shaner, are unique and innovative."

Before experimenting with the new photofit equipment, Salute staffers Mike Andow and Bart Agee receive careful instruction as to how it works to reduce or enlarge.

Sabre member D'Ann Beeson seems quite confused about an article in the newspaper as Luz Gonzalez continues to read the editorial page.

Attentively concerned, assistant editor Tim Currie listens to the week's plans for Sabre.

Doug Pullen finds Sabre sales successful.

Sports editor Erich Morales carefully reads over his story in a past issue of Sabre.

"Don't we get a newspaper this week?" Lack of funds was the main explanation that led to this comment. Sabre staff members were not able to put out a newspaper weekly because of the shortage of money. This was a big problem the staffers faced throughout the year and this did not make work easier.

Quality continued to be imbound in the Sabre. Sabre staffers strived to arouse the reader's interest with their news. It covered stories from the subject of amnesty to female discrimination.

Aside from putting out a school newspaper, Sabre staff members held a raffle and a paper drive as a part of raising money for their publication.

"Come on! Pick up on it and let's make the feeling personal. Say what you feel, but most of all feel!" And so are the sounds that come from the reveille room each day as the staff relates to each other what they feel, what they know and what they hope to be.

"By communicating on a personal level with each other, we establish the ground floor feeling of Reveille '75, the character that will make the magazine a work of sensitive art," explained editor-in-chief, Richarda Duffy.

Staffers visited each English class from freshman to seniors to petition for poetry, art, photography, prose and to communicate the "artistic feel" of Reveille '75 to the students.

In addition to working on Reveille '75 the staff also took on a new publication this year, The Lives and Times of Knee-Cap Skinners, a children's magazine comprised of work from the fourth grade classes of Eastwood Knolls School, also work from the Reveille staff.

Smiling happily, band sweetheart Cindi Hahn is presented to the crowd at a game.

With the unusual amount of rain that fell this year, the Trooper band encountered a few problems during marching season. The wet fields often kept members from going outside but the band defeated the elements and captured a first division rating at the YISD marching pageant.

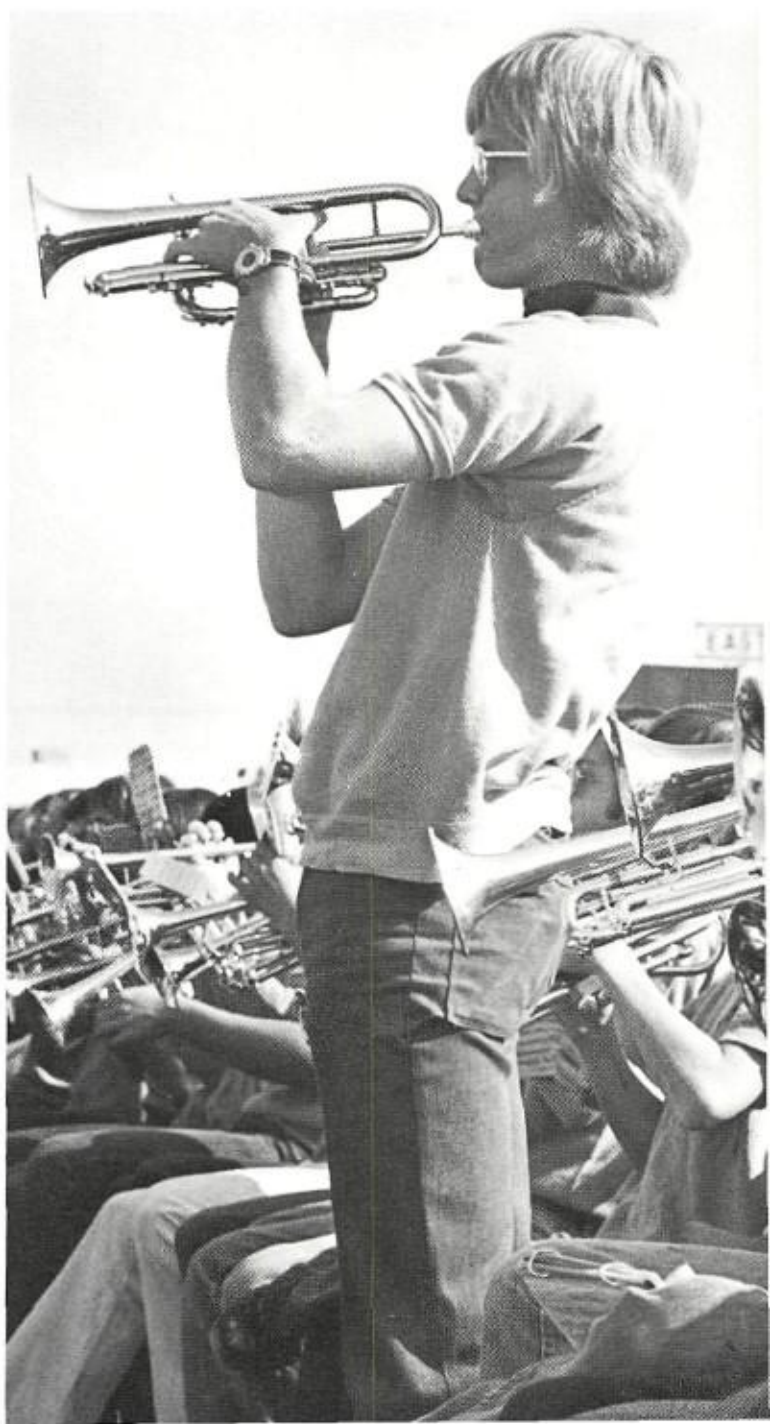

Sponsoring FAPA's Follies at the Halloween Carnival, band members staged a night club act in the band room and also sold flowers. Band members sold Sparkle Stix and worked at various other projects in hopes of earning enough money to fund a trip to a contest for first division bands in the spring.

Under the direction of Mr. John Faraone, in his fifth year of teaching at Eastwood, and Mr. Fred Paz, the Trooper marching band provided entertainment at football games and pep rallies. David Markel and Suzanne Meister were the 1974-75 drum majors.

Concert Band seeks time for leisure

"You're sharp, watch your intonation," can be heard almost any day of the week as one enters the band room. Under the direction of Mr. John Faraone the concert band has no time for leisure. The concert band works endlessly in preparation for different playing contests. In between rehearsals, concert band members can be found selling anything from sparkle stixs to enchilada tickets. The funds raised from these sales will aid both bands in going on their yearly out of town trip.

Symphonic Band strives for perfection

After the glamour of football season is over the band transforms from the first division marching band into the number one symphonic band. The symphonic band puts tedious hours of work in after the Christmas concert. Rehearsals and sectionals are among the extra work that band members put in. Striving for perfection, 12 symphonic band members worked on additional music for state tryouts. Of the ones who went to state, only two band members received positions at all-state.

Orchestra provides music for Camelot

Orchestra members and their new director, Mrs. Diana Garcia, put in many crucial hours of work in making an ensemble. The orchestra demonstrated their versatile abilities by producing the background music for the play Camelot. They also entertained parents with soothing music at the annual Christmas concert.

The second half of the year the advanced members of the orchestra participated in all-region and all-state tryouts. Many students have been perfecting their selections since the middle of August.

Members of the orchestra are; FIRST ROW: Margaret Puthoff, and Jenny Picket. SECOND

ROW: Mrs. Garcia, Luigi Leos, Susan Shenot, and Madeline Richardson. THIRD ROW:

Robert Grimes, Frank Licon, and Fred Wilkers.

Other members of the Eastwood orchestra are; FIRST ROW: Ron Smith, Linda Ezzel, Lynne Campbell, and Joe Baragan. SECOND ROW:

Pat Adame, Steve Sibogi, Ester Haren, Luis Lavado, Gina Swearingin, and Ann Ruiz. THIRD ROW: Chuck Berono, Elizabeth Romo, Donna

Robinson, Keith Welsh, Danny Alvarado, and Linda Hayes.

Stage Band performs at new hospital

Eastwood's stage band performed at the opening of the Eastwood Medical Center. Members of the varsity and junior varsity stage bands worked diligently throughout the year. They prepare for numerous contests and assemblies for the student body. Mr. John Faraone works with the stage band on various types of music. This is done to get that special effect which makes the Eastwood stage band superior to many others.

Stage band members prepare long hours for two important contests. The more important of the two contests is held at the University of Texas at El Paso.

Audiences anticipate pom pon girls

Looked forward to by audiences, the pom pon girls were a vital part of the school year. The vast improvements of the group can be attributed to more pride and the attendance of dancing camps.

During the summer four pom pon girls traveled to Flagstaff, Arizona while the other six went to Malibu, California to dancing camps. There they learned new pom pon dance techniques and better coordinated their efforts as a performing group.

Eastwood audiences watch in the background as Joni Davin dances a pep rally routine.

muth, Teri Hale, Sue Ingram, Lezlie Wilkins, Kalaha Rampy, Linda Wyrick, and Joni Davin.

Saltatrix expresses feelings through dance

Modern dance is an expression of feelings through movement. Saltatrix is a group of girls dedicated to the true expression of feelings through various types of dance. Throughout the year they dance in many different situations using many different dance techniques. Saltatrix lends its talent to Eastwood in many ways.

This year Saltatrix danced in front of school audiences at the annual beauty contest. They also danced at the Christmas assembly. Mrs. Katherine Teel, their sponsor, helped choreograph the musical, Camelot. Four Saltatrix dancers danced in the May Day scene. At the end of the year they participated in the spring recital.

Becky Baldwin, Kelly Williams, Vicki Gorman, Debbie Townsend, Marie Spindler and Ginny Martinez dance the Charleston.

ELA scores with candy, ribbon sales

From athletes to salesmen, Eastwood Lettermen's Association kept on their feet as the 1974-75 year rolled in. The members decided to kick the year off by earning money.

Their first sales attempt sent them selling chocolate bars. Maintaining the support for the football team, ELA peddled their traditional spirit ribbons around the school.

Tossing miniature footballs and a beheaded eagle were both a part of ELA's Homecoming car in the float contest. A red station wagon followed that was set aside for their Homecoming car bash.

"Wet heads" was the nickname ELA adopted after being watered down at their Halloween Sponge Throw booth.

Taking advantage of pretty boy Matt Decker during ELA initiation, sophomore David Galyon jokingly asks him out for a weekend date.

Community lights up with ELA Luminarias

Picture getting up at three o'clock in the morning on Christmas Eve to shovel sand into hundreds and hundreds of bags. Fortunately, this event occurs annually by ELA as they prepare to set up luminarias for the community. The luminaria selling is the lettermen's big money-making project of the year.

Initiation occurred in December as 24 lettermen from all sports were initiated into ELA. The traditional ELA "male beauties" once again paraded down the halls dressed up as females as a part of their initiation. Coach J. D. Partridge indicated that this may be the last year for this type of initiation.

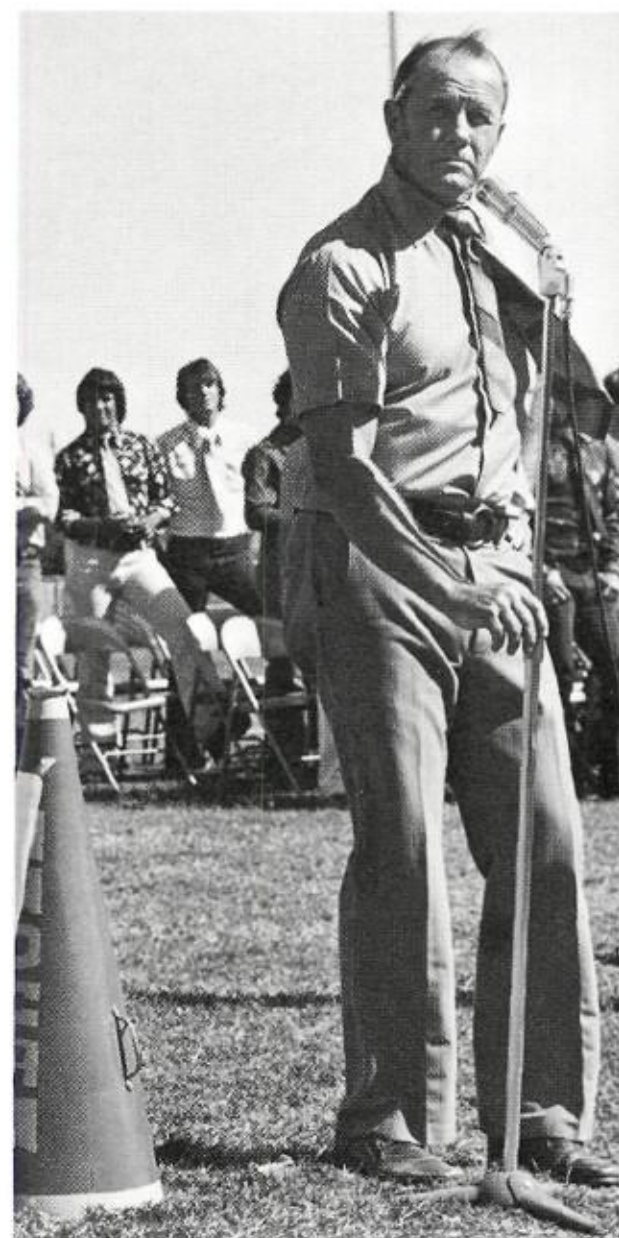

The lettermen also purchased new patches for their jackets and helped during the can food drive.

ELA officers are: Bart Agee, secretary; Dennis Diaz, president; Wayne Mullens, treasurer; and Mike Bailey, sergeant-at-arms.

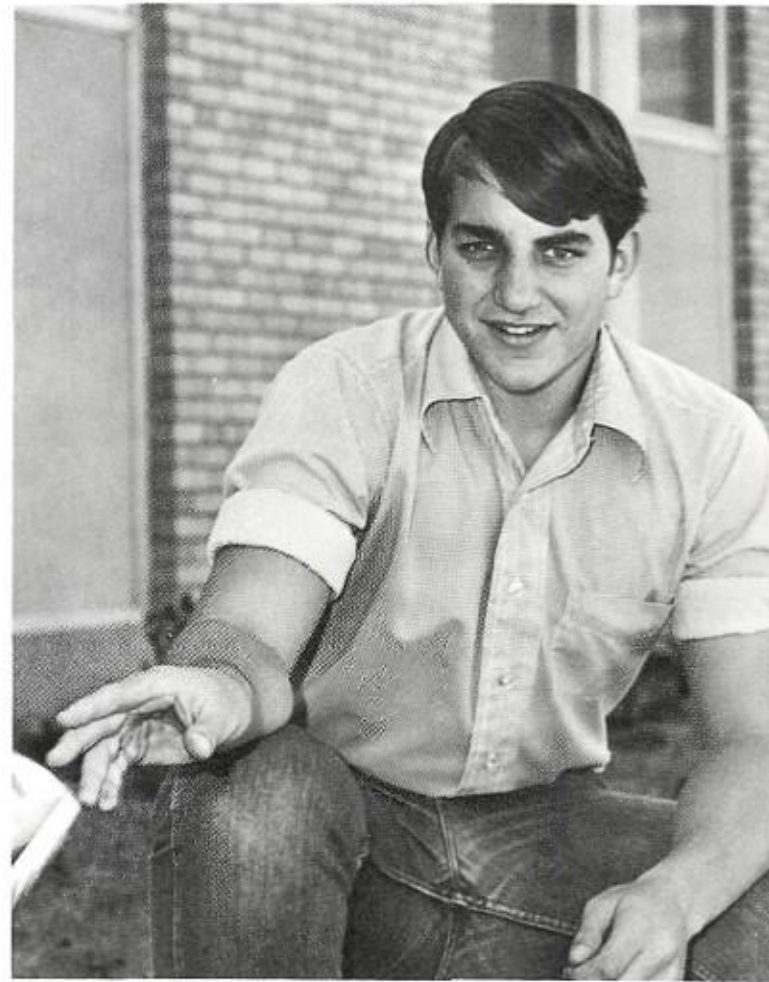

Lettermen Juan Ornelas and Dan Ford began to prepare an obstacle course for the initiation.

Lettermen reveal hidden talent at follies

Dennis Diaz comforts ELA mascot Ziegfried.

Members of the ELA's SEX-tet get together to practice their singing for the upcoming follies.

Ever see a group of athletes put forth their service and effort throughout the school and for their community as well? Whether it was earning money, initiating new lettermen, or helping the school, one could find ELA members always busy. Many projects and much work was contributed by these athletes.

Once again the hidden talents of the lettermen were discovered during the traditional ELA follies which captivated a large audience. The unforgettable belly dancers, pom pon girls, and singing SEX-tet were just a few of the acts personated by the athletes in their show along with new skits from Kojak, Happy Days, Crosno's Hop, and Kung Fu.

Finnishing up the year with the Lettermen's All-Sports Banquet, athletes from all sports were recognized. Awards were presented to the most outstanding athlete in each sport and the Athlete of the Year was also honored.

Les Paladins sell 'choses de nature'

Les Paladins, better known as the French Club, had success with many money making projects. Such projects included a confetti egg sale at the annual Halloween carnival. A sale of "choses de nature" which are old pieces of wood and dried flowers depicting scenes from nature sold well at nearby shops.

French Club members participated in cultural activities. The cooking of French foods, writing pen pals in France, and the observation of several French customs are a few of the activities of the French Club. Mrs. Margie Westfall, the French teacher, sponsors the clubs projects.

Latin Club spirit signs prove baffling

"Interficio Indios" is one of the many clever sayings devised by Latin students to baffle the rest of the student body. These signs were put up on Fridays for pep rallies. Almost every Thursday members could be found lying on the floor of room 207 with paints and paint brushes busily making their spirit signs.

Projects for the annual Latin Club Festival are made by Latin students. The best projects from every school in the Ysleta School District are displayed at Basset Center. Plays depicting Roman times as well as projects are given to be judged. All schools compete for trophies and first, second and third place ribbons at the festival.

Club furnishes new equipment for team

Leaping high into the air, swinging from bar to bar, and balancing on a long narrow strip of wood are just a few of the stunts exhibited by the gymnasts this year.

The Gymnastics Club consisted of all the students who were interested in the art of acrobatics. Working out every day, the gymnasts practiced to improve and perfect their routines. The gymnasts are skilled in many physical aspects and each student is able to work at his own ability and rate.

Working hard throughout the year, the gymnasts strove for perfection. The club helped to send the team to state championships held at the end of the year.

Together the club performed for the student body and sponsored gymnastic meets. For another club activity, members peddled zodiac posters. The gymnasts were able to buy new equipment for the team this year.

"If I see one more grass skirt, just one more, I'm going to buy stock in a lawn mower conglomerate."

Grass skirts, paper flowers, palm trees and even a few coconuts flourished in room 408 as Brush and Palette members designed decorations for Eastwood-in-Elegance. Brush and Palette also decorated the gym for the "Glamorous Gatsby Days" of Salute's Beauty Contest. They recreated the splendor of the twenties with soft pastels and a lush garden setting.

Fund raising projects spanned the year as members sold programs at the football games, Christmas ornaments for the tree, and delivered Troop-o-grams on Valentine's Day.

Packers work to preserve environment

The Honorable Company of Eastwood High School Students Associated for the Preservation of the Wilderness and the Environment and the Promotion of Backpacking and Wilderness Camping, better known as the Packing Company, is a small but dedicated group of students.

A non-profit group, they paid for all their own excursions. Their annual trip was to Three Rivers. As service projects they worked to preserve the Chisos Basin of the Big Bend National Park.

T - T - T - R - O - O - P - P - P - E - R - S, T - R - O - O - P - E - R - S, TROOPERS. YEAH TROOPERS! This chant along with the loud boomings of the drummers was the cue for seniors to go to the pep rally on Friday mornings. The ROTC Sponsor Corps marched down the halls before each pep rally in order to promote spirit among Eastwood students and signal anxious seniors.

Composed of all females, the sponsor corp marched and drilled just as the other drill teams. They marched in the New Years Day Parade, and on Military Night. The corp supported pep rallies and football games at home. At the home football games they supplied sandwiches to all the people working in the press box.

Military science is very important to the development of our countries military leaders today and tomorrow. Therefore, Sergeant Theodore Kittelsted and Sergeant Roberto Patino work to train those students enrolled in ROTC.

Discipline, military training and leadership are stressed as cadets learn to march and drill. They use or display these skills through Friday afternoon parade practices. Different drills and routines are perfected for performances on special occasions such as Military Night and other parades that involve many other schools both in and out of the YISD.

More to ROTC than just marching

Sgt. Roberto Patino lectures cadets Robert Wood, Ronald Higgins, Micheal Buendia, and Louie Shepard on the arts of marching, and standing at attention at a parade practice.

"Hup two, three, four! Hup two three, four! About face! Hup two, three, four," chanted members of ROTC during parade practice. Annually, cadets march in the review in February, which requires that they march and drill at least once a week if not more. Many drills must be mastered in a very short time.

Those enrolled in ROTC are taught skills that are useful in today's society. Examples of these skills include: first aid application, class leadership, and command.

Cadets study map reading, U.S. generals, and acts which help to establish ROTC in the United States.

Staff members standing at parade attention are: Charles Patterson, Blake Bourne, Andrew Hagan, Nicholas Sisk, Fred Graf, and David Akins.

'Excellence' captured by rifle squad

ROTC staff members are the backbone of the ROTC organization. These students write up tests, and practice teaching in the place of the instructors. Headquarters company trains and manages the other companies.

Everyone who participates in ROTC learns to handle and fire a rifle. The rifle squad has room for only ten people. There are certain requirements that have to be met by those students trying out for the squad. During the tryouts participants must fire a rifle for a high score. Those students accomplishing excellence are put on the rifle squad.

Matt Wimmer, George Jones, Maria Buendia, Ralph Guthrie, and William Wimmer make up the rifle squad. They practice stunts with their rifles.

Cadets attend Sun Carnival entertainment

The Reserve Officers Training Corp, ROTC, was established after World War I although a bill was passed for it in 1862. The main ROTC program is held in colleges and universities all over the United States. The purpose of the course available to boys and girls in high school is to acquaint them with the more formal, regular program. So really the course taught at Eastwood is a smaller version of the college one.

OEA members experience job training

OEA is a club under VOE. To be members of OEA, one must be a member of VOE, Vocational Office Education. OEA members are involved in many service jobs to help out the office workers and the counselors. Filing, printing, and operating office machines are a few of the clerical chores in which members assist. Receiving experience in job training is the main benefit of participating in OEA.

As a service project for the year, OEA members printed up the student directory and also participated in a community project where they worked for the Salvation Army. The members participated in state and national OEA programs. In the spring, OEA has an employer-employee banquet where awards are presented to the members of the vocational clubs.

OEA sponsor Mrs. Jean Hawkins helps Pam Stallings with some of her paper work during class.

Trying to finish up her work, OEA member Nita Montgomery uses an adding machine to assist her.

Senior Karen Vinson types her work in OEA.

Virginia Stephens uses the printing machine.

As a part of the job training in OEA, member Marcy Gutierrez types while she listens to dictation.

gomery, Frances Zermeno, and Mrs. Jean Hawkins. THIRD ROW: Karen Vinson, Rose Eiden, Sheri Chandler, Pam Stallings, and Jeannine

Rosprin. FOURTH ROW: Christine Artalejo, Denise Ziemski, Genia Davis, and Joyce Vander Meulen.

FHA members entertain Miss El Paso at dinner

Becky Bourland tries desperately to stick the pin in her material and not in her finger.

"Glitter, glitter, glitter! I'm sick of glitter. If I never see any more glitter it'll be too soon." This was a constant comment overheard when going past any of the homemaking rooms during the very hectic week of Homecoming.

The Future Homemakers of America were busy making garters for girls to give to their favorite guy. This was only one of their money-making projects. They also sold cookbooks and sponsored the cake-walk and the fishing booth at the Halloween carnival.

FHA members had several socials this year. They had skating parties, bowling parties, hayrides, and even a Christmas party. They also had a family outing for the families and members to meet and get to know each other. To top off a very active year they had a dinner with Miss Aundie Evers, this year's Miss El Paso.

FHA members are: FIRST ROW: Barbara Doty, Michele Gonzales, Jeanette Krimball, and Patty Garcia. SECOND ROW: Terry Herrera, Ava Leger, Shirley Riggs, Debbie Aldrich, Karen Crowley, Martha Ruiz, Laura Cumming, Gyde Carr, Janet Hammott, Patty Lumpkin, and Michele McKoy. THIRD ROW: Irma Rodriguez, Debbie Burgess, Wendy Hanft, Kathy Lehmon, Debra Hoefs, Suzie Jenschke, Robin Wright, Gerry Martinez, Karen Roberts, Margie Mias, Debbie Hall, and Fredia Bone. FOURTH ROW: Monica Brooks, Patty Lewis, Pat Silva,

New image awakens striving interest in FHA

In decorating, officers Martha Ruiz, Karen Crowley, and Carolyn Eggermeyer create flowers.

Charene Britain studies child development.

"Are boys really allowed to belong to FHA this year?" Future homemakers of America have a new image to uphold. Giving boys the chance to participate in the club is only a part of this change.

FHA is more than just a club for sewing and cooking, it's a group of concerned, hard-working people. As a project, the members offer their assistance to orphanages and day care centers around the city. Before working in these places, students are taught a course in child development and behavior.

These improvements show that FHA is a club that can change with the times. This new image has sparked an astounding interest in FHA which will continue to grow.

HERO group courageously attacks jobs

Boys and girls alike can be HERO's. With today's economic situation, part time work is scarce. Therefore, students must research every opportunity. HERO, a student work program, enables high school students to hold part time jobs during school.

Members of the club sponsor a booth at the Halloween carnival where they show clips of old films. Their service projects are mostly directed towards the various places that hire HERO students. A Christmas party is given for the children of the Kiddie Korner Nursery.

Towards the end of the year a banquet is held for employers and employees. Other HERO organizations from surrounding schools are invited to attend the affair.

Fairbanks, Linda Achim, Debbie Price, Suzy Sargent, and Mrs. Billye Freeland. FOURTH ROW: Regina Boyle, Roy Beatrice, John Klein, and LeeAnn Charske.

TALA travel occupies big part of year

TALA really went places this year. Starting in October, TALA members competed against other schools in a district convention. Activities at the convention included going to puppet shows and listening to speakers. Field trips included a state convention where members vied for Mr. and Miss TALA. Members also visited New Mexico State University.

TALA sponsored the paperback book sales and also sold suckers. Members served refreshments at librarian meetings and also to new teachers.

Senior Jamie Durham cuts paper in preparation for the overdue books and library pass slips.

Darancon, Donna Roberts, Andrew Baker, Charles Patterson. THIRD ROW: Tina Bishop, Stephanie Shanks, Janet Oefeicin, Darla Guzman, Jerry Elliott. FOURTH ROW: Roly

Garza, Bea Diaz, Laura Steen, Adrienne Guidry, Pam Terarzas, Robin Wright, Diana Jacques, Peter Carhart.

Forensic league competes for state title

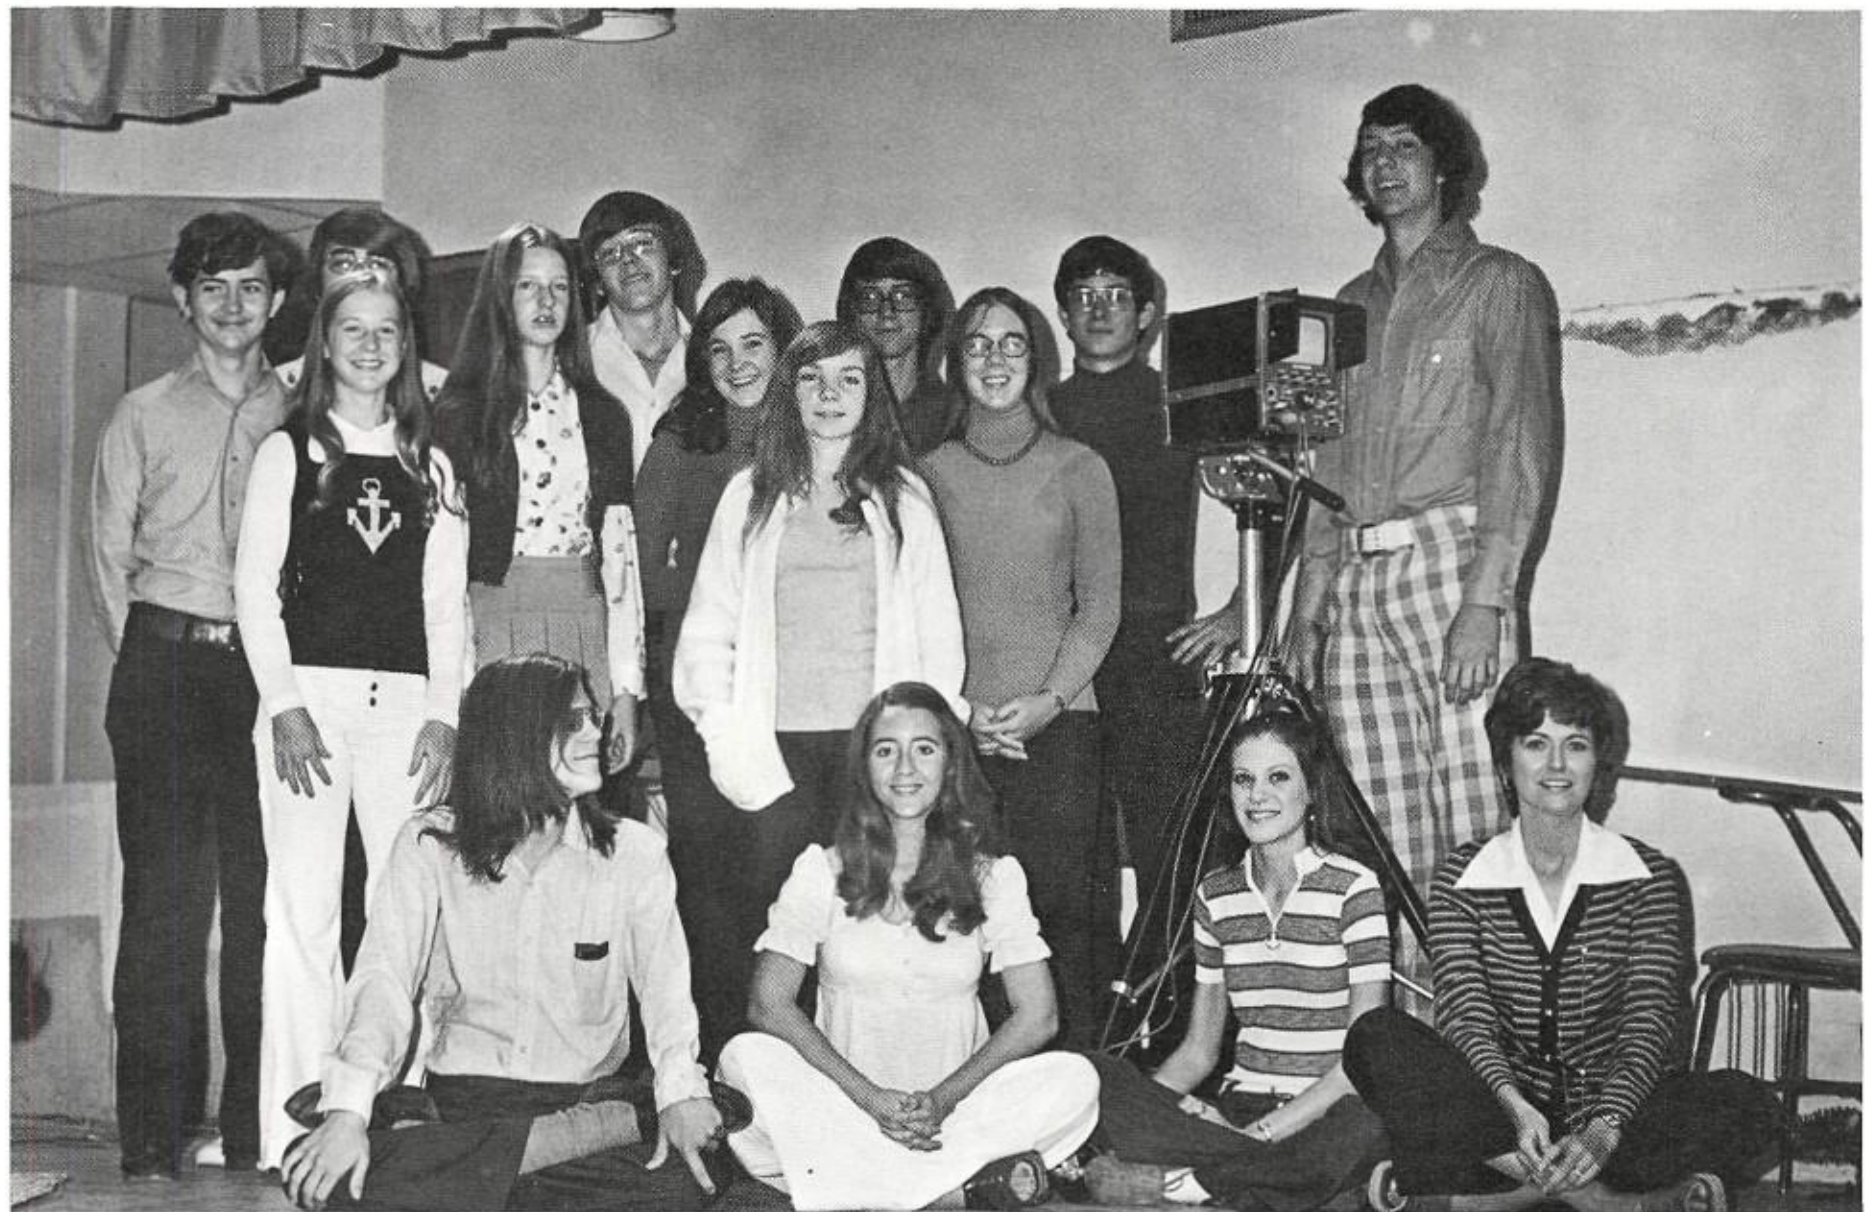

Juniors Mark Simms and Phillip Bland discuss debate techniques for an upcoming tournament.

"Get off my back!" "What do you mean give my speech, you just assigned it to me last week." These are the cries typical of an energetic group calling themselves the Eastwood Forensic League.

Members compete against students from other schools, both local and out of town. The object is to take the district title and then proceed to the state competition. Anyone who competes in a tournament is eligible for membership in EFL.

Members of EFL also take part in many school activities as well. A horror film was shown as EFL's contribution to the Halloween Carnival. EFL also conducted the sale of candy canes at Christmas.

Members of EFL are: FIRST ROW: Thomas Ross, Gina Jerome, Sandy Warren, and Mrs. Sande Fitzhugh. SECOND ROW: Cathy Black,

Hendrick, Kurt Henson, Mark Simms, Paul Tapp, Joe Roscoe, and Phillip Bland.

VOE members type student directory

The Vocational Office Education provides a chance for students who want to learn office work. In class they learn to operate adding machines, calculators, and copy machines.

VOE is responsible for the typing of the pages of the Garrison, the student directory. At the Halloween carnival VOE sold confetti eggs and during homecoming they sold links for the spirit chain. Students also compete in office skill contests during the year. Members also participated in an employer-employee banquet.

Dora Lara checks a word spelling in her book.

While competing in a district VOE contest, Marcy Gutierrez carefully types a business letter.

Montgomery, Virginia Becerra, Marcy Gutierrez, Francis Zermeno, Darlene Belisle, Becky Chavira, Coyne Schafer, and Laura Polk.

VICA students promote leadership through work

Several ICT students manage the business of the Trooper Exchange, the high school supply store.

VICA, Vocational Industrial Clubs of America is an organization which promotes leadership. Members of VICA work at various jobs in the community.

VICA students also participate in school activities. A gaming booth was their contribution to the Halloween carnival festivities. VICA members "adopted" a family at Christmas and gave them a tree, dinner, and gifts. With the aid of sponsor Bill Jolley, the club runs the Trooper Exchange, a small store that sells school supplies during the day.

Fund raising was in the form of raffles and the sale of Looney Tune characters. VICA, however, is not all fun and games. Students participate in local, state, and national competition with other students of the same job area. Eastwood hosted this year's district contest which included all VICA clubs in the El Paso county area. An employer-employee banquet was held to honor the employers of this years VICA student employees.

Members of VICA are; FIRST ROW: Bruce Hackfeld, Stephanie Ballachey, Elaine Bailey, Jill Smith, Tommy Driggers, Laura Soto, Sharon Tinguely, SECOND ROW: Vic Kilstrom, Ted

Huizar, Peter Ohle, Danny Pharr, Frank Chavira, Shelley Neuville, Jay Beeson, Maria Villodas, Mr. Bill Jolley, Sponsor, THIRD ROW: Kenneth Reese, Danny Lane, Jimmy Lane, Greg

Grimm, Mike Brown, Don Wagner, Rick Joy, David Roach, Jimmy Hughes, Greg Collins, Irma Alvarado.

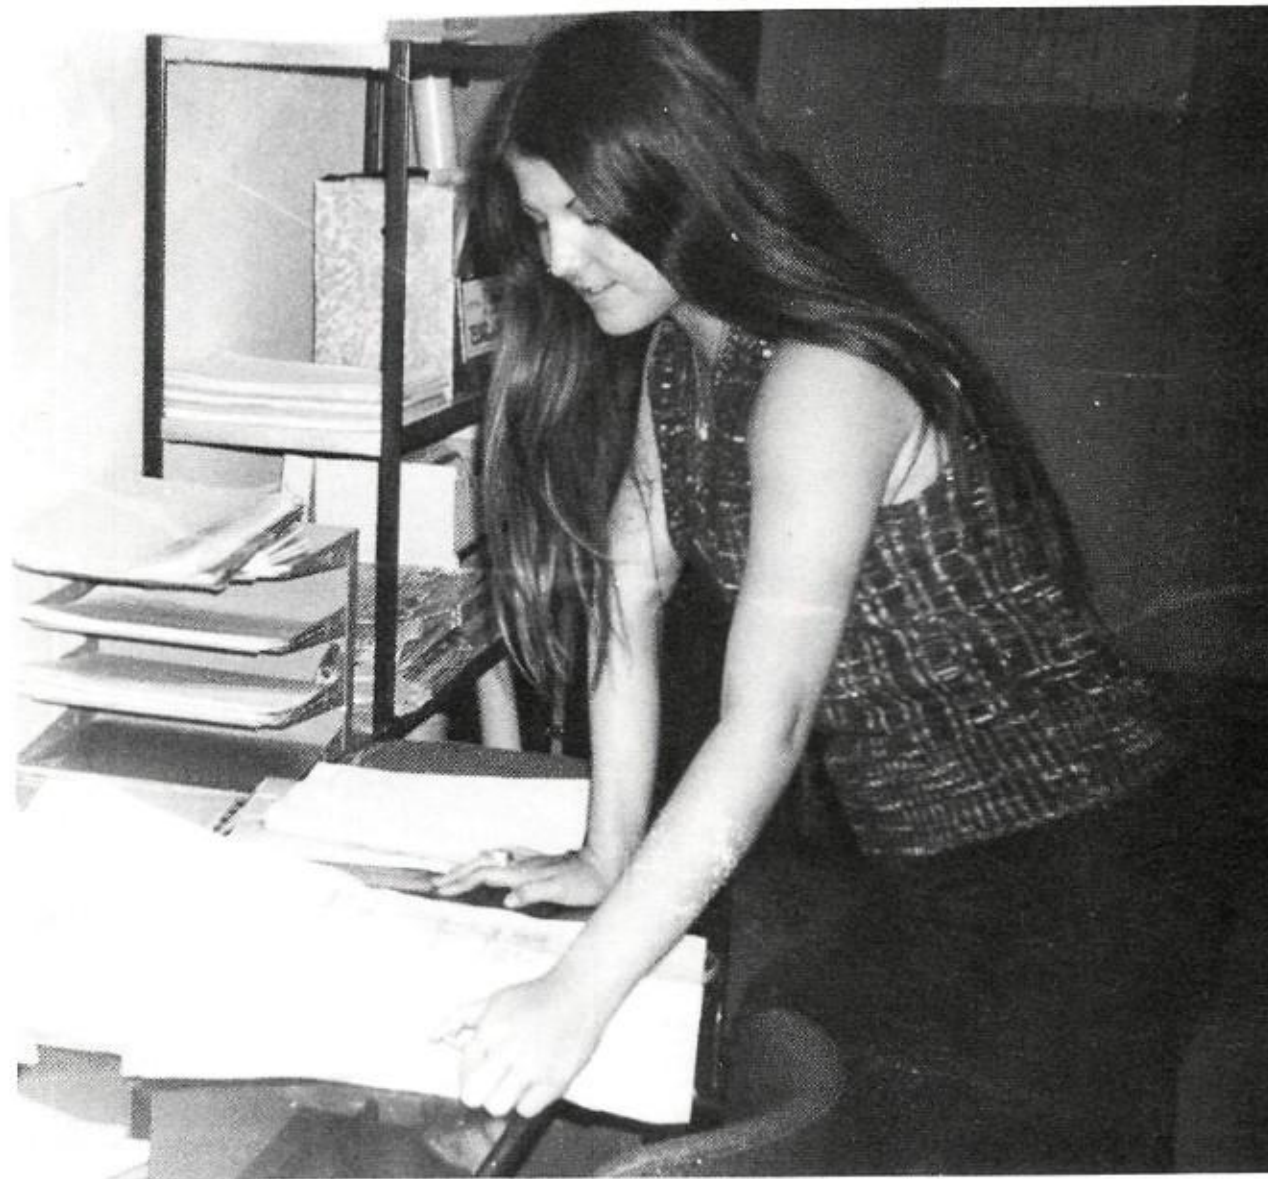

Gina Viescas enthusiastically displays her selling techniques to one of her employers.

Janet Lekowski works diligently to ready her counter for the oncoming traffic of customers.

Working efficiently, Tom Lewis sorts orders.

Finding time for relaxation, Rita Villareal takes a break to read a section of the paper.

DECA students learn useful business skills

Showing her skill at arranging merchandise, Jean Wisniewski sets out to do her work, finding special touches add pleasure to the job.

Kathy Turner discovers that fur coats are a popular article among customers this season.

Suckers? Sucker sales and a coke booth at the Halloween carnival were just some of the successful fund raising projects of DECA. Workshops and field trips were also included in DECA members' activities.

Throughout the year DECA members participated in contests with other schools. Sale demonstration, public speech and window displays are just a few categories that the contests are based on. Competitions are held locally and on a statewide level.

DECA finds businesses educational

DECA members see business in operation through field trips. Among places on their agenda are: El Paso Natural Gas Company, Safeway Warehouse, and Kesslers.

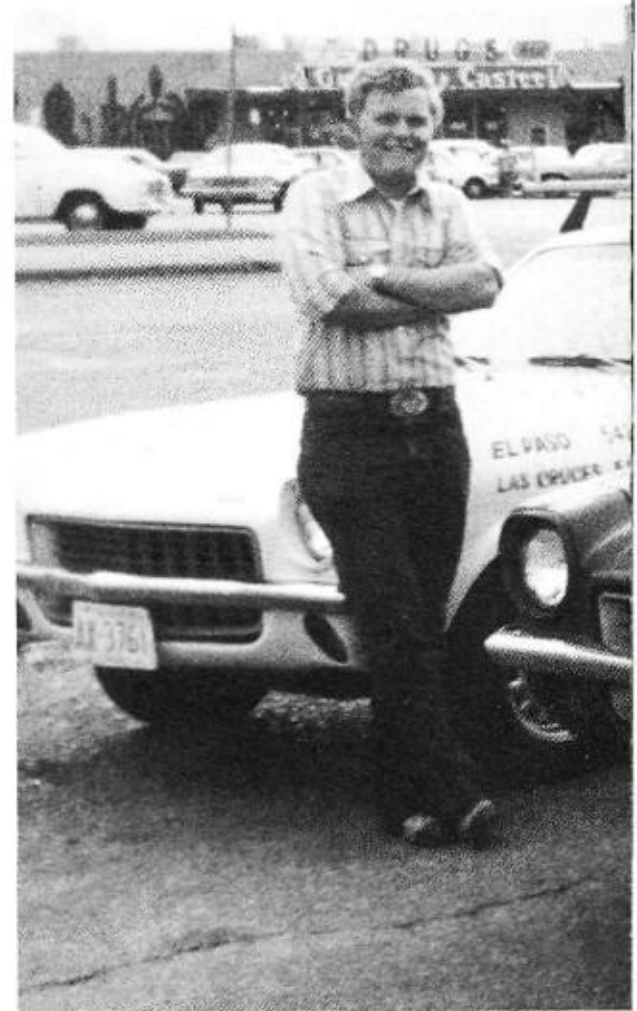

Contests are also important to DECA. These contests are held on local, area, and state levels. DECA members compete in three different contests with the first held on the local level at Eastwood. Winners from the local level go to the area contest and finally, if they are lucky, to state in San Antonio.

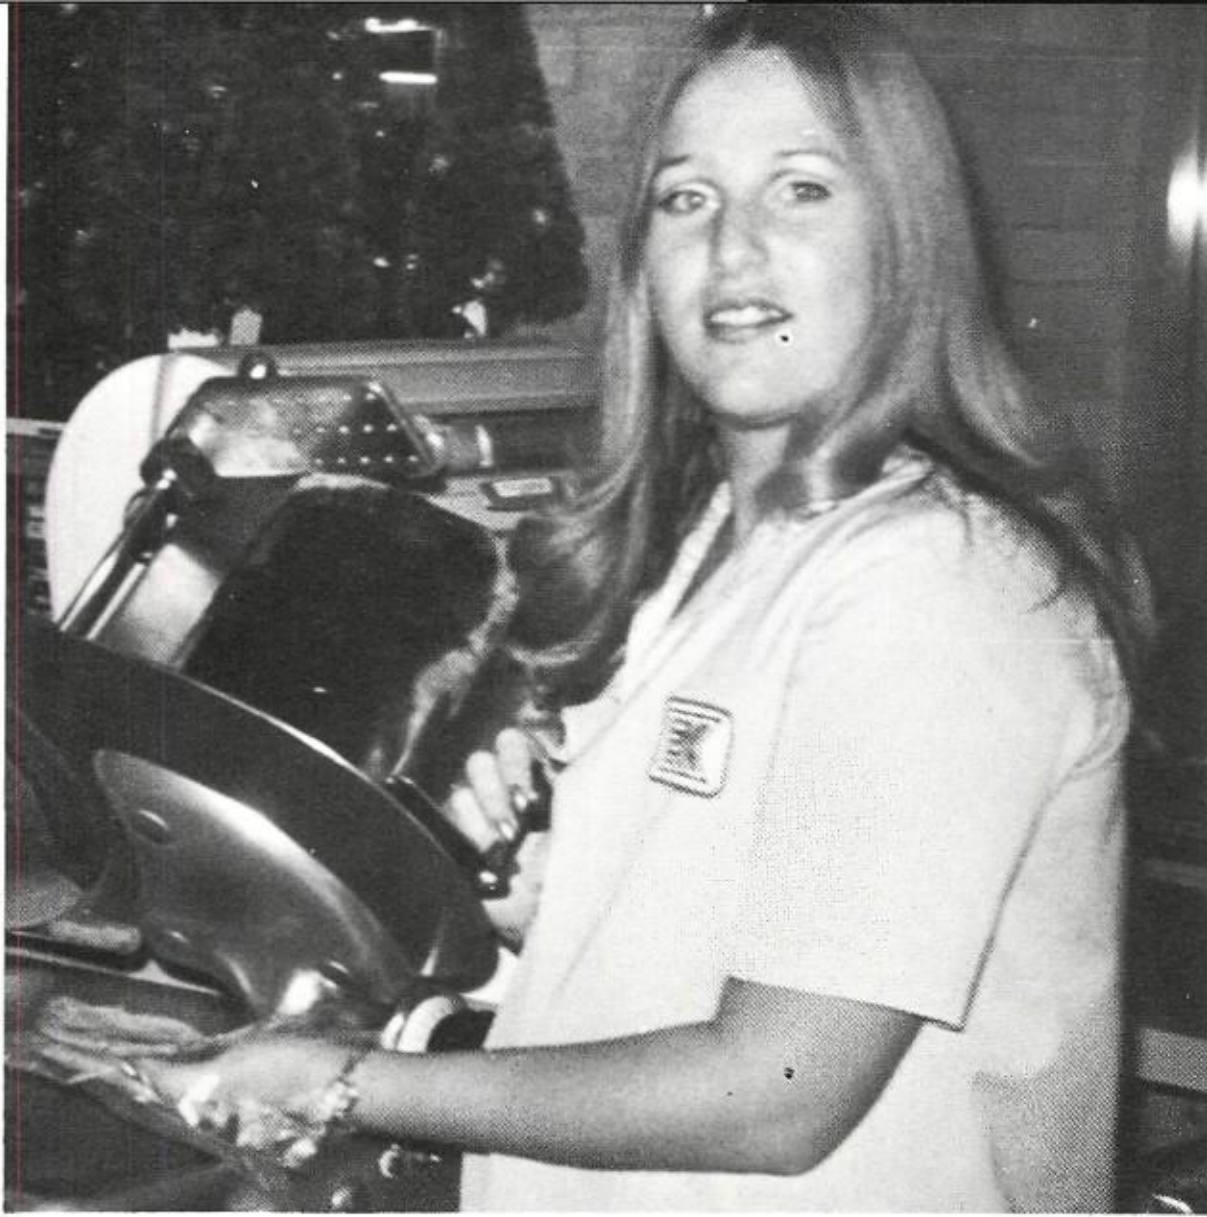

Tom Lewis, taking phone orders for gun parts, finds that managing a counter is an easy job.

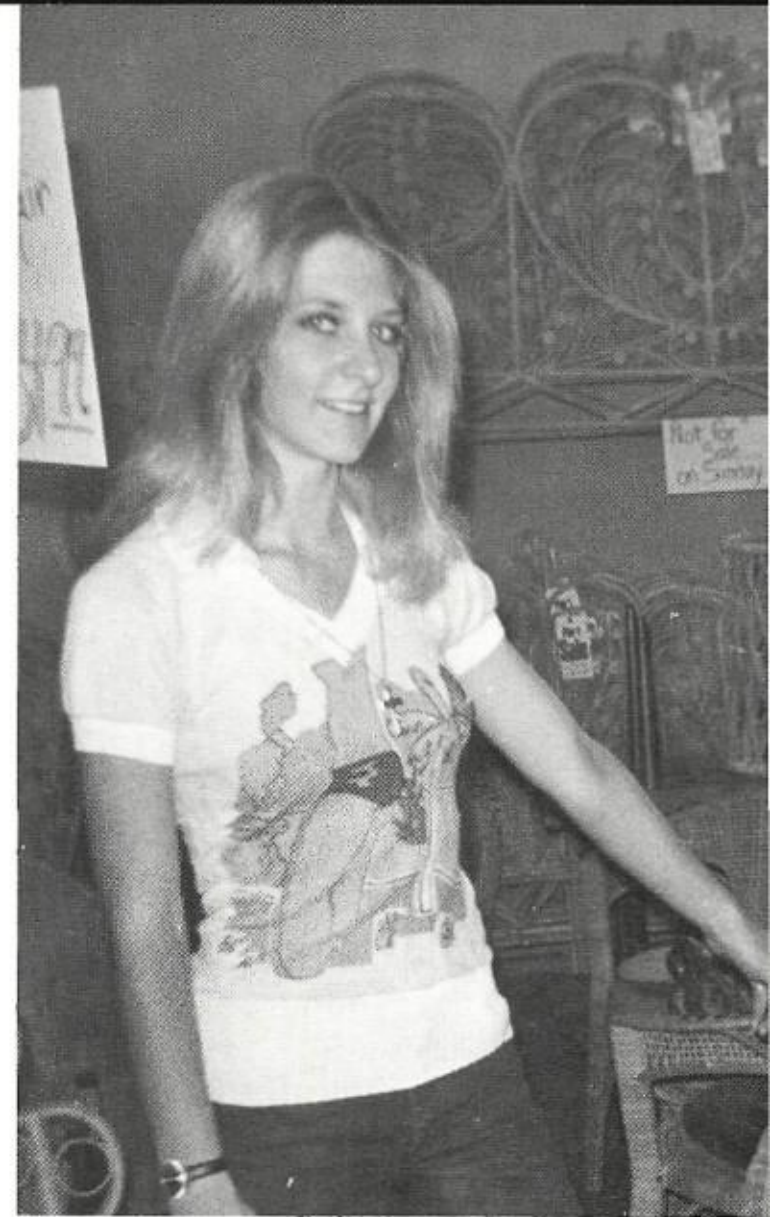

DECA members take a morning off to prepare for the Burning of the 'E' car and float contest.

Slicing meat behind the counter at K-Mart, Junior Pam Simunetti prepares sandwiches for sale.

Stacey Milam sells wicker furniture at Pier 1.

Eastwood High Cavalier members sing festive Christmas carols to a captive downtown audience on El Paso National Bank's staircase, one of their annual concerts during the Christmas season.

Joe Braeutigan and Greg Wayne, new members, learn the merits of sticking together.

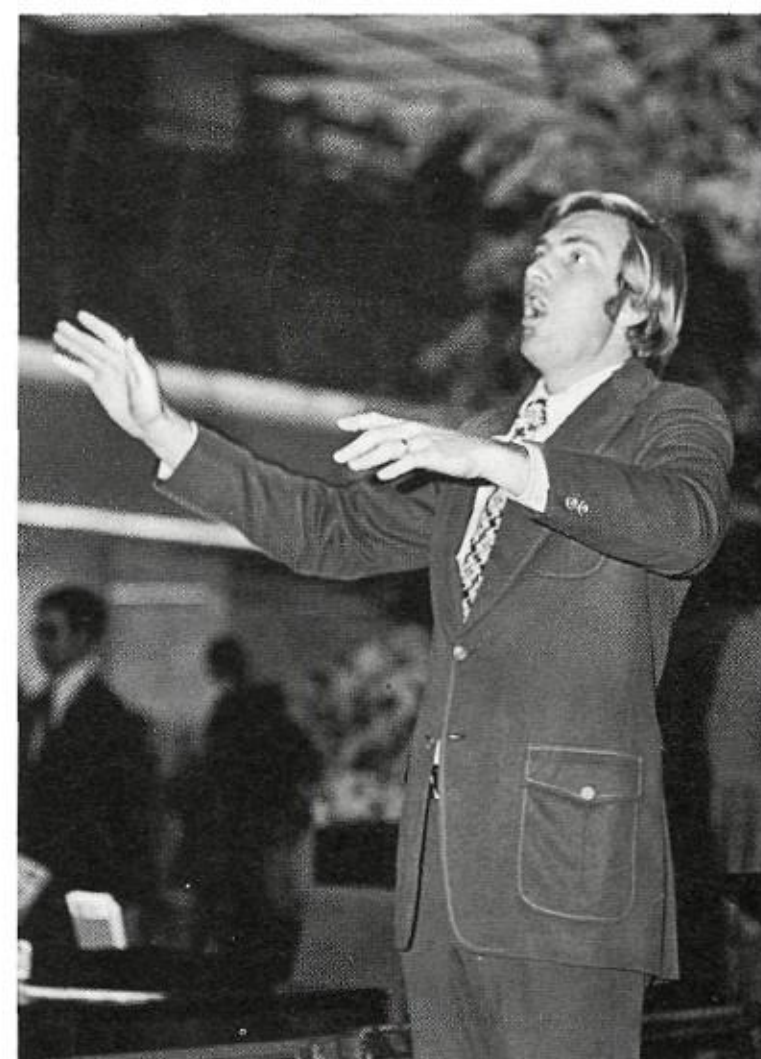

Sir Dinadin and Mordred challenge Sir Lancelot while Sir Sagramore shows his obvious disinterest in the whole affair. Many Cavaliers sang in the presentation of the musical, Camelot.

To a Cavalier singing is a way of reaching out and touching other people's lives. This year under the new direction of Mr. Spencer Mulkey outreach was stressed even more. He sees the choir as a representative of the school to the community. To him outreach into the community is more important than selling things around the school.

However, it is not easy to finance the choral department without taking time off from the business of singing to peddle goods to finance outreach. This year along with selling popcorn the Cavaliers tried to combine the moneymaking and singing by singing at places such as Rhodes and McDonalds who pay for the performance.

Cavaliers sang, besides school concerts, at Morningside Mall, Cielo Vista Mall, Bassett, El Paso National Bank and Amarillo.

Cavaliers reach out and touch with singing

Steve Casillas, Cavalier president, sells the magic of balloons on Homecoming night.

Worried to pieces, Cavalier member Amy Campbell watches a purely imaginary joust.

Singing groups branch out from Cavaliers

Members of Advanced girls choir are: FIRST ROW: Christi Welch, Veronica Rhodes, Kathy Schwartz, Carol Quales, Rowena Porter, Lucy

Gwen, Leisha Lawson, Marie Cataldi, Lily Gandara, SECOND ROW: Stacey Elrod, Betty Bolton, Irma Martinez, Donna Duggan, Janna

Watts, Sherri Norris, Kelly Cathcart, Carol Chesnutt, Christi Lund, B.J. De Weerd.

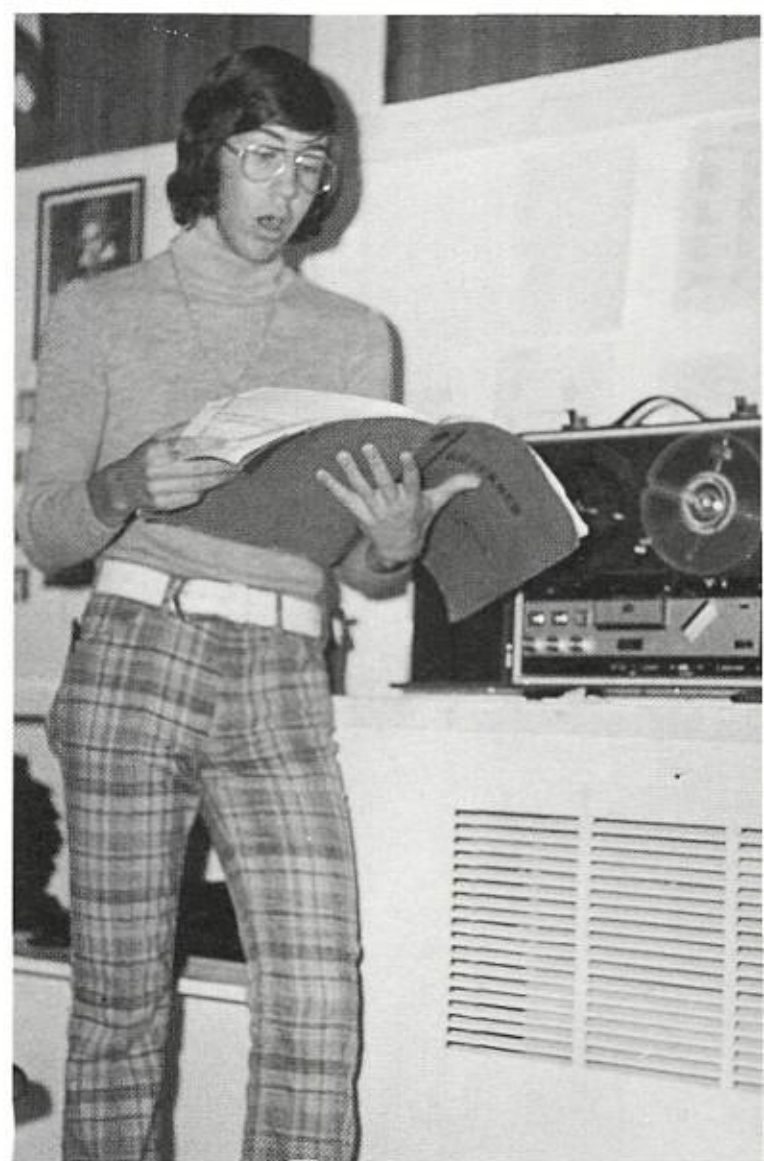

Sextet members are: Carrie Moore, Rhonda Clonts, Barbi Rice, Kathy Young, Nancy Yee and Debbie Lindsey. Sextet is an extracurricular girls singing group whose members are auditioned.

Cavaliers has many arms or branches that reach out and include areas not covered in choir every day at school. Part of the choral program, yet separate from the choir, are several singing ensembles.

The traditional ensembles who sing all over town are Madrigals, Sextet and the Barbershop Quartet. As a new dimension in ensembles the Advanced Girls' choir became a performing group. These four groups received superior ratings at the Ysleta solo and ensemble contest.

Also extracurricular for Cavaliers was participation in the school's production of Camelot. Combining acting and singing some Cavaliers appeared onstage. The rest were members of the pit chorus directed by Mr. Spencer Mulkey. The Cavaliers who acted did so voluntarily just for the fun of being in the musical. It was a lot of hard work and effort involving endless rehearsals.

All Region Choir member Mark Horner practices contest music with a tape recorder.

King's Men challenge other Chess Clubs

Caesar Asmis, Thomas Apodaca, David Crossmon, John Waterous, David Meeks, and Mike Pettibon. THIRD ROW: John Donnelly, Brian Kitchen, Ed Murphy, Richard Osburn, Frederick Welker, and Joel Howell.

"Checkmate" cried Thomas triumphantly. "Oh well, don't get a swelled head, it's only the fourth time you beat me," replied his opponent.

Remember good old Alice in Wonderland traveling through the looking glass into a fantasy land of red queens, white kings and talkative pawns? Well, at Eastwood some students have taken a more concrete view of the world of chess pursuing it as more of an intellectual awareness than Alice's imaginary awakening.

The King's Men challenge other clubs in the area to informal matches. Chess club members from all over El Paso also meet for tournaments.

Joe Malidore and Thomas Apodaca engage in a game of chess during their lunch hour.

Black Awareness Week sparks debates

"Eastwood has a good student rapport between Blacks and Whites, especially compared to other El Paso schools," — Rodney Deloach, Black Awareness Week.

"No way! Eastwood is in a bad state compared to other El Paso schools. The problem is the lack of communication and understanding between the Black and White students. There are a growing number of Black students in classes and teachers don't know how to cope with them," — Lenore Caulton, Black Awareness Week.

Whatever the situation may be, the Eastwood Student Union sponsored the Black Awareness Week to talk out just these kinds of views. The week began with a day of forum discussions and speakers and ended with an assembly including a demonstration of Black dance, music, and the reading of Martin Luther Kings famous "I Have A Dream".

Tammy August, Steve Eurich, and Sonja Stemsley prepare for the 1975 Black history show.

Eastwood Student Union members are: FRONT ROW: Deborah Slaughter, Elizabeth Benford, Jackie Poole, Sonja Stemsley, Dana Pittard, Sarah Williams, Carole Breame, and

Michael Carter. SECOND ROW: Rowena Porter, Althea Hawkins, Crystal Hoggard, Veronica Rhodes, Jill Gladden, Melinda Mora, Melanie Matthews, and Sandra Washington.

THIRD ROW: Tommy Carter, Muriel Cutler, Fran Ford, Clara Jefferson, Marc Carter, Kim Hicks, and Tammy August.

Horses, cows and those kinds of things are common everyday stuff for Rodeo Club members. Most members have a horse of their own and join because of their interest in horses. Many of them participated in the annual El Paso rodeo and stock show.

This year the big project was the co-sponsoring of a rodeo for high school kids with Ysleta High. This gave rodeo club members all over the city a chance to show their skills.

Helping the school, Rodeo Club members glued the seats in the stadium back together. They also, as a service, volunteered to sandblast the "B" off of the "E" on the stadium seats. In all, Rodeo Club members are an active part of the school body.

Rodeo club members Larry Gholsen and Bud Moore exhibit horses in the rodeo parade.

Rodeo Club co-sponsors district rodeo

Beginners, experts learn new skiing skills

Front flips, spread eagles, gelandays, helicopters, mule kicks, daffies, iron crosses, royal christies, tipstands, shoulder rolls, wheelies and other freestyle stunts were tried out by even the least experienced skiers in the club.

"Skiing is a very creative experience. Up there in the mountains among the snow with the cold wind blowing-its incredibly beautiful. And the skiing, well the skiing is the closest thing to flight I've ever experienced," said skier Mark O'Quinn.

The main trip of the year was to Sierra Blanca, during the four day quarter break. The beginners took to one slope and the experts to another slope.

This trip was financed by selling license plate frames carrying the inscription "Troopers and Eastwood High School."

Junior Roxanne Lee, while on Sierra Blanca's slopes, takes time out to tighten her boot.

Publications staffs hustle to the tune of typewriters

"Sounds like a winner," is the phrase that seems to sum up Eastwood's publications this year, and the staffs are working hard to make it the truth.

In Salute, frantic typewriters tap to the tune of deadlines. Section heads fly about the room, in search of photographers or copy sheets or rulers. Layout sheets lay cluttered on tabletops, while the babble of raised voices commands above them.

Controversy raged on Sabre as it kept the previous policy of informing the students of key issues. Their primary goal this year was to encourage the student body to think for themselves. Sabre raised pertinent questions about school policy, local issues, and national happenings. All of these combined to make Sabre an interesting paper to read, and a credit to the intellectual level of Eastwood.

Honesty was the key word in the Reveille room this year. The staff built the magazine around true experience and the reality of life, because truth, the staff felt, is the way to achieve art.

Salute editor Susan Cutts finds a rare moment to relax and rehash the day's occurrences.

Behind the darkroom door, Adolf Ruiz works hard to meet the huge demand for pictures.

Tim Currie and Martha Monticone, of Sabre, jot down newsworthy items for the paper.

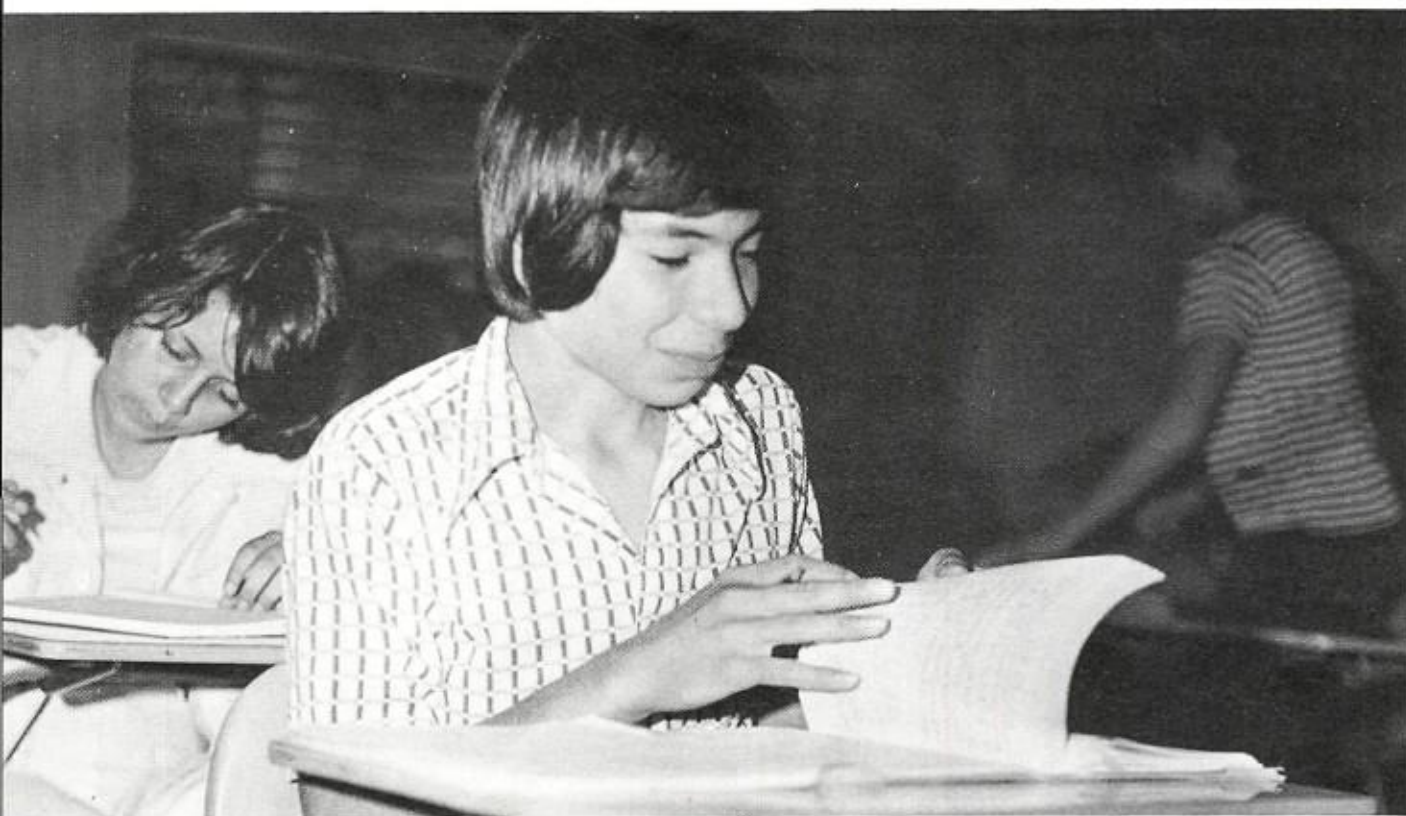

Hector Moreno and Steffen Englehardt take time out for some quiet reading.

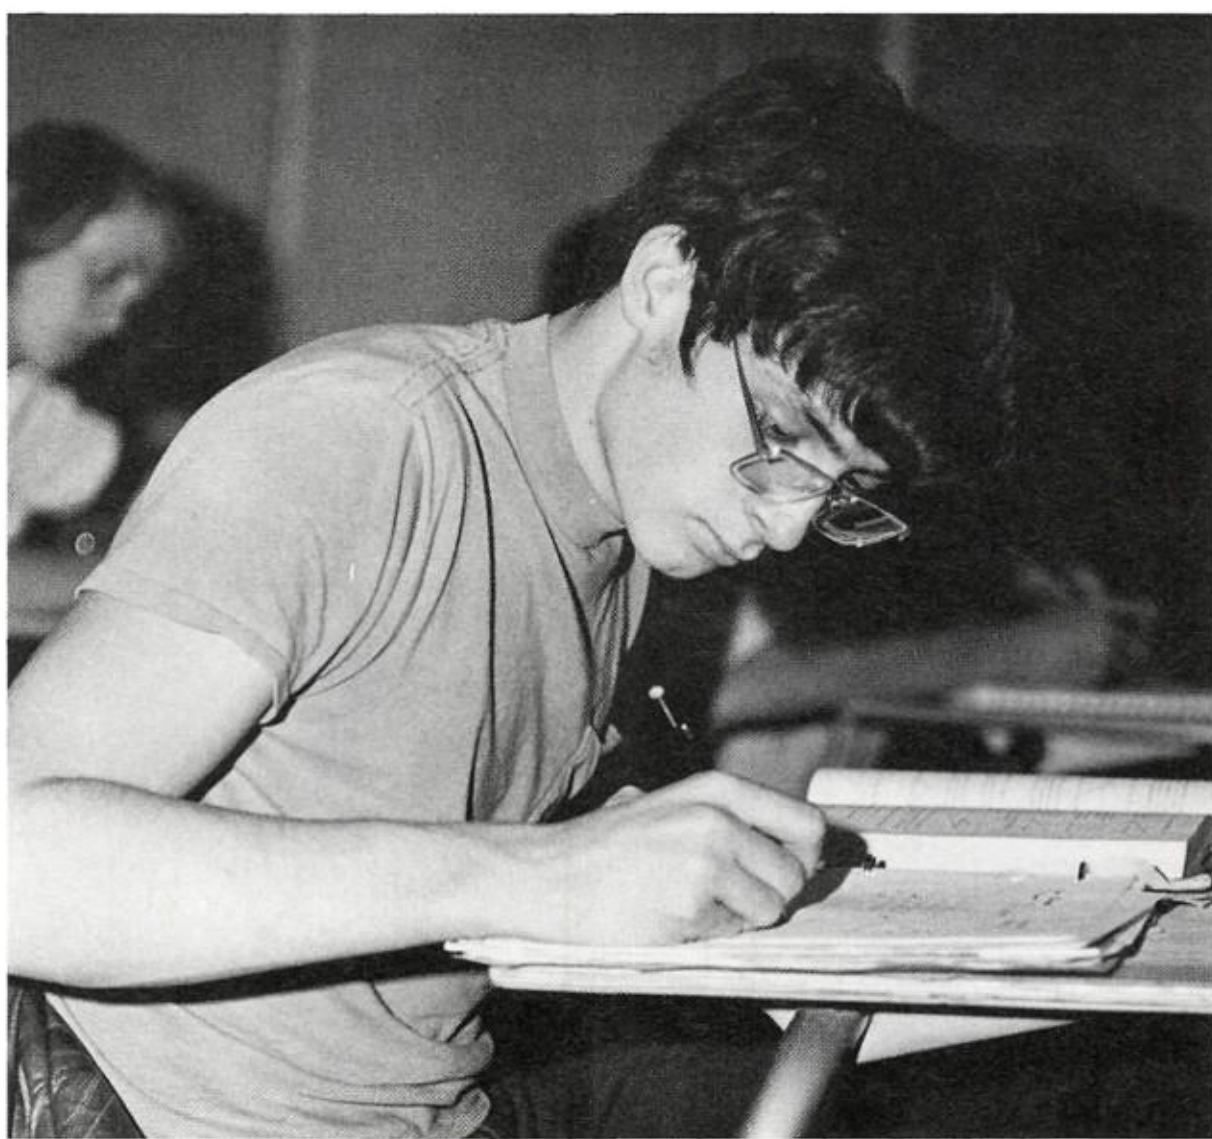

Mrs. Sandy Messer, the new publications adviser for Salute and Sabre this year, reviews an article in the Sabre with Lynn Walker.

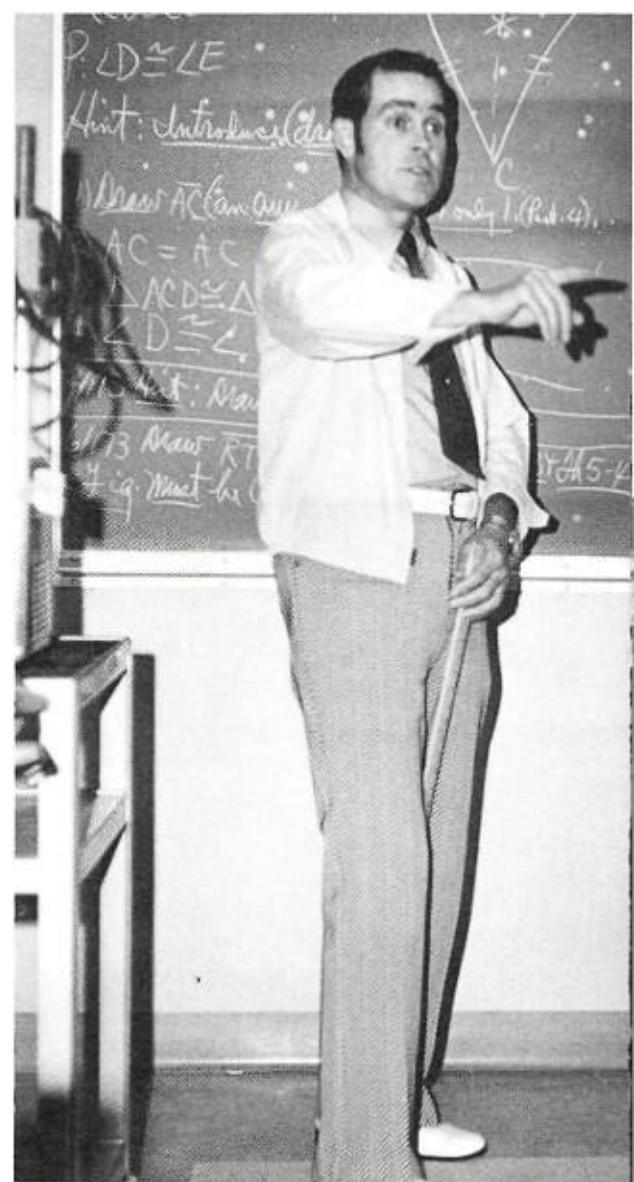

Math games ignite challenging interest

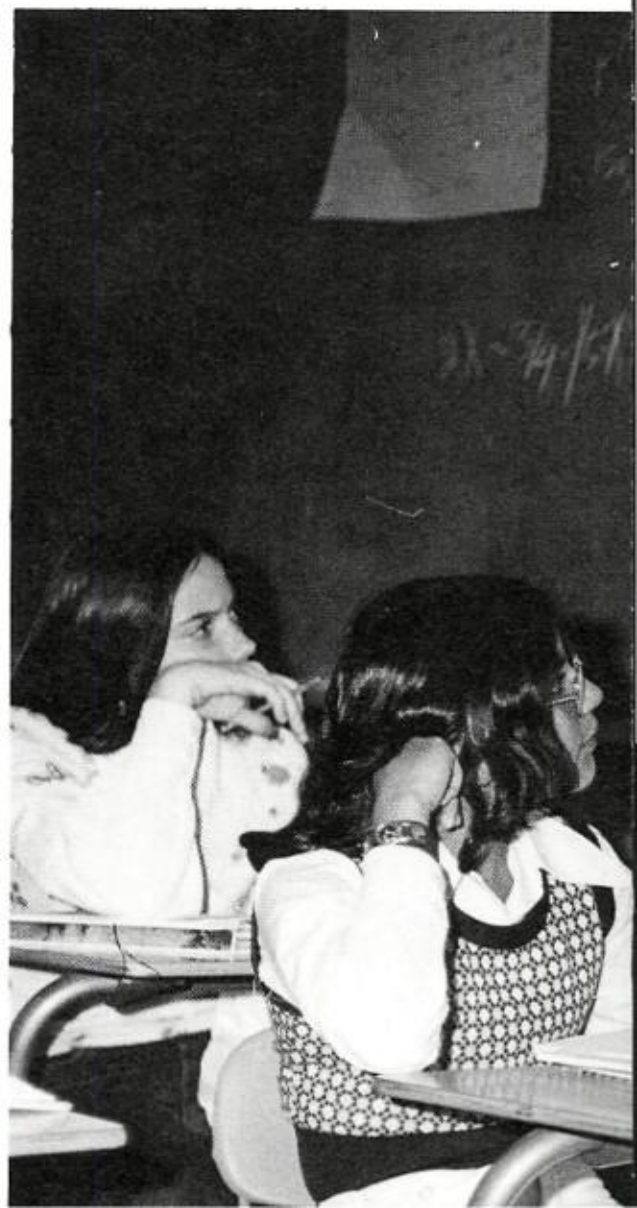

Arthus Lopez copies the answers in the back of the book as Lourdes Gomez works quietly.

Joe Roscoe intently concentrates on finishing his workbook before a weekly test is given.

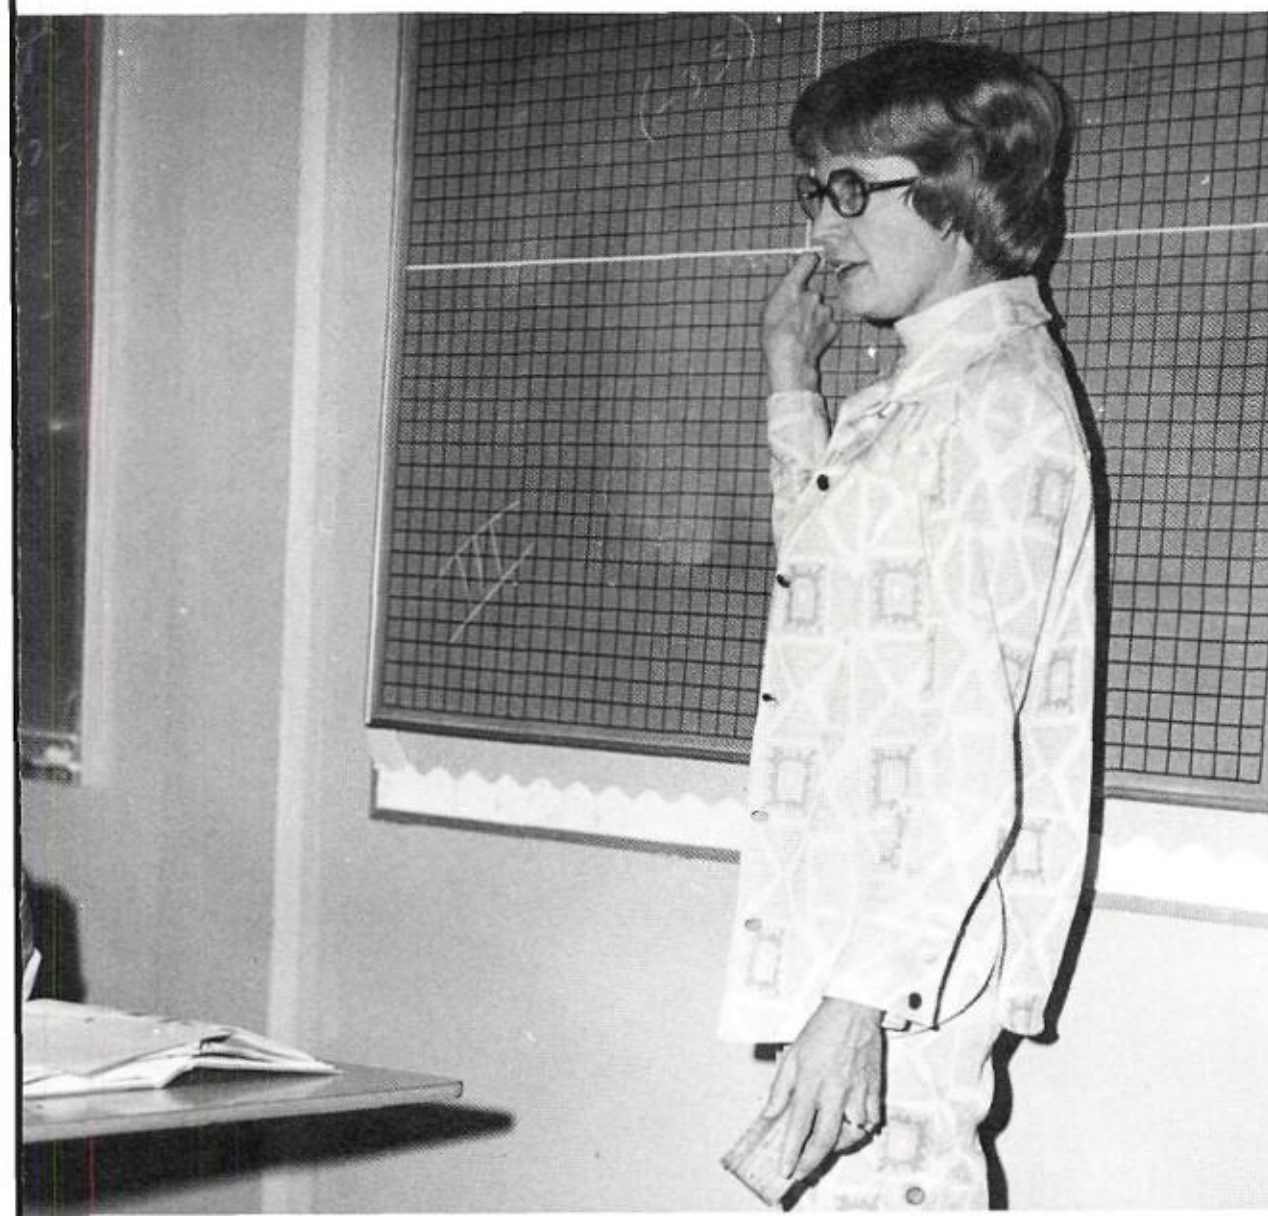

Mr. Arnold exhibits limitless patience as he discusses a difficult geometry problem.

Karl Knapper appears to be extremely confused and puzzled as Mr. William Anderson attempts to explain a geometric proof one more time.

Freshmen Jana Watts and Mag Villarreal patiently study Mrs. Thelma Cantrell's algebra diagram.

"Russian roulette? What does that have to do with math?" Russian roulette is a number game that decides which student is to answer the next homework problem. This is one of many teaching techniques used to make math a more interesting challenge for the student.

Another method used to ignite interest is that of "stumping the teacher". If a student is able to find or correct a teacher's mistake or ask a difficult question, extra credit is his reward. These games help sift fun into a learning situation.

Some students often consider math to be their most dreaded class. Through these various methods of teaching, the math staff has replaced this traditional dread with challenging enthusiasm. Sparked by imaginative games and creative work, this enthusiasm is the key to learning.

Scrabble, films add to language study

"Bonjour." French military attache Colonel Roger Le Dean from the French Consul in Houston showed films to the advanced classes who also received books and brochures from the Consul. Mrs. Margie Westfall has her French II classes experimenting with regional cooking. "Auvioure." As they say in France.

"Guten tag." Mr. Colin Flannigan teaches German I through IV. In addition to the usual classwork, films from the German Consultate are seen. German III and IV classes are also studying German Literature and culture as part of a new language program. "Auf Wiedersehen."

"Bonus dies." Latin students are under a new teacher who likes to play Latin Scrabble. During the Latin Festival in March, Miss Elizondo is having each student enter a Latin project. "Valete."

"Hola." Spanish I and II spend a great deal of time conjugating verbs. Mexican Bingo called Loteria and Spanish culture days in which the students bring different foods add variety to the students' days. Spanish III and IV are making their annual trips to Juarez and Chihuahua this year. "Adios."

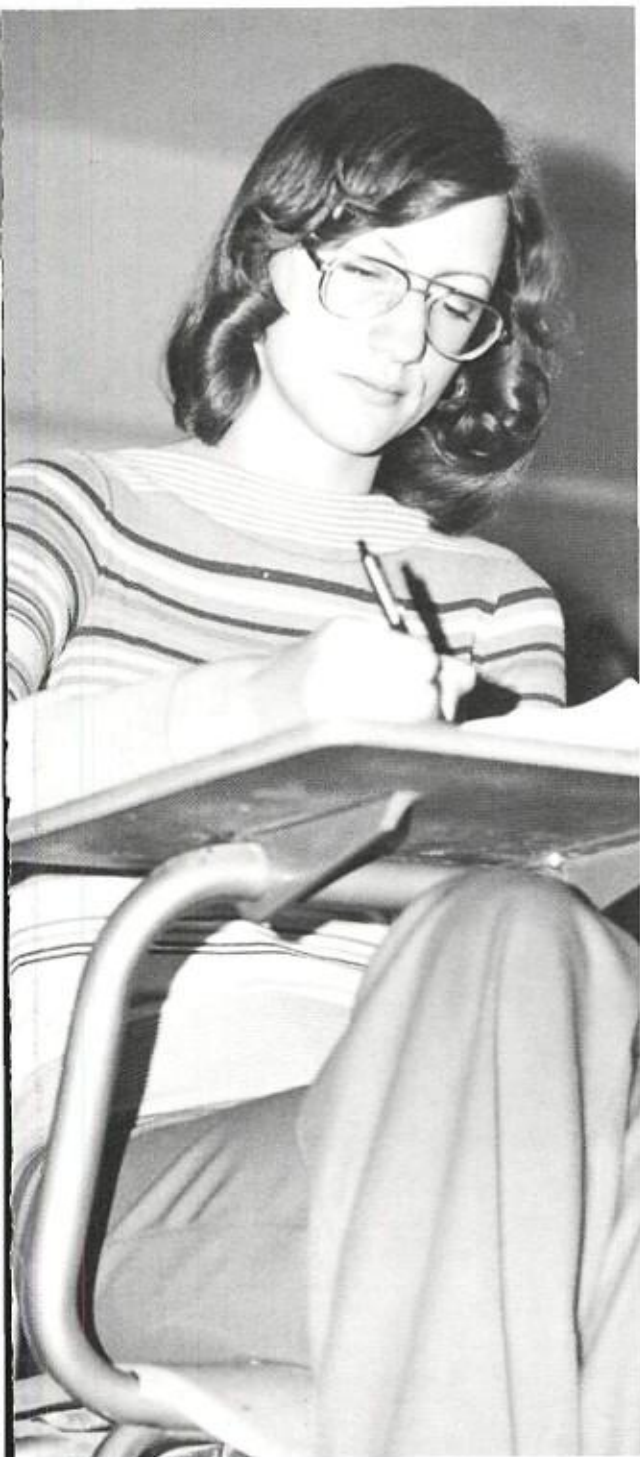

Tim Aguilar snickers over a peculiar question he encountered in a Spanish II class. Doing labs was only one of many things taught this year.

Lynn Anderson studies for a French test.

Clarence Reeves takes time to relax and listen to his Spanish teacher at the same time.

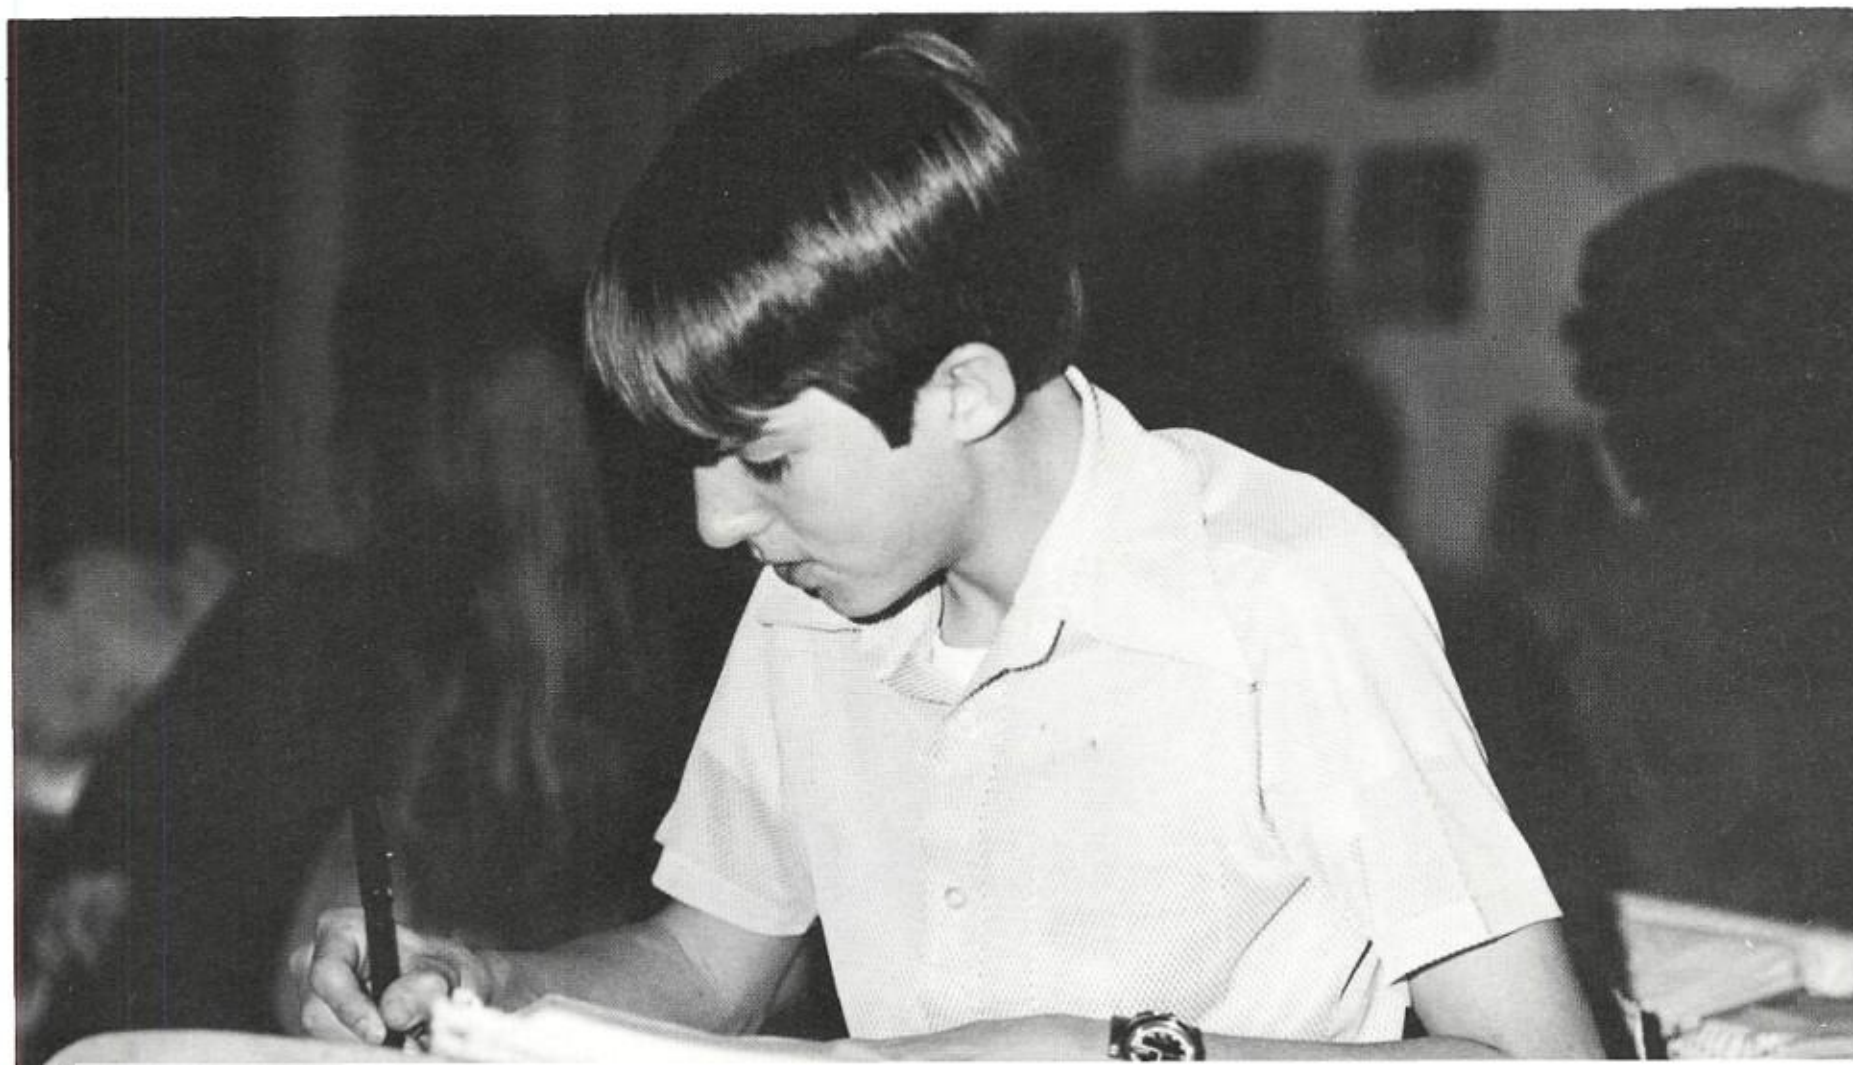

Dianne Meister works on conjugating verbs.

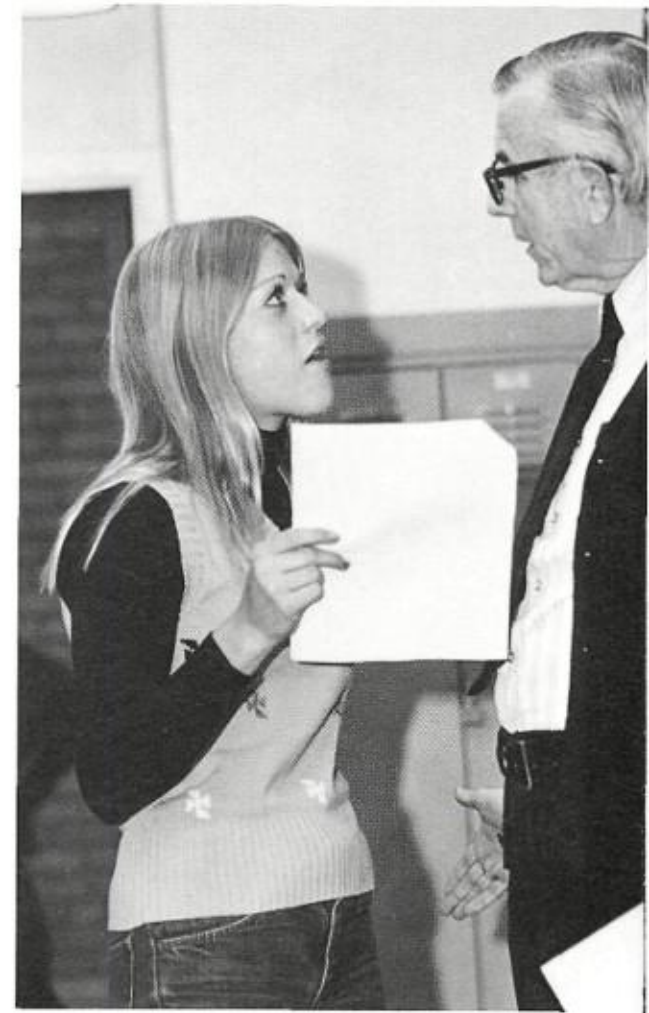

German students Wayne Mullins, Jim McDonald, and Bertram Asmis cultivate their grape vines.

Grant Trevithick patiently works out the complications in a translation from Latin to English during class. The students also play Latin Scrabble.

Rosalyn Glazebrook listens attentively while her history teacher lectures on the past.

Nancy O'Quinn seeks advice from Mr. Kane.

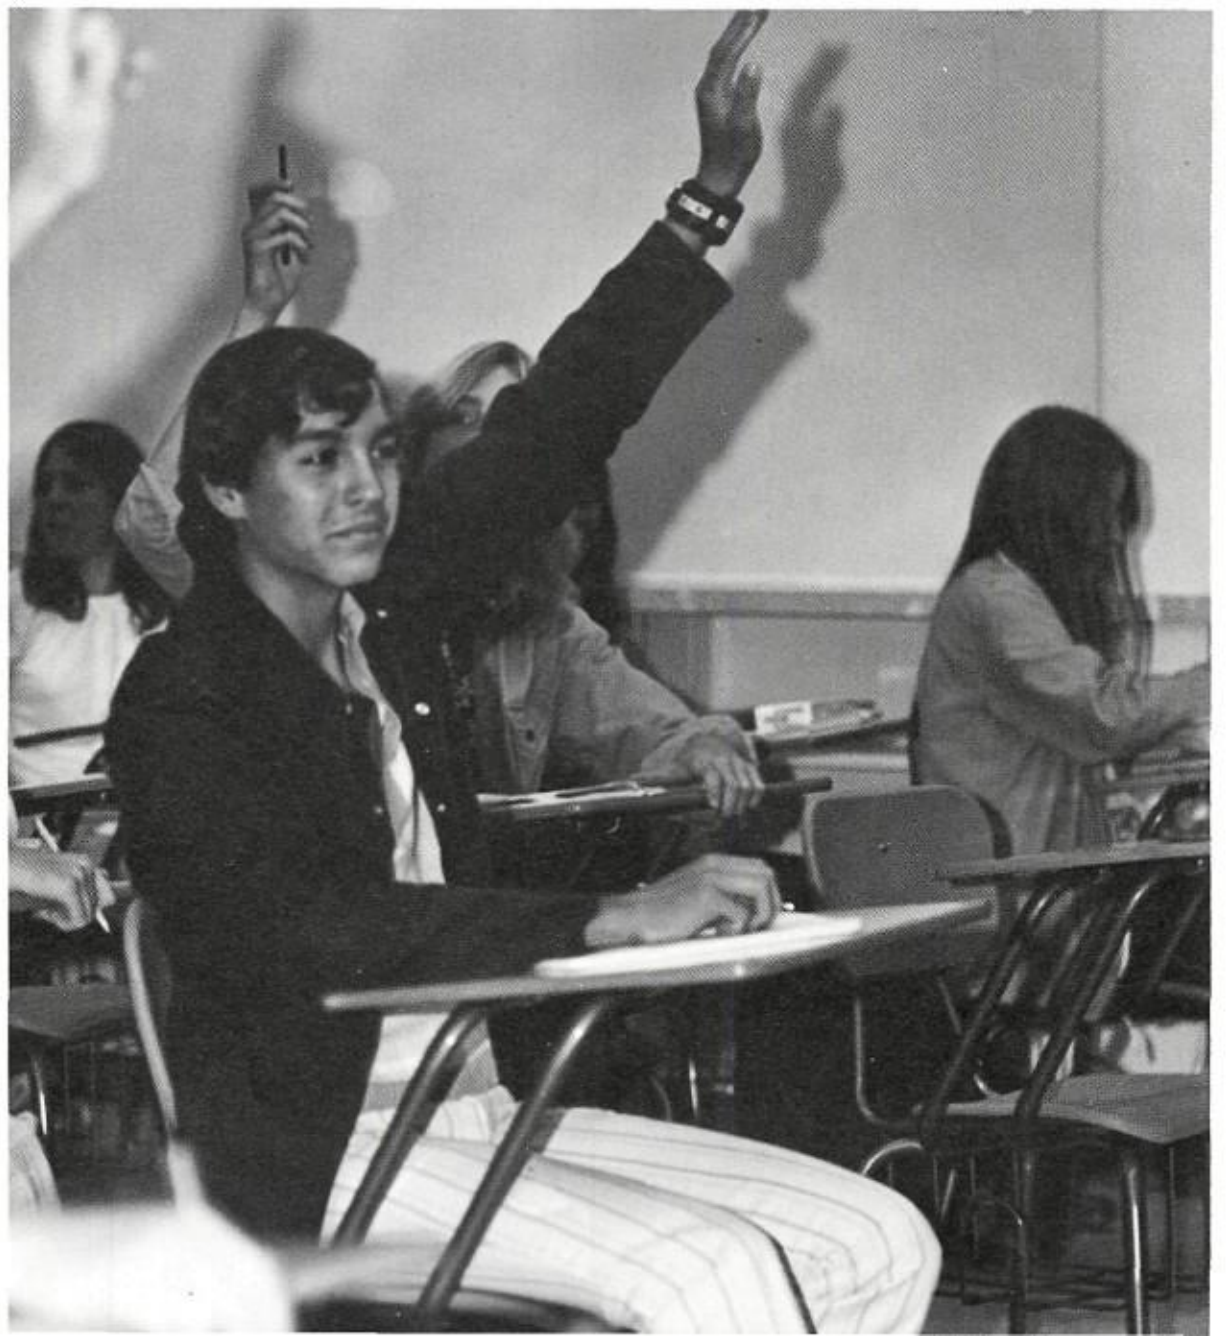

History warns youth of future problems

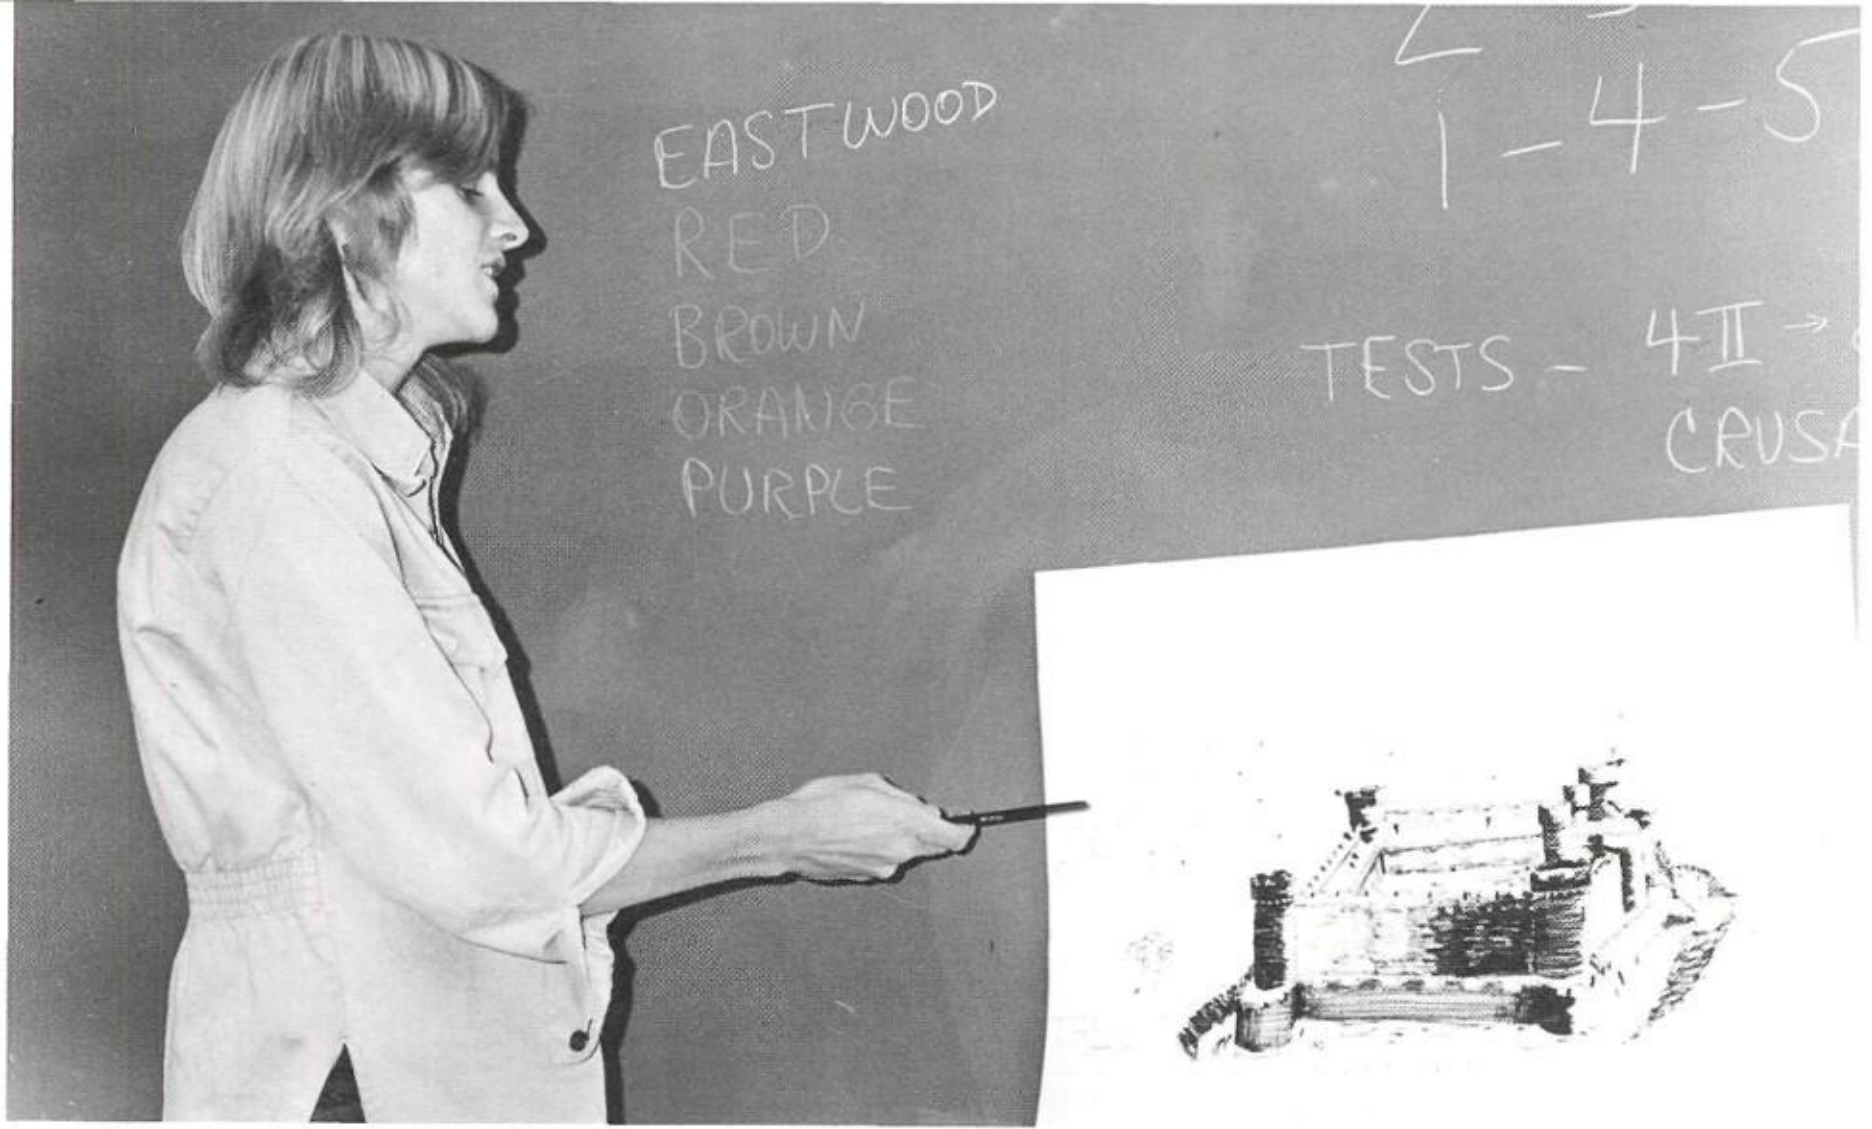

Considering the devastating effect Adolf Hitler had on Europe and the world is one aspect of the World History curriculum. Solving the problems in the past in an effort to avoid similar problems in the future; Eastwood's historians trudge through volumes of thick text books.

Only through the study of history can we see where man has evolved. By knowing from whence we come, we can hopefully know where we are headed. Even though most students do not realize it, history is an important facet of our everyday lives. It helps to guide society and the individual in day to day decisions.

Without knowledge of history, one cannot appreciate many benefits that society has to offer. People begin to take for granted the things they have. This is the first step on the road to losing them. Although history and government may seem boring to many at times, there are great lessons to be learned, and much knowledge that cannot be done without.

Student participation plays an important role in learning, demonstrates Carlos Lopez.

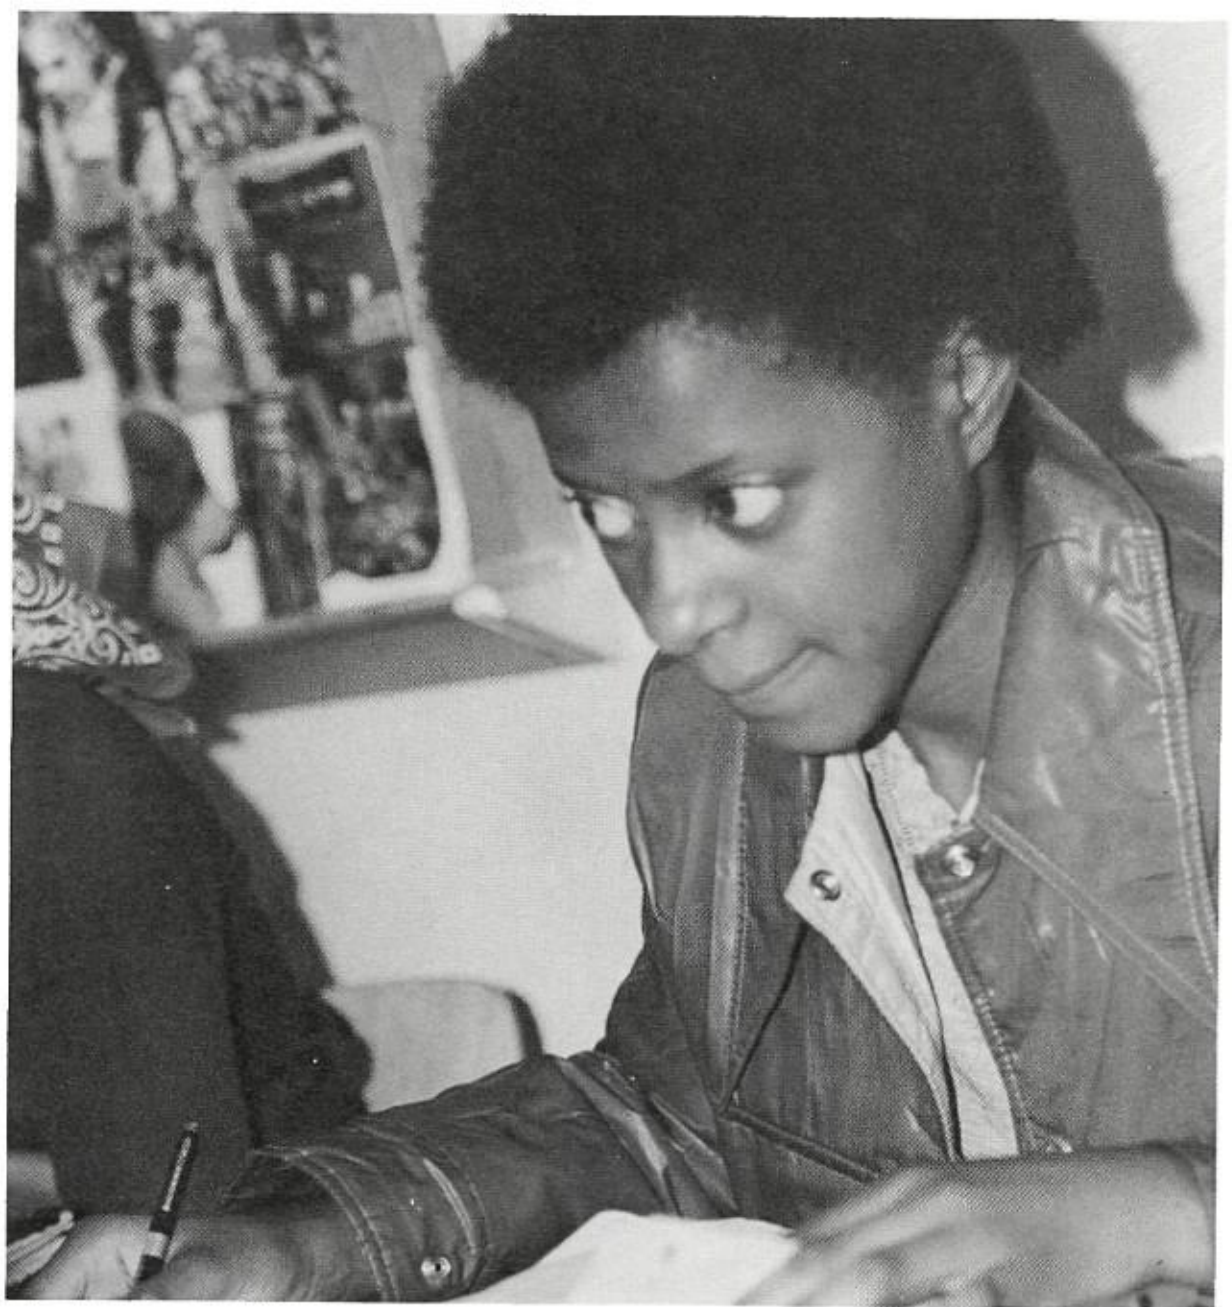

Projects often make a class more interesting, here Kerry Neuville demonstrates some of the fine points of his rendition of a castle.

Mr. Elliot jokes with one of his classes.

While writing a paper for her history class, Belinda Cherry pauses to ponder an idea.

Students glow with pride, participation

Achieved by hard work, Dale McBride, Tim Lund, and Stacy Graves express unlimited talent in order to make Camelot a successful production.

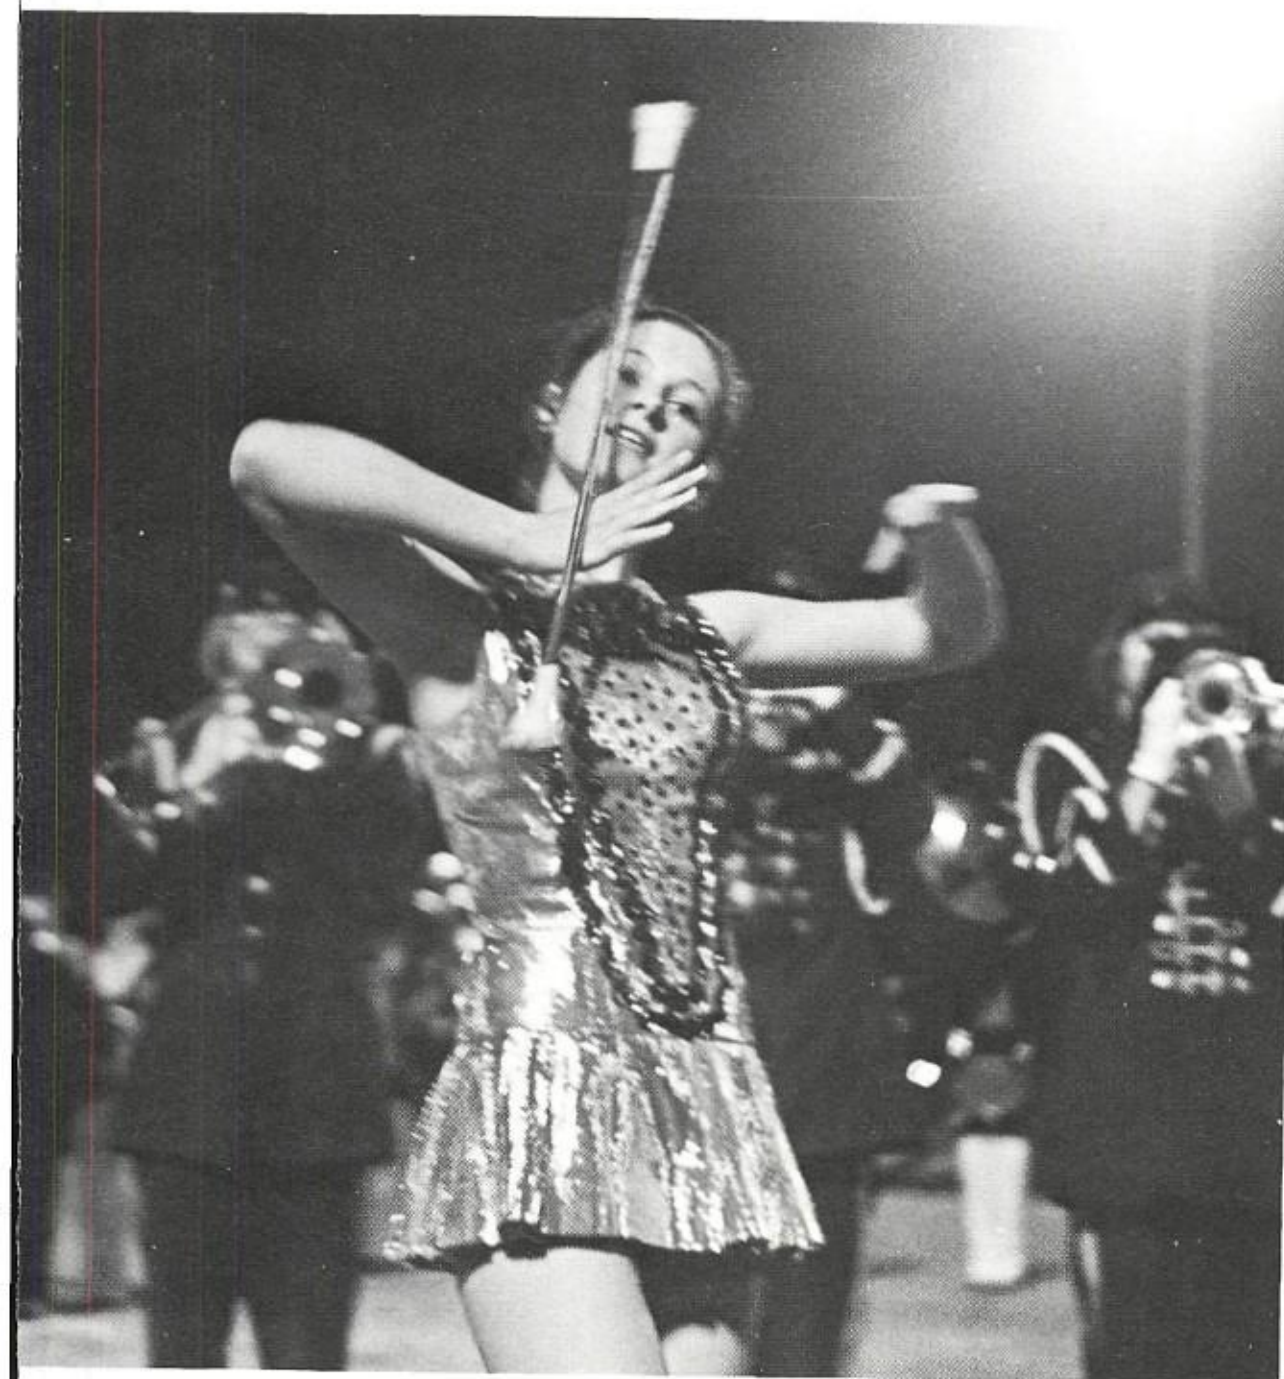

"You work for what you get and you get only what you work for." This proverb effectively applies to many of the ambitious Eastwood students. These students find an entertaining challenge in participating in various activities offered at Eastwood.

These participating activities cover academics as well as athletics. People from various backgrounds are able to unite for a basic cause, the betterment of the group. This is usually referred to as teamwork.

Through participating, some students find a certain feeling of accomplishment and self-satisfaction. These hard-working students have a saying of their own, "you can only enjoy what you work for."

Terri Hale finds pleasure in performing.

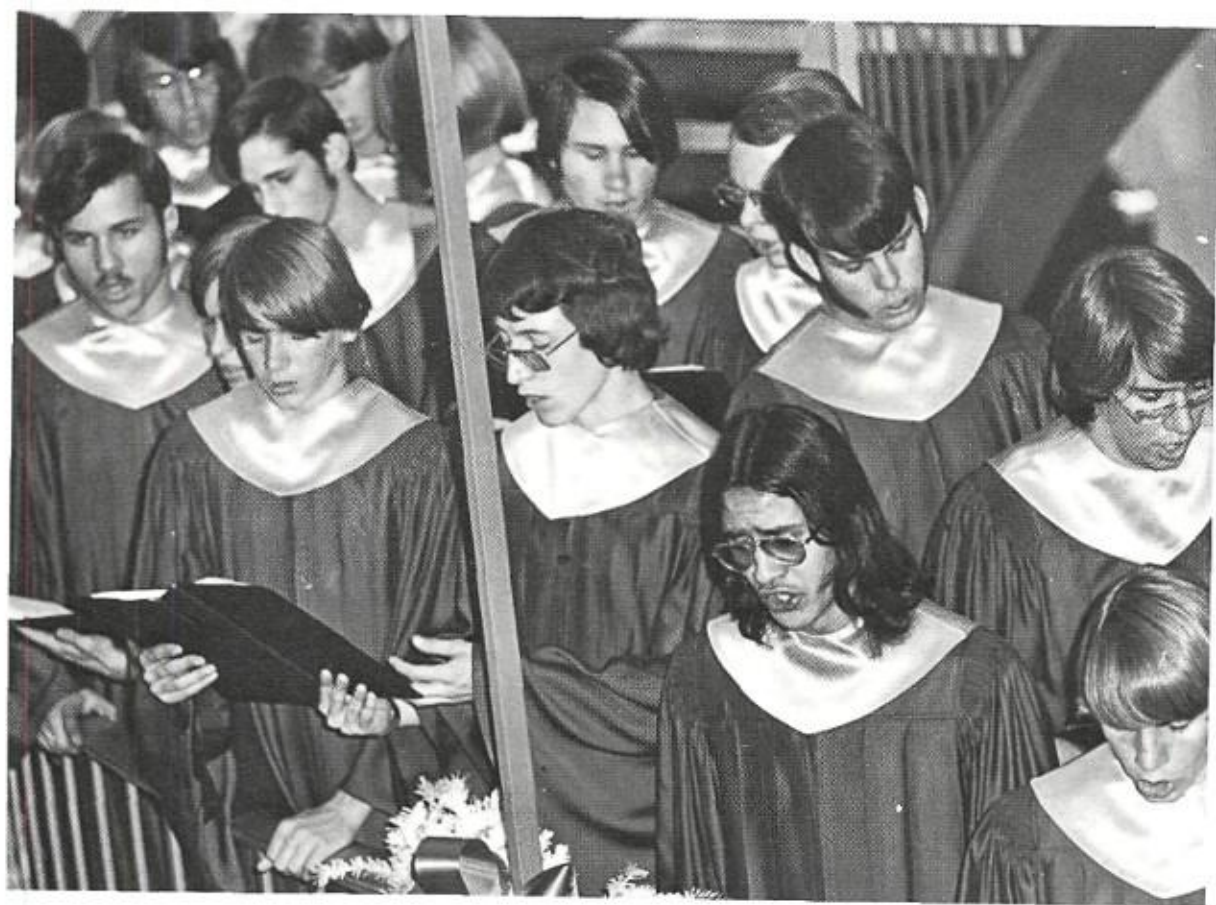

Linda Cleveland gladly provides half time entertainment by displaying her twirling talent.

Captain Debbie Gonzalez enjoys her dancing.

The Eastwood Cavaliers bring Christmas cheer to all those present at El Paso National Bank.

Andrew Hagan and Nick Sisk discuss practice.

Sophomores Paul Tapp and Margaret Du Bois discuss information given to them during a debate in Advanced Speech. They took first place at a Coronado speech tournament.

"Wanna buy a candy cane?" can be heard from many a speech or drama student. Selling candy canes is only one of the many activities on the drama and speech department agenda.

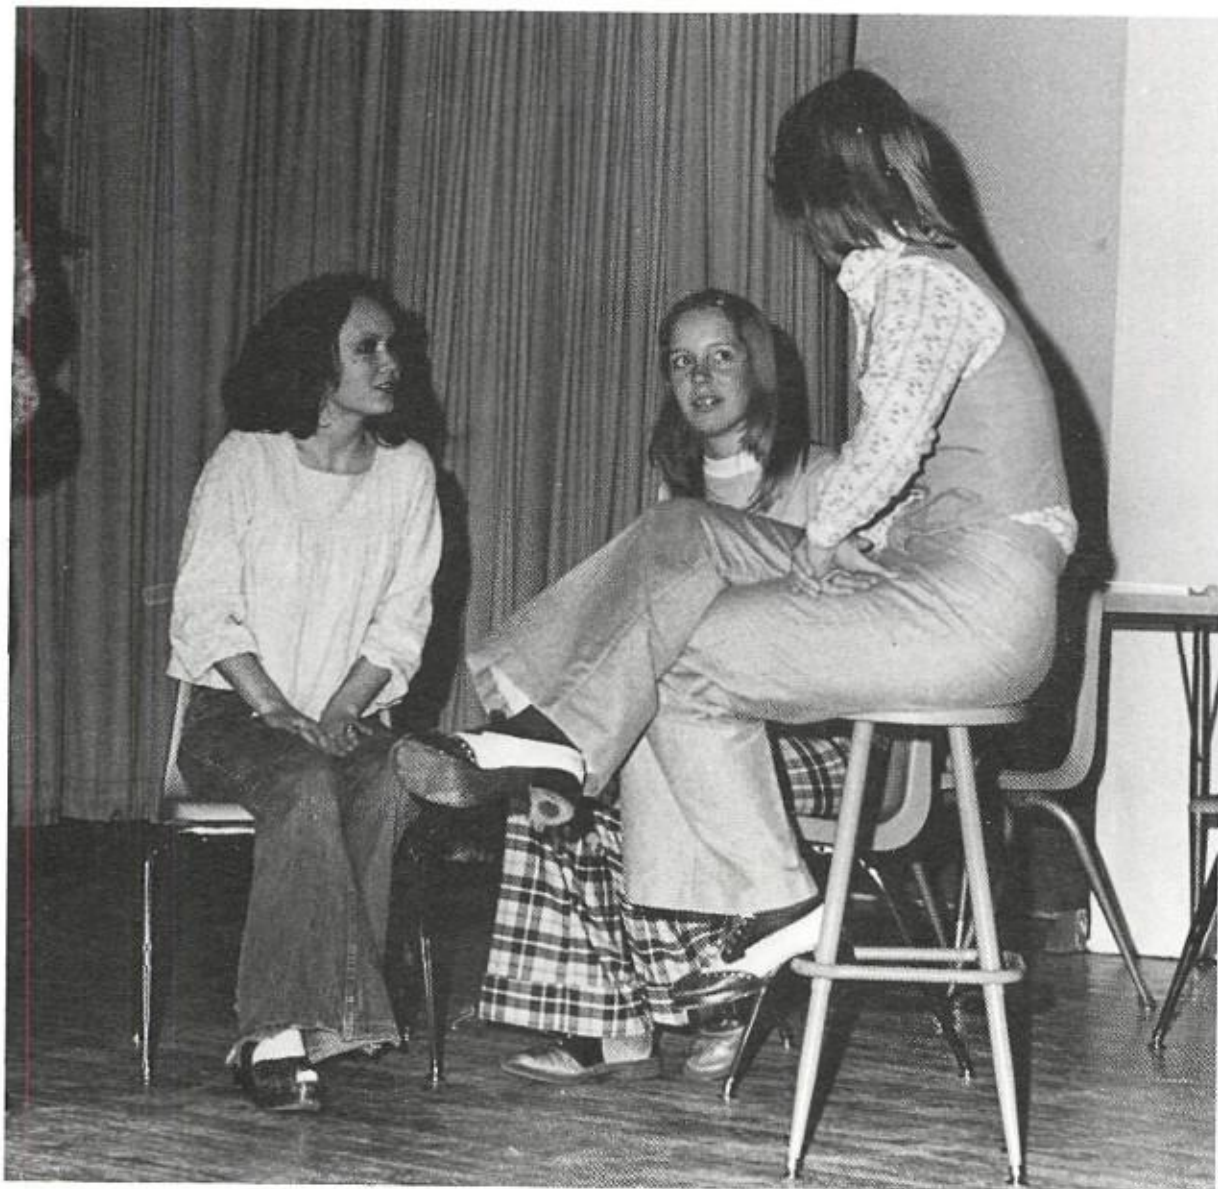

Eastwood speech and drama students hosted a speech tournament November 23 with 23 schools from El Paso and New Mexico participating. Speech and drama students are entering 11 speech tournaments.

In the spring, speech and drama students sponsor a junior high tournament. During the first week of April, the Interscholastic League holds competition in debate, extemporaneous speaking, prose reading, informative speaking, and a one act play.

Through their "fuzzies" project, they built up self-esteem and made new friends through their new found ways of communication.

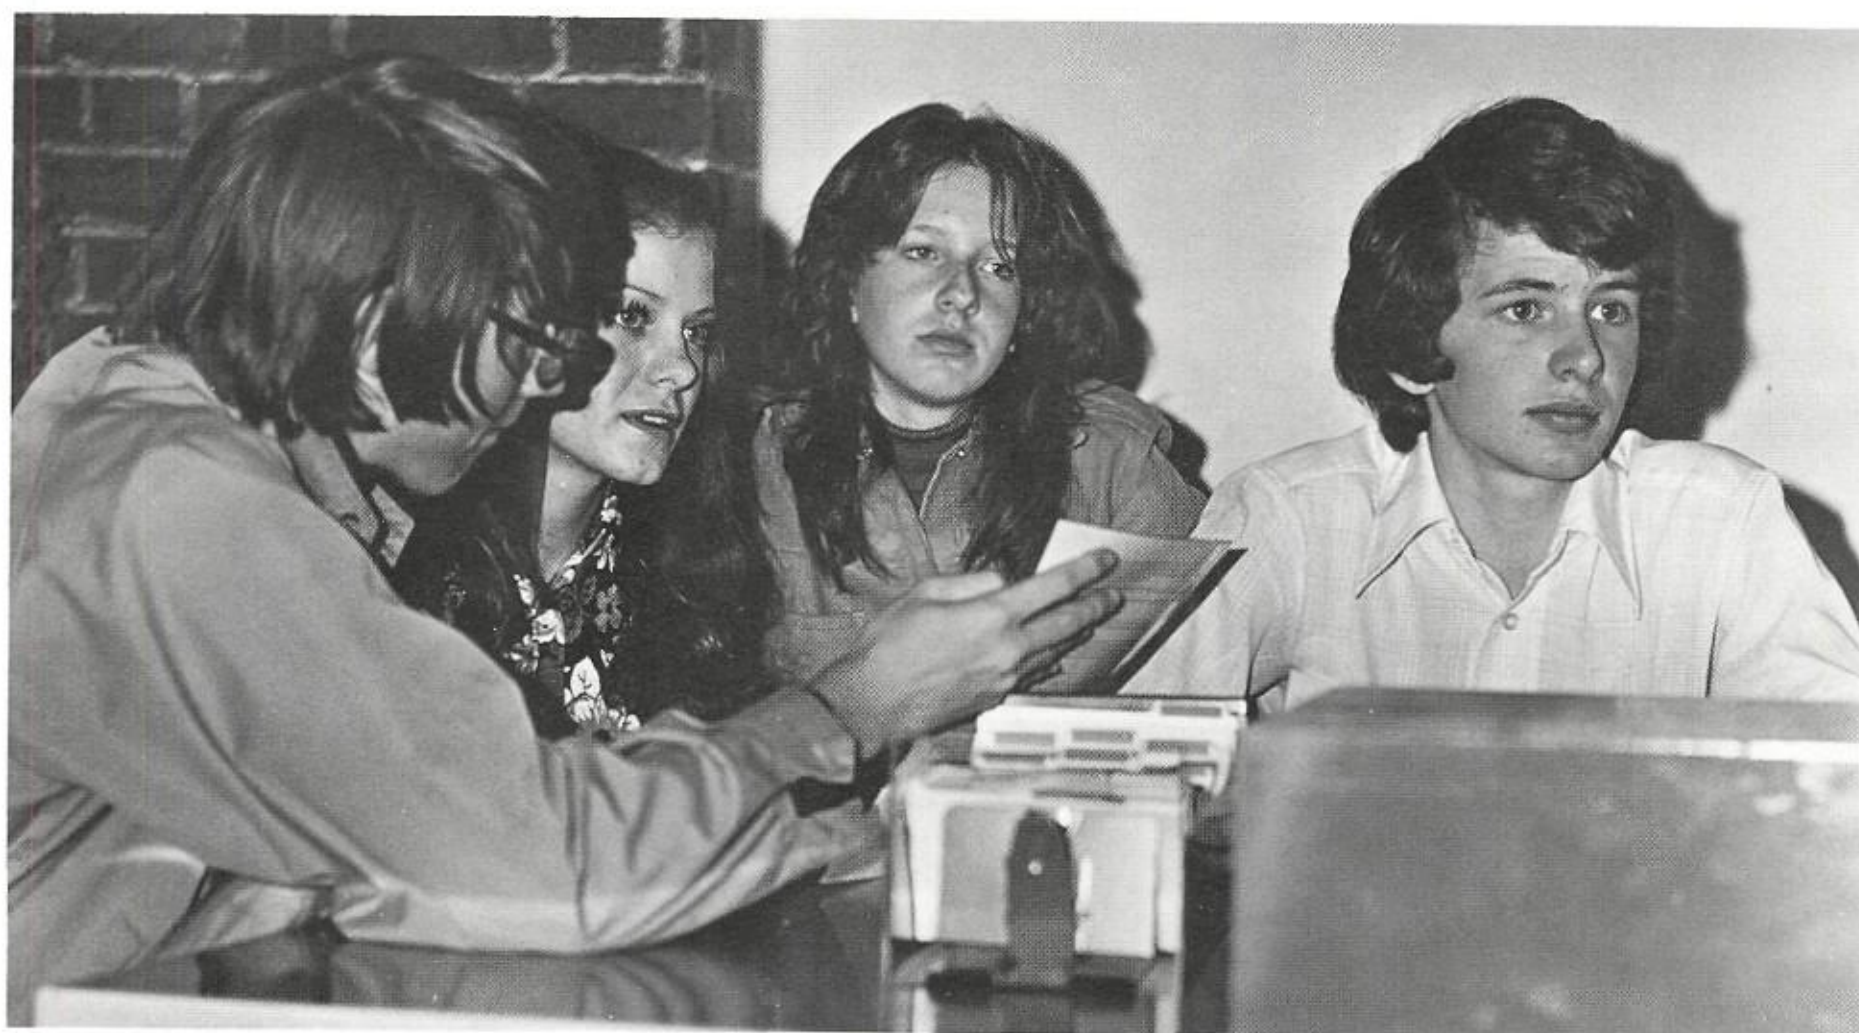

King Arthur, alias Tim Lund, sings an ode to his sword Excaliber in the musical Camelot.

Sherrie Young is a very expressive person in her acting.

Kathy Thompson, Julie Cornwell, and Jeanell Stapher discuss stage directions for their play in Drama II.

New Reveille staff works with creative writing class

Last year one half of the freshmen attending the University of California at Berkeley flunked their first English composition. At the same time, at the University of Houston 60 percent of the freshman English students failed the first three essays they wrote. This disaster is not because the students are unintelligent. It is because they were not taught the fundamental rules of grammar and spelling. They did not know how to construct a good sentence or paragraph. They had not been taught the primary rules for English.

At Eastwood, this year, the teachers worked hard to terminate this problem before it started in the upcoming generation. The freshman and sophomore English students were taught all the fundamental rules of English.

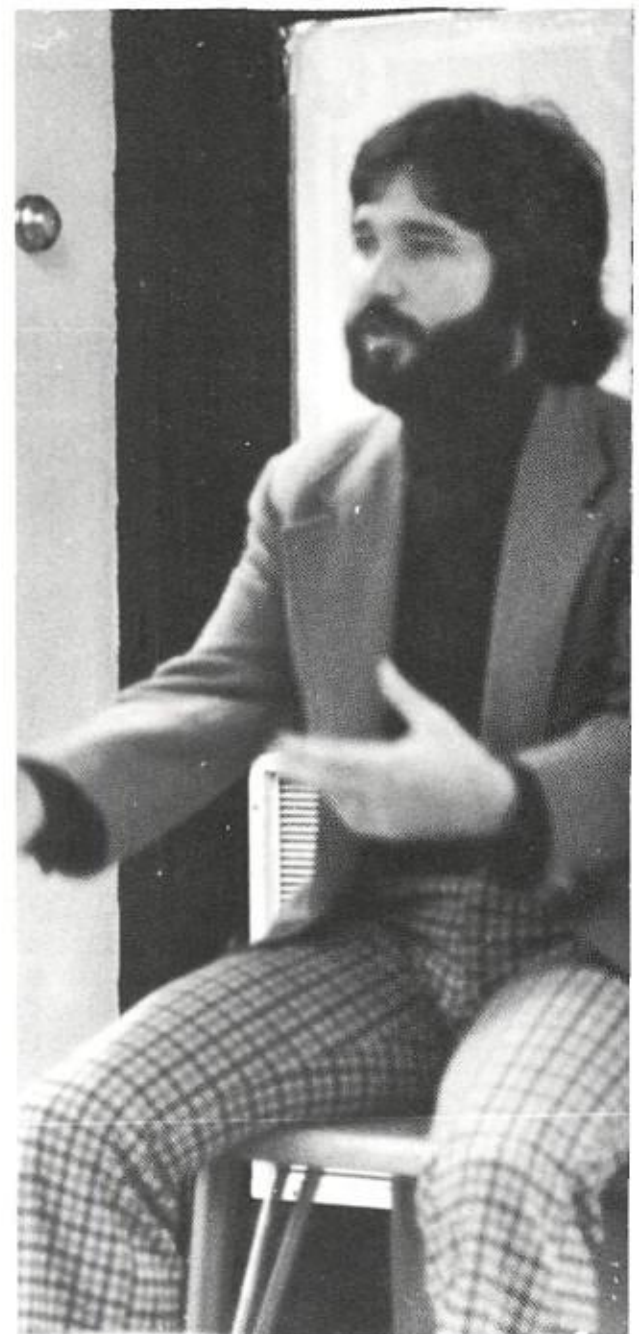

The junior and senior English classes learned the final additional rules to make the knowledge complete.

This year also Ms. Bonnie Lesley got her wish, a separate Reveille class. New creative writing classes were also made. Early in the department there was only one small creative writing class; now there are four classes and two teachers. Even with the increased number of classes, however, each one is packed to overflowing with eager students anxious to learn the writing trade.

The new Reveille class is something Ms. Lesley has worked for for a long time. It allows her more time to work with the staff and the writers. The increased number of students also means more manuscripts.

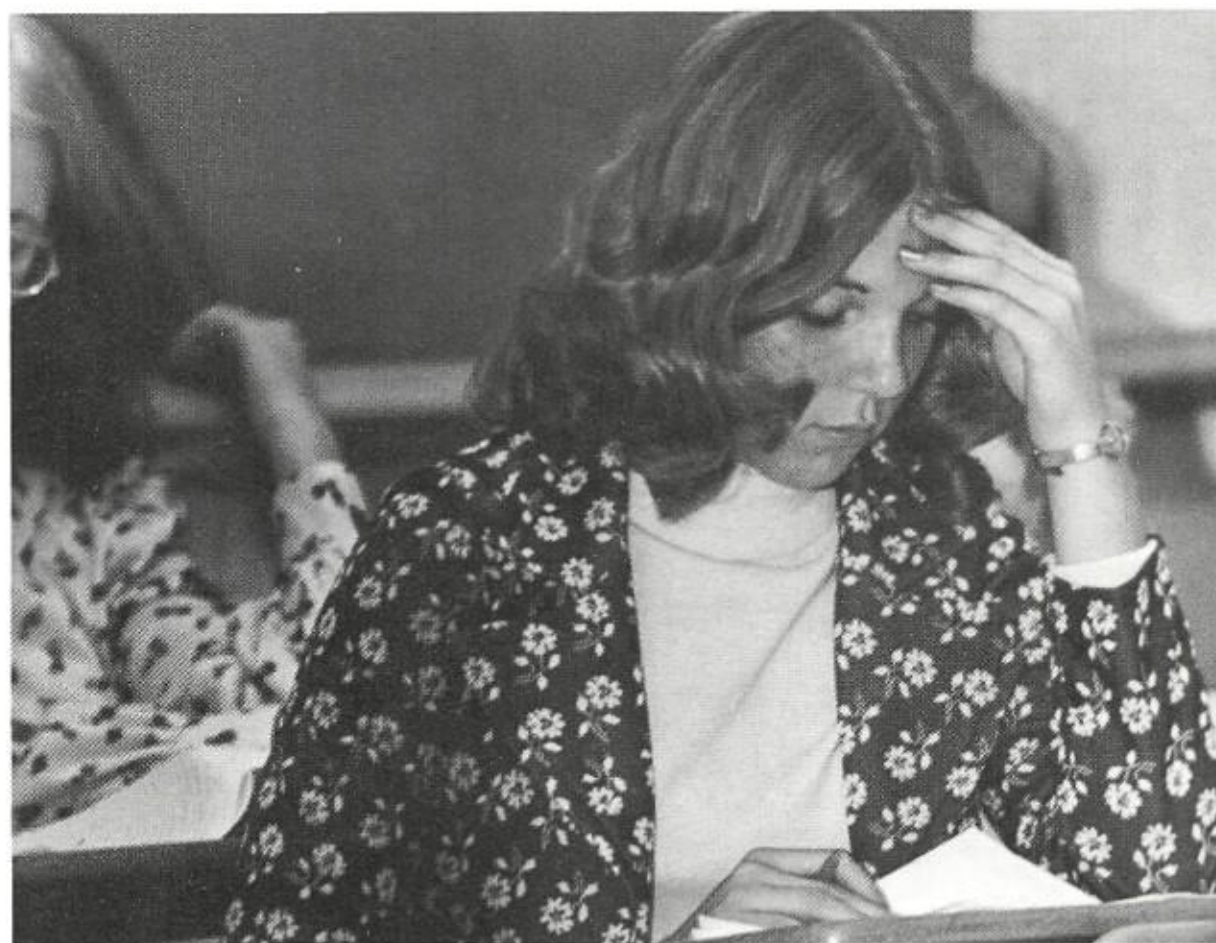

Allen Pusey, of the El Paso Journal, spent a day at Eastwood talking to journalism students about writing and newspapering.

Leeann Erwin talks with Cindi Hahn.

Debbie Schuller works on a test, one of the few standards still required in English III.

Jayne Brown and Ronnie Smith pause to chat.

Advisor to Reveille, Ms. Bonnie Lesley, checks over papers submitted for publication.

Terry Kohn skillfully guards Tom Morrow's defensive attack in basketball. Students learn skills and muscle coordination in PE II.

Francis Harris, Marissa Fraga, and Teresa Gardner set up a defense in flag football.

Craig Johnson gives the ball a kick as Ron Shaw attempts to block it in speedball.

PE classes encourage body building

From flag football to tumbling, boys and girls PE helps develop muscle tone and coordination. Boys and girls PE concentrates on group sports while the lifetime sports, open only to seniors, concentrates on teaching individual sports.

Both PE classes are taking up basketball, tumbling, and track and field. Boys PE also includes speedball, weightlifting, and a physical fitness test. Girls PE adds a new twist in their curriculum this year with the introduction of flag football. Other sports include two obstacle courses and softball. Lifetime sports offers archery, bowling, handball, swimming, and tennis.

Sports help develop the body as well as the mind and keeps students interested and active in life.

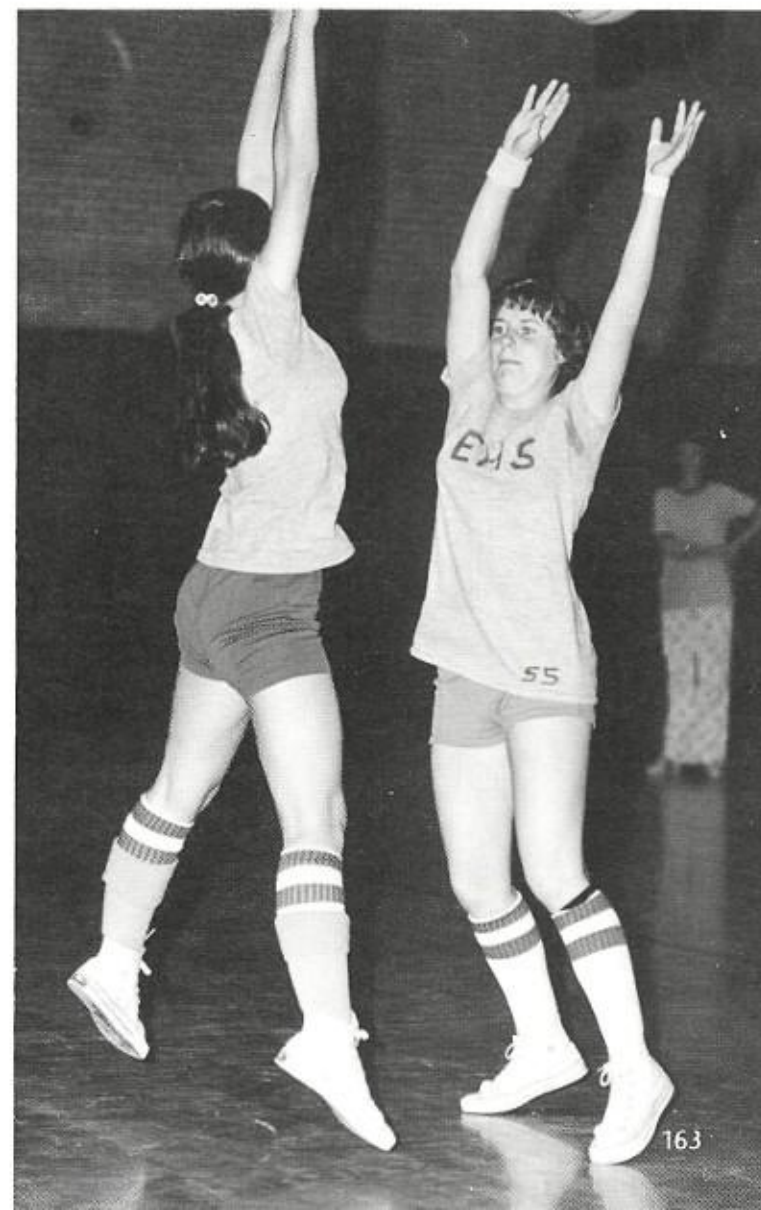

Quarterback Julia Kun throws a pass.

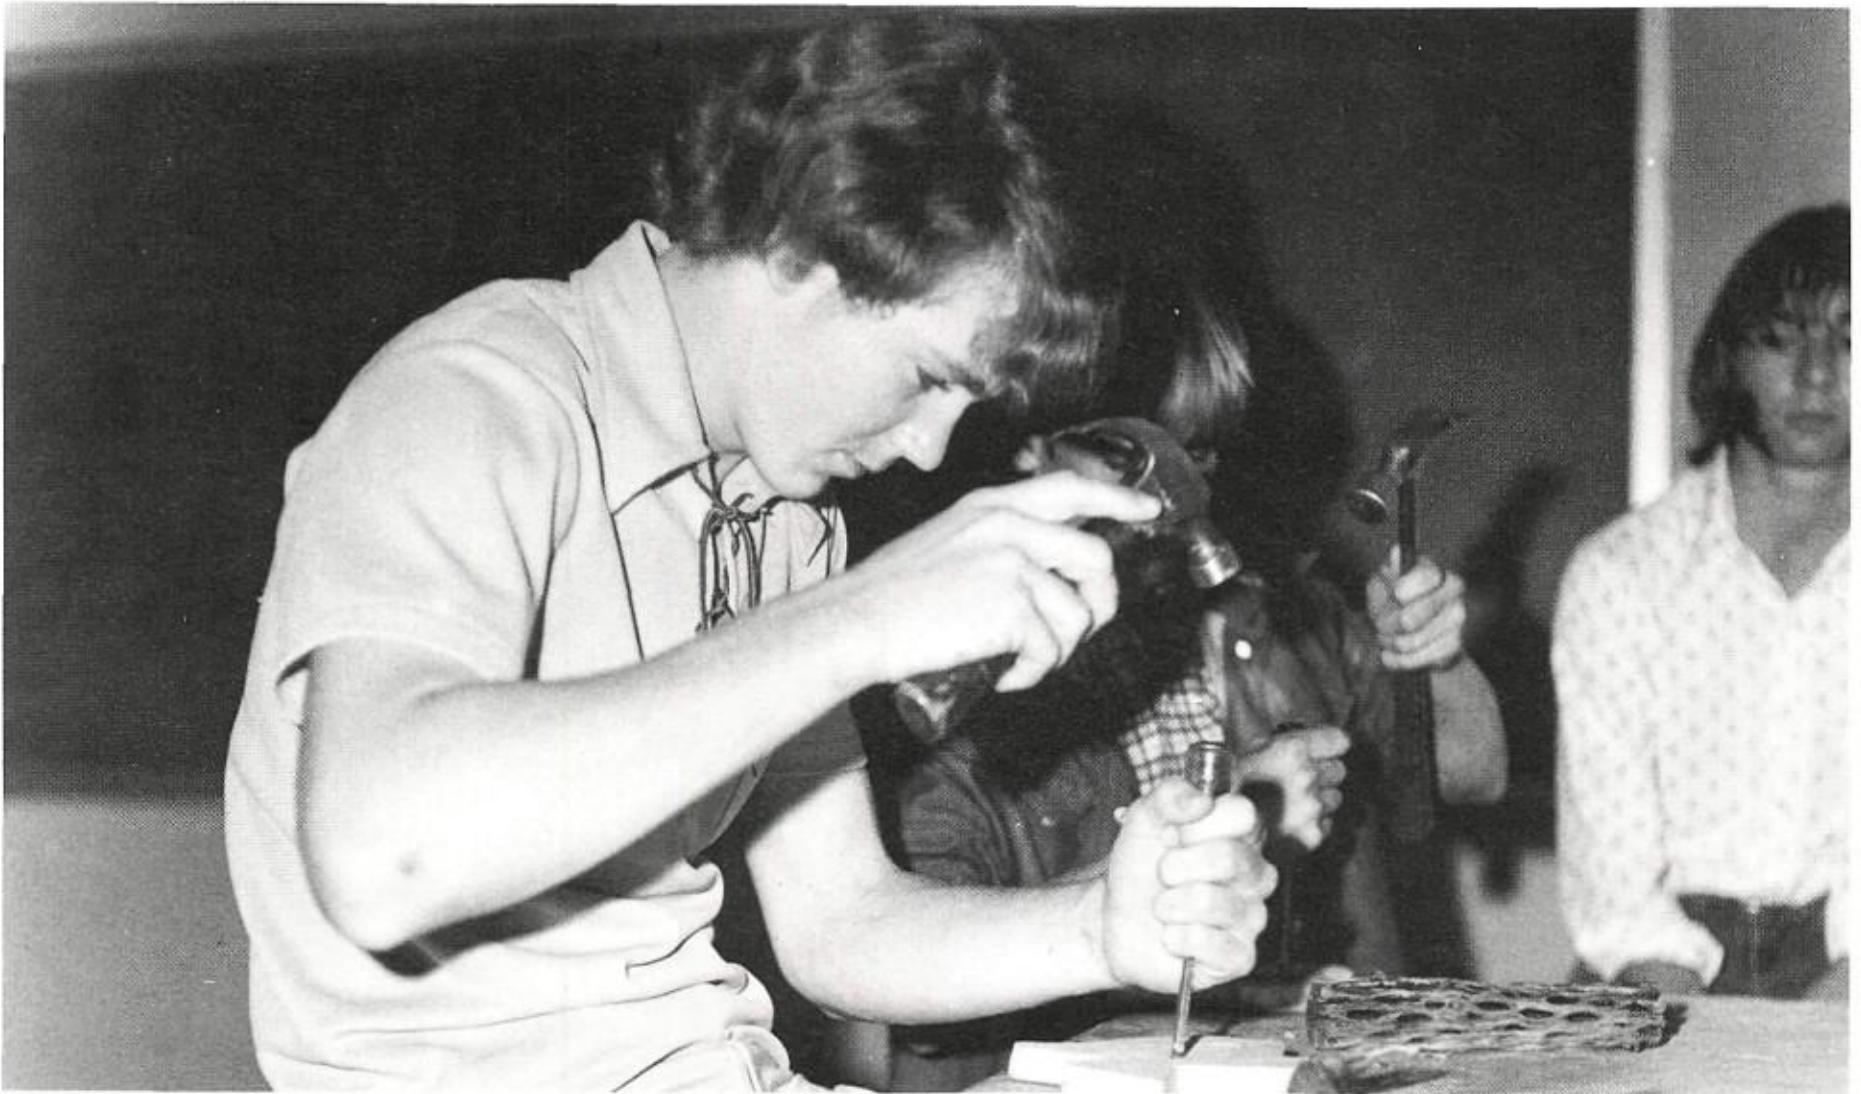

Mrs. Peggy Birkhead checks over game plans.

Terry Picket skillfully blocks Alice Gaspar de Alba's shot in a girls' basketball class.

Ceramics, leather working skills explored in crafts

Driving a screwdriver into wood proves to be slow and difficult work for John Land.

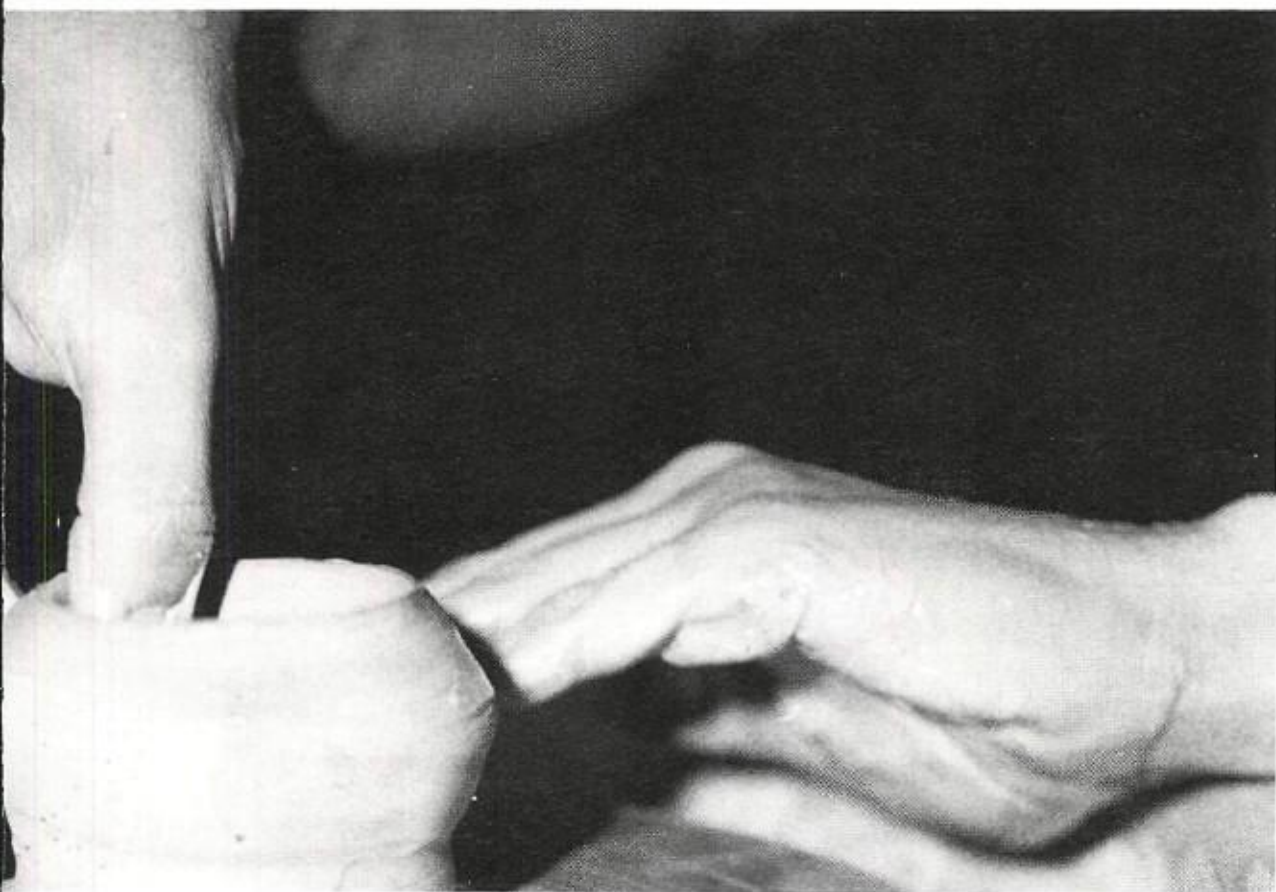

Candlemaking is a rather serious procedure as Sam Fields watches his wax melt in class.

Blake Bedell works intently on engraving. Woodcarving was a skill taught in crafts.

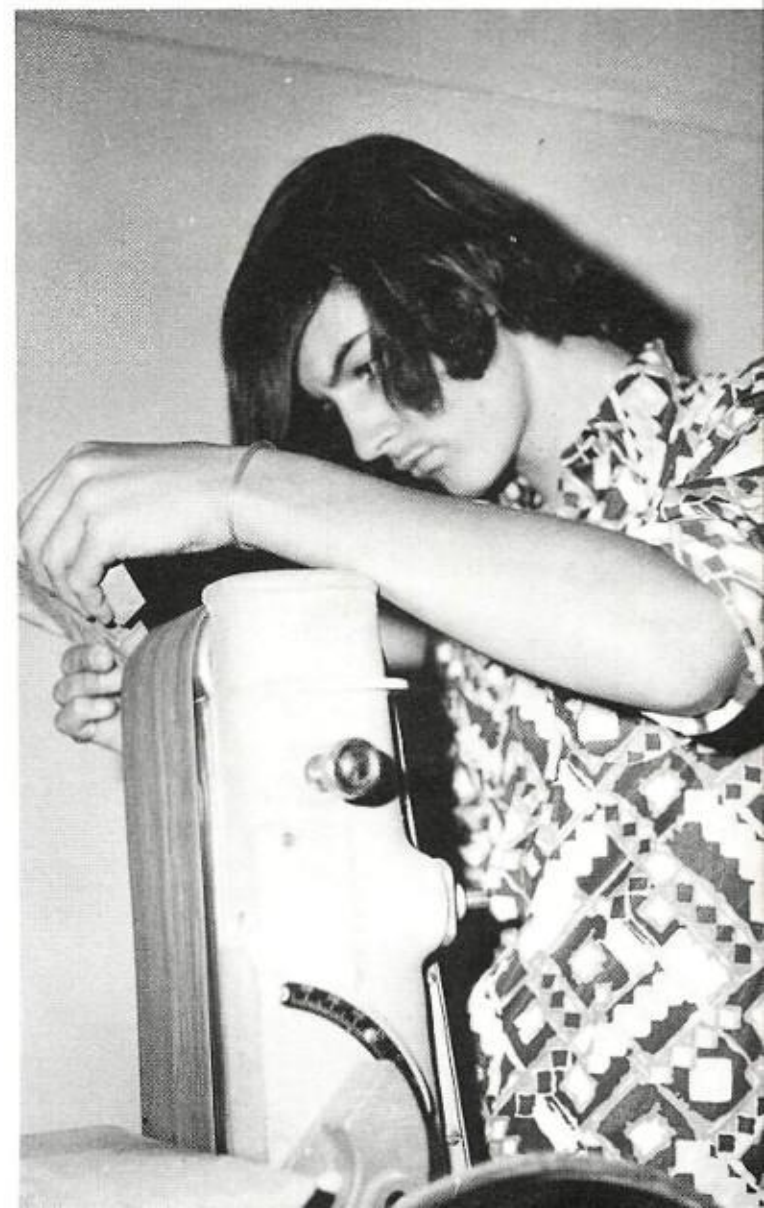

Future artist's hands delicately and skillfully mold clay on a spinning potter's wheel.

Magic fingers shaping worlds. Art is the world of making images, of lives transferred into solid objects. Each object becoming the total sum of the artist's experience.

Students taking courses in crafts, or art, or shop can be the artists of the future. To be an artist, one must first learn the basic skills. In the crafts department, students are taught the basic skills and then given a chance to experiment with them. They can uncover unknown talents and strive toward that area. The basic courses start the uncertain artist up the staircase to greatness.

Crafts students began the year learning the basic skills of designing and sketching. After this, copper enameling and copper tooling were taken up. Wax candles were also made by students. During the second and third quarters, students will learn the basics in ceramics including the making of vases, pots, chess sets, steins, and ashtrays. Some projects to be attempted during the year include decoupage and leatherworking. Teachers Mr. Charles Guthrie and Mr. Ralph Sanchez hope to keep future artists busy all year.

Willy Tarin sands a piece of wood in shop.

Experiments reveal scientific knowledge

Man's never ending attempt to explain and understand the world he lives in has prompted him to create science. Through science he has established definite lines along which the world is built. His studies have given him a conception, however limited, of his universe. Through the different sciences he has explained his world, the forces that shape his world, and even himself. Science was the path that led him to the world of knowledge. Man has reached the stage now where he can do almost anything with science.

At Eastwood, novice scientists can take courses in physical science, biology, and chemistry. Beyond these are the advanced courses for students who are very interested in science.

Junior Nancy Yee learns facts through the studying of her graph table for an upcoming pop quiz.

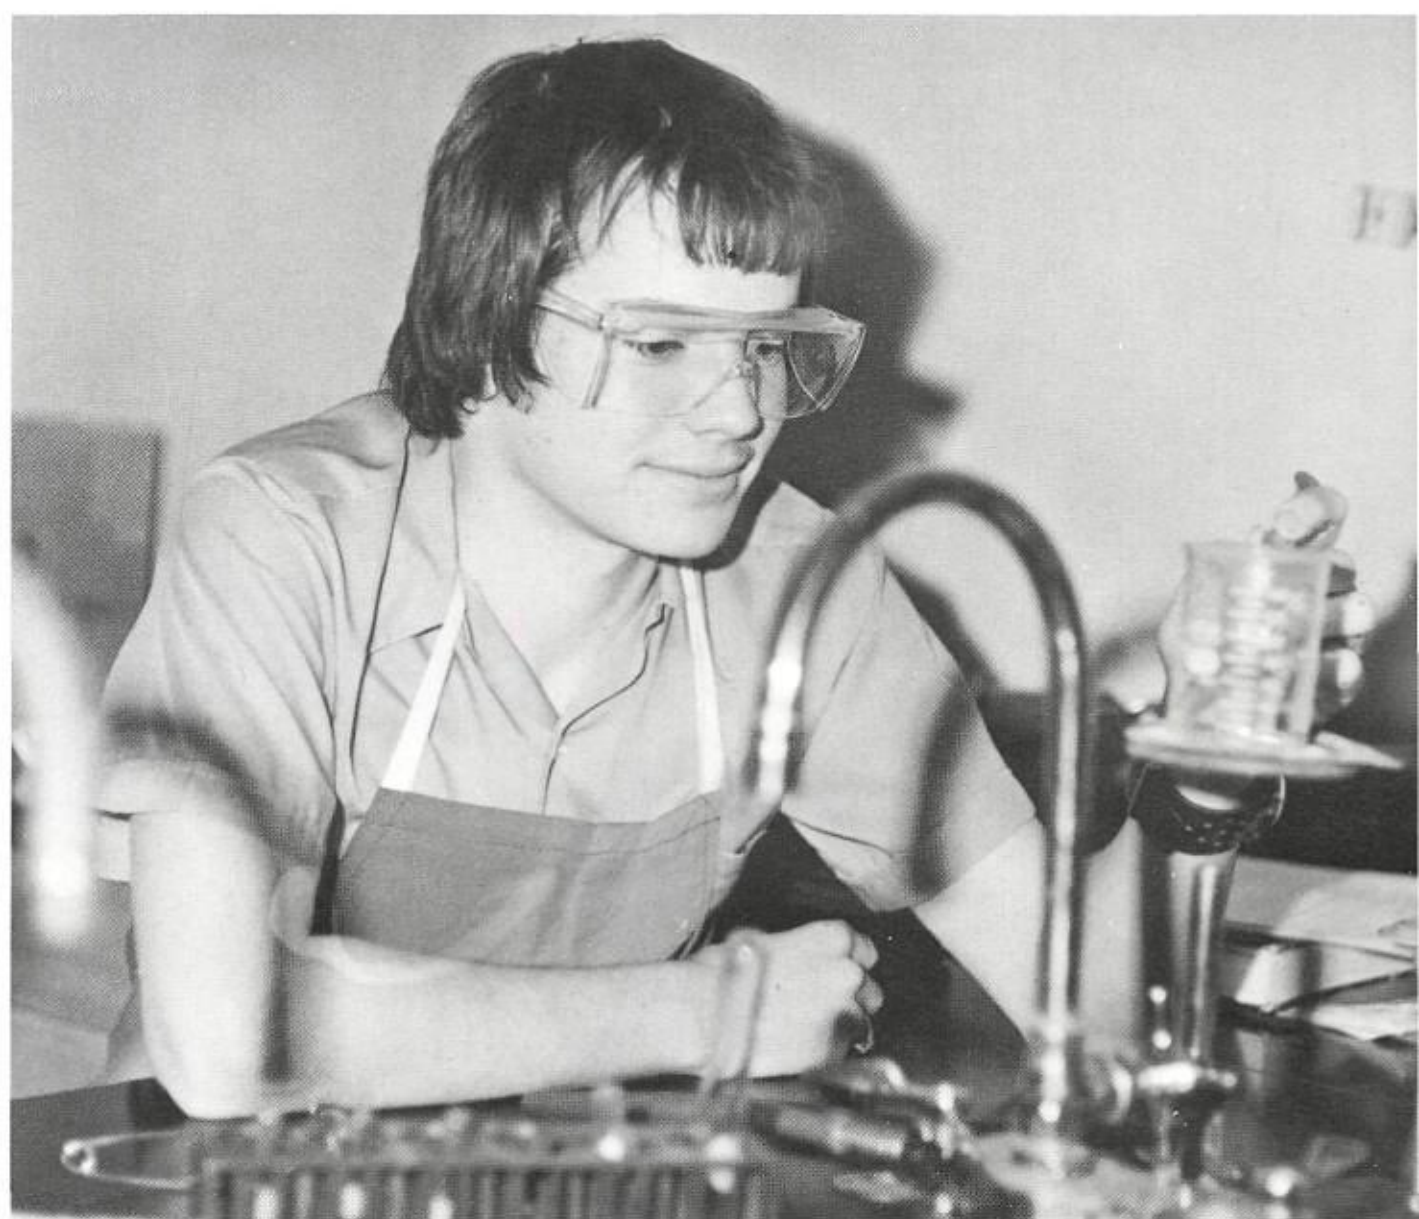

In order to reach a satisfactory answer to a lab problem, Gilbert Mendez scans his notebook.

In studying the anatomy of a frog in his biology class, freshman Bill Wilke uses his class time to share his findings with his fellow classmates.

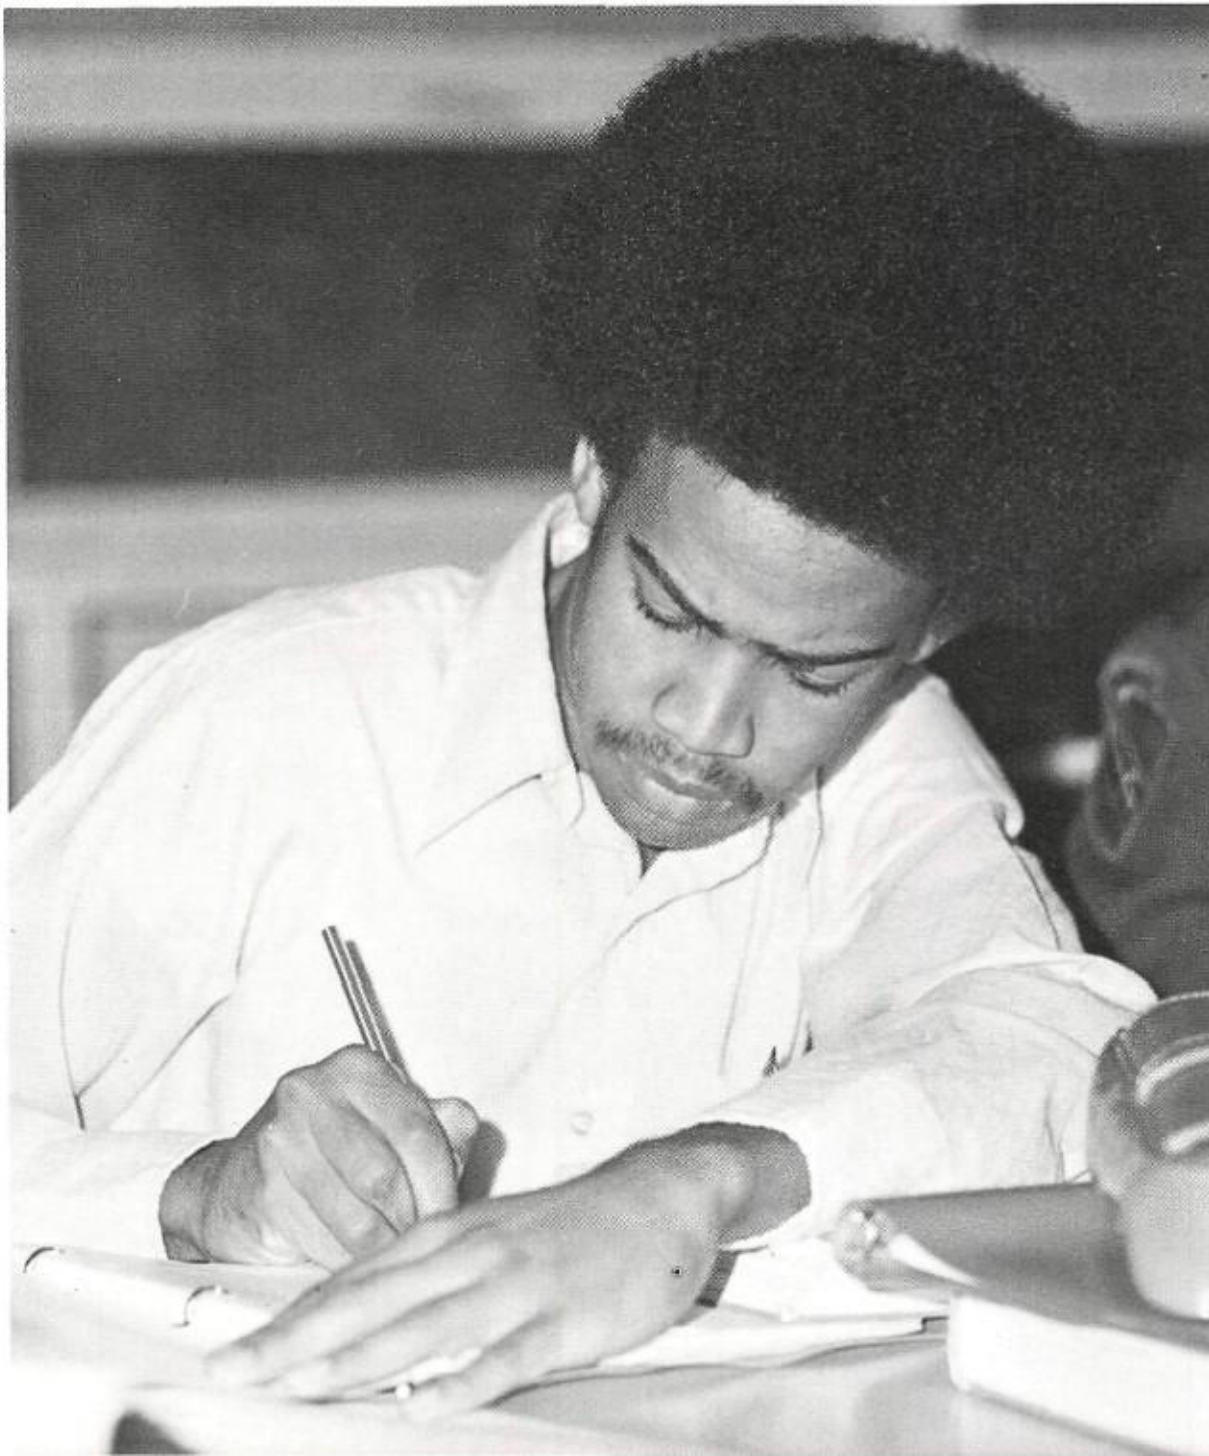

Peering through his glass goggles, Bill Spidle examines a beaker during a chemistry experiment.

Chemistry gives Beth Blair and Jeanell Stapher the chance to experiment with various chemicals.

The new microfiche machines allow junior Mary Fountaine to collect diagrams and various information for an American history term paper.

Derald Slaughter quietly studies for a math quiz during his lunch shift.

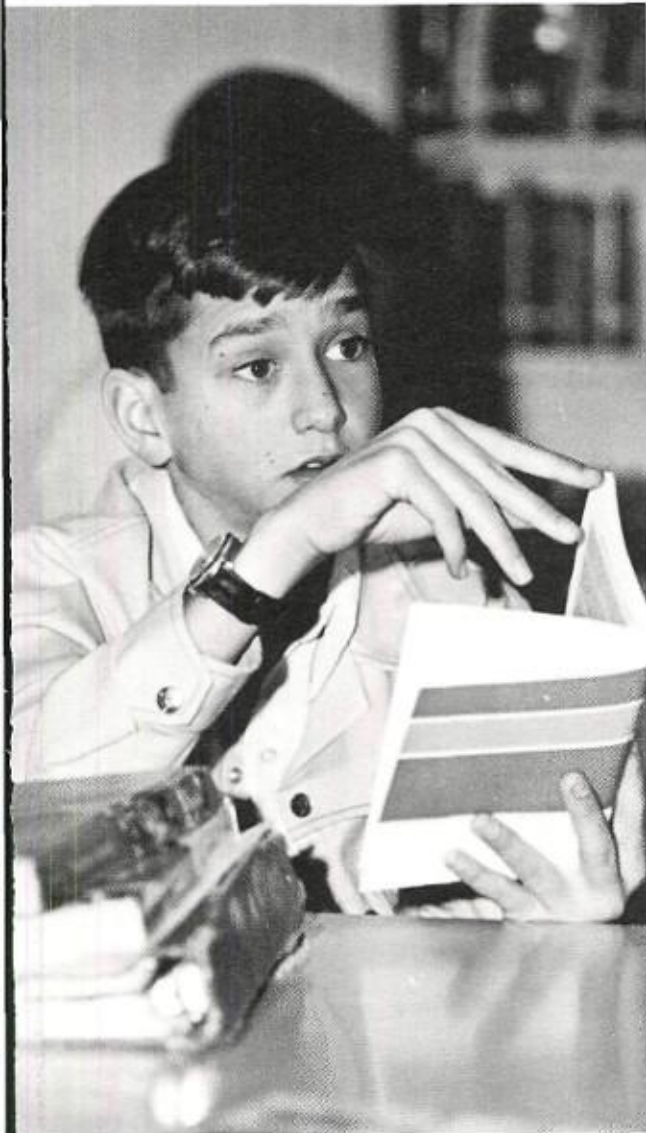

New microfiche machines condense library material

"Micro-fish are invading our library!" This statement is perhaps misleading, yet the library does have a new facility called microfiche. Microfiche machines enable students to have entire books at their fingertips. Books are reprinted on 3 by 5 cards in the form of microfilm, which are enlarged by the machines 50 times their printed size.

The library now has two machines which show 150 occupational cards, while the other machine is able to show 150 cards covering American history. In the future the library plans to extend the number of microfiche cards and the subjects they cover. This condensation of books will allow our library to expand without requiring extra room.

Another new improvement added to the library this year was the study carrels. These were converted from the language lab and placed in the reference section to allow more private studying for the students.

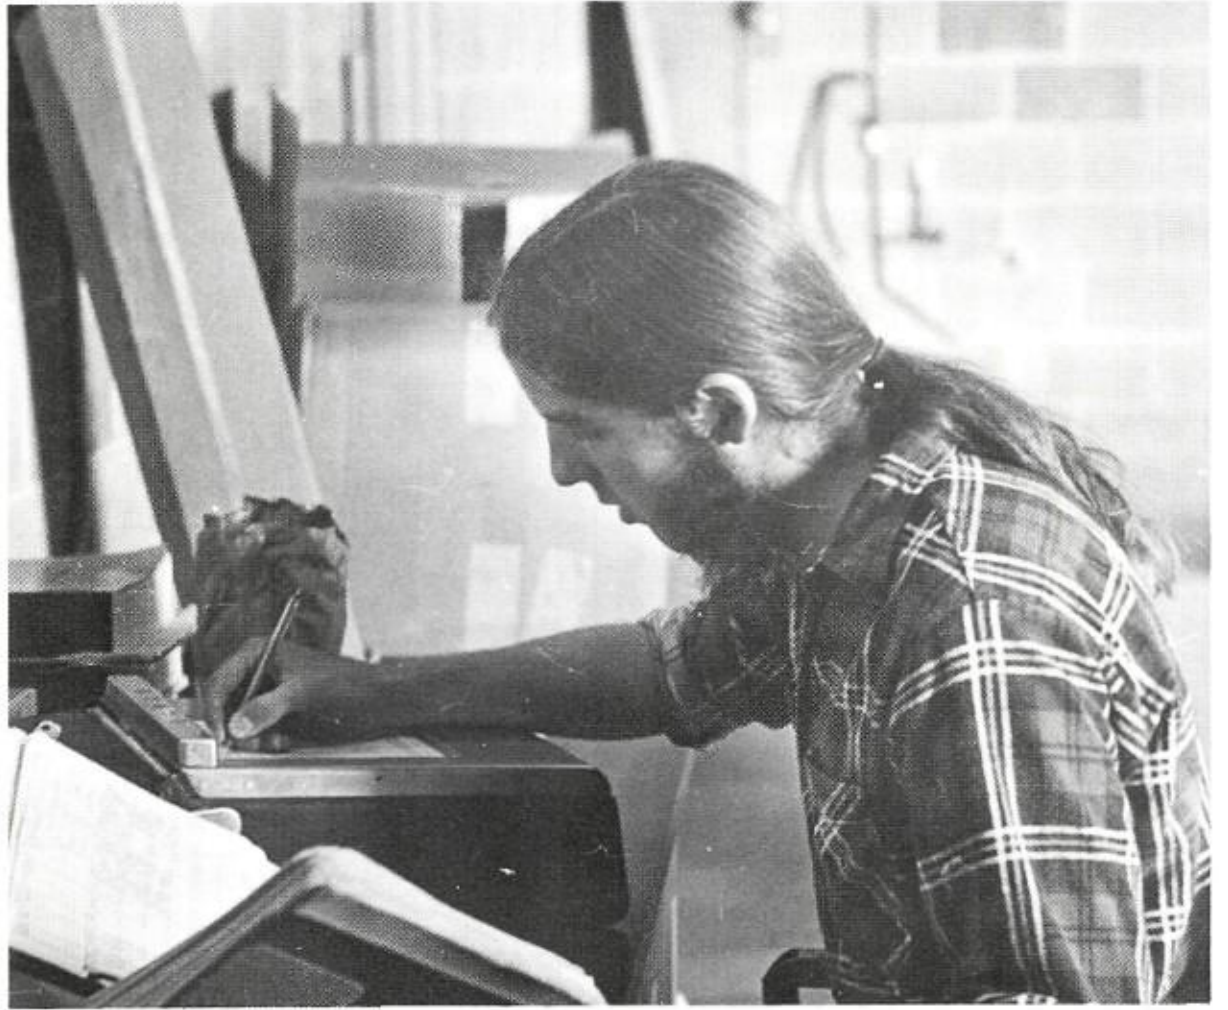

David Brown ponders a difficult question.

Library courtesy Paula Chavez checks the card file to send overdue slips to students.

The magazine section in the library holds a special interest for junior John Smith.

Bruce Hackfeld, who is a warehouse worker for the City of El Paso, fills requisition orders.

Don Wagner is a mechanic for Mack Trucks.

Insulating trucks allows a source of money for Tom Drigger, employed at Thermo King.

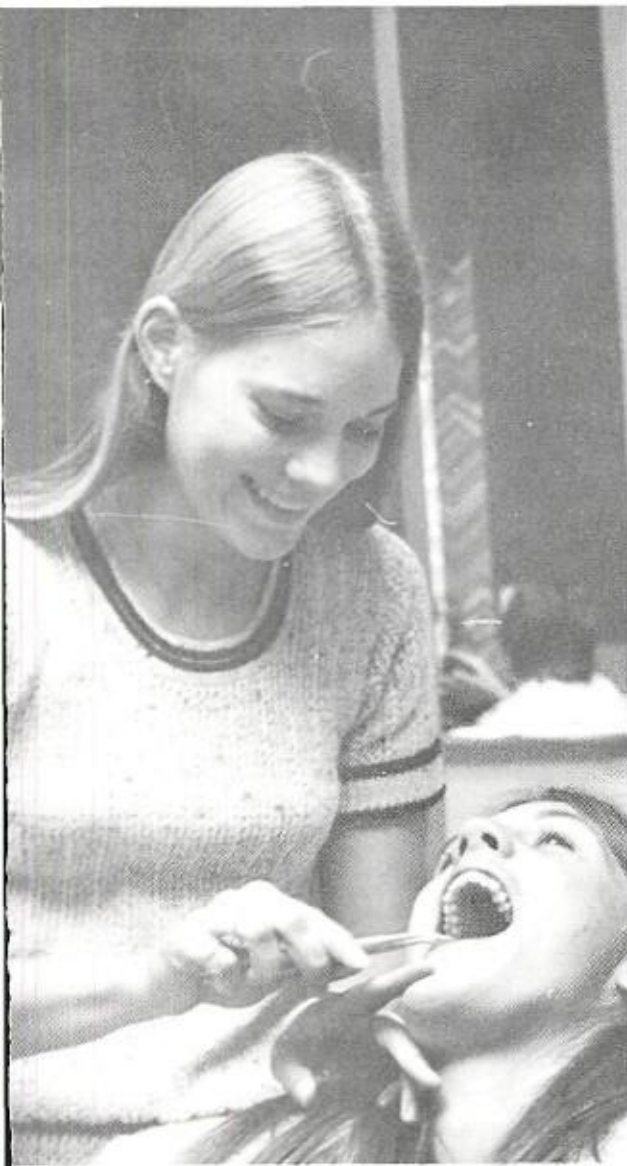

Workers acquire valuable skills through job training

The four work study programs at Eastwood, ICT, DE, VOE, and HECE, provide a basis from which students can learn a trade. The program, open to juniors and seniors, first gives them often much needed aid in initially acquiring a job. Each of the different programs covers a different area of work. ICT, Industrial Cooperative Training, deals with those interested in working with industry or in related fields. DE, Distributive Education, deals with work in stores, and sales-manship. VOE, Vocational Office Education, teaches skills required in the field of office help. The last, HECE, Home Economics Cooperative Education, supplies knowledge for work in the home.

Each area also is part of a national organization. Every year workers can compete in related areas. Contests are held at the local, state, and even at the national levels.

Stephanie Ballachey is a dental assistant.

The Bradford House, located in Grant City, employs Brian Johnson as kitchen help and cook.

Service man, Richard Joy, scrubs a window.

More than just cooking— homemaking teaches life

Sophomores Cindy Harrell and Betty Martinez demonstrate a feeding process in home nursing.

Kim Brown experimtns with fondue.

A clothing consultant discusses weddings with an interested home and family living class.

In studying child development, Leilani DePew listens to her brother Lance tell her a story.

Joni Davin unwraps her china for a display.

Beating the "communication gap" is the primary concern of the first year family relations course. It helps students to communicate with the people they associate with daily. Another first year course is child development which teaches understanding and care for children.

Second year students are offered consumer education, cost as related to value, and home nursing. Home nursing teaches the student to cope with minor home illnesses.

Personal adjustment, marriage and family living are all covered in the course of home and family living. Boys, as well as girls, find these courses to be useful in later life. Home Ec is more than cooking and sewing, it's learning about life.

"Crunch Coronado" was the password vivacious cheerleaders encouraged as they sponsored a spirit contest throughout the week. Certain unknown judges were chosen and whoever said these famous words the most were the winners of two free concert tickets.

Summer camp in Lubbock, Texas for the varsity cheerleaders proved to be a success in that the seven spirit leaders brought home four superior ribbons, a nomination for the National Coca-Cola award and the spirit stick. They also held their own camp this summer for feeder schools to Eastwood. Showing good sportsmanship, the cheerleaders presented the opposing cheerleaders a plaque at every home game.

CHEERLEADERS

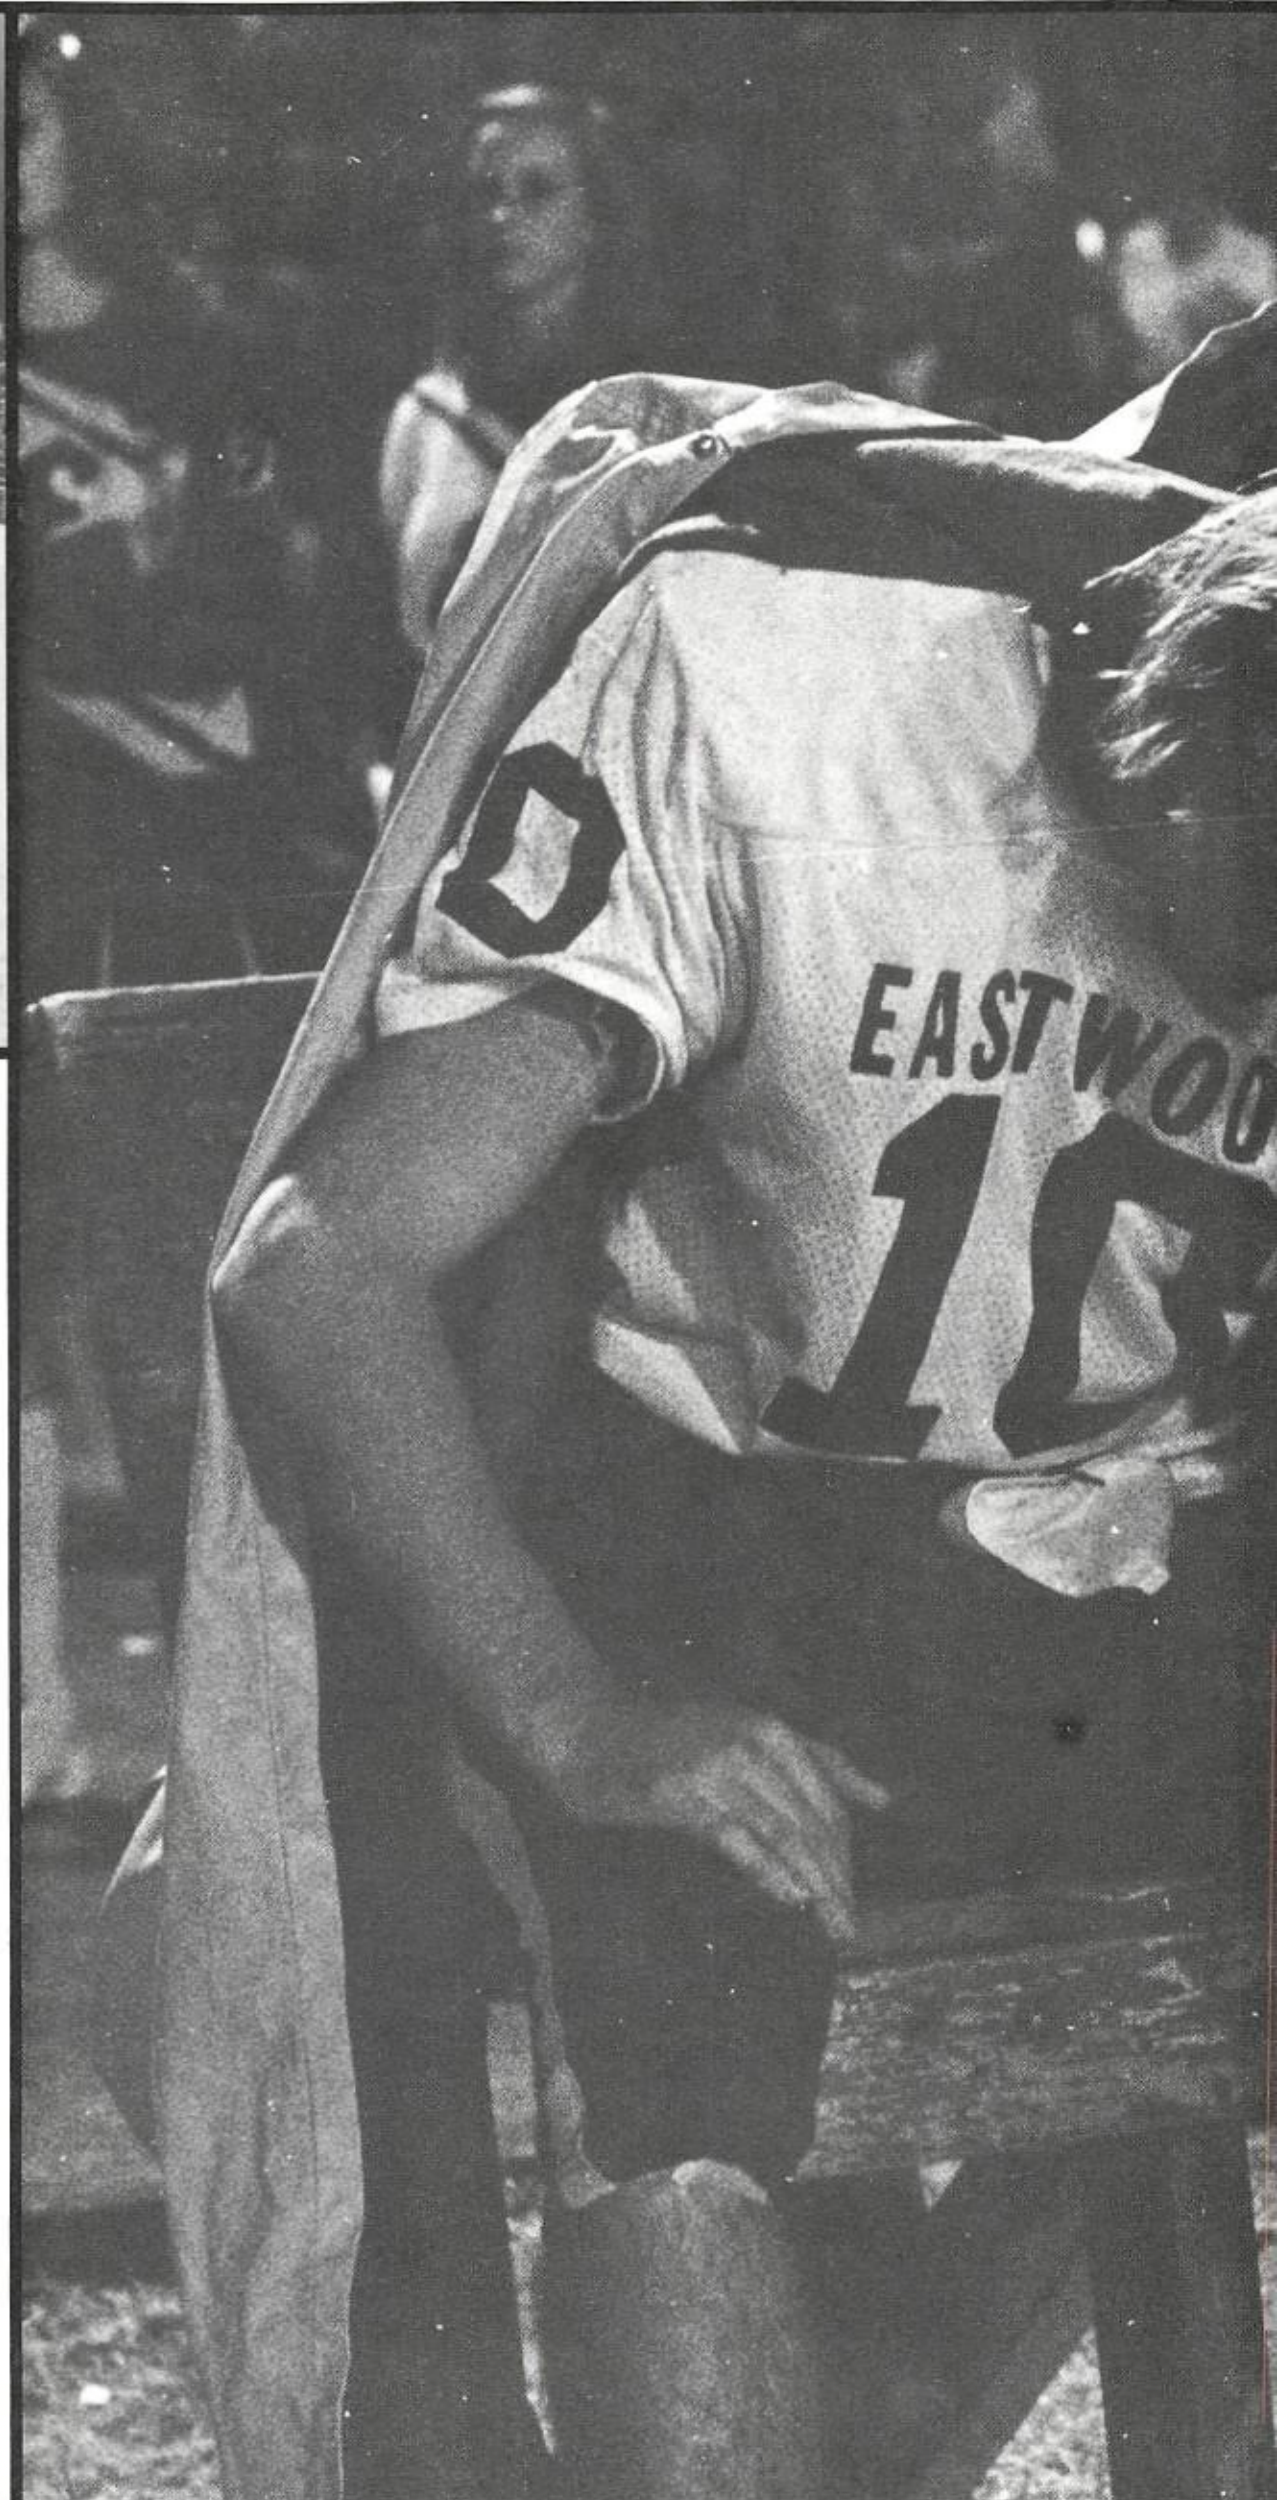

Long before the doors of school open, a small but dedicated group of players are preparing for their upcoming season. A season which will bring victory along with defeat, sadness with joy, pain and pleasure. A season which could change directions with the ease of a bouncing ball.

Within the three month period they will learn discipline, teamwork, and the greatest feeling of all the sensation after a win.

Eastwood was no different from the rest, although their season was less than rewarding they were granted the satisfaction of defeating their homecoming foe and the only undefeated team in district, the Andress Eagles.

Troopers capable of better season play

The Troop started out a bit slow this year as they were handed their first defeat by Mayfield in an alternating battle which ended in a 28-7 victory for Mayfield. Despite the loss the Troop did not give up.

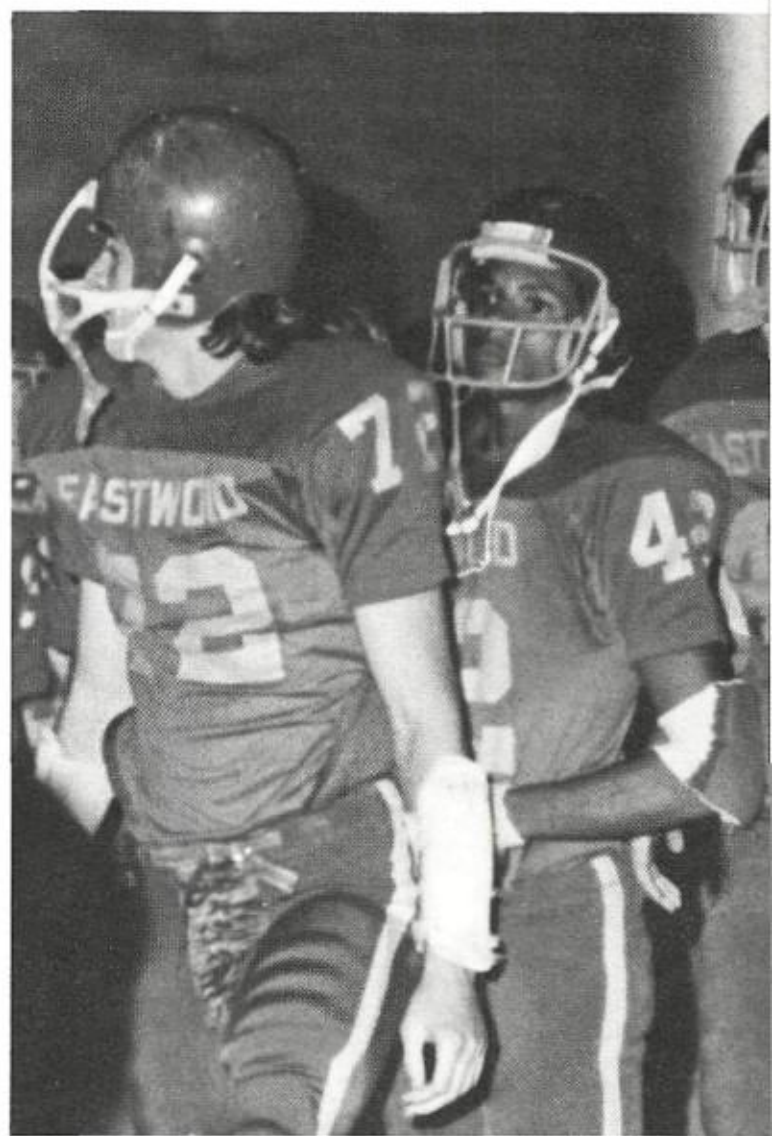

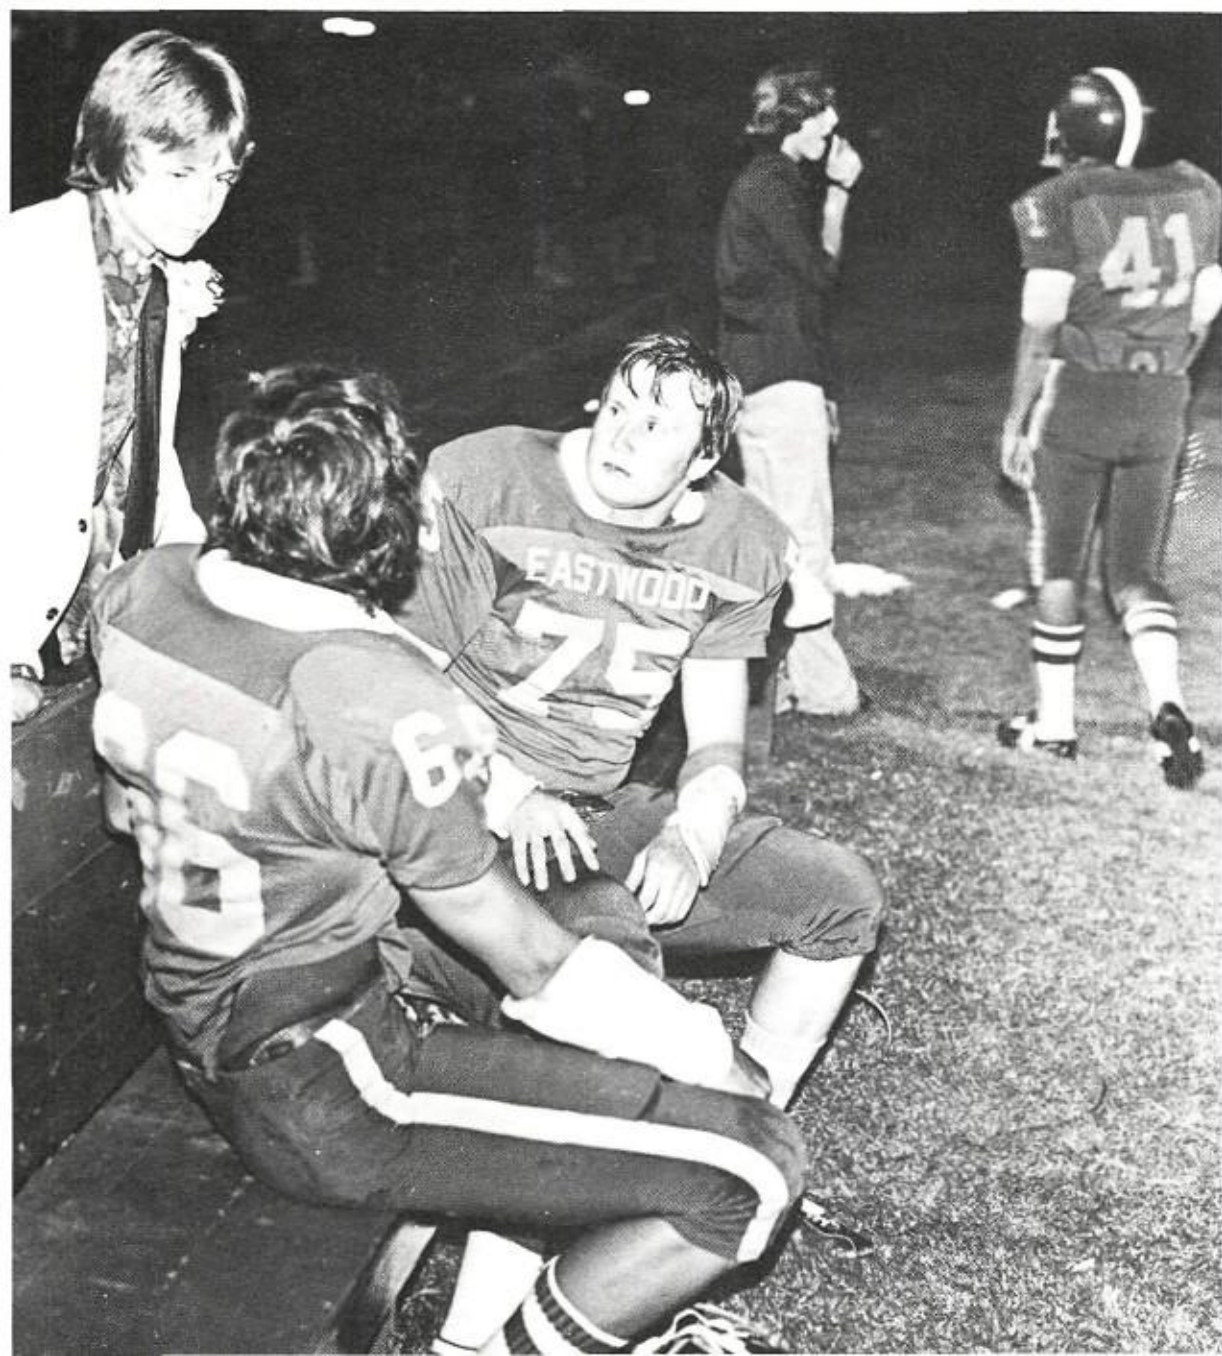

Though the next few games for the Troop proved to be difficult, the District race was open for the future. Midland, Ysleta, Riverside and Clovis seemed to give the Troop problems as Eastwood lost to the tough four.

It may have looked like it was all over to some people, but when the Troop defeated the Andress Eagles, a team who was 5-0, the tide of public opinion turned. The Troop had proven that they, too, had a ball club.

Brigade captures Homecoming victory

After the victorious Troopers had defeated the Andress Eagles, they were in a three way tie for the district race. But, the defending Coronado Champs crushed Eastwood's hopes for a perfect, no loss district record, and a chance for an All City title. Had the Troop defeated the T-birds, there might have been nothing to stop the surge of spirit to win.

Irvin met Eastwood on the Troops home turf which almost caused the Rockets to sputter into what seemed to be a cement ground. Holding the Rockets behind at the half, Eastwood held a 14-13 lead over the fizzled group. The Troop thought they had substained firm ground, but a late fourth quarter score left the Troop gazing at starlight. The clock ticked away and the Troop was unable to launch a scoring drive to victory.

Eastwood later lost to Austin and Burges which was by no means a giveaway for the opposing teams. Though the season left the Troop with a 1-4 district record, stand outs on the team still appeared. The praising of an individual may be a tradition, but without the rest of the team behind each superstar, there would be no stars. In this sense, just credit should be given to the entire 1974 football team for a tremendous effort.

JV takes district crown: 10-0 season

Winning the district championship capitalized this years junior varsity football season with a 10-0 record. Under the leadership of the new JV coaches Art Shaw and Roy Culberson, the JV's racked up the best record in Eastwood history. "Coach Culberson and I have nothing to say, we let our players do our talking for us on the field," summed up Coach Shaw as he discussed the team unity.

A 100 percent effort at practice proved to be a tribute to team success on the field. Offensively the attack was led by quarterback Jimmy Haynes and wingback Don Martinez. This proved to be the winning combination against the Andress Eagles in a come from behind effort in a close 21-20 victory. A powerful line added an explosive running attack with Chris Loya and Rick Johnson in the backfield.

Defensively a big line, a strong line-backing unit, and a tough secondary held opponents to a minimum number of points. Joe Hicks and Tim Aguilar proved to be strong figures for the defensive team.

Nick Carey sweeps around the left end for good yardage and brought in a first down.

Team unity earns freshmen 6-3 record

As David Blenkinsop puts the clamp on a Ross back, teammates help add the final touches.

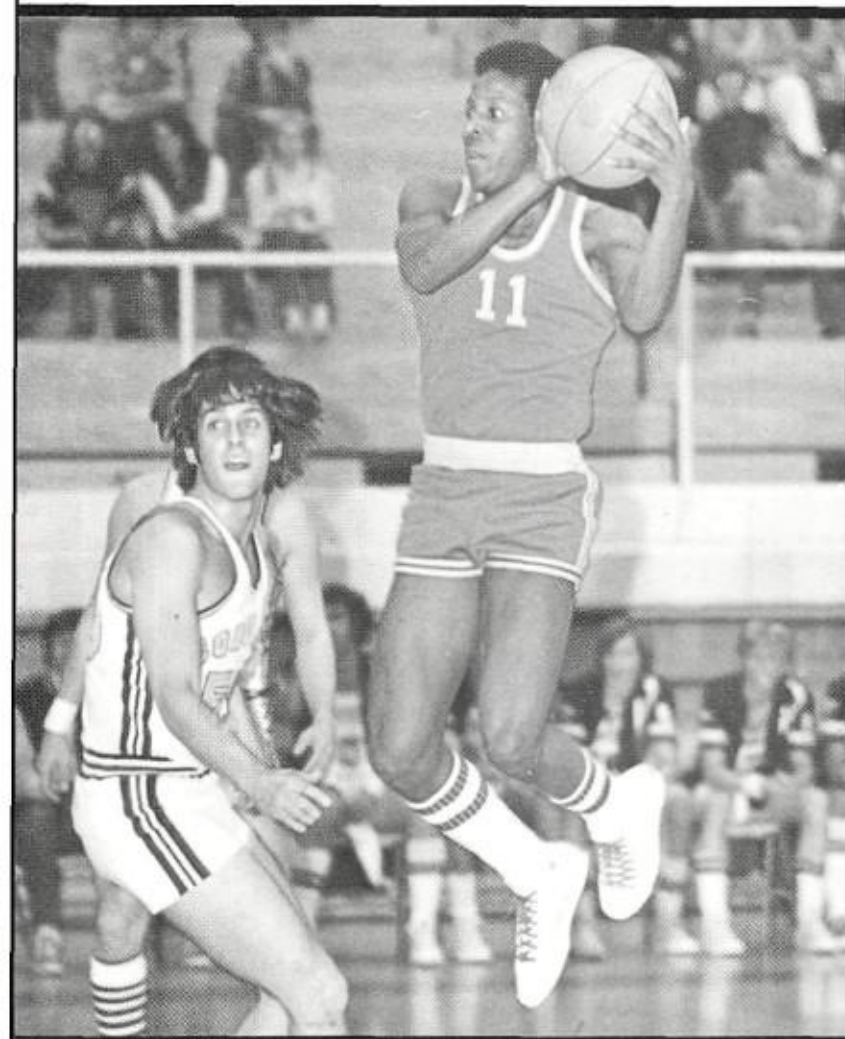

"Rapidly adapting to a new system of play and acquiring team unity was the key to our success," emphasized Coach Gary Pippen. Coach Pippen, along with new coach, Steve Henry, guided the freshman football team to a successful season of six wins with only three losses. Unfortunately, two of the three losses came in district action as the freshmen took third place in district.

After starting off to a 3-3 record, the freshmen ended with a three game win streak. Standouts on offense were Lonnie Dugger, David Segapelli, and Cliff Soain. Kenny Wade, Steve Barden, and Eleazar Lozayo showed outstanding play on defense.

David Segapelli hands off to Cliff Spain.

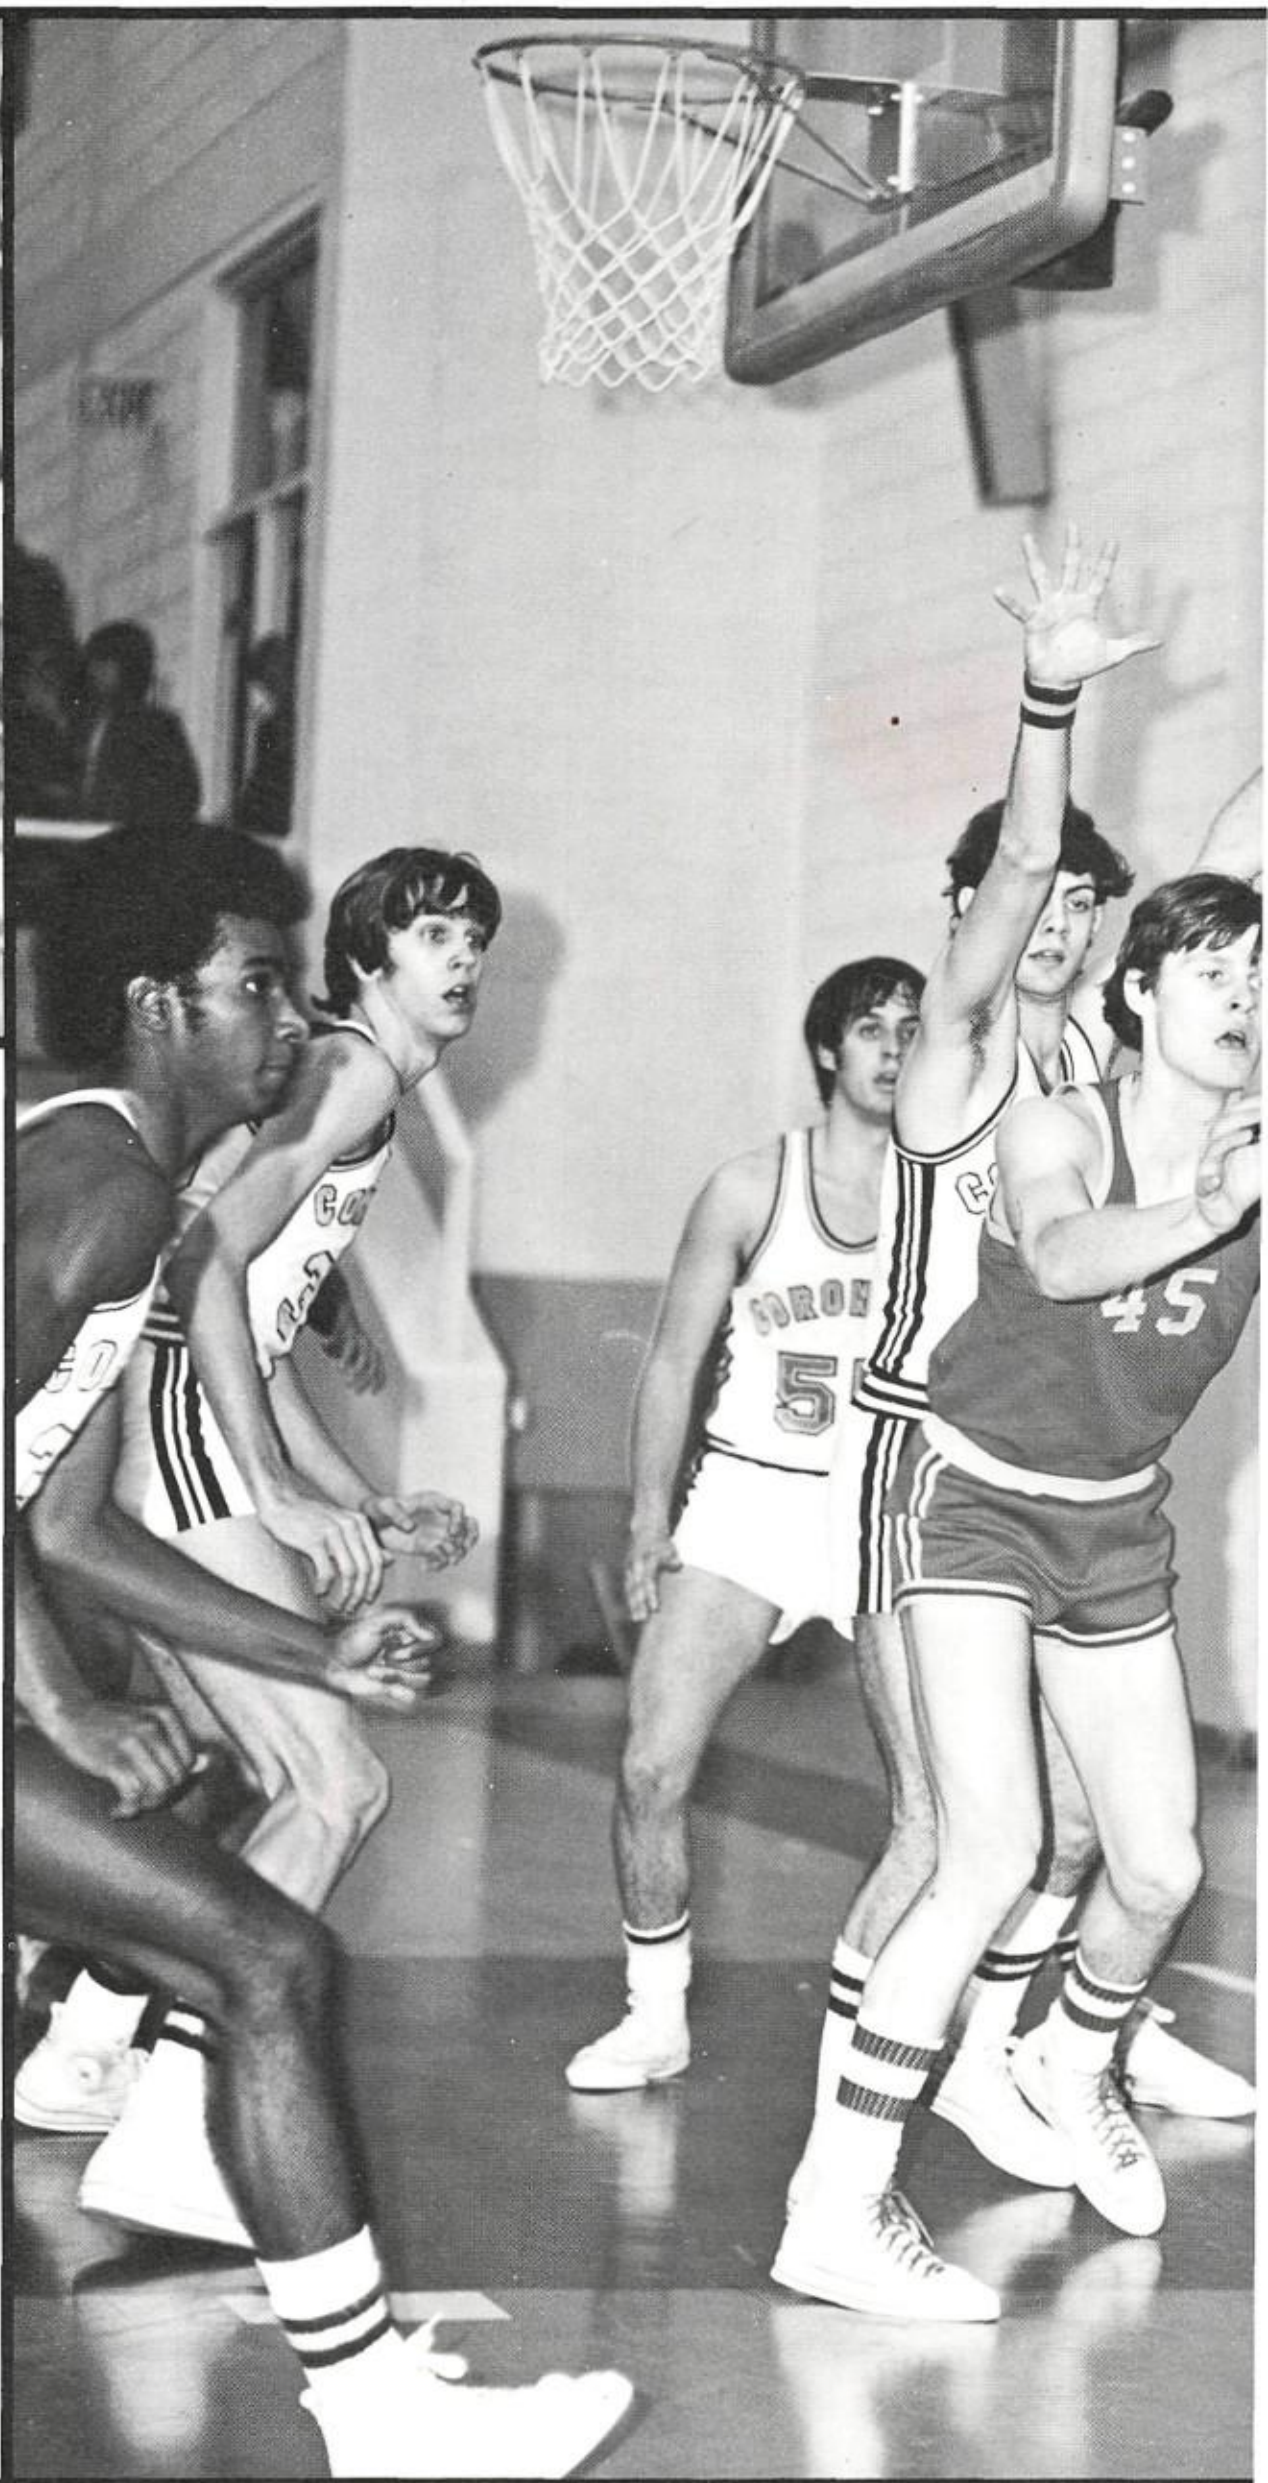

Coach Pippen and Coach Henry view the game.

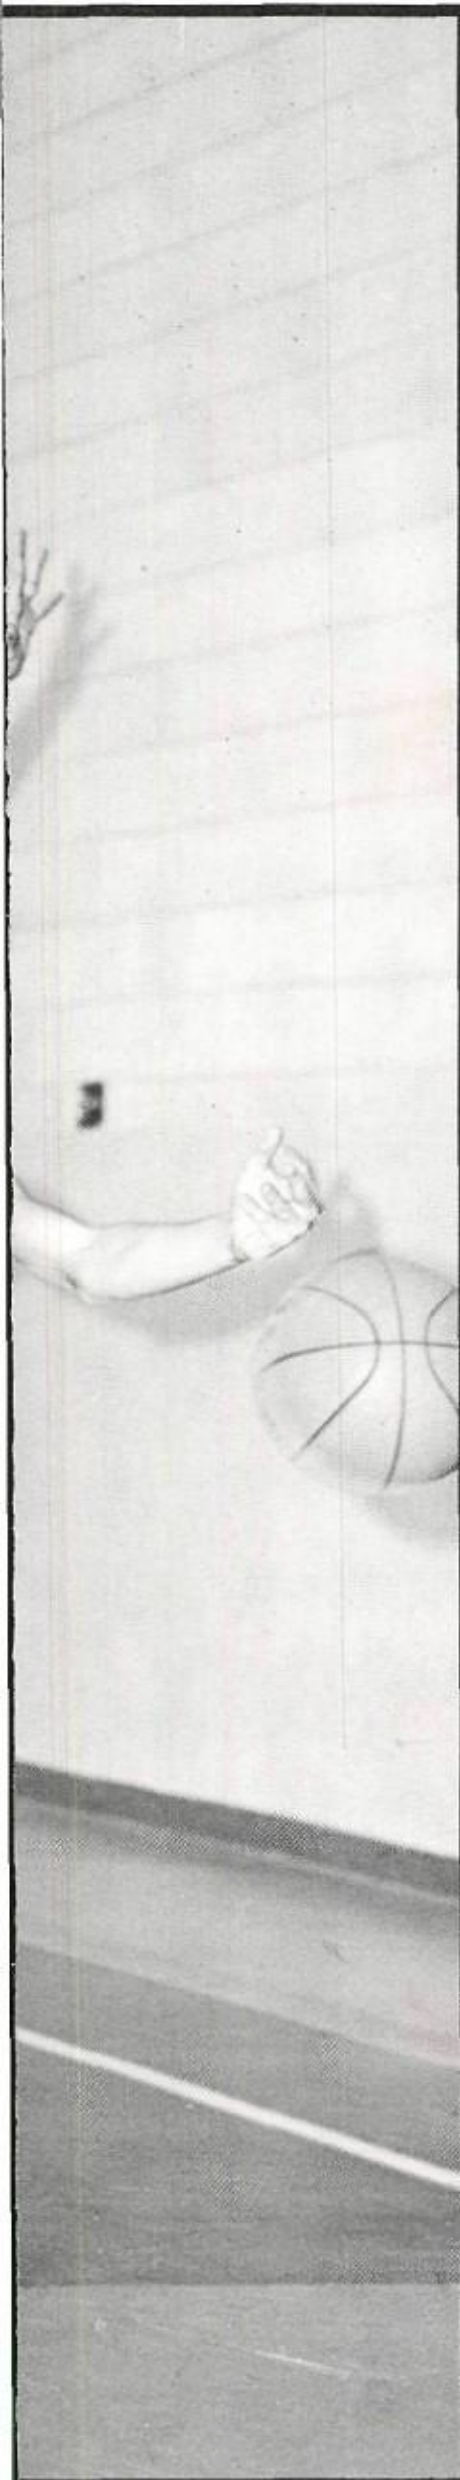

The high paced, fast action of basketball has always commanded world wide popularity for the sport. But there is more to basketball than the average fan sees. There is more involved to the skill then the percentage shots. A team must learn to adjust smoothly from offense to defense and back again. A team must always be alert enough to snatch a ball away at the first opportunity.

Eastwood's Varsity Basketball team faces such challenges in each game. Returning as bi-district champions, the Troop must produce a fight to remain on top. To the Troop's disadvantage is the fact that a majority of last year's champions have graduated. To the Troop's advantage is their depth with almost all players being possible starters.

Troop boasts 14-6 pre-district record

Defeating El Paso 62-53 and Jefferson 75-69, the Eastwood Troopers began the 1974-1975 campaign in fine fashion. Three days later, Eastwood encountered Jefferson again but found the Foxes much tougher as they defeated the Troop 73-68.

Sporting a 2-1 record, the Troopers entered the Jefferson tournament. The Bowie Bears defeated the Troop 68-54. Eastwood then defeated Riverside and Amarillo Caprock to pick up a consolation trophy.

During Christmas, Eastwood traveled to the Hobbs Holiday Tournament where they defeated Plainview and Midland and faced Hobbs in the finals. The Troop found the Hobbs home-court advantage too tough as they were downed 91-76.

Coronado became the first victim of the defending district and bi-district champions when they fell to the Troop by a score of 62-56 as District 1-AAAA action got underway on Friday, January 17.

Pre-district favorite Irvin then traveled to Eastwood to face the young Troopers. The Troop played like true champions as they took the early lead and kept it throughout the ball game while outscoring the more experienced Rockets, 64-53.

After two wins at home, Eastwood then hit the road to travel to Andress. The homecourt advantage was to no avail as the Troop whipped Andress by a score of 70-56.

Once again the Troopers took to the road as they journeyed to meet the arch rival Burges Mustangs. Both sporting a 3-0 district record, this game would determine who took over first in district competition. The Mustangs downed the Troop by a score of 71-56.

After wins over Coronado, Irvin, Andress, and Austin, the Troopers supported a 4-1 record after the first round of District 1-AAAA. The only loss came to Burges as the Mustangs held a one game edge on the Troop.

Entering the second round, the race proved to be in the hands of either the Troopers or the Mustangs as they were the only two teams with winning records after half of district play.

The Troopers started in fine fashion as they held off the Coronado T-Birds 52-49. Even though the T-Birds stood at 0-5, the game proved to be a tough one. At the end of regulation play the two teams were deadlocked at 46-46. The Troop went on to win in overtime over the T-Birds.

Eastwood then traveled to Irvin to face the Rockets. In a must situation, the Troopers pulled off a big game by defeating the Rockets, 63-57. By winning, the Troopers stayed in strong contention for the title.

JV season daunted by stiff opponents

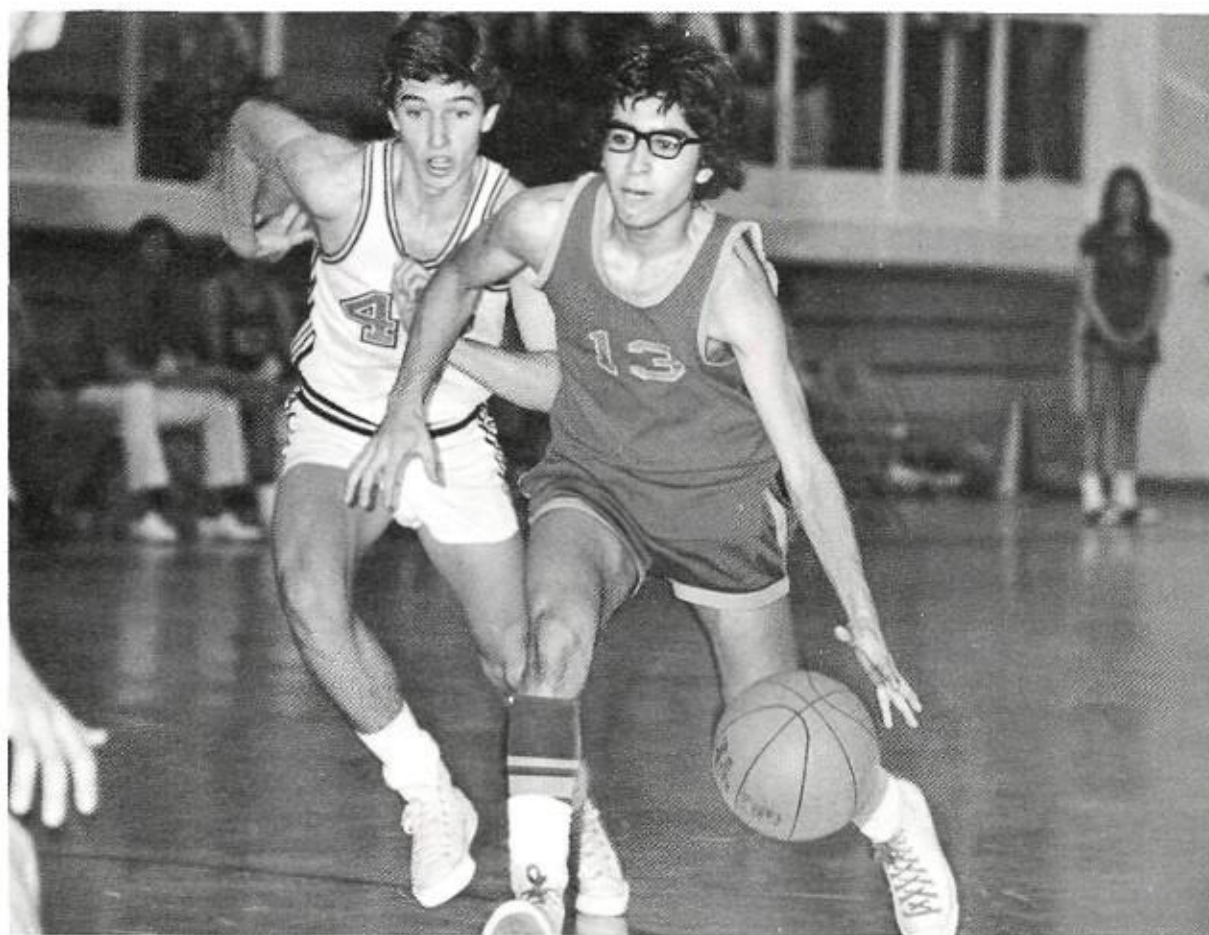

Taking first in the Lydia Patterson Tournament capped off a fairly successful pre-district campaign as the B-team defeated Fabens, 52-32; Jefferson, 79-76, and Bel Air, 70-69.

After a 10-5 pre-district record, the Troop entered the tough competition of District 1-AAAA play. Eastwood dropped their first contest to Coronado, 64-61.

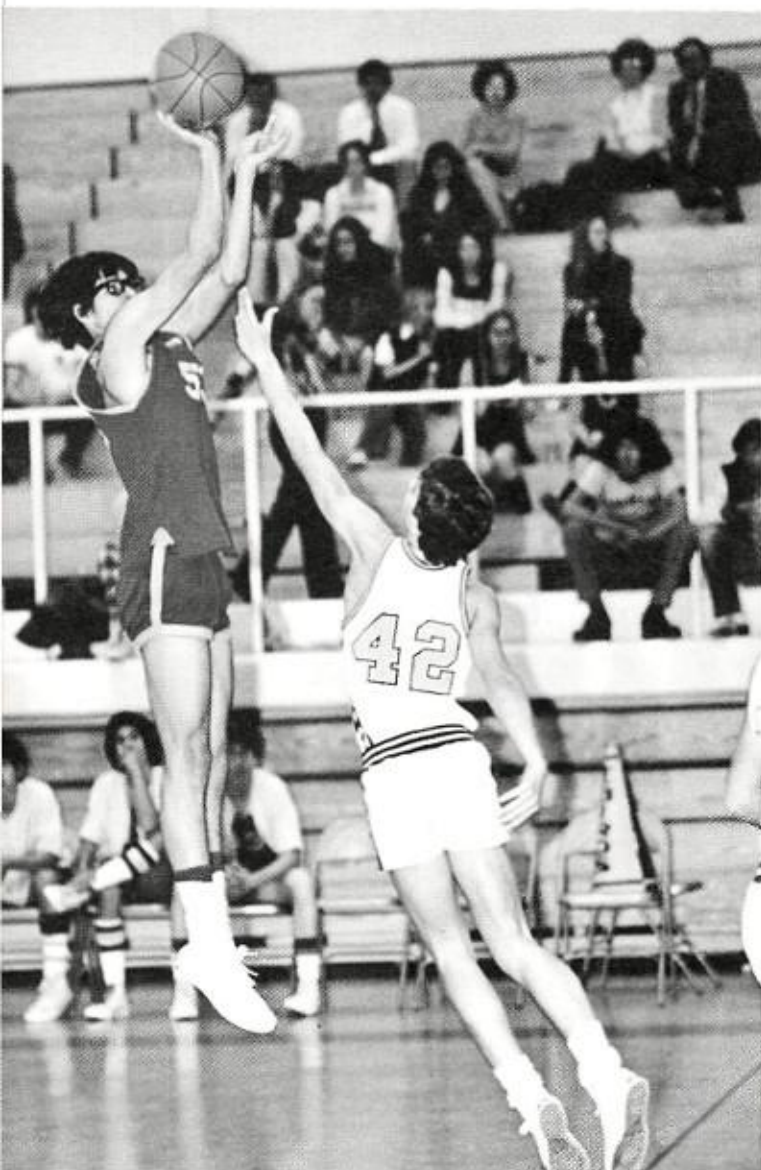

The JV's then pulled together a win as they crushed Irvin, 72-51. The Troop used their speed and quickness to outrun the Rockets.

The Troop then encountered the tall Andress Eagles. Eastwood was defeated by the score of 68-65.

The Troopers then split the two remaining games by defeating Burges, 64-62, and losing to Austin, 64-61, to end with a 2-3 record.

Starting off on the right foot, Coach Henry led his young freshmen basketball team to a 1-AAAA district championship.

Unhindered by inexperience, this year's squad dominated their opponents. Supporting the tallest team that Eastwood has ever seen, the yearlings compiled a 10-2 predistrict record. Led by floor general Lonnie Dugger the offense proved to be nothing less than explosive. Under the boards Mike State, Bill Wilke and Erich Smith, all well over six feet, controlled the tempo of the games on both ends of the court.

The Troop lost only one district game to Austin. After the loss the team bounced back to defeat Coronado, 47-45. Obsessed with the desire to win, the Troop rolled on to defeat all opposition. This streak included Austin in the second round of play. The Troop won and clinched the district title.

Cross country is gaining more recognition and popularity at Eastwood than ever. One sign is that the team has practically doubled in runners since last season.

Early in the year the team traveled to Las Cruces twice to run, then competed in four other local events. Finishing the season, they placed fifth in district. Lettermen Juan Ornelas, Larry Gohlson, Rick Puente, and Steve Forrest stood out in their meets, with Ornelas being the team's top performer by placing in the top ten in competition quite frequently.

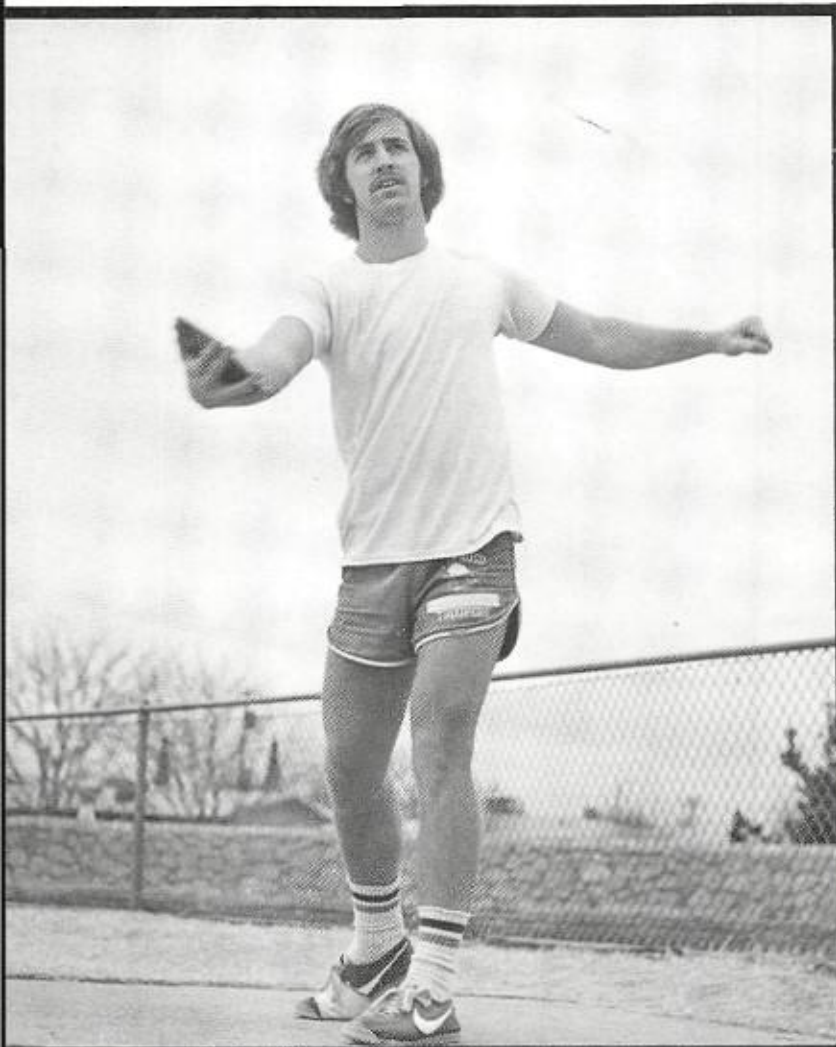

With the quantity of the '74 team what it is, future Eastwood teams should keep improving.

CROSS COUNTRY

As the Eastwood thinclads opened their 1975 campaign, the Troop and Burges Mustangs once again found themselves in contention for the district I-AAAA crown.

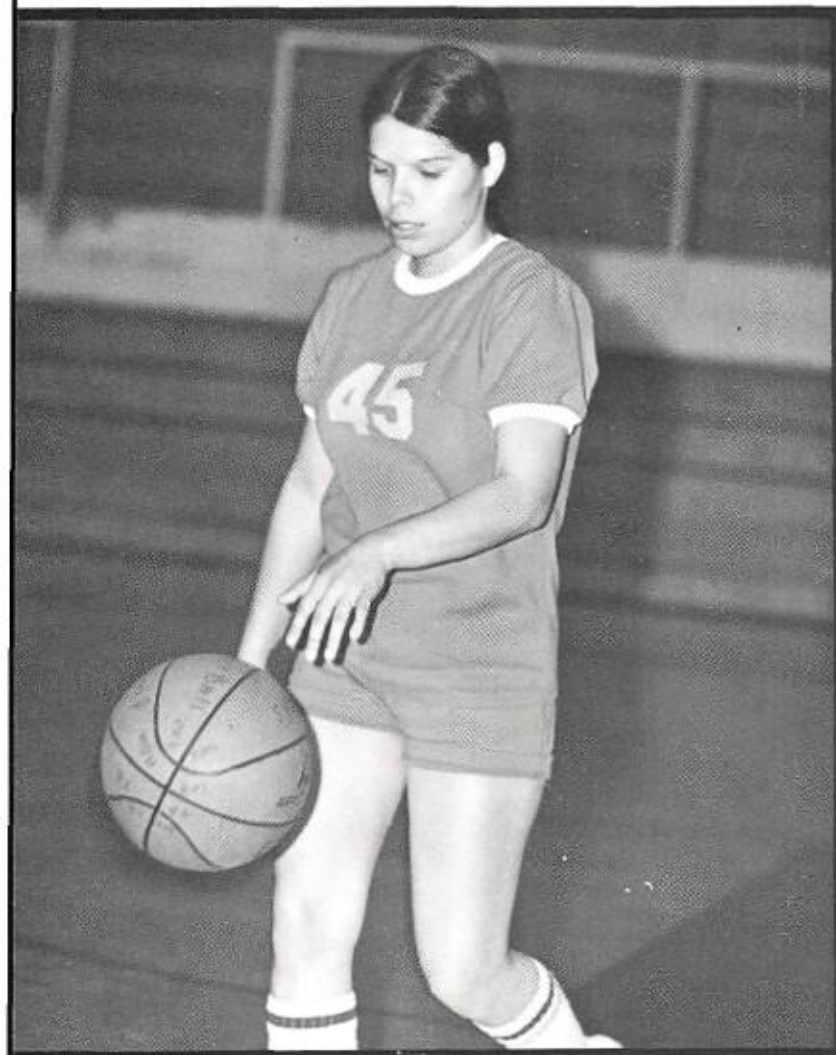

Six returning lettermen provided the basis for team depth. Senior Ron Miller, who has two years of previous experience, lead the shot putters. In the other weightmen's category, senior Dennis Diaz threw discus. Sophomore Tim Crenshaw excelled in the high jump, hurdles, and long jump. Senior Dan Ford headed many of the sprint events and senior Juan Ornelas ran the long events.

TRACK

"I'm not a girl athlete- I'm an athlete and that's all there is to it." This is the motto of the girls who take part in competitive sports.

After completing an entire year of competition, the athletes are eligible to purchase a letter jacket. These jackets are just like those the boys get for competition.

The athletes have to fight for equal recognition among other students and in the press. They use the gym after the boys are finished, and have less than adequate locker room facilities. These problems hinder the girls, but they pulled through to produce a winning season, with several district titles in their pocket.

GIRLS SPORTS

JV emerges as district title contender

Free throws, lay-ups, and dribbling create a new way of life for the members of the girls basketball B-team as they became contenders for the district title. Coached by Mrs. Peggie Birkhead, team members include freshmen, sophomores, and juniors. They practice after school, and during athletics sixth period.

In girls basketball only one rule differs from those practiced in boys basketball. A player is not allowed to cross the center line of the court. The only way the ball can cross the center line is when one player passes the ball to one of her team mates on the opposite side of the basketball court.

All players must have eligibility slips signed by their teachers before each game. Team members are supplied with uniforms of matching shorts and blouses for the games.

Team mates watch with interest as B-team members Sylvia Rios, Kim Hicks, Yvonne Terrazas, and Tammy August perform lay-up shots during an after school practice session in the gym.

Under the coaching of Mrs. Peggie Birkhead, members of the girls junior varsity basketball team are: KNEELING: Yvonne Terrazas.

Basketball does exist for females

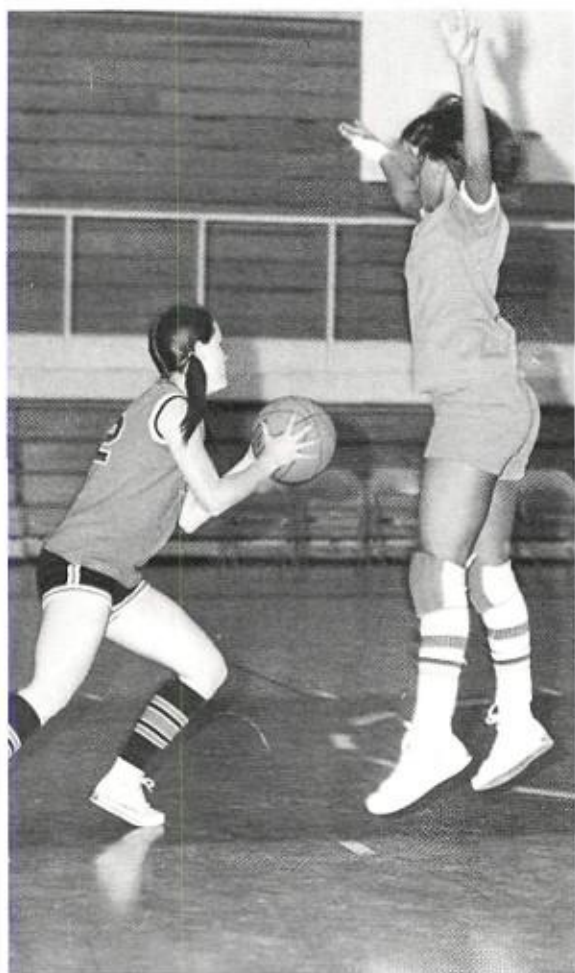

Many people were surprised to discover that a girls basketball team does exist. The team proved themselves as they competed under UIL rules with other girls teams.

Under coach Susan Farrell, the varsity team is composed of sophomores, juniors, and seniors. All girls who are interested in the team, practice after school. After watching all the girls play, Mrs. Farrell chooses the team members.

Team members display ability not only at the games, but also at practices during their sixth period athletics class and after school.

Members of the varsity basketball team are: FIRST ROW: Marta Tavaréz, Elsa Pierce, Toni Burkes, Alice Gaspar de Alba, and Vicki Palmer. SECOND ROW: Val Lee, Debbie Slaughter, Terry Pickett, Mrs. Susan Farrell, Terry Pepe, Debbie Rodriguez, and Sarah Williams.

Debbie Rodriguez finds the many hours of practice are rewarded as she keeps control of the basketball after catching a rebound despite the attempts of several players from Bel Air.

Girls earn recognition in volleyball

A good season is expected as the girls volleyball team begins competition. Practicing under the coaching of Mr. Odell Lesley, the girls put out a great deal of effort as they set their sights on the District I-AAAA championship title.

There is a varsity team for sophomores, juniors, and seniors as well as a freshman team. Mr. Lesley coaches both teams. The teams practice at 5:30 in the gym and the outside courts.

Volleyball, although new to the El Paso area on a competitive basis, causes a great show of enthusiasm on the part of the girls. The professional team also encourages them.

During a game against El Paso High in the new gym, junior Lorraine Magerovich jumps high above the net in order to hit the volleyball to the awaiting team on the opposite side of the court.

Track team improves to win meets

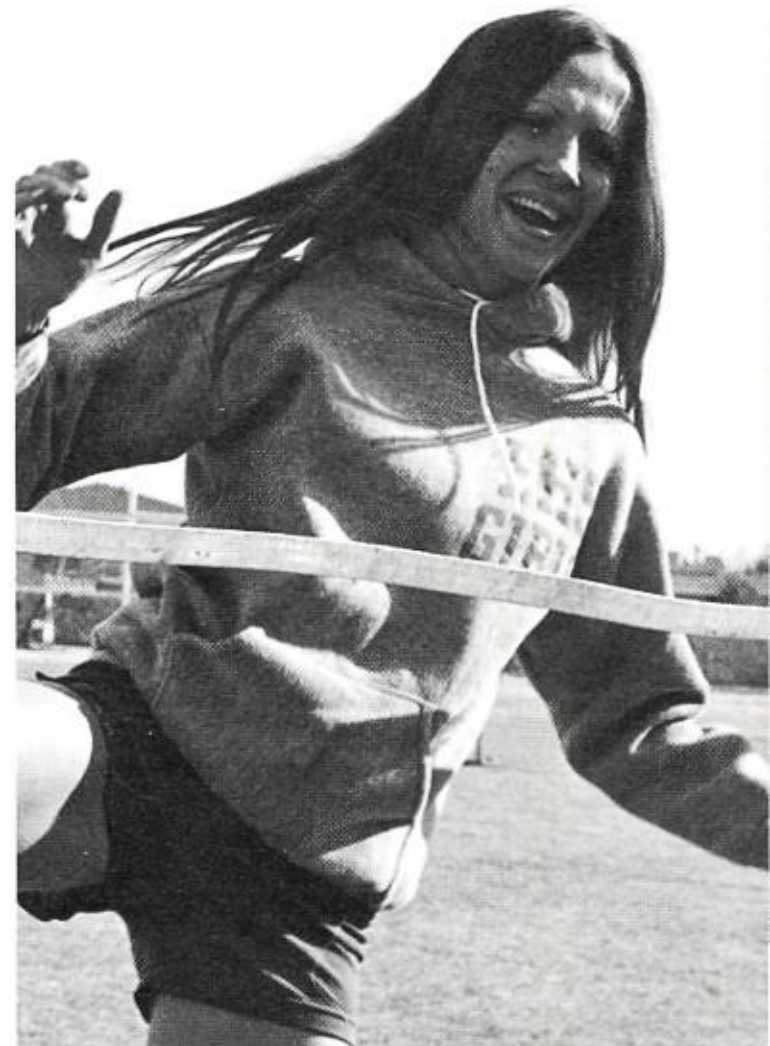

Members of the girls track team won district titles in several events after improving over last years' record through extra effort and an added incentive by the runners.

Running events the team competed in include the 60 yard dash, 100 yard dash, 220 and 440 yard run, and 440 and 880 yard relay races. The team also competed in field events such as the 80 yard hurdles, discus throw, shot put, and the high jump, long jump, and the triple jump.

The team ran against other schools at meets around the city. They competed with both El Paso and Ysleta school district schools. Mrs. Peggie Birkhead coached the team.

Track stars Linda Shaner, Elsa Pierce, and Marie Spindler practice running the 80 yard hurdles. Track team members started training in February for their competitive season which began in March.

Brenda Parkhill decides at the last minute to start again before jumping the high bar.

Though in its infantile stage, the sport of wrestling is beginning to mature in athletics.

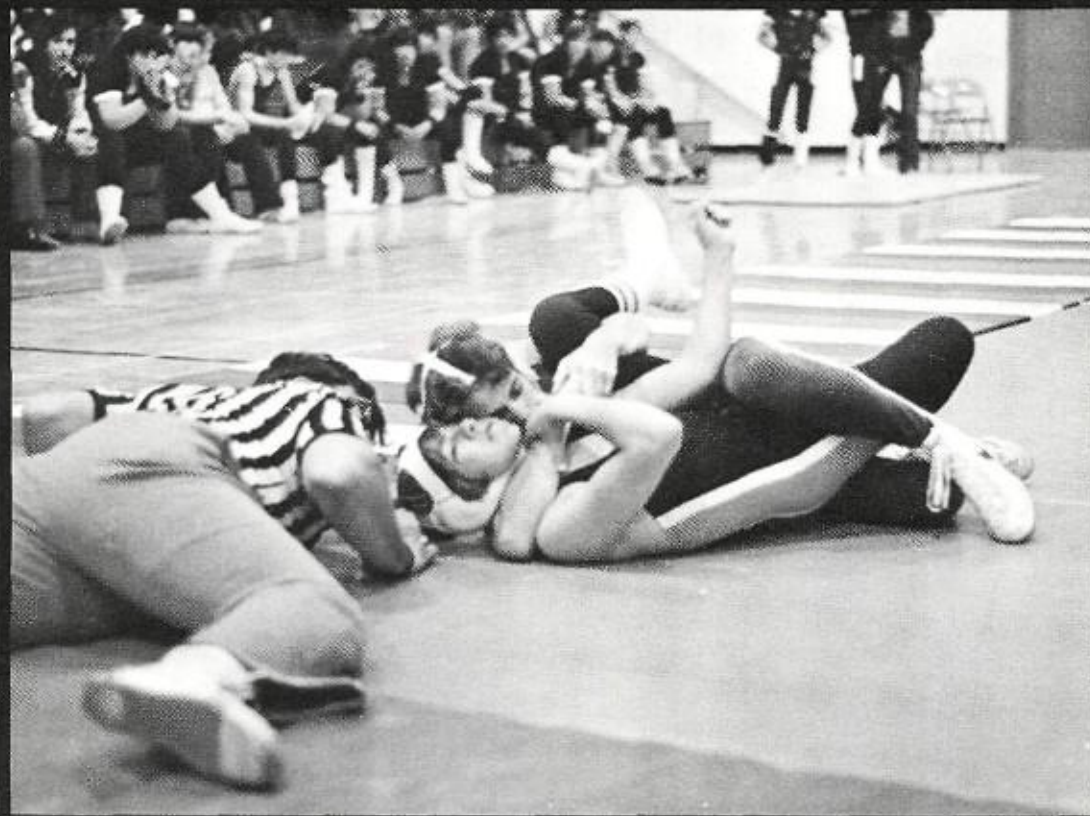

Wrestling is a sport where one must use a combination of strength and knowledge to compete. Each wrestler must maintain a certain weight to compete in his class.

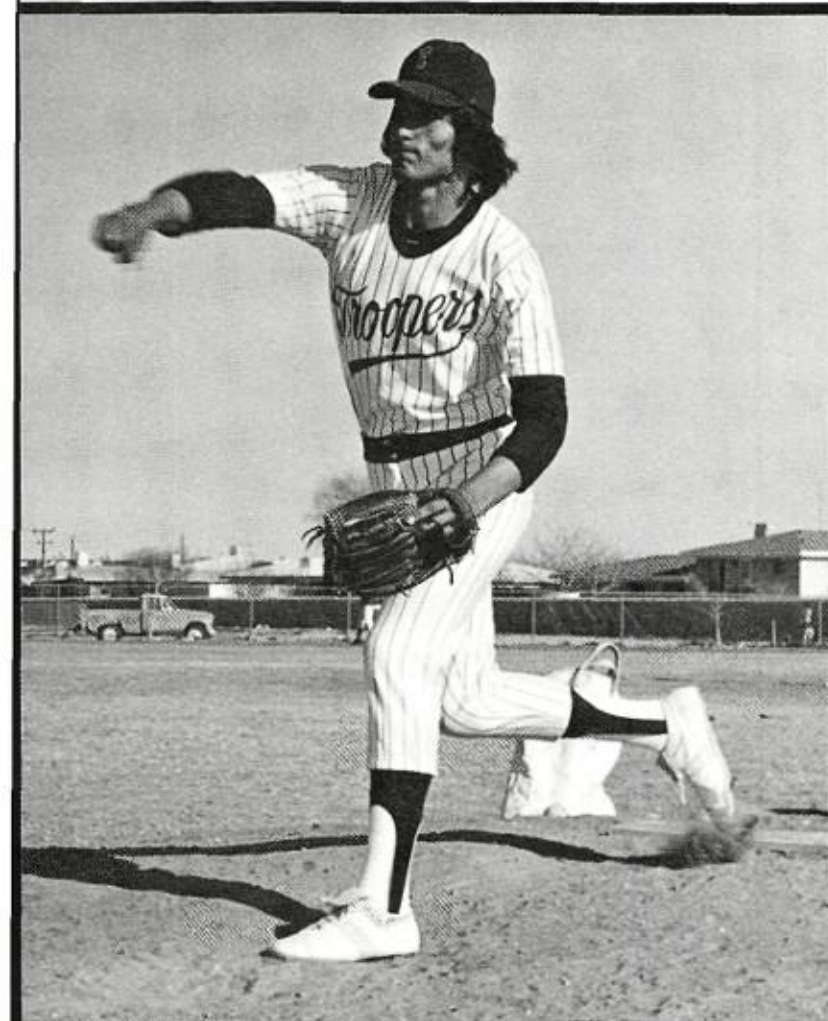

Although the meets lack in spectator attendance the team has not lacked to execute professionally. Returning lettermen are Rene Baca, Mike Carter, Tom Carter, Steve Hebert, Jim Holcomb, Mike McKay, and Raul Soto.

WRESTLING

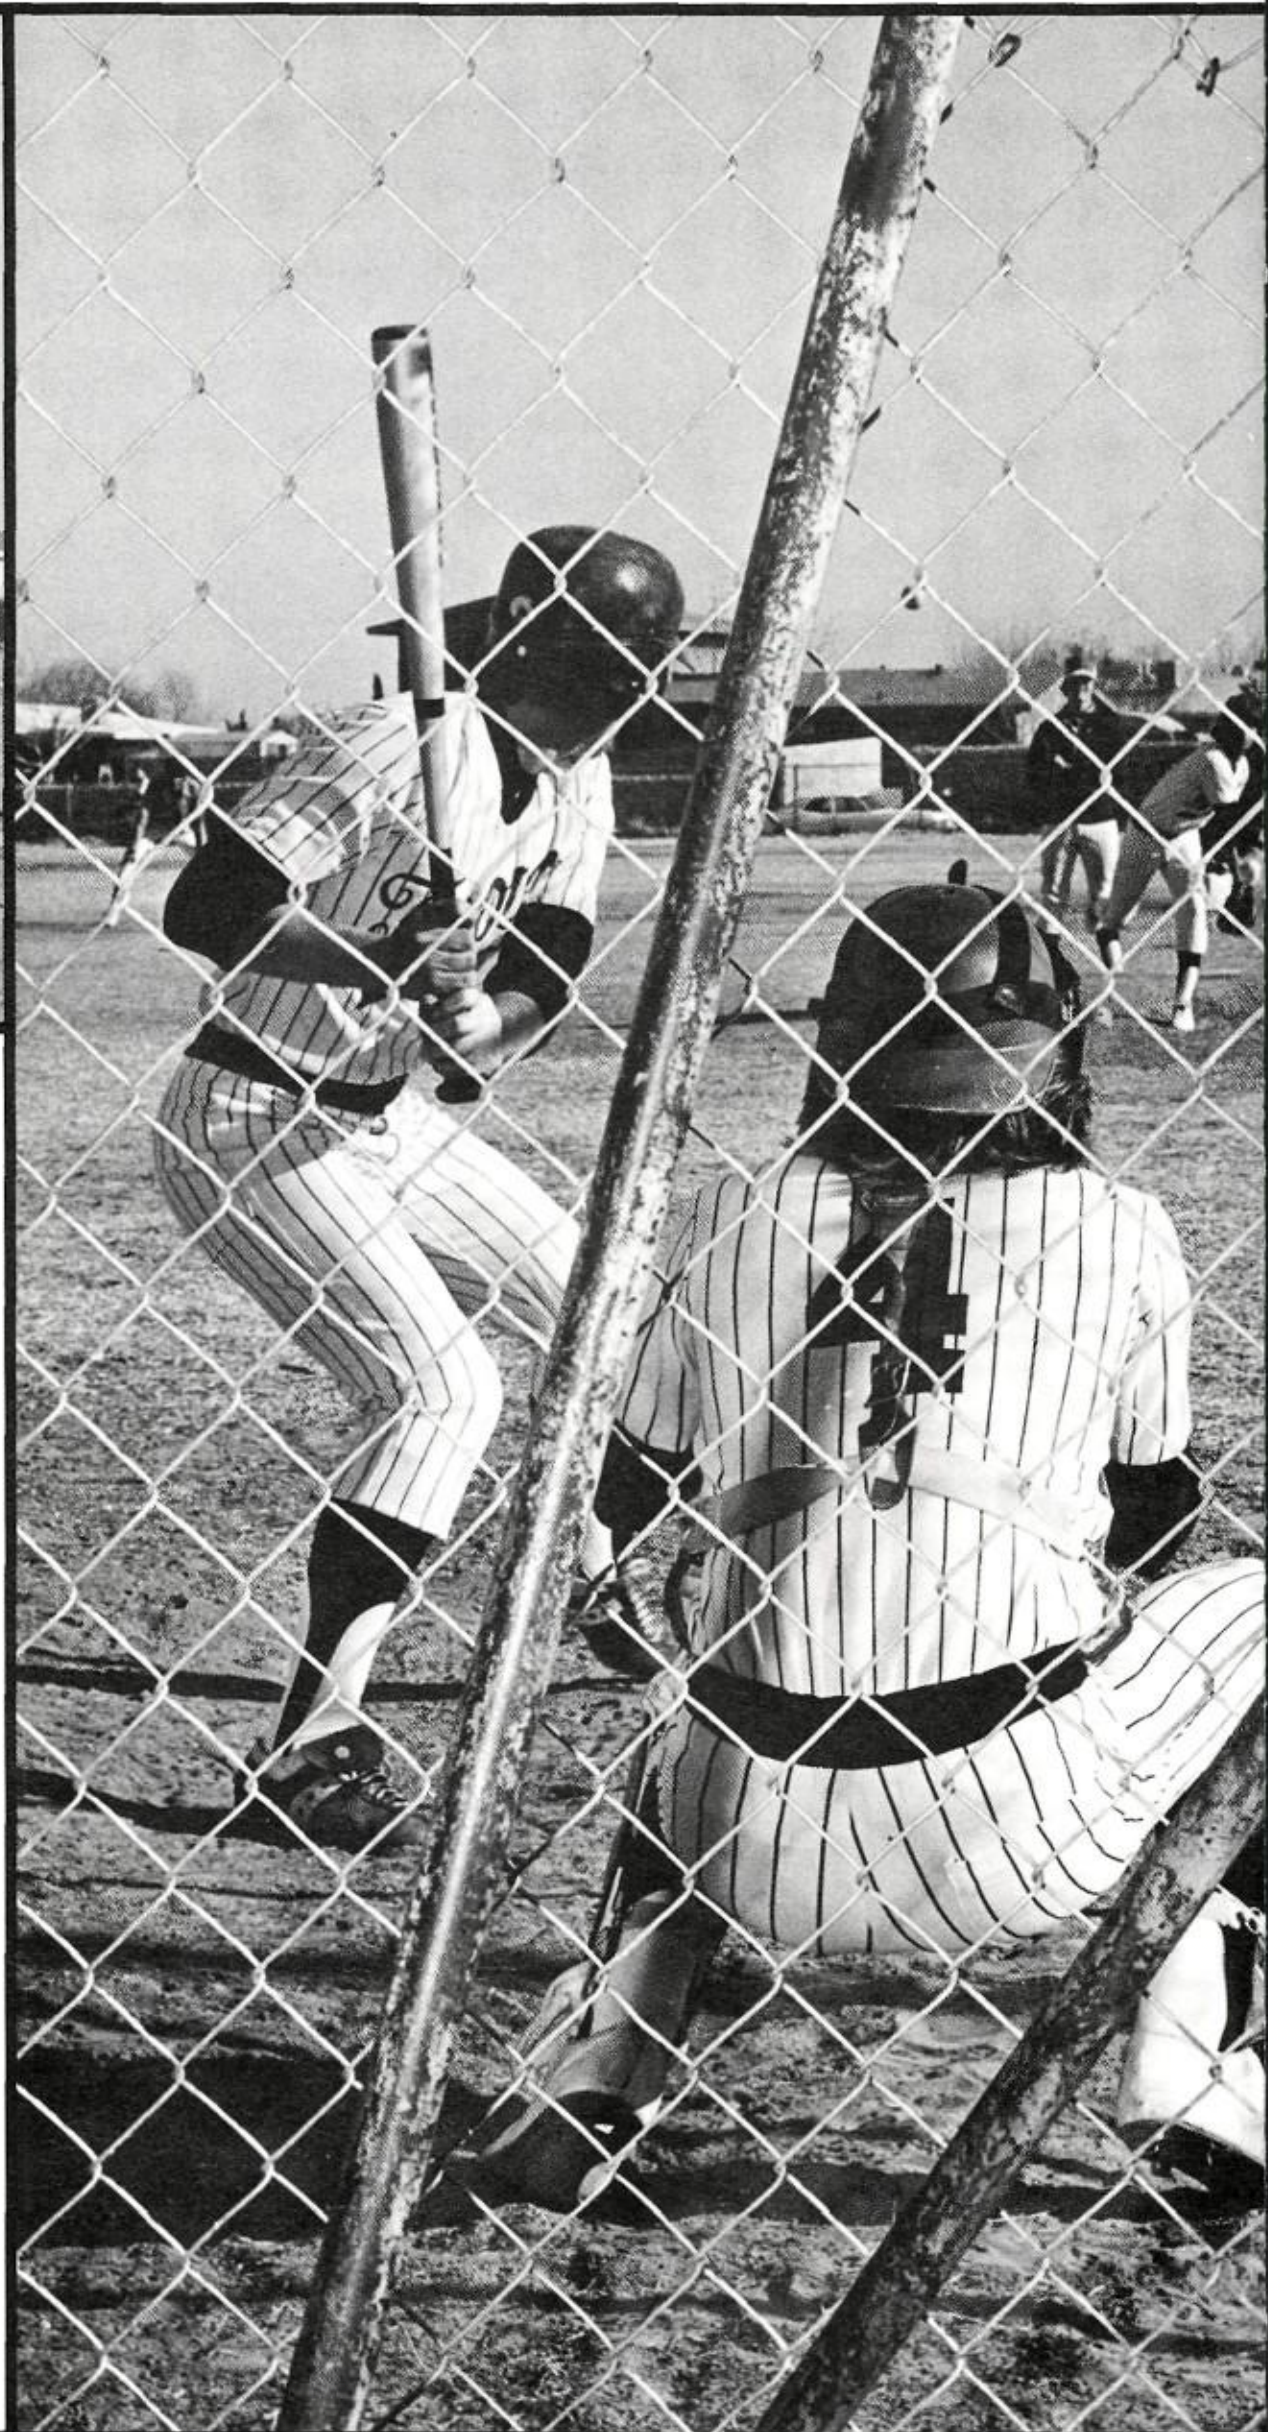

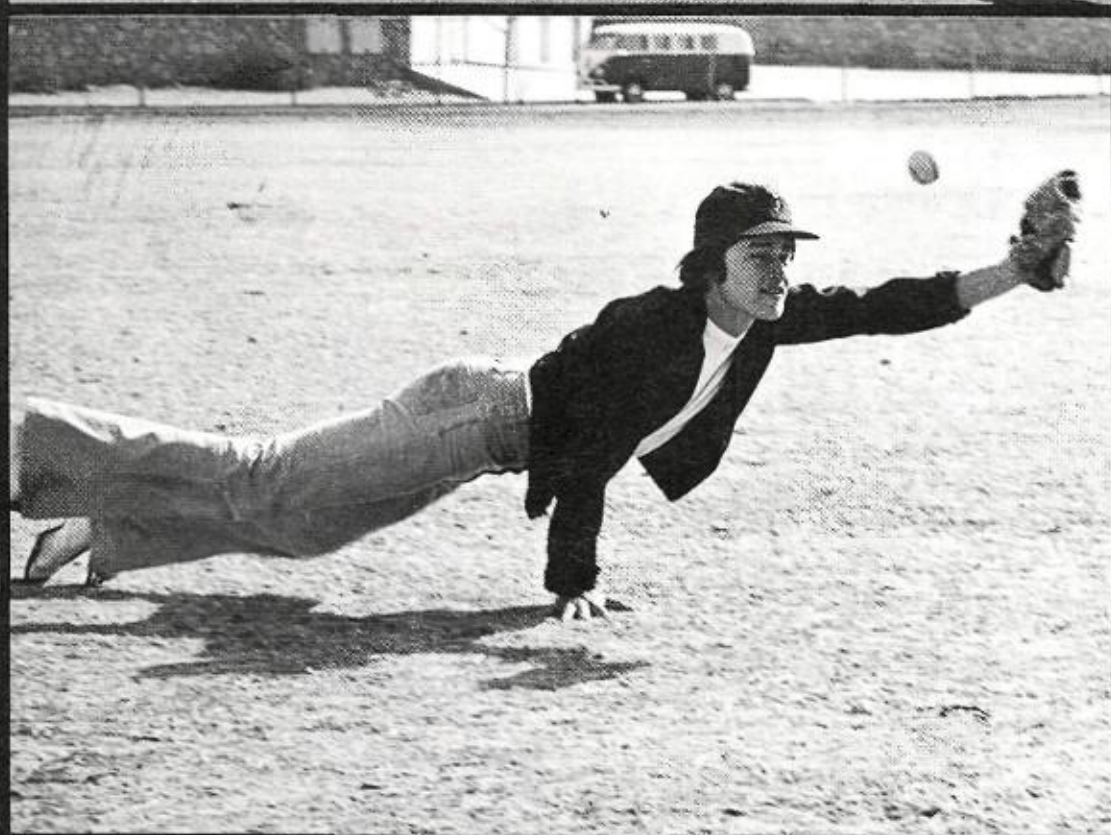

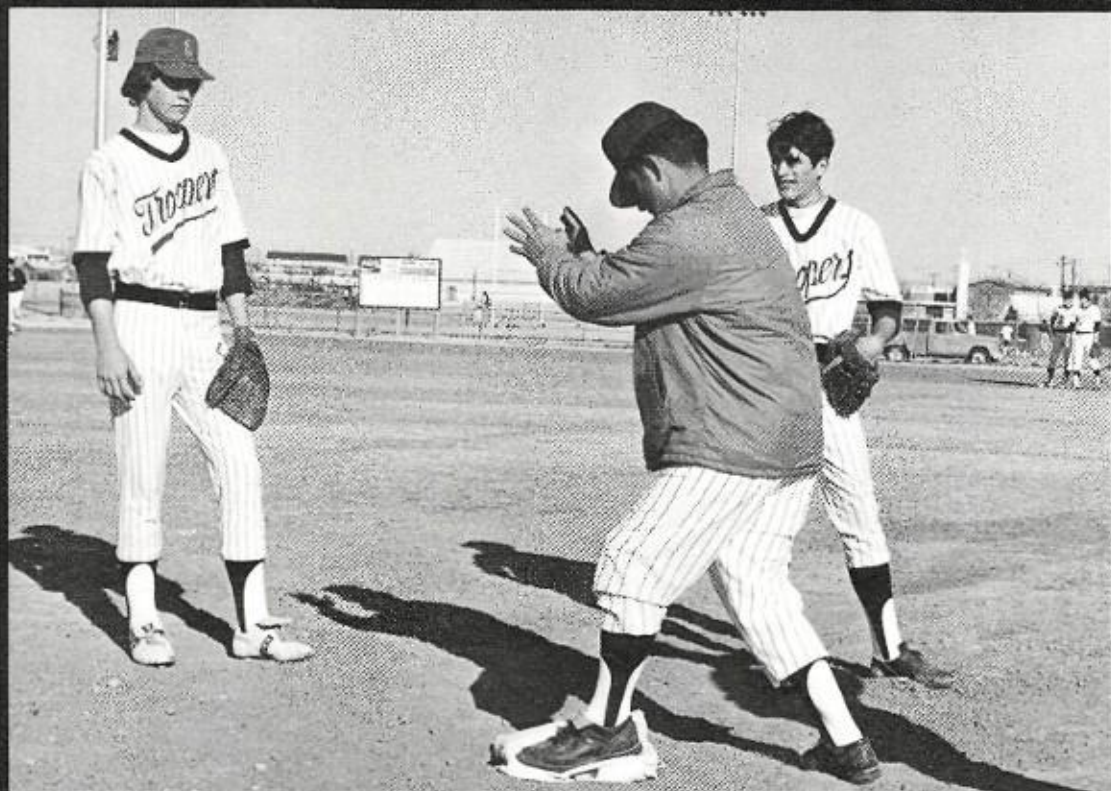

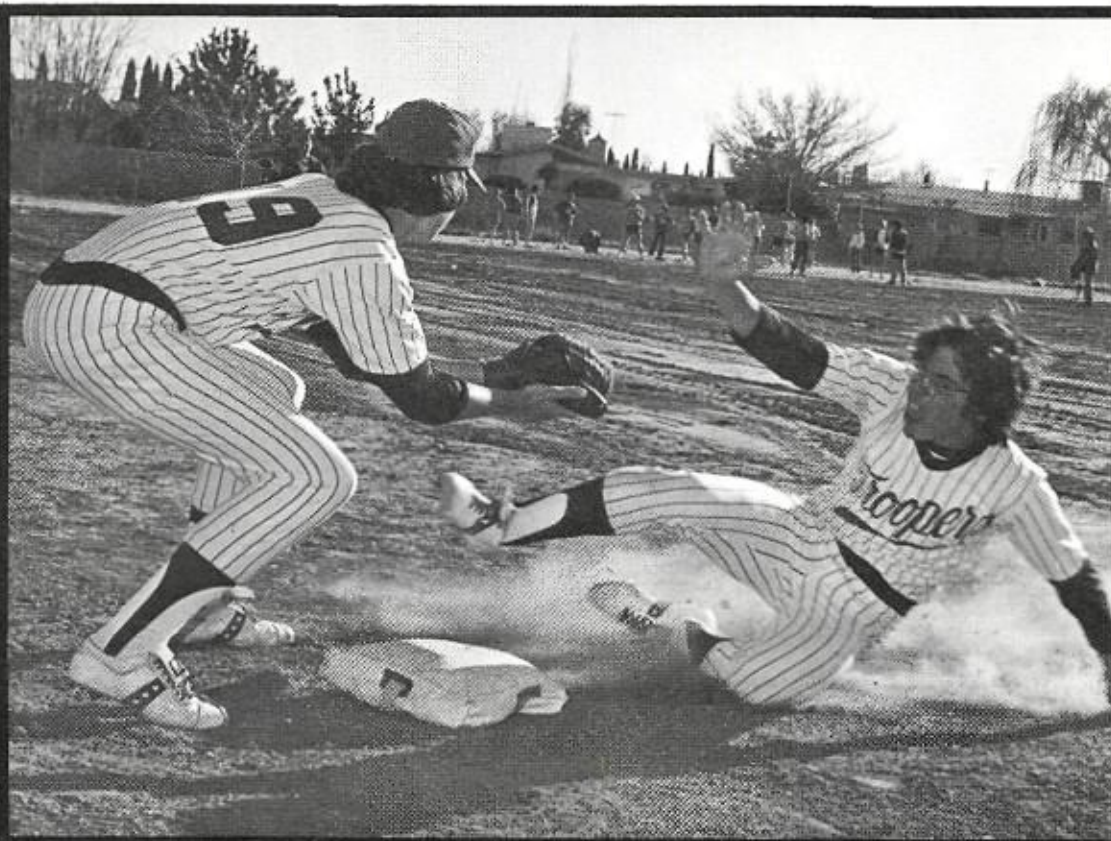

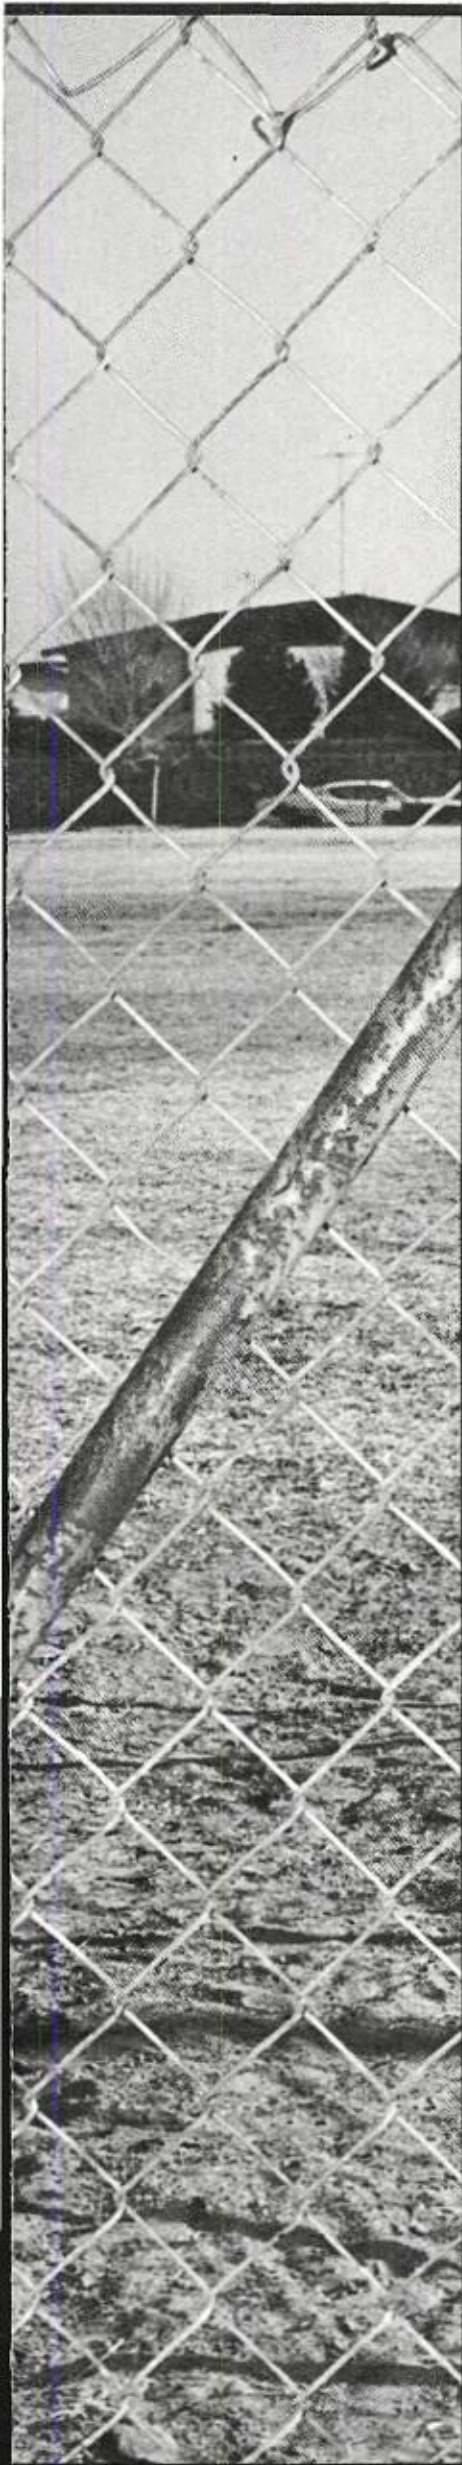

Jim Pufal's baseball squad has been itching for the district crown for a long time. The spirit and high hopes of the team made 1975 a prosperous year.

This year's team was the largest in recent years with a good mixture of experience and many sophomore prospects. Gary Work, Ronnie Lopez, Vic Isenburg, and other sophomores kept the established players on their toes all season. The season remained highly competitive and proved valuable in experience for the young team.

A strong offense, with both consistent and powerful hitting, is the main ingredient in a winning season. Coach Pufal strives for just that, errorless fielding and no mental mistakes on the diamond.

BASEBALL

Baseballers return with 10 lettermen

If experience is the key to success then the Trooper baseball team has what it takes. One of the most experienced and talented groups of players to compete for Eastwood proved to be district contenders.

Six starters from last years squad and 10 lettermen returned once again this year to take the field. Hector Soto, Dan Andis, Richard Teran, and Barry Wolf aided to the Troopers strong fielding game. Rob Feedback and Doug McNicol pitched with confidence to returning catcher Mike Jenkins. Sophomore Vic Isenburg contributed his talents to the squads success. Many new faces from the JV squad added to the teams depth.

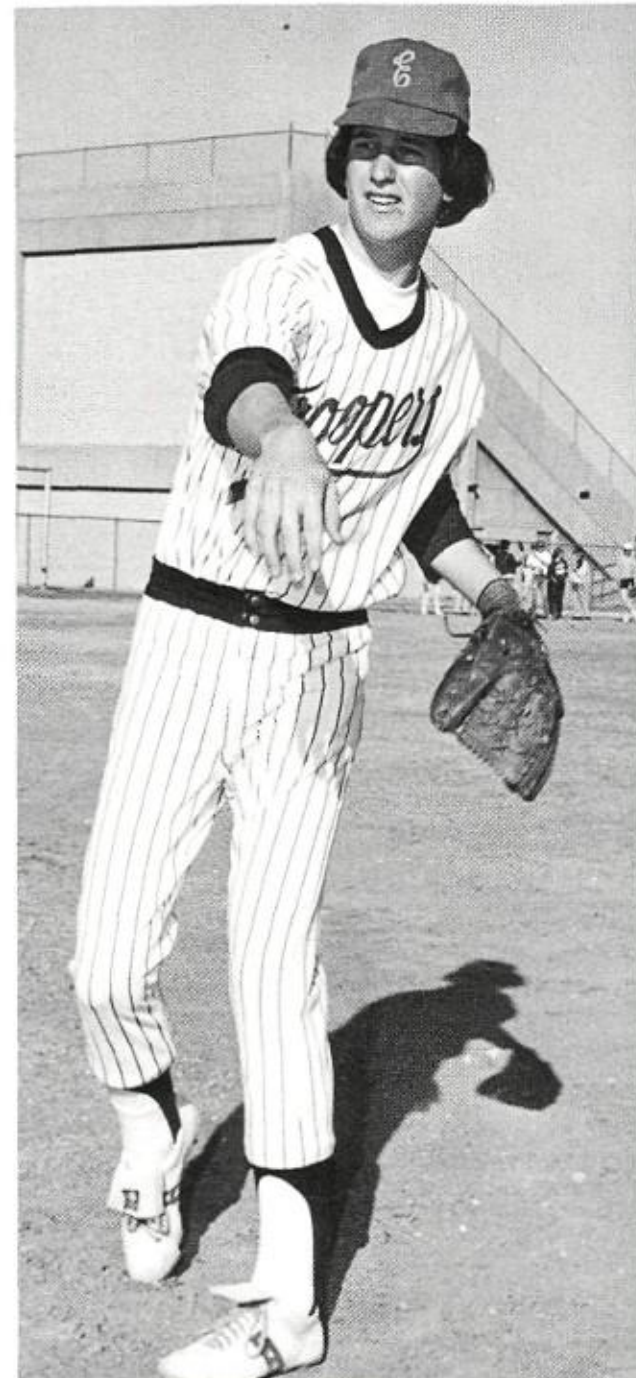

Hustling outfielder Dan Andis zeroes in to snag a high fly ball from his right field position.

Sophomore short stop Vic Isenburg loosens up for an upcoming game by relaying in a fielded ball.

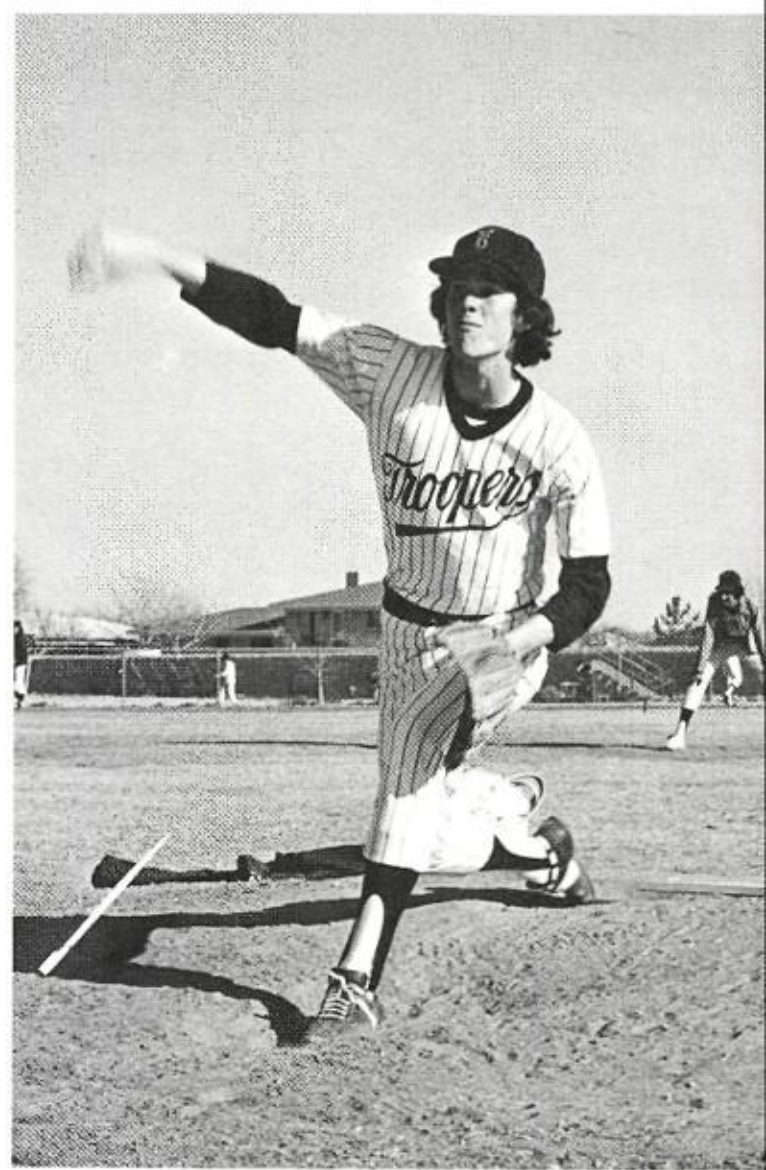

First baseman Danny Serna goes down on one knee to field a hard hit grounder during practice.

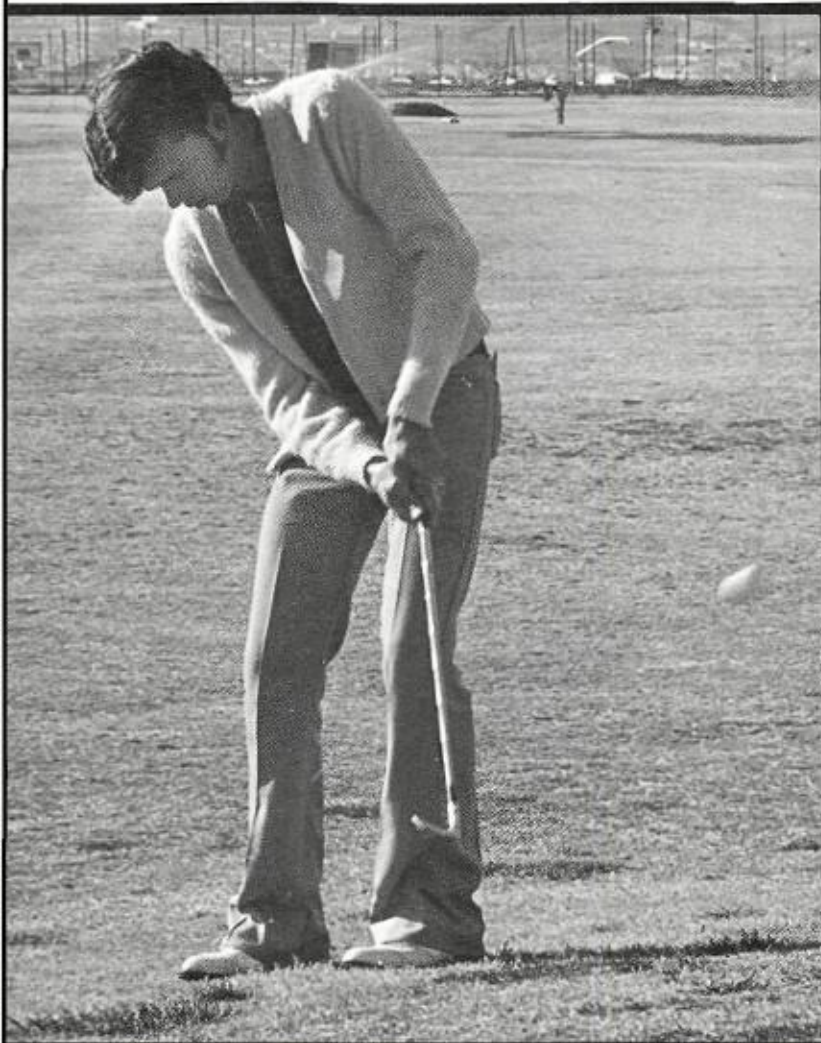

Coach Pufal instructs Tony Yarbrough on form.

Senior player Richard Teran steps up to the plate and takes a powerful swing during batting practice.

Chuck Plunkett demonstrates the proper form.

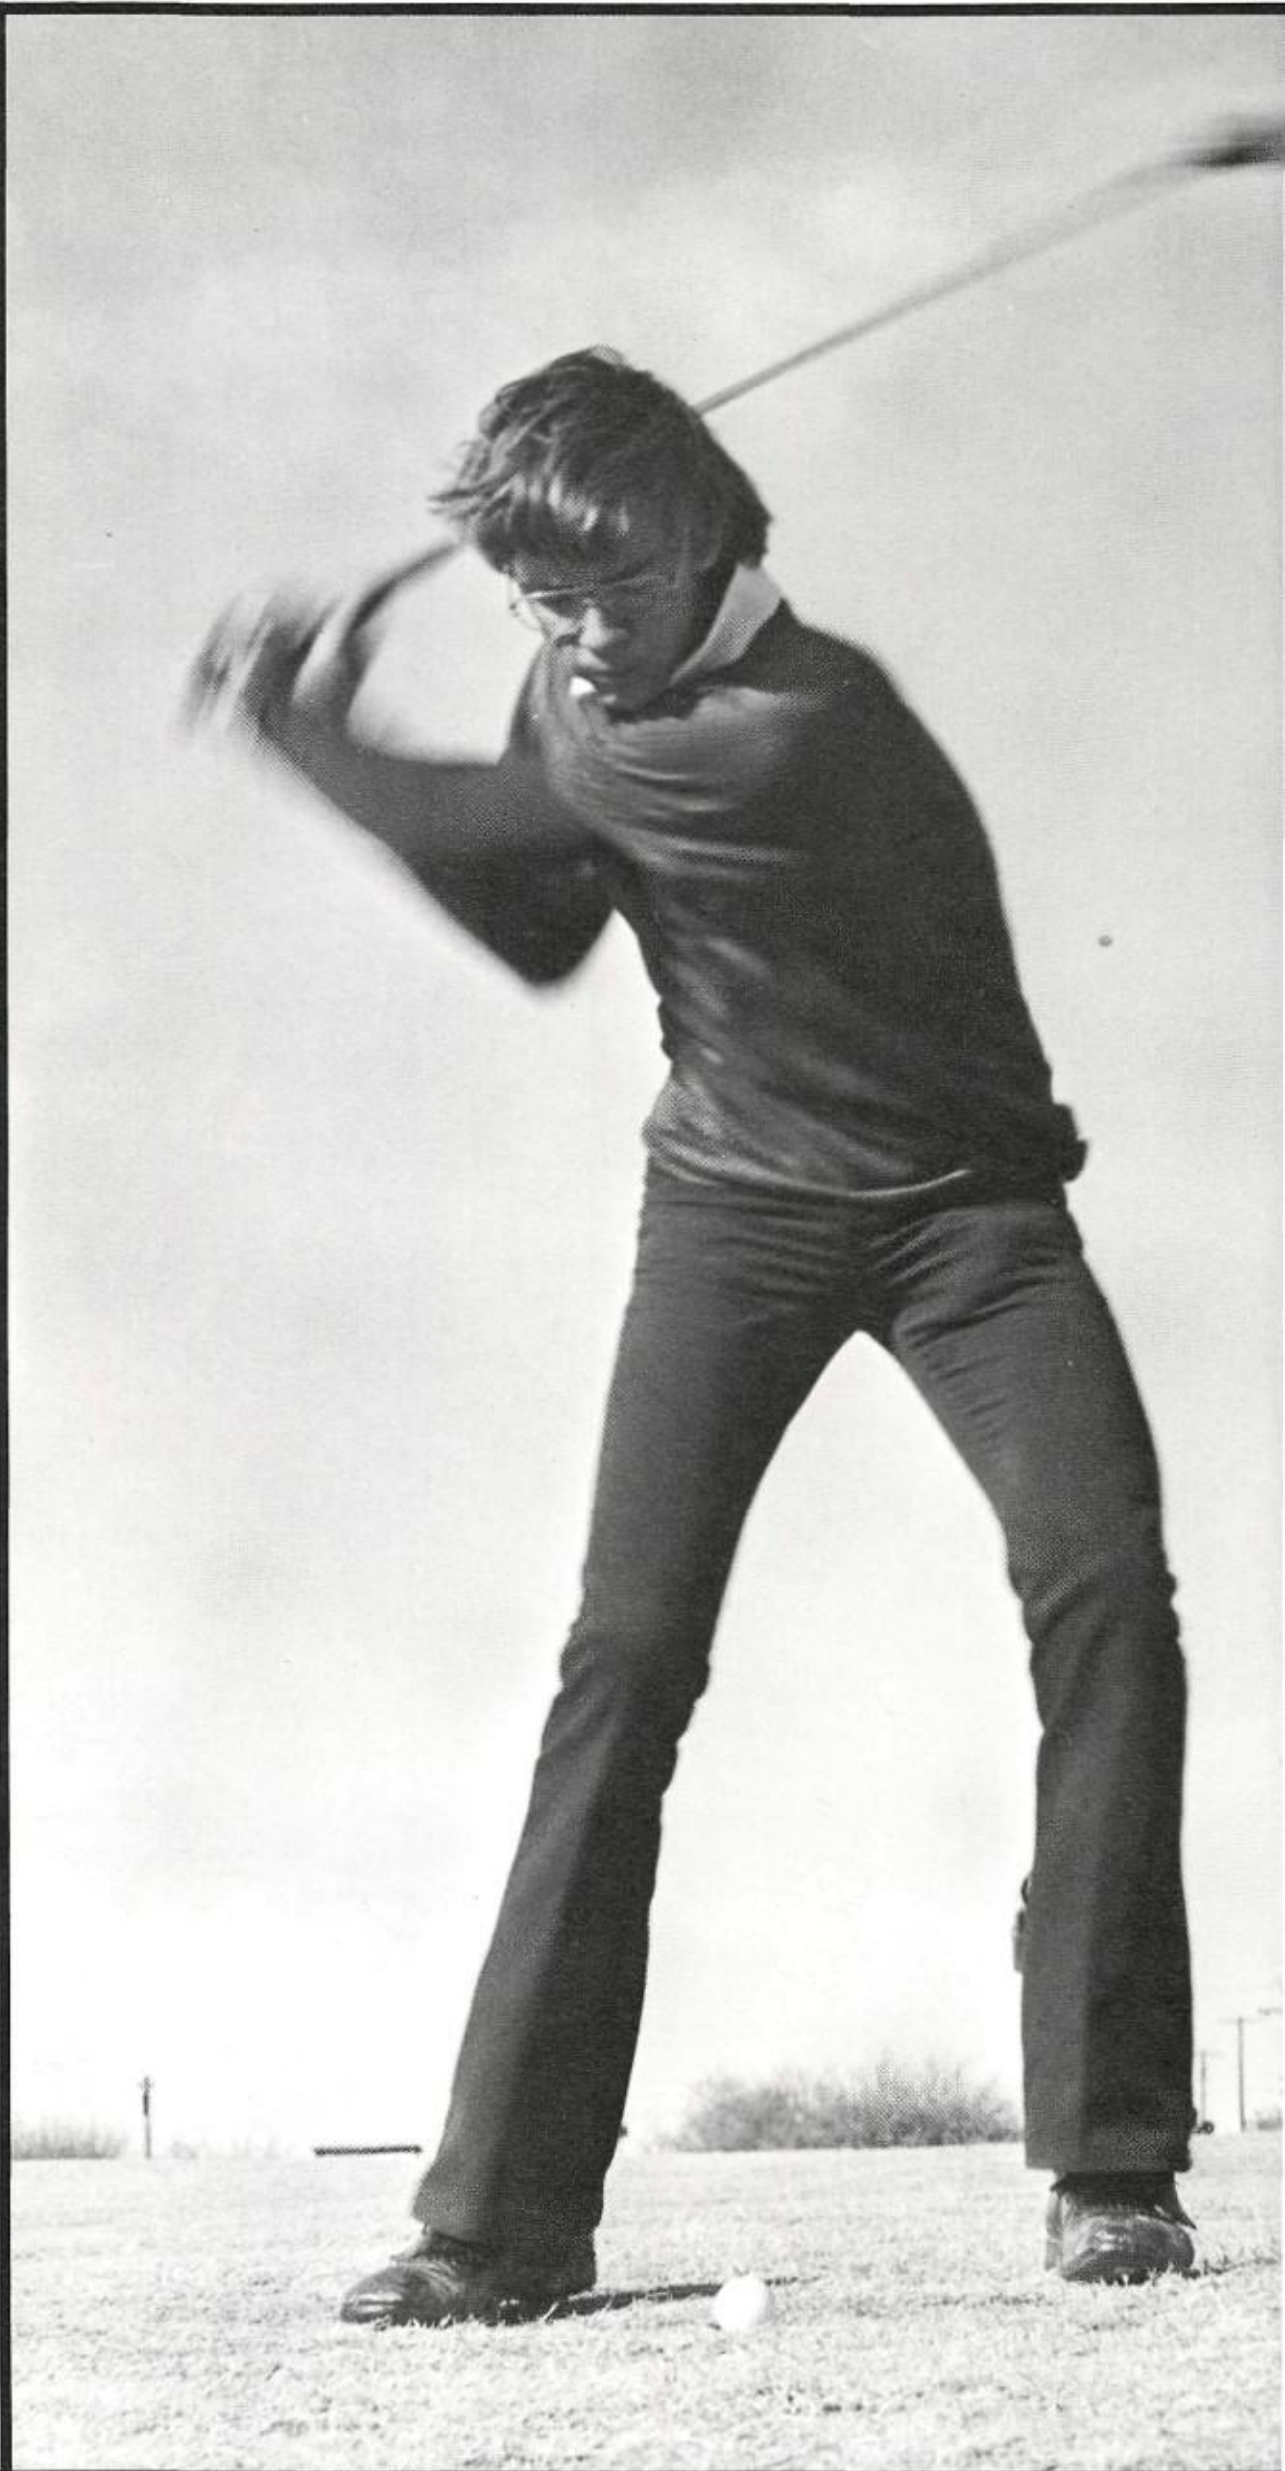

Golf has been revitalized at Eastwood. New coach Art Shaw gave the team the spirit it needed to contend with the Coronado dynasty. Its biggest asset is the competition among the 17 evenly talented players.

Seniors Tim Harrell and three year letterman Tim Sweigart used their solid games to lead the five Trooper golfers in each competition. The team was well balanced with three experienced seniors, supported by seven juniors, and seven freshmen and sophomores.

Eastwood hosts its own tournament at Horizon Country Club. The team has a larger schedule than usual along with several tournaments at Del Norte and Horizon.

FJO GOLF

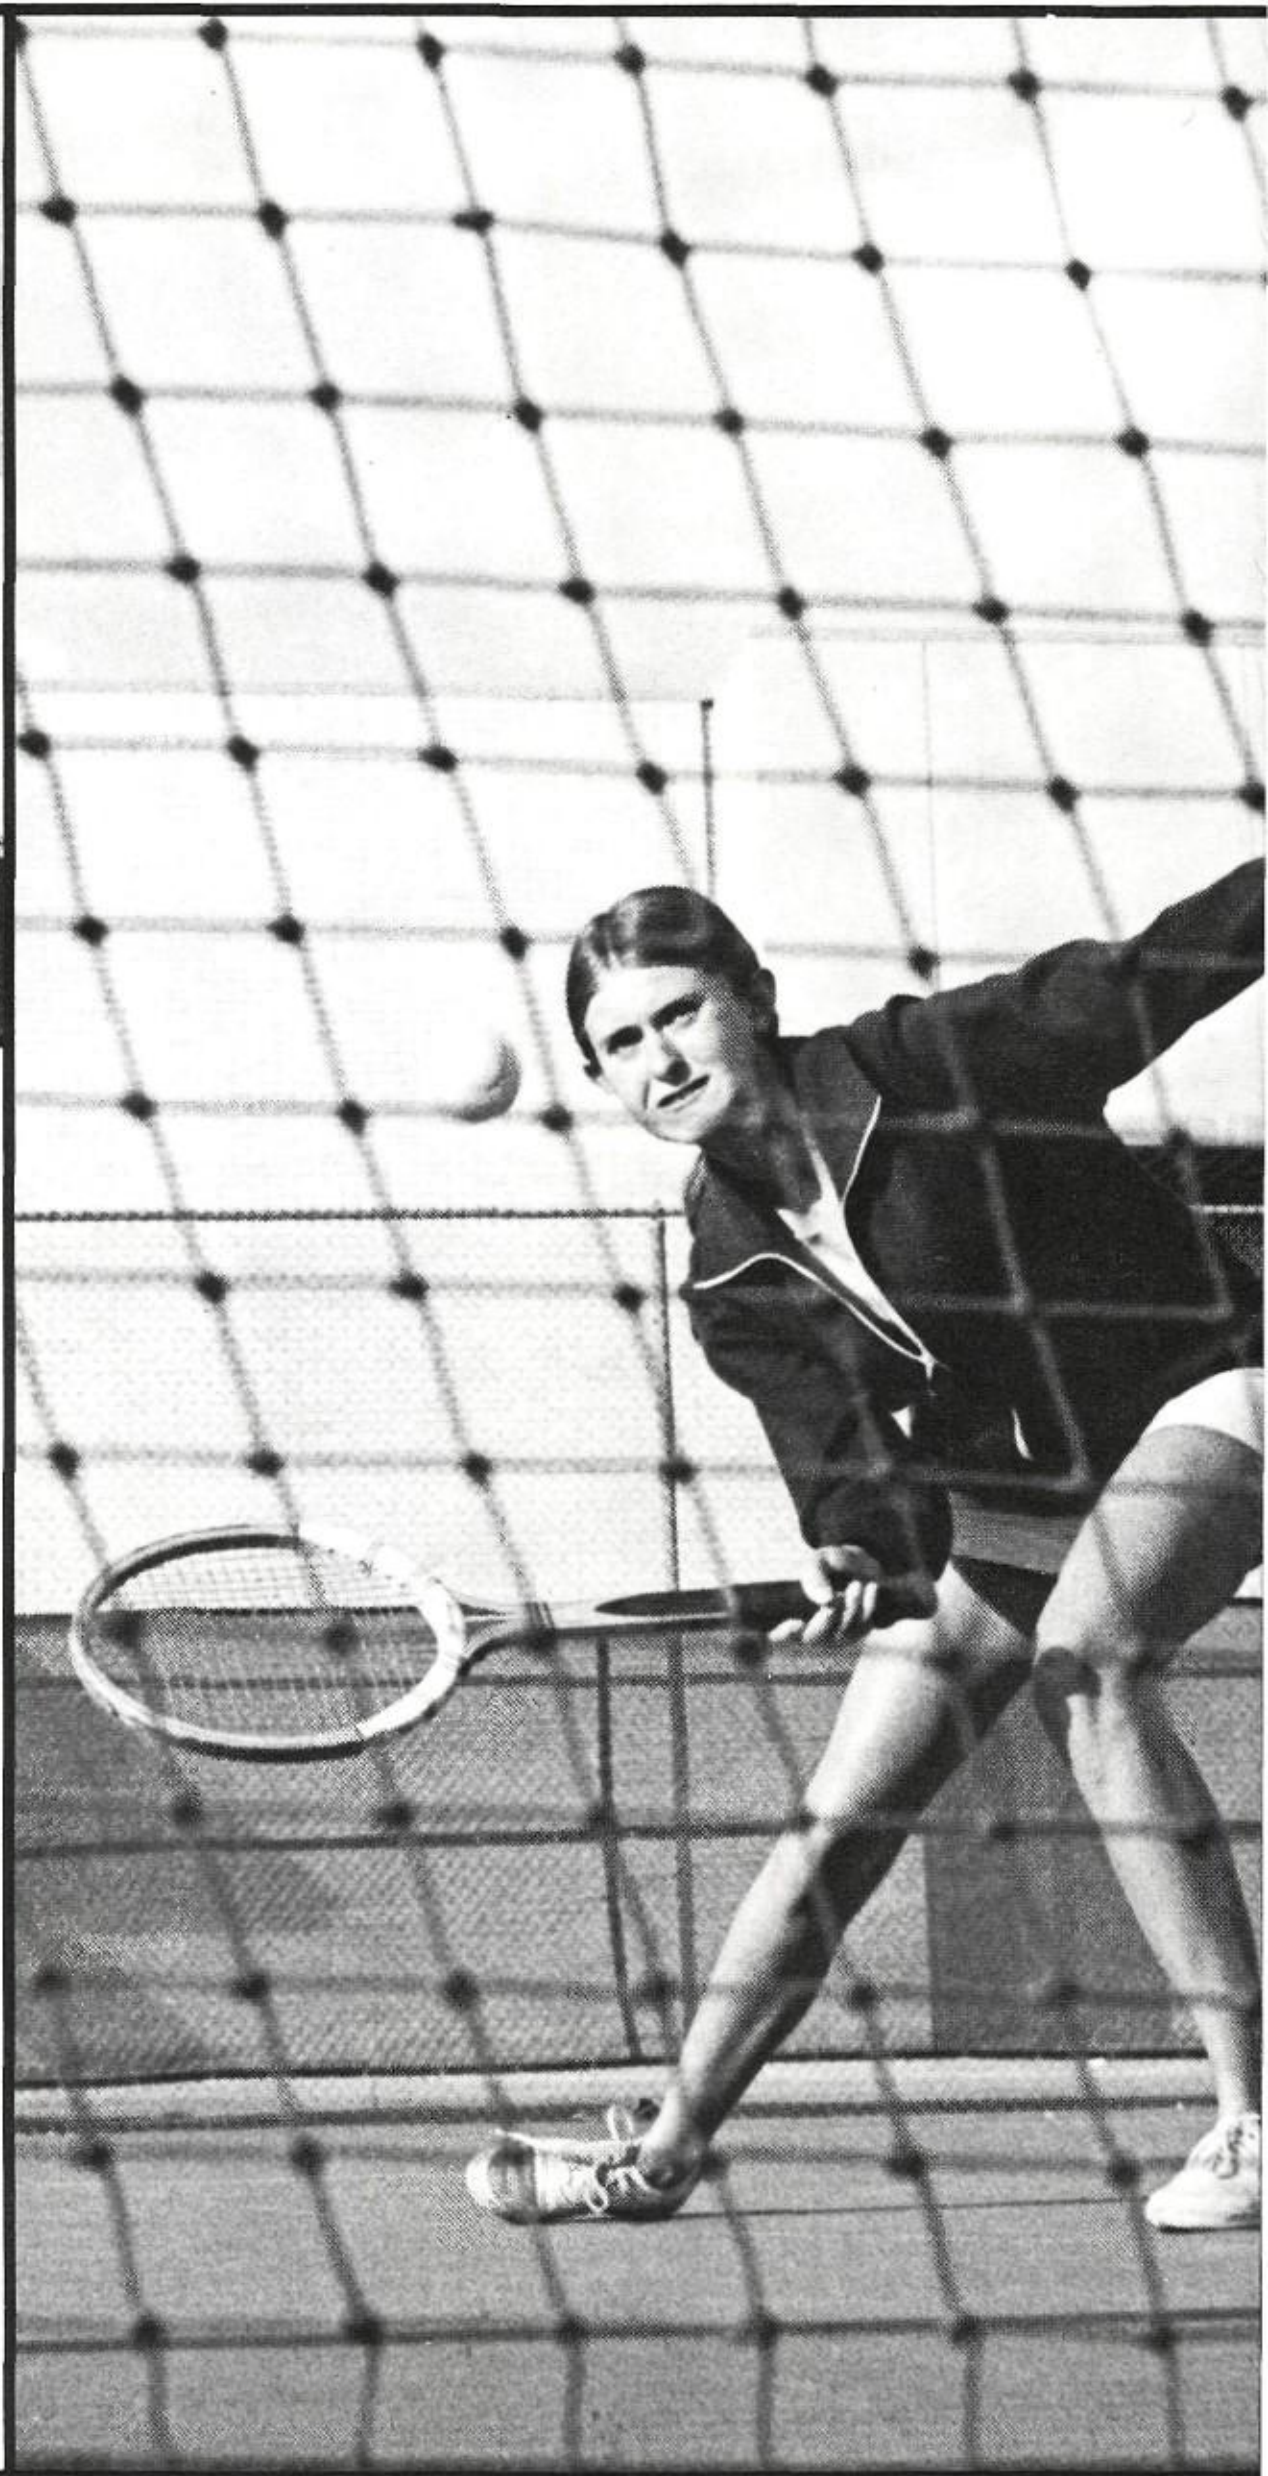

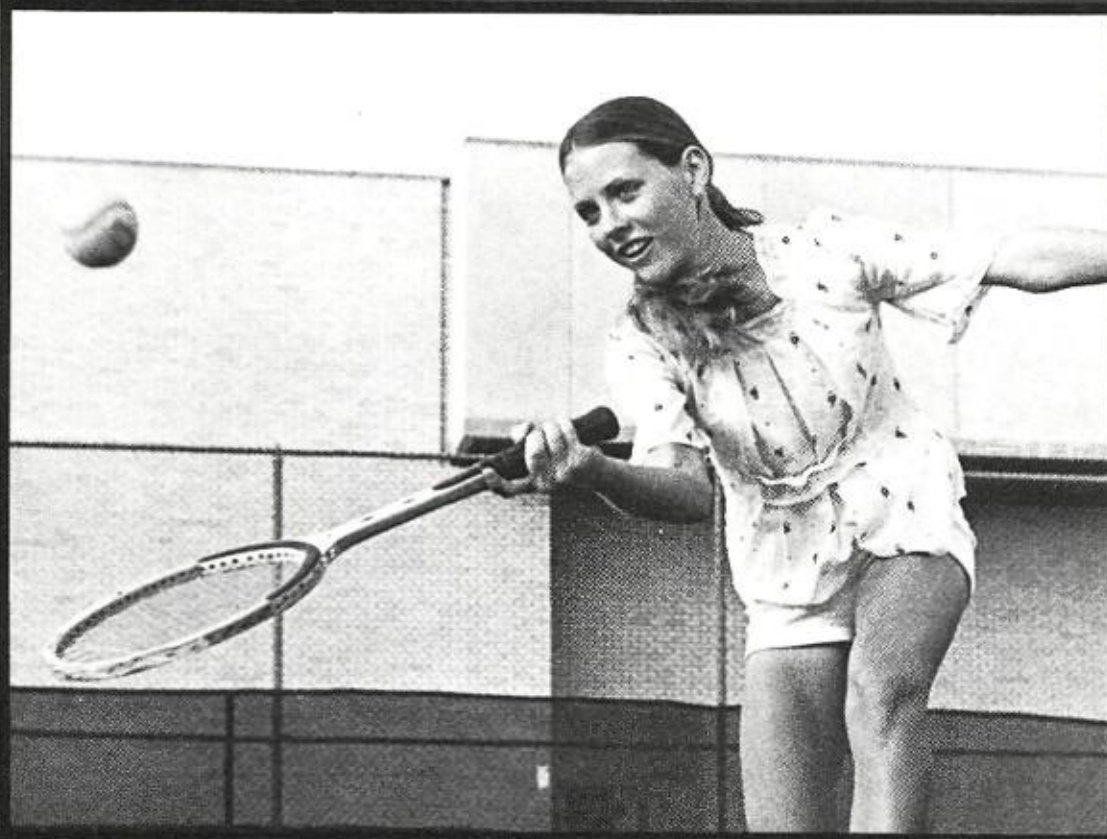

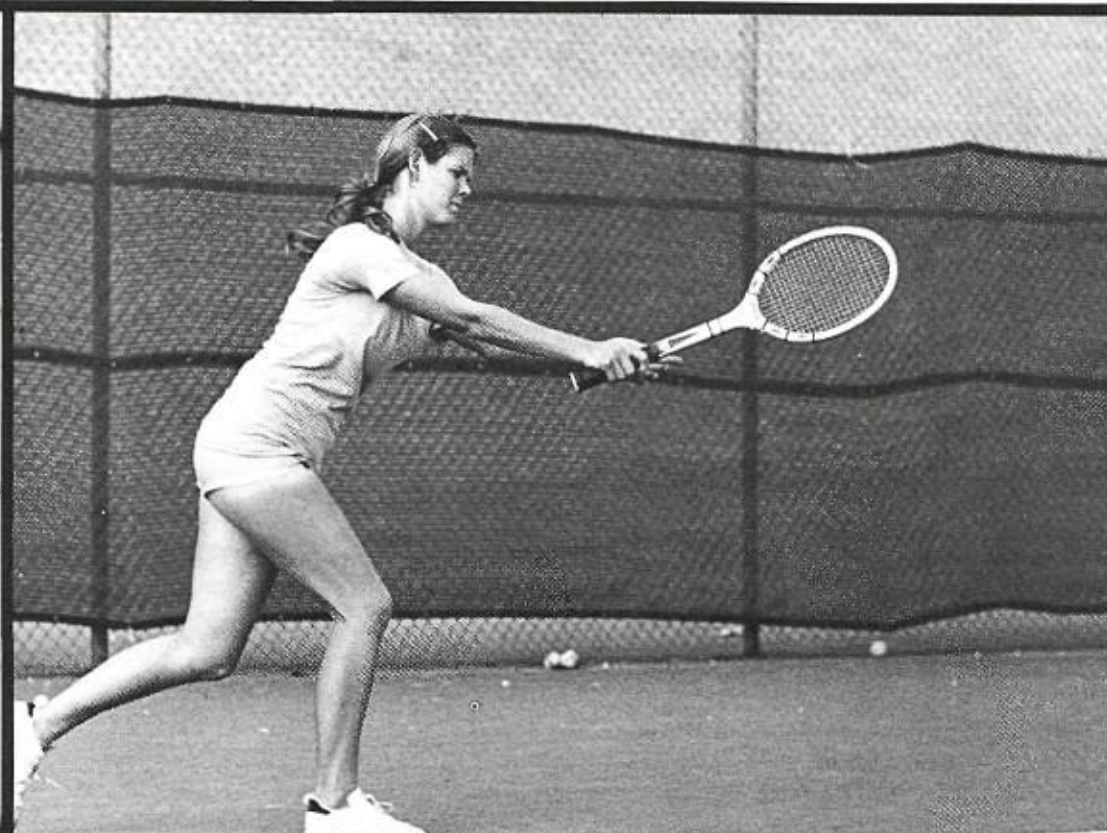

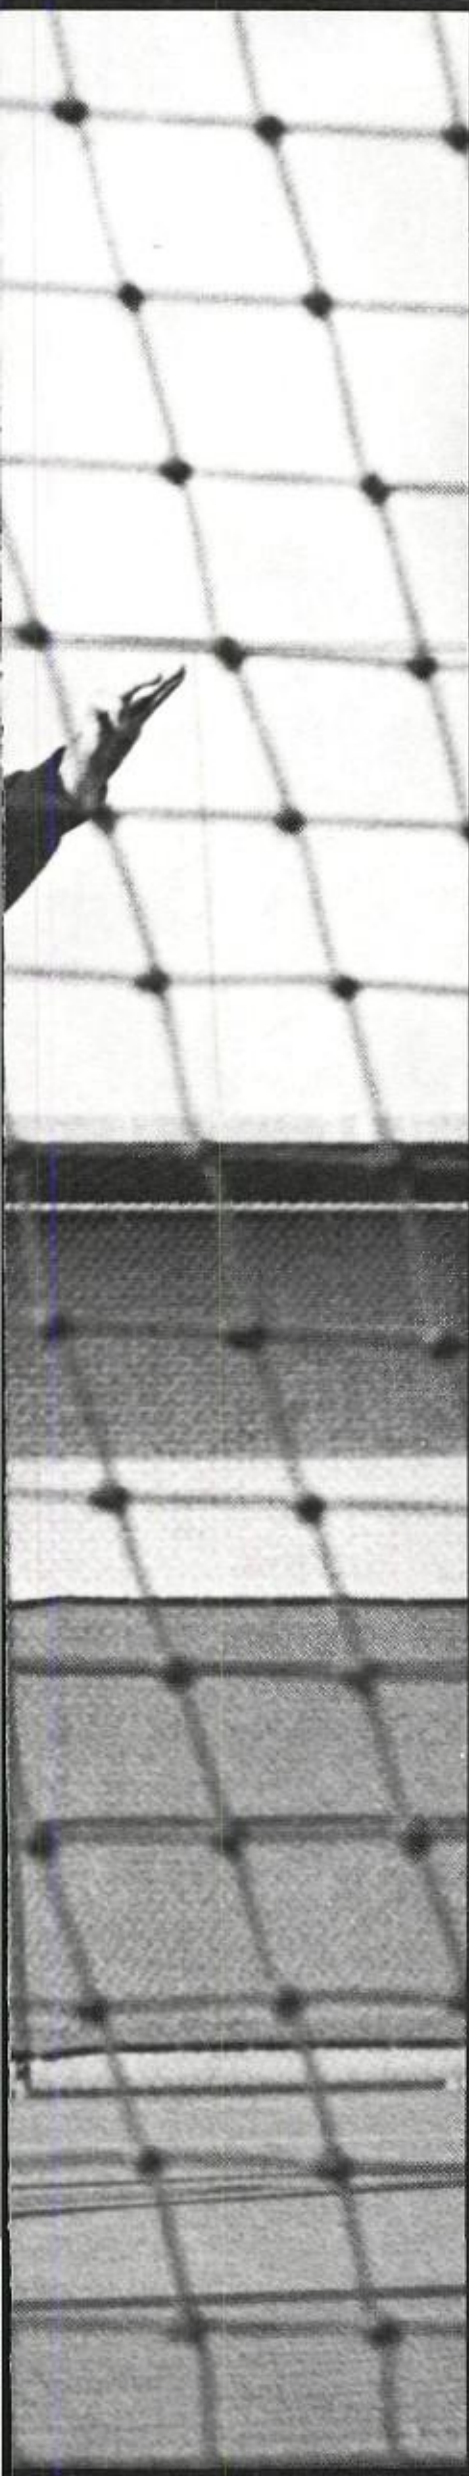

Trooper tennis continues to be near the top in the Southwest. The team is a young one, but the majority of the players have years of experience.

Susan Roberts led the girls squad with several firsts including wins in her division at the El Paso Open and the Lubbock Invitational. The boys held their ground well against tough competition. In the City Open Mike Castillo won the fourteen singles. Others on the team usually took places in every tournament.

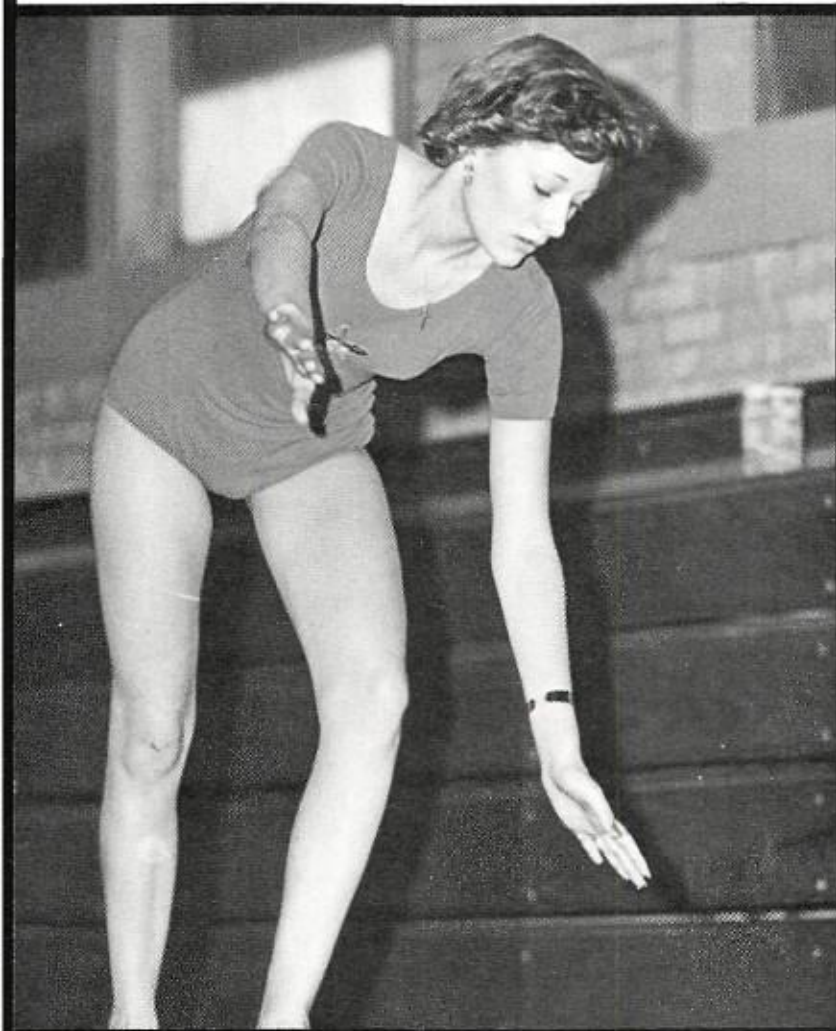

Mr. Paul Heglar, a pro track star, coached in the fall until Miss Debbie Lewis took the team over.

SINNETT TENNIS

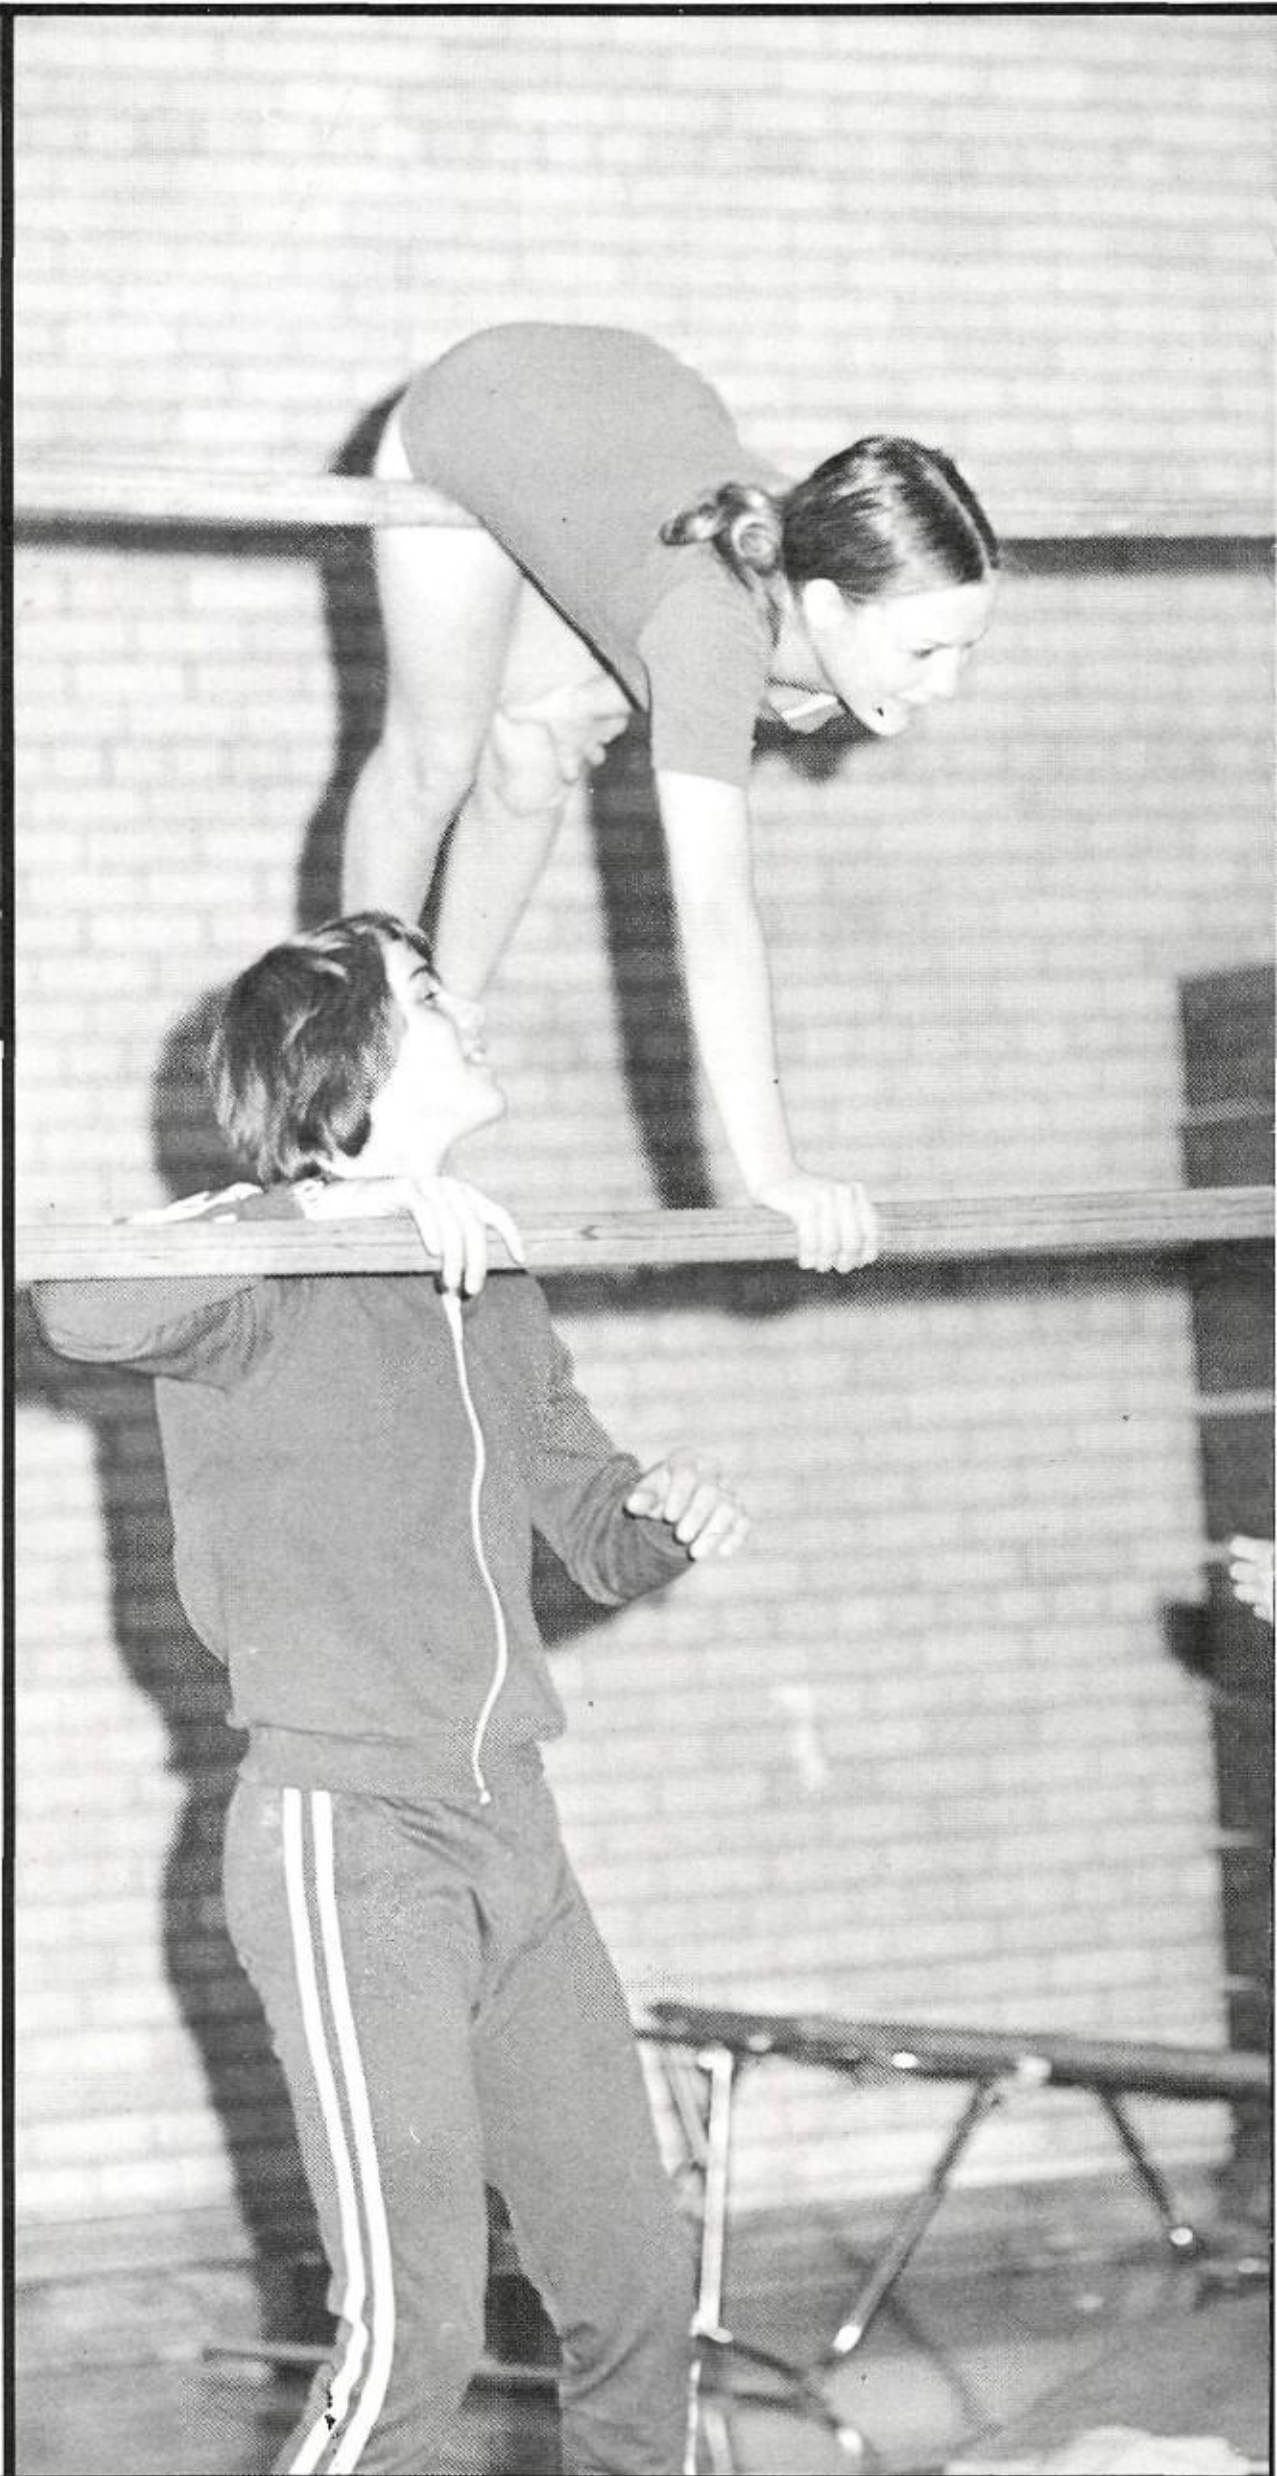

In a sport of striving for perfection, the gymnasts of Eastwood showed well this year. Coached by Mrs. Francis Poteet, both girls and boys competed in meets far and near, including two in Midland and Odessa.

In the fall the team had an assembly for the student body where they performed routines and basic exercises they go through daily. The performance revealed just what it takes to excel in gymnastics.

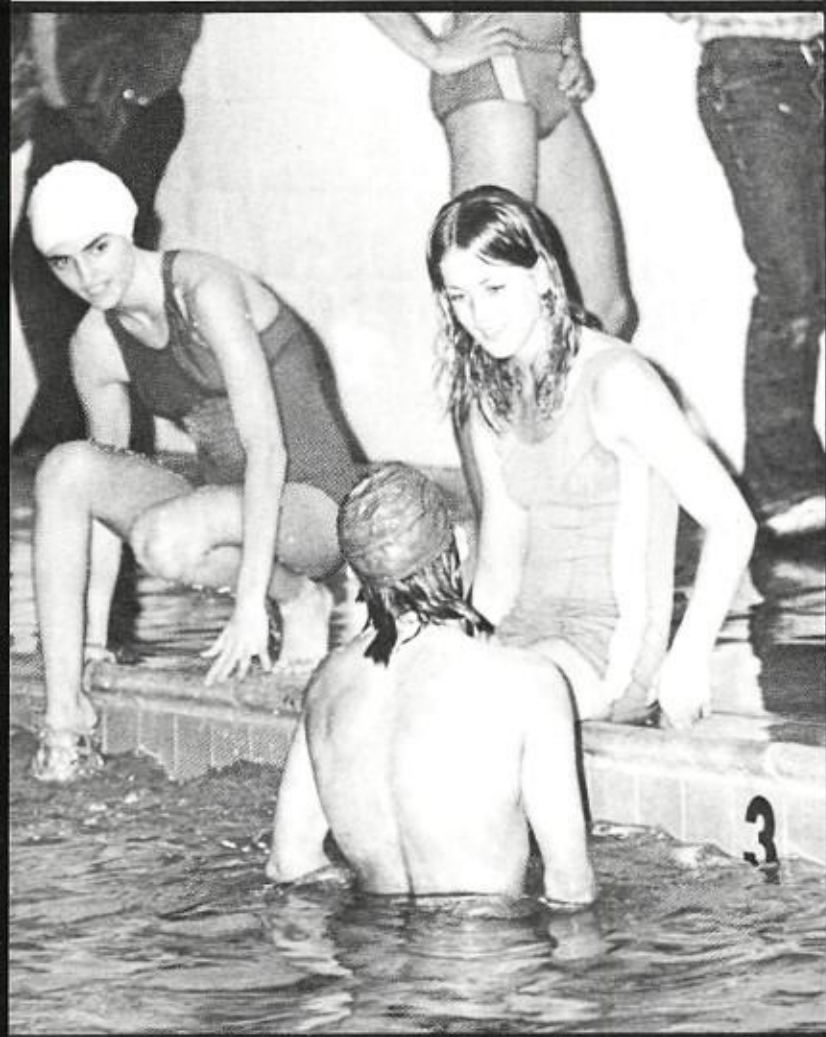

Several high places on the girl's team were filled by Mary Battle in the floor exercises, Rosalyn Glazebrook on the beam, and Brenda Gaenzle on the uneven bars. Jose Carrillo lead the boys, doing well in the side horse and parallel bars.

GYMNASTICS

Rising from the depths of the unseen waterholes, the Eastwood swim team proved to be more than just another run-of-the-mill sand crab.

With the smoothness of the eel and the quickness of the shark, members of the underwater clan produced some of the best swimmers in the city.

Eastwood, unfortunately, does not have the facilities to accommodate the wetheads. Therefore, they must venture forth in search of "la agua."

Though finding a place to swim became difficult at times, Eastwood still managed to bubble up with the effort it takes to become a winner.

SWIMMING

At the close of each sports season the team members unite to elect a sweetheart to represent them.

The sweetheart is chosen out of a group of loyal girls previously nominated. They then decide and vote for the girl whom they feel has been the most patriotic.

Although sweethearts are chosen every year, the girls that receive the positions are always important to the team. She is the one true fan the team searches for, their morale builder and their supporter.

SWEETHEARTS

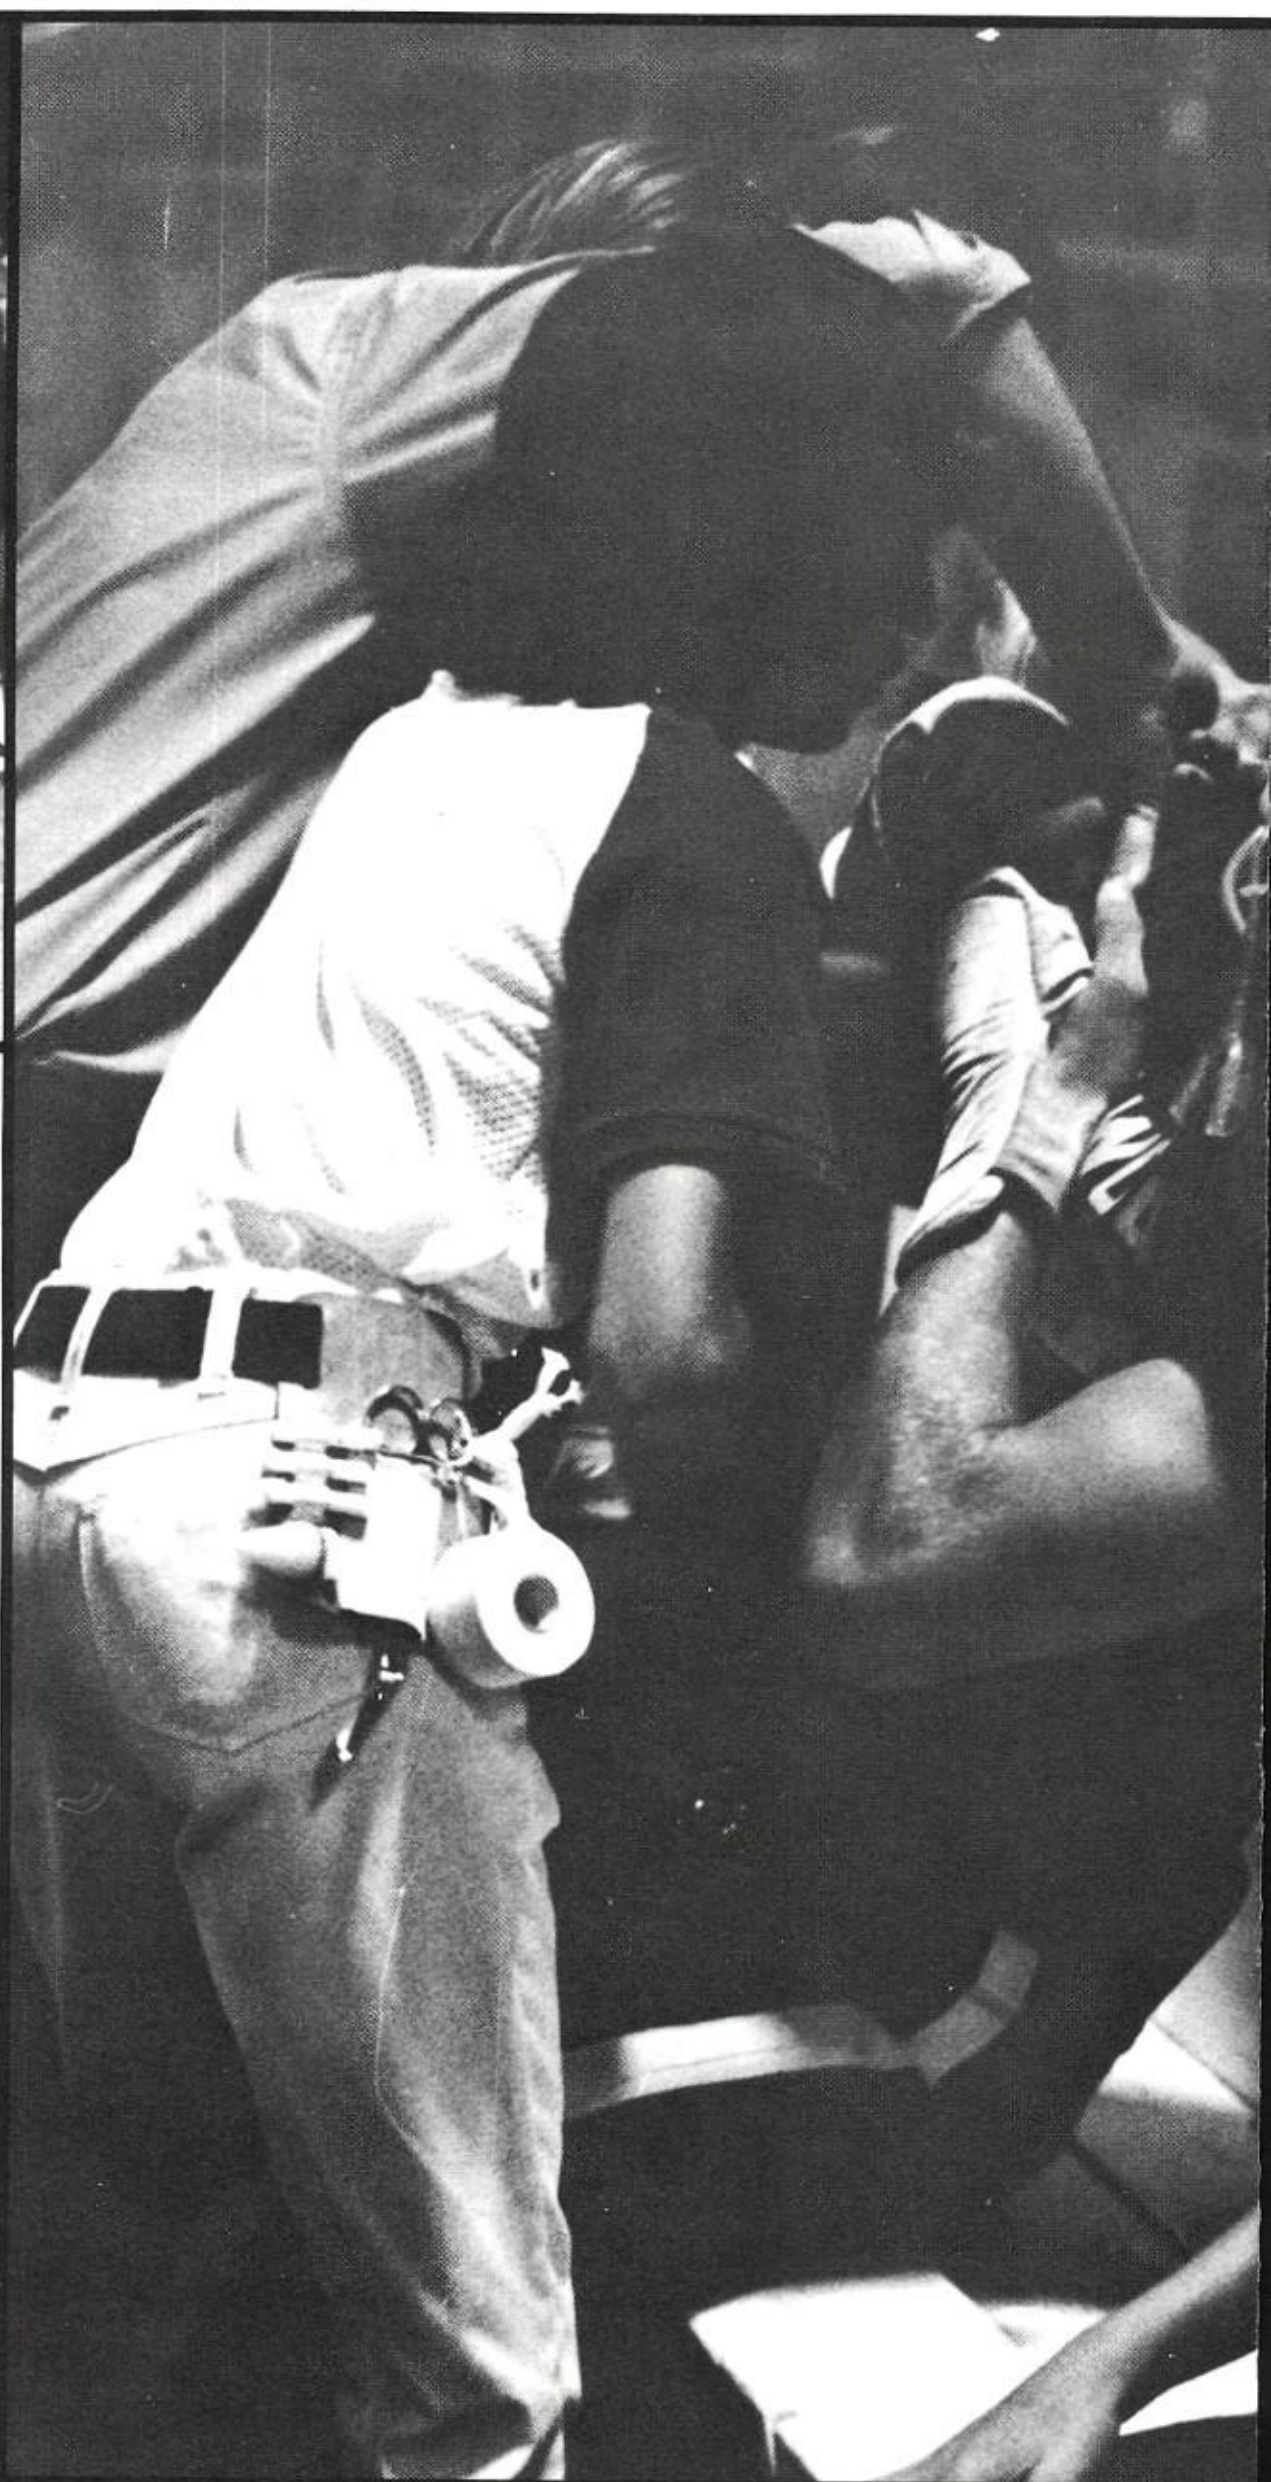

Within the course of a sports year there are, involved in the activities, a group of young men totally dedicated to the well being of the players. These people are known as trainers and managers. Although they give total dedication to their jobs they receive little recognition and even less honor.

If one was to glance courtside he would see the trainers, whether it be Eddie Del Palacio or Glen Johns, ready to rush out and assist an injured player to medical care.

Alongside the trainers is the watchful eye of the managers waiting to repair any damaged equipment and accept arguments without any gripe.

Although the faculty has increased in number, the quality has remained high. Unfortunately, the faculty is often thought of as a group of brief-case carrying robots. This of course is not true. As we sit and daydream about the utopia waiting for us beyond the concrete walls, so do they. It was one of those middle-of-the-week Wednesdays when Troop III ventured out with pen and pad in hand. Hoping to capture personalities instead of stereo typed educators, they asked: "If you had one wish today, what would it be?"

With puzzled looks on their faces, they replied:

SENIORS

"The big day is almost here." "Yeah in just a couple days we'll be out on our own." Remarks like these ran rampant as graduation approached. In all the hustle and bustle of those last few days seniors still look back and reflect upon the good times. The seniors have many things to be proud of, many of which were accomplished this year. Seniors went on to take first place in the float contest held at the Burning of the "E".

When asked about some of the goals that had been accomplished, President Rodney Deloach said that "Apathy, which seemed to be so predominate in the past was gone. We won the spirit stick for the first time since we were freshmen." Seniors worked and cooperated for their class.

JUNIORS

Adjusting to new tardy regulations, trudging to rainy football games, and fighting the other classes for spirit recognition proved to be a challenge for the Junior Class.

The 'Spirit of 76' sparked a new tradition at Eastwood. This year juniors were able to design their own class rings.

Though the varsity football team had less than a winning season, the junior spirit never dampened even when the weather did. The juniors also provided the 'pep' for the rallies. The spirit stick was awarded to the juniors at four out of nine pep rallies—more than any other class. They also won the Homecoming Spirit Link Contest, another new tradition at Eastwood.

SOPHOMOR

'74-75 was a scintillating year for sophomores. The Sophomore Class this year began to show their growing citizenship at Eastwood by participating in fund raising projects, sporting events, and social concerns.

One of the high points of the school year was the Eastwood B-team football record of 10 wins and no losses.

Strong support was instrumental in attaining this record. Sophs contributed to the class funds by staging a monetarily successful booth at the Eastwood Halloween carnival.

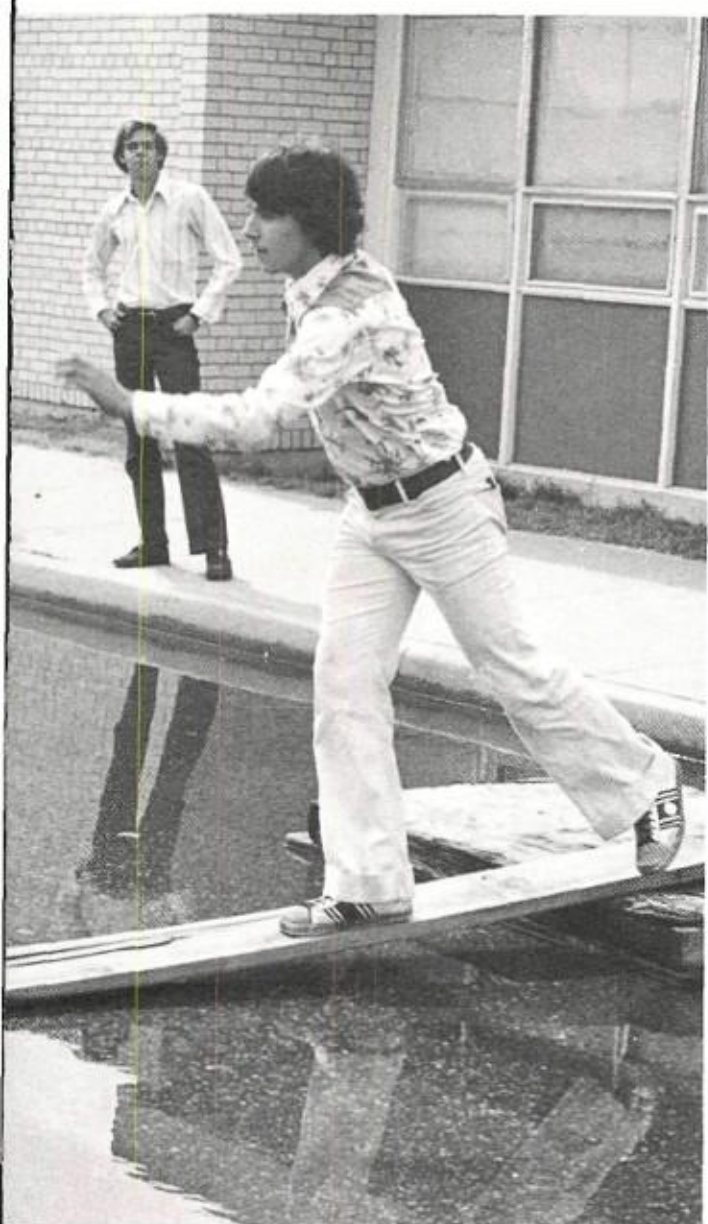

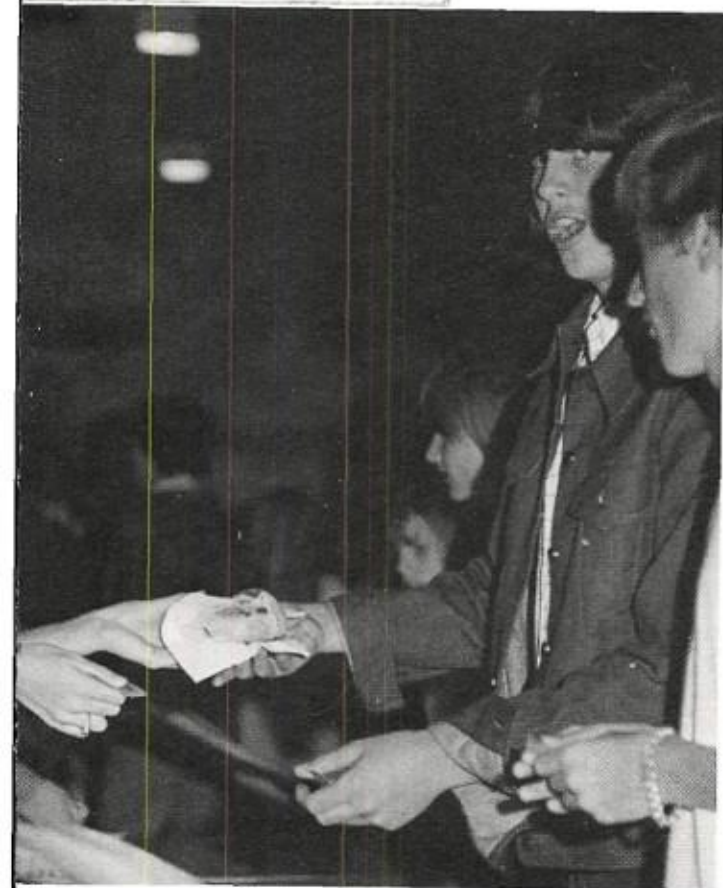

A zealous school spirit was shown by their donation of time and effort to many worthwhile school functions.

As a result it is apparent that the sophomores will become superb upperclassmen in the next two years.

"Are there really 700 classrooms? No wonder it's so crowded." "Isn't there a freshmen lunch line too?"

Freshmen! A new experience awaited each of the 823 members of the Frosh Class as they started their long voyage to graduation with spirit and dedication.

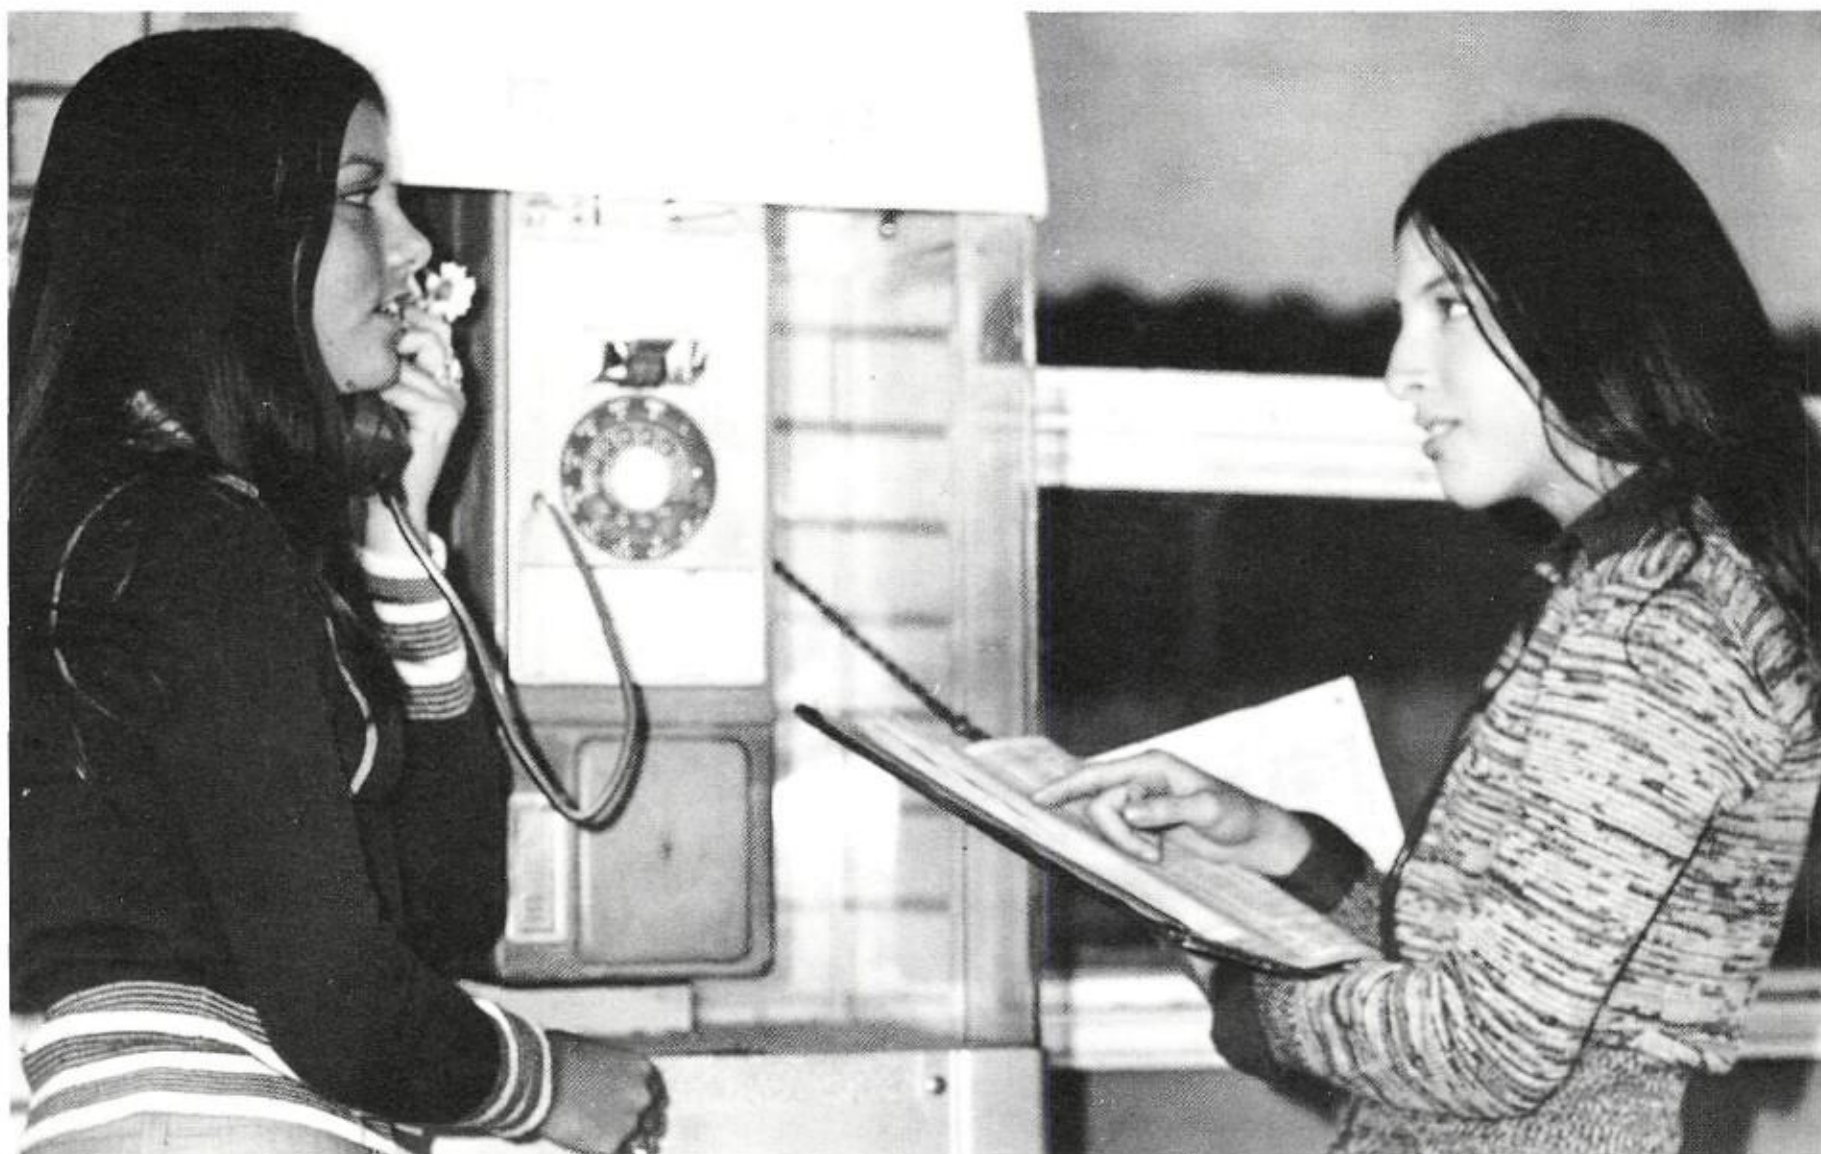

Homecoming sparked new pride for the freshmen as the Halloween carnival burst the class into competition with all other classes. They organized a squirt gun game where by one must squirt the flame out of a candle. As the days progress, the freshmen begin new clubs and activities of past freshmen. These many new activities enable them to be classified as a part of Eastwood High School.

LOWER LEFT: Freshmen Roma Holloway, Colleen Kilbourne, and Christine Valentine find that hurrying through a shortened lunchshift is almost futile as the lunch bell has a way of beating them every time. UPPER LEFT: Freshmen Jose Tavarez gazes intently trying to absorb the romanticism of the Spanish Language while his teacher explains the daily lesson. RIGHT: Selected by the Freshmen Class as favorites are Laura "Babe" Warwick and Lonnie Duggar. They are seen here experimenting with the facets of puppy love.

Freshmen Denise Joseph and Cindy Soza take some time out of their hectic schedules at school to make a few needed telephone calls.

Detinu rings victory bell, burns 'E'

Staslie Huttanus, Debbie Smith, and Joni Davin ring the victory bell on Homecoming day.

Psazz! Detinu, a girls service organization, filled the school year with a flurry of activities.

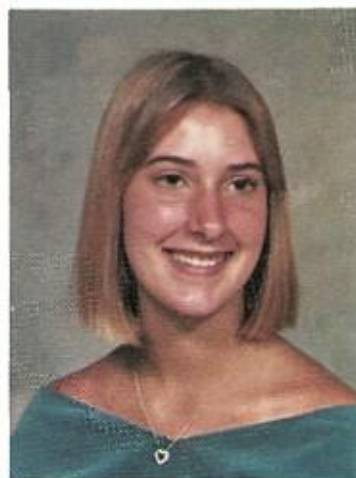

Homecoming topped their agenda with participation in the Burning of the "E," hall decoration, and a car and float contest.

Club members made and sold yarn dolls as a spirit booster for the football team and rang the traditional victory bell during homecoming. Sundays were spent cleaning the football stadium after games.

Detinu sponsored the garter toss at the Halloween carnival and performed a play for the Southwestern Childrens Home.

Anehta Sesea entertains; wins sweepstakes award

Lifetime habits, friendships, and memories, who could ask for more? The members of Anehta Sesea have for three years fought, cursed and learned to love one another by working for one common goal—doing something that they could be proud of accomplishing.

Uniqueness is a word heard many times before, but Anehta Sesea captured every inch of its meaning. They not only came up with novel ideas at Halloween carnivals, but also won honors for their unequalled "Eastwood Stadium" which captured Sweepstakes at Homecoming. Along with all the many hours of work on the Homecoming hall, the members in unison with Detinu had the honor of handling the Burning of the 'E' ceremonies. Beau Rodney Deloach of Anehta Sesea along with Detinu's beau lit the 'E' while the other members watched.

Four years of their lives have been spent together. Lifetime habits, friendships, and memories have been made. The girls, knowing that their years of running the club were over, picked little sisters. Uniqueness may not be so hard to find anymore . . .

Ekappa members picnic at White Sands

Ekappa's picnic to White Sands ended the summer for junior members. During the summer vacation members made pillows for the senior citizens in a local home.

Ways and means projects included numerous bake sales and paper drives. Serving refreshments to the varsity football players became a weekly habit for members of Ekappa.

Homecoming activities brought Ekappa to their feet with an outstanding hall. At the burning of the "E", Ekappa depicted Eastwood scrambling the eagles in a football game. Winning the game against Andress topped the week as a successful Homecoming for all the Ekappa members.

Service acts highlight Doowtsae year

Trooper epidemic spread throughout Doowtsae members causing blue toes and gold noses. "We did a long overdated paint job on the school bulletin board ending up with more paint on us than on the wall," remarked President Lea Allen thus revealing the source of their disease.

Doowtsae also painted the trash cans and the school marquee. Helping youngsters at Safety Town served as their community project. Members also helped their class with the annual canned foods drive.

Locker tags were made as spirit booster for the B-team football players throughout the season. Homecoming encouraged Doowtsae to decorate a hall and to enter the car contest.

The club also featured the marriage booth at the carnival. Spirit projects are now a Doowtsae tradition.

Yahna Phi aids school; boosts spirit

"Gangway!" This was the starving cry of the B-team football players as they rushed for the refreshments served often by Yahna Phi. Other projects such as painting the outside trash cans and changing the marquee aided the school.

For the community, Yahna Phi made coloring books for an orphanage and gave the humane society the papers that were needed. The club also found time to sell suckers, good-bye-o-grams, and hold a rummage sale.

Entre Nous coordinates Safety Town

"Get those bratty kids off my back!"

This is just one of the remarks heard by several Entre Nous members while working at Safety Town at Bassett Center during the summer. Club members taught children the rules of bicycle and street safety.

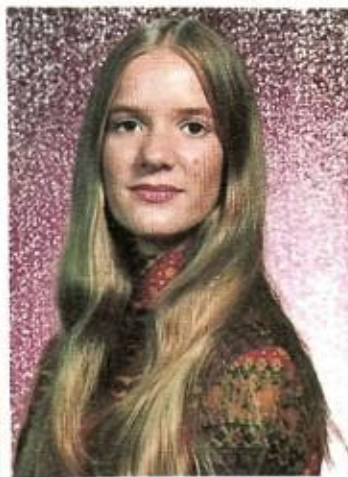

In the summer, Entre Nous prepared for the opening of school. They painted the faculty parking lot and worked at registration.

Exhibiting their spirit during the year, members made locker tags each week for the varsity football team and after practices on Tuesday, the girls served lemonade.

Getting into the Homecoming spirit, Entre Nous decorated a hall entitled "Just Like Yesterday." For the Halloween Carnival, the girls held a record dedication booth.

Delora Fredrickson holds her breath as Margaret Wilmot decides to buy some stationery.

"Keep walking, only a few miles to go" was the encouragement members of Sigma Chi shouted to each other during the walk-a-thon to help sick children. Issuing textbooks at registration and two faculty teas were but a few of the many service projects Sigma Chi performed.

Sigma Chi's Homecoming hall was a glittering affair. Featuring Minnie and Mickey in a "Disneyland Theme," the hall was a big success.

Participating in the Halloween carnival, Sigma Chi sold pickles to the crowds. Other money-making projects included bake sales, a rummage sale and selling stationery to the students.

Besides serving refreshments after the games and lemonade after practices, the girls boosted the B-team to victory by putting up locker tags.

Saltatrix sponsor, Mrs. Kathryn Teel, instructs Diane Done, Denise Schatte, Sheryl Watts, and Roberta Amos in jazz techniques.

With a workshop here and a workshop there, a new emphasis was placed on jazz dance. Saltatrix dancers learned the how and why of jazz. Jazz dances cropped up in the Great Gatsby world of the beauty contest along with some Charleston routines.

Trying out new ideas, Saltatrix enthralled Halloween carnival crowds with "Under the Big Top." Dancers interpreted the different circus performers with movements and costumes. Trooperland hall was decorated by Saltatrix during Homecoming activities.

Saltatrix also sold key chains to raise money for costumes. Fourteen new members were initiated.

Copiae Auriae supports sophomore spirit

Carol O'Beirne demonstrates club spirit by supporting the various school activities.

Spirit and service were combined in Copiae Auriae this year. The club made signs and spirit tags for the pep rallies. For Homecoming, the members helped with the hall decorations.

Copiae Auriae devoted much of their time servicing the school. Their activities included donating newspapers to the newspaper drives and cleaning up the litter from around the school. During Christmas, the members took toys to an orphanage.

Copiae Auriae money-making activities included raffles, a car wash, bake sales, and a booth at the Halloween Carnival.

Epsilon holds fashion show each year

With the establishment of a yearly fashion show, Epsilon started a new tradition at Eastwood. The Epsilon Fashion Show exhibited clothing from jeans to evening apparel.

Epsilon, a service club whose members range from sophomores to seniors, has long been associated with tradition. Each year Epsilon members combine a work, service, and money-making project by decorating Homecoming mums.

Other activities include providing spirit flags for sports games, hosting teas and other services for Eastwood.

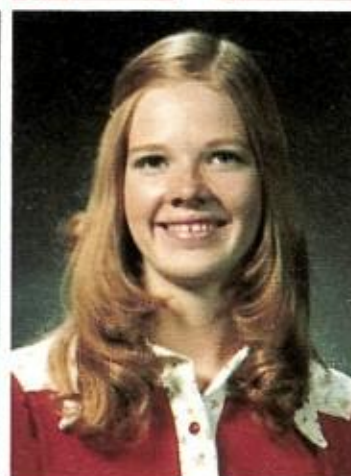

Teri Bryant shows her artistic talent as she decorates the Homecoming mums.

Since its start in 1973, the Student Union has attempted to lessen the gap between races at Eastwood. In this way, the Union has enabled all students to be of help to their school and community.

Student Union started a Black History week. During the week there were art and literature exhibits with information on the history of the Black race and panel discussions open to the public.

Besides being busy in school activities such as Homecoming and Student Council, the club members also worked with the underprivileged and sent food baskets to rest homes and orphanages in El Paso.

Wash and wear hair. And how to get it.

Today's new blow-dry hairstyles are both attractive and surprisingly easy to care for. Let us give you one, and we'll be happy to show you how to care for it yourself between salon visits.

The secret of manageable wash and wear hair is a good cut and hair that is in good condition. We'll help the condition of your hair with a professional treatment with one of Redken's acid-balanced, protein polypeptide enriched conditioners. Then we'll recommend the Redken products for you to use at home between salon visits.

Discover wash and wear hair for yourself. Make an appointment for a natural looking blow-style today.

Will its been like this its been fun
knowing yr and been fun in Homestead.
Take Care and have fun see ya
later.

Candy '75

All too often we try and find the easy way out, hesitating when confronted with a risk in our lives - as if we were wavering on the brink of decision.

Even the young tend to rely on already existing molds. Many who want to thrust out into new dimensions end up having society's patented standards shaping their lives. Instead of flowing with the desire, fear, and pleasure which results from daring, we hold back and risk never fulfilling an inner demand.

An unfamiliar door hangs in anticipation of yet another face. It is there before us, with its hinges, latch, and lock. It is carefully bolted, as if protecting some hidden dimension. Ready to release its contents to the venturesome.

To just look at a glass holding a liquid requires no thought or imagination in the least. But to look at it from another angle changes the entire perspective. Looking for and finding a new dimension.

From the time we were born, to the present and on into the future, dimensions will be a part of us. We cannot picture ourselves looking like the old woman, weathered and battered by time.

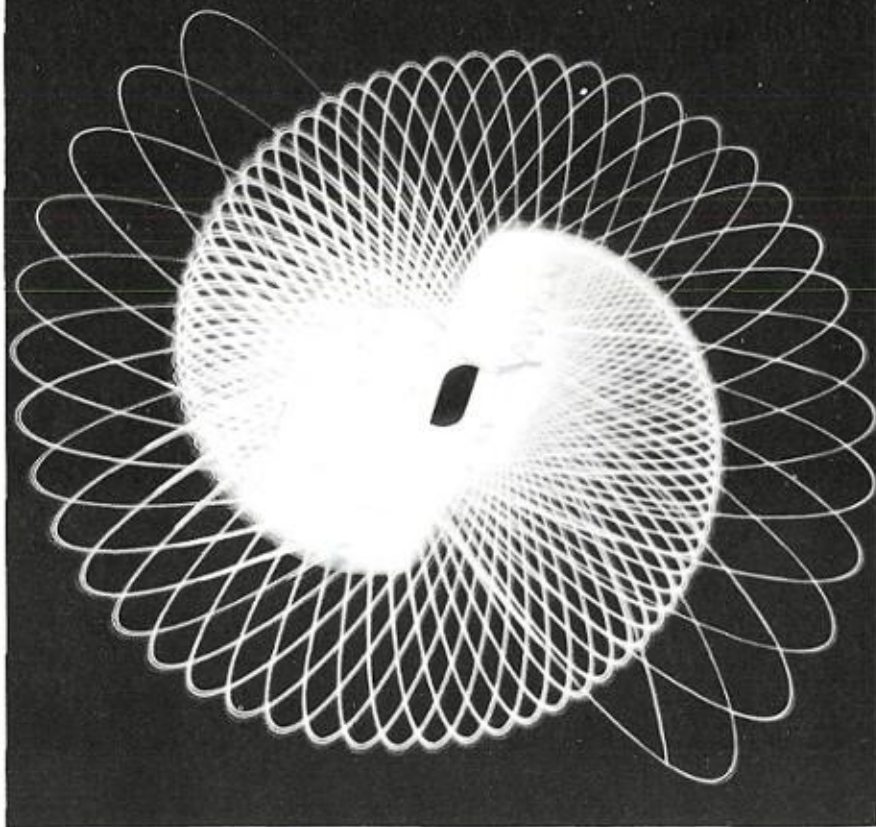

Much like the cypress tree, she has assumed her appearance through constant exposure to her own and very unique environment. And like the scarred door, she has witnessed the coming and going of the outstanding as well as the usual.

Although we might try and evade our approaching age, we can instead look at it as our final maturation. After having reached this phase, we will be able to look back and say we honestly tried to quench our desires.

People, places and ambitions that are strange to us can be nothing less than beneficial. The chance to achieve a frame of mind that enables us to question and respond to the answer is what we are after.

The chance to search for and to find a new dimension.

It all happens in room 111. Striving for an ultimate mark of excellence SALUTE '75 set out nearly one year ago to make memories for every Trooper.

Typewriters, photo-fits, masses of superior photos, and a fantastic staff helped in reaching this task. Each staff member contributed much time and effort towards the publication. This book could never be without the hard work of some staffers.

Special thanks goes to our devoted adviser, Sandy Messer. She was our inspiration, our path to success. She led us through hardships, disasters, and in those times when we fell, she raised us up again. Mrs. Messer is truly more than just an adviser of journalism.

Much appreciation is extended to Don Gibson for creating the opening and closing copy and Richarda Duffy for writing the student life copy. I wish also to thank Linda Shaner for designing this year's cover, endsheets, and division pages. Also, Brian Kanof for his creative photography and limitless support.

Now that this book has been distributed I can only hope that the finished product gives each reader an insight into the quality of Eastwood.
